bkpt., if the wife should survive, to raise the sum of £2,000, & pay the interest thereof to the wife for life, by way of increase to the provision therein before made for her in the nature of jointure, in the events therein-before mentioned; & in case of issue of the marriage living at the death of bkpt. the bond was to be delivered up to be cancelled :—Held : the wife living & no issue, the bond was not provable.—Re MACDONNELL, Ex p. TAAFFE (1821), 1 Gl. & J. 110.

Annotation :—Refd. Ex p. Tindal (1832), 8 Bing. 402.

2480. Obligation to pay if predeceased by wife —Without issue surviving her.] — Under a marriage settlement, the husband covenanted that if the wife should die in his lifetime without leaving issue to survive her thirty days, he would within three months after her decease transfer £500 stock to the trustees, for the sole use & property of her nearest & next of kin. The husband having become bkpt. before the death of the wife, who subsequently predeceased him without issue :—Held : his covenant did not create a debt provable under his commission.—BRANDON v. BRANDON (1819), 3 Swan. 312; 2 Wils. Ch. 14; 36 E. R. 876.

2481. Obligation to pay on death or bankruptcy.]—A., on marriage executed a bond to trustees for payment of £1,000 within three months after his death in trust for the wife & issue of the marriage in the events therein mentioned, with a proviso that if A. should become insolvent or bkpt., & the wife or any of the issue should be then living, the trustees should be at liberty immediately to claim & should be creditors for the sum of £1,000, & receive dividends ratably with the other creditors of A. to be applied solely to the use of the wife & children. A. became bkpt. :—Held : there was not a debt which could be proved under the commission.—Ex p. HILL (1786), 1 Cox, Eq. Cas. 300; 1 Cooke's Bankrupt Laws, 7th ed. p. 238; 29 E. R. 1176.

Annotation :—Consd. Ex p. Hodgson (1812), 19 Ves. 206.

2482. —— Contingent rights given to husband in wife's settlement.]—By a settlement previous to a marriage, there was a covenant by the husband that his exors. should pay £3,000 to trustees six months after his death, & if he should become a bkpt., that sum should be provable under his commission. By a settlement made by the wife of her property before the marriage contingent interests were given to the husband. The husband became bkpt., & on a petition by the trustees to be allowed to prove the £3,000 under his commission :—Held : they could only prove to the amount of what the husband's contingent interest in the wife's property sold for under his bkpcy.—Re LARK, Ex p. YOUNG (1818), 3 Madd. 124; Buck, 179; 56 E. R. 456.

2483. Obligation to pay on bankruptcy—Settlement by wife.]—Though a bond by a husband to pay a sum in the event of his bkpcy. or insolvency to trustees for the purpose of settlement cannot stand against the creditors, the property of the wife may be limited to the husband, until he becomes bkpt., etc., & from that event for his wife & children; & where in articles for such a settlement the husband covenanted to give a bond for £5,000 upon the same trusts, & had received all her fortune without making any settlement, proof was admitted under his bkpcy., not only for the amount of her property agreed to be settled, but the £5,000, or so much as the value of the property of the wife would extend to beyond the sum agreed to be settled.—Ex p. COOKE (1803), 8 Ves. 353; 32 E. R. 391.

2481 i. Obligation to pay on death or bankruptcy.]—Where a bond was given to trustees for the benefit of bkpt.'s wife, on their intermarriage, with an agreement that it should not be enforceable till death or bkpcy. :—Held : a fraud on the bkpcy. laws, it not being possible to enforce it against debtor before his bkpcy., & therefore not provable.—Ex p. HENECY (1802), cited 1 Sch. & Lef. at p. 47.—IR.

2483 i. Obligation to pay on bankruptcy —Interest on wife's fortune advanced to husband.]—A wife's fortune was, upon her marriage, advanced to the husband upon his bond, with interest. The bond was put in settlement, & vested in trustees for the wife's benefit, on condition that the interest should not be payable, except in the event of bkpcy., etc. Bkpcy. happened :—Held : the trustees might prove for interest from the time when the money was advanced up to the bkpcy. —Re O'BRIEN (1863), 15 Ir. 2486. —— Liberty to refrain from making demand during life of grantor.]—A covenant in a marriage settlement, to transfer stock into the names of trustees, upon receiving one month's notice, with liberty to the trustees to forbear giving the notice during the life of the covenantor, is a contingent debt not provable under his bkpcy., the bkpcy. not being equivalent to, or superseding the necessity of notice.—Re KENSINGTON, Ex p. ALCOCK (1813), 1 Rose, 323.

2487. —— —— Interest payable in meantime.]—On the marriage of W., then in good circumstances, he gave a bond to trustees for £4,000 conditioned to pay to them £2,000 within one month after demand, & for payment to them in the meantime of interest upon the £2,000 by half-yearly payments upon such trusts as were contained in an indenture of settlement. By the settlement it was provided that the trustees should not call in or demand payment of the £2,000 or any part thereof, during the life of W. The interest of the £2,000 was several years in arrear. W. afterwards became bkpt., never having consented to a demand upon him for the £2,000:—Held: the £2,000 was provable against the separate estate of W.—Re WILLIAMS, Ex p. ELDER (1817), 2 Madd. 282; 56 E. R. 339.

2488. —— Demand before bankruptcy.]—A sum covenanted by the husband to be paid when demanded by the trustees, on the request of the wife, is, if demanded before the bkpcy., provable.—Re BRENCHLEY, Ex p. BRENCHLEY (1826), 2 Gl. & J. 174.

2490. Obligation to pay sum out of funds of which bankrupt should have become possessed—Whether event had happened before bankruptcy.]—By an ante-nuptial settlement, a trader covenanted with trustees to pay £3,000 out of the first capital money or real or capital personal estate, or capitalised income, of or to which he should be or become possessed or in anywise entitled after the solemnisation of the marriage within six months after he should "have become" so possessed or entitled. The trader was at the time possessed of stock-in-trade & effects exceeding in value £3000, & so continued for more than six months after the date of the settlement, but did not after the marriage acquire additional property to that amount. He became bkpt. after the expiration of the six months:—Held: the event contemplated by the covenant had happened before the bkpcy., & there was a breach of the covenant entitling the trustees to prove.—Re WASS, Ex p. EVANS (1852), 2 De G. M. & G. 948; 22 L. J. Bcy. 5; 20 L. T. O. S. 149; 1 W. R. 69; 42 E. R. 1143, L. JJ.

2491. Obligation to transfer after-acquired property.]—Debtor by his marriage settlement covenanted to transfer all his after-acquired property, except business assets, upon trust for his wife & children. He became bkpt. & after obtaining his discharge under 1869 Act, in 1882 purchased & furnished a house. He was adjudicated a bkpt. a second time in 1903:—Held: the liability under the covenant was not a provable debt under the first bkpcy., & was not released by his discharge.—Re REIS, Ex p. CLOUGH, [1904] 2 K. 2502. Debt accrued due before bankruptcy.]—C. & Co., before their bkpcy., guaranteed to A. payment of £300 for the erection by A. of a building for D., on production of a certificate by an engineer that the work was done according to a certain specification. A. produced the certificate, which showed a deviation from the original plan, with the consent of D. C. & Co. made no objection on the ground of the deviation:—Held: A. might prove for the £300 in their bkpcy.—Re CAZENOVE, Ex p. ASHWELL (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 281, Ct. of R.

2503. Guarantee of interest & principal—Bankruptcy before principal due—Interest not paid on due date.]—A bond executed by deft., as surety for J., Mar. 1, 1832, was conditioned for payment of £5 interest on a principal sum of £200 on Mar. 1, 1833, £5 on Mar. 1, 1834, & £205 on Mar. 1, 1835. The first year's interest was not paid till Mar. 30, 1833. In June, 1833, deft. became bkpt.:—Held: the bond had been forfeited, & was provable under deft.'s commission.—SKINNERS' CO. v. JONES (1837), 3 Bing. N. C. 481; 3 Hodg. 18; 4 Scott, 271; 6 L. J. C. P. 113; 132 E. R. 495.

2504. Advances made after date of guarantee.]—A. guaranteed to a banking co. "all current obligations in their hands, to which B. may be a party, & also all his future obligations & engagements that may come into their hands":—Held: the latter part of the guarantee, as to the future obligations, implied of itself a consideration, & did not require the specific statement of one in the body of the guarantee, according to Stat. Frauds, & the banking co. might, on the bkpcy. of A., prove for the amount of their advances to B., subsequent to the date of the guarantee.—Re DUNCAN, Ex p. LITTLEJOHN (1843), Mont. D. & De G. 182; 12 L. J. Bcy. 31; 7 Jur. 474.

2505. Guarantee mere nudum pactum—Guarantee of bills given at surety's request.]—M. & B., on Aug. 5, 1833, entered into partnership. By an indenture made between them of Jan. 11, 1837, after reciting that B. had agreed to pay to M. £558 for his share in the business, & that such sum should be secured by three notes of hand of B., payable at eight, sixteen, & twenty-four months, & that the due payment thereof should be guaranteed by the written undertaking of G., who was to deliver to M. his undertaking in writing to enter into a bond to him in a penalty sufficient to cover the existing debts of the firm, it was witnessed that M., in consideration of the sum of £558 so to be secured to him, assigned his share of the business to B. By the same indenture, B. covenanted to indemnify M. against the debts of the firm. On the same day B., pursuant to the agreement, signed & gave to M. three promissory notes for £186 each. G. on July 31, 1837, signed the following undertaking:—"B. has this day given to M. three bills, dated, etc., & payable, etc., for £186, of each of which notes I guarantee the payment." On Oct. 4 following, he also signed an undertaking to the effect that he would execute to M., when he should be required, a bond of indemnity in accordance with the recital relating thereto contained in the indenture of assignment. At the dissolution of the partnership, M. & B. owed their bankers £733 15*s.* 6*d.*, to meet which M. drew seven bills for £100 each on B. These were accepted by B., & indorsed by M. to their bankers. On Jan. 19, 1838, G. signed a memorandum to the effect that the bills were to cover the debt due to the bankers, & were drawn at his request, & that he would indemnify M. from the payment of them. B. subsequently became insolvent, & one of the promissory notes & three of the bills were dishonoured. In May, 1839, G. was declared a bkpt., & M. had to pay the bankers the amount of the dishonoured promissory note & bills:—Held: the undertakings signed by G. of July 31 & Oct. 4, 1837, were a nudum pactum, & did not entitle M. to prove on his estate for the amount paid by him on account of the dishonoured note, but the memorandum of Jan. 19, 1838, did entitle him to prove for the amount paid by him on account of the dishonoured bills.—Re GEACH, Ex p. MORRISON (1843), 7 Jur. 267.

2506. Guarantee of payment for goods by due honour of bill—Bankruptcy before bill due.]—A bkpt. had, in consideration of the payment of a sum of money to him by the vendors of goods, guaranteed the payment of the purchase-money by the purchasers, according to the contract of purchase, viz. by the due honour of a bill of exchange accepted by the purchasers. The bill did not fall due till after the fiat issued against the surety. On its being dishonoured:—Held: the vendors were entitled to prove.—Re WILLIS, Ex p. BROOK (1850), 6 De G. M. & G. 771; 17 L. J. Bcy. 8; 11 L. T. O. S. 111, 475; 12 Jur. 411; 43 E. R. 1433.

2507. Administration bond—Forfeiture before bankruptcy.] — An administration bond, forfeited before the bkpcy. of the surety, is not provable under 1849 Act, & a certificate under that Act is no bar to an action on the bond.—MARCHMAN v. BROOKES & HUGHES (1864), 2 H. & C. 908; 3 New Rep. 579; 9 L. T. 726; 159 E. R. 376.

2508 i. Guarantee of indebtedness to bank—Sum recovered from bankrupt debtor's estate—Surety also principal debtor trading under separate style.]—P. carried on business at Cork, as a sole trader, under the style of D. Brothers, & at Glasgow (in partnership with M.), under the style of S. & Co. On June 3, 1878, P., both trading as D. Brothers, & in his individual capacity, gave a guarantee to the U. Bank, for advances to S. & Co. At a meeting of the creditors of S. & Co. at which the U. Bank was represented, P. proposed to liquidate the debts of S. & Co. by acceptances of D. Brothers, which was accepted by resolution. On the same day the partnership between P. & M. was dissolved, & M. transferred his estate & interest in the partnership property & business to P. & the business of S. & Co. was carried on by P. alone. P., being unable to meet the composition bills, was adjudicated a bkpt. in Ireland on his own petition. On a petition filed in Scotland by the U. Bank on foot of their original debt, a sequestration of the estates of S. & Co. & of M. was ordered. The U. Bank also claimed to be admitted to prove unconditionally, in the Irish bkpcy., for the amount of the guarantee:—Held: P., at the time of the Irish bkpcy. was a sole trader, trading in Ireland as D. Brothers, & in Scotland as S. & Co., & consequently there was but one estate to be administered under the Irish adjudication: & the U. Bank could not, therefore, be allowed to prove except upon the condition of giving credit for so much of the Scottish estate of bkpt. as they had received or might receive under the sequestration.—Re PIM (1881), 7 L. R. Ir. 458.—IR.

2508 ii. —— Debt not due at date of bankruptcy.]—Bankers trading with A. got a bond from B. for £5,000, conditioned that A. should keep the bankers harmless. B. became bkpt., & A. owed the bankers £7,000. They refused further credit to A. until C. gave a guarantee to secure them in the very same manner they had been secured by B. A. afterwards became bkpt., owing the bankers £700:—Held: they could not prove this debt under the commission against B.—Re BREBNER, Ex p. RANSOM & CO. (1830), 4 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 58.—IR.

2508. Guarantee of indebtedness to bank—Sums recovered from bankrupt principal debtor's estate—Before & after proof.]—Bkpt. guaranteed his son's account with a German bank. The son liquidated his assets in Germany, & the bankers received £1,593 as dividend. On bkpt. becoming bkpt. in England, the German bank claimed to prove for the whole amount guaranteed, without giving credit for the £1,593 received before proof, or for other amounts alleged to have been received as dividends in the German liquidation after proof: —Held: credit must be given for the dividends received before proof, but not for any received after proof.—Re BLAKELEY, Ex p. AACHENER DISCONTO GESELLSCHAFT (1892), 9 Morr. 173, D. C.

2509. —— Sum deposited by certain solvent sureties but not appropriated.]—Bkpt. & others became sureties to applts. of a principal debtor's liability for the sum of £6,250, & three of the sureties thereafter entered into agreement with applts. that their liability as between them & applts. should be limited in that there should be substituted for it a deposit of £3,000 in the bank, to be carried to a suspense account, with power to applts. to appropriate that sum whenever they thought fit in discharge pro tanto of the principal debt:—Held: (1) such deposit did not until appropriation operate as payment, & applts. were entitled to prove for the full amount of their debt against the estate of a bkpt. co-surety, who was not a party to the above agreement; (2) the transaction was not an evasion of the bkpcy. law. —COMMERCIAL BANK OF AUSTRALIA, LTD. v. WILSON & CO.'S ESTATE OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, [1893] A. 2510. Guarantee of payment by instalments—Instalments accruing after bankruptcy.]—A covenant in an indenture made between A. & B., assigning to A. £4,350 payable under articles of agreement by S. to B. by instalments, that in case the sum, or any instalment thereof, should not be paid to A. at the times & in the manner provided for by the articles, B. would, upon demand, pay to A. the sum, or so much thereof as should not be paid at the times, etc.:—Held: not to be discharged by the bkpcy. of B. as to any instalments accruing due after the bkpcy., not being provable under the commission by 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, ss. 9 or 17.—HOFFHAM v. FOUDRINIER (1816), 5 M. & S. 21; 105 E. 2512. —— ——.]—A joint & several covenant was entered into by a principal debtor & his surety that the principal would pay a sum of money by three instalments, with interest, on three specified days. The first instalment was duly paid, but before the second instalment became payable the surety became bkpt. The creditor was allowed by the comr. to be admitted to claim against bkpt.'s estate in respect of the amount of the two unpaid instalments & interest: —Held: the claim was properly admitted as upon a contingent liability under 1849 Act, s. 178. —Re STRAHAN, Ex p. BARWIS (1855), 6 De G. 2514. —— Debtor & surety afterwards granting joint notes—One note paid before bankruptcy—Whether proof on original guarantee or for remaining notes only.]—A. agreed to be responsible to B. for the due payment to him by C. of £24,000, by yearly instalments of £1,200. B. afterwards agreed to accept six joint notes of A. & C., for £2,000 each, & delivered up the original agreement to C., but only one of the notes was paid:—Held: B. could not prove, under a fiat against A., the original debt of £24,000 but only the amount of the five notes remaining unpaid.—Re LORYMER, Ex p. POWELL (1836), 1 Deac. 378, Ct. of R.

2515. Guarantee of annuity—Whether value of annuity provable.]—An annuity granted by A. to B. was secured by a covenant by C., a surety, to pay the annuity in case A. made default, & by a judgment for £2,100 entered up against A. & C. The annuity remained unpaid from Jan., 1823, A. having left the country, & in Feb., 1824, C. became bkpt., & afterwards obtained his certificate. C. having died, B. filed a bill to have the arrears of the annuity paid out of his real & personal estates:—Held: neither the value of the annuity, nor the sum due on the judgment, was provable under C.'s commission, & his certificate was not a bar to pltf.'s demand.—JOHNSON v. COMPTON (1830), 4 Sim. 37; 58 E. R. 15.

2510 i. Guarantee of payment by instalments—Instalments accruing after bankruptcy—Composition.]—A cautioner for a composition, accepted by the creditors of an insolvent, became bkpt. after payment of one instalment. The principal debtor was afterwards sequestrated, & the creditors claimed on his estate for the full amount of their debts, under deduction of the first instalment. The trustees for the creditors also claimed on their behalf upon the sequestrated estate of the cautioner for the five unpaid instalments:—Held: the claim by the creditors in the sequestration of the principal debtor involved no discharge or abandonment of the claim against the cautioner by the trustees under the composition arrangement, & these trustees were entitled to be ranked.—THOMSON & CRAIG v. LATTA (1863), 1 Macph. (Ct. of Sess.) 913.—SCOT.

2510 ii. —— —— —— Proof on principal's estate.]—V. became security for payment of a composition. When two instalments had been paid, the case was turned into bkpcy. The creditors proved against the principal's estate for their first bills, giving credit for the instalments. V. then became bkpt. The creditors, having elected, were not allowed to prove on his estate for two sets of unpaid bills.—Re SHEEHAN & FEEHAN'S ESTATE (1863), 16 Ir. Jur. 198.—IR.

k. Guarantee of excess over fixed amount—After demand made.]—A., a mtgor., by will appointed his wife C. sole extrix. & devised to her the mortgaged property. C. subsequently charged the property with the repayment of further advances, & B. mortgaged other property as a further security, the mtge. containing a stipulation for repayment, within one month after notice of the balance due in excess of the original mtge. debt. B. became insolvent. No demand was made. The liquidators of the mtgees. sought to prove against B.'s estate for the amount owing after deducting the original mtge. debt:—Held: the liquidators (if entitled to prove at all) could only prove for the difference between the amount owing after such deduction & the value of the mtge. security after realising or giving credit for the value of the first security.—Re AGABEG, 12 C. 2522. For what amount—Dividend received in bankruptcy of principal debtor.]—A. guaranteed B. & Co. against any loss they might happen to suffer on account of the non-payment of an instalment by certain joint debtors of B. & Co. One of the joint debtors becoming bkpt., B. & Co. under an order for the proof of joint debts under his separate commission proved the amount of the instalment, & received a dividend :—Held : the benefit of the future dividends on the proof should be sold, & the produce paid to B. & Co., & the money so received by them, together with the amount of the former dividend, should be deducted from the instalment, & B. & Co. might prove for the difference under A.'s commission.—Re RITCHIE, Ex p. REID (1818), Buck, 239.

2523. —— Breach of contract by principal debtor—Amount of damage.]—By agreement between A. & M. Bank, a Calcutta tea co., & their London agents, the bank granted a letter of credit, permitting the tea co. to draw bills on the bank. The tea co. undertook that the credit should provide for the outlay for the season's tea, that they would ship the whole produce of the season, that they would draw upon the London agents for the value of the produce, & forward to the bank the bills, with bills of lading, policy of insurance, & invoice of tea shipped, & that they would pay any balance which might appear due on the credit on or before a certain date. The London agents guaranteed to the bank that the tea co. would perform its undertaking, "the terms of which we hereby confirm, holding ourselves responsible for same." The tea co. drew, in accordance with the letter of credit, several bills on the A. & M. Bank. which it accepted. Before any of them became due, the A. & M. Bank stopped payment, & was wound up, & its property transferred to the A. Bank. The bills were not paid at maturity, but were afterwards paid either by the A. & M. Bank, or by the A. Bank. The tea co. never performed any part of their undertaking except the drawing the bills above mentioned, PART VIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3. —D. (b) iii.

2524 i. In general.]—The law upon the subject of a contest between creditor & surety as to right to rank upon debtor's estate is simple. If the surety be for the whole debt he cannot rank in competition with the other creditors until the whole debt is paid. Where the surety is answerable for part of a debt only—on payment of that part, he, & not the creditor, is entitled to rank in respect of it. Where the surety is surety for the whole debt, but his liability is limited to a certain amount only, in that case the surety cannot rank in competition with the creditor.—Re FEARNLEY'S ASSIGNMENT (1915), 8 O. & became insolvent. The A. Bank, relying on the guarantee, claimed to be creditors, for the amount of the bills, against the estate of the London agents, who had executed a deed of inspectorship: —Held: the fact of the A. & M. Bank stopping payment, & being wound up, did not excuse the tea co. from fulfilling their contract, or release the sureties from their liability, & the A. Bank must be admitted for the amount of such damage as they had sustained by the default of the tea co. to fulfil their contract.—Re BARBER & Co., Ex p. AGRA BANK, LTD. (1870), L. Replication, that before the payment deft. had obtained his certificate & that a final dividend had been made of his estate, & that there was not any debt, in respect of the payment of which pltf. could have proved, or for which he could have received any dividend:—Held: the certificate was a discharge from the claim, as the principal creditor might have proved, in which case pltf. would have been entitled to the benefit of that proof, or, pltf. might have paid the debt at once to the creditor & have himself proved before any dividend was declared or might have compelled the creditor to prove for pltf.'s benefit.—JACKSON v. MAGEE (1842), 3 Q. 2538. Surety for recurring payments—Payment of instalments accruing after bankruptcy of principal debtor—Rent.]—To a declaration for money paid, deft. pleaded his bkpcy. & certificate, & that pltf., before the issuing the commission, was a surety for a debt of deft., & that the money paid by pltf. for his use was paid by him as such surety, after the issuing the commission, & before a final dividend had been made of deft.'s effects under the same, whereby pltf. became entitled to prove under the commission. Replication, that pltf., before the issuing the commission, was surety to J. for deft., that deft. should perform certain things contained in articles of agreement, by which an annual rent was to be paid by deft., & that after his bkpcy. three years' rent became due from deft., & that the money paid by pltf. for deft. was paid by him as such surety, by reason of the non-payment by deft. of the rent, & for the costs of an action brought against pltf. as such surety by J.:—Held: pltf. was entitled to recover, as he could not be deemed liable as a surety, within 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 8, as that sect. related only to debts of bkpt. due at the time of issuing the commission.—M'DOUGAL v. PATON (1818), 2 Moore, C. Defts. became bkpt. & obtained their certificate, & afterwards pltf. was compelled by the annuity creditor to pay several sums for arrears of the annuity due after issuing the commission. Pltf. having sought to recover those sums & held defts. to bail, it was contended that this was a debt which pltf. could have proved under the commission:—Held: the surety could not compel the annuity creditor to come in & prove, & it was not a debt quoad the surety, until he was in a condition to be damnified by it, & a surety paying arrears in the above circumstances was not within 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 8, & might recover against the principal & hold him to bail.

By s. 17 [of the above Act] the annuity creditor, whether there shall or shall not be arrears due, may prove for the value of the annuity (LE BLANC, J.).—WELSH v. WELSH (1815), 4 M. & S. 333; 105 E. R. 857.

The principal debtor being indebted to defts. in $5,500, made an assignment under R. S. O. 1887, c. 124, & defts. filed a claim therefore with the assignee. At a later date pltf. paid defts. the $2,500 & filed a claim with the assignee. The dividends from the estate were insufficient to pay the balance of defts.' claim:—Held: this was a guarantee of the whole of the debt, limited in amount to $2,500, that is, a guarantee of the ultimate balance, after all other sources were exhausted; & pltf. was not entitled to rank upon the estate in respect of the $2,500, nor to recover any part of any dividend which defts. had received.—MARTIN v. MCMULLEN (1890), 18 A. & another person as surety jointly & severally covenanted with the mtgee. to pay interest so long after the date as any principal money remained due, & to pay all premiums on the policy, &, if the policy should become void, the cost of effecting a new policy. The mtgor. subsequently agreed to indemnify the surety against any sums which he might be called upon to pay under his covenants with the mtgee. No part of the principal money was repaid & the mtgor. became bkpt. The mtgee. proved for the principal money less an amount at which he valued the policy. The surety claimed, under the agreement to indemnify, to prove for the estimated amount of his liability to the mtgee. for future interest & premiums:—Held: on the mtgor.'s bkpcy. the principal sum was no longer due within the covenant, &, the policy having been valued, the liability to pay the premiums ceased, & the proof was rightly rejected.—Re MOSS, Ex p. HALLET, [1905] 2 K. R. gave to H. by way of indemnity a warrant of attorney. In 1858, G., without the knowledge of R., gave up the bond to H., & received in satisfaction for it the promissory note of H. for the sum remaining due. R. at the same time assigned all his property to H. in satisfaction of the liabilities under which H. had become surety for him. In the following month R. became bkpt., & the warrant of attorney & the assignment became void as against the assignees:—Held: the dealings between H. & G. had not taken away the rights of H. against R., & H. having paid the debt was entitled to prove against R.'s estate.—Re ROBERTS, Ex p. ALLEN & CAZENOVE (1858), 3 De G. & J. 447; 44 E. 2555. Co-sureties for payment of principal & interest—Forfeiture for non-payment of interest before bankruptcy not insisted on.]—R. borrowed a sum of money, & gave the lenders a bond, by which he & four others bound themselves jointly & severally in a penalty, for the regular payment of interest, & for the discharge of the principal & all interest which might be due at the end of five years, or, if sooner called upon, then at twenty-one days after demand. One of the co-obligors of R. became bkpt., & obtained his certificate. At the time of the bkpcy. a forfeiture had accrued by non-payment of interest, but it was not insisted upon, & the interest was subsequently paid up. After the certificate, R. was called upon for the principal, but did not pay, & payment was enforced from the four co-obligors who had continued solvent. In an action by one of them against the surety who had been bkpt., for contribution:—Held: they could not have proved under the commission, & the certificate was no answer to the action.—CLEMENTS v. LANGLEY (1833), 5 B. & Ad. 372; 2 Nev. & M. 2556. Creditor paid in full by solvent co-sureties—Right to prove against bankrupt co-surety.]—A. & B. gave a joint promissory note, upon which money was lent by C. to them, & by them to D. B. became bkpt., & A. was obliged, after the bkpcy. to pay the note:—Held: he was not a surety for B., but A. & B. were principal debtors or co-sureties, & A. could not prove for a moiety of the note against B.'s estate.—Re DEACON, Ex p. PORTER (1835), 4 Deac. & Ch. 774; 4 Mont. & A. 281; 4 L. 2557. —— ——.]—One of three co-sureties executed a deed of assignment in favour of his creditors. The principal debtor, a co., went into liquidation, & the creditor claimed against the estate of bkpt. surety. The two other co-sureties paid off the principal creditor, & took an assignment of the whole debt & the benefit of the creditor's claim against bkpt. co-surety:—Held: the solvent co-sureties were entitled to prove against the estate of bkpt. co-surety for the whole amount of the debt, but not to receive dividends amounting to more than the proportion of the whole debt for which bkpt. co-surety was liable, namely one-third.—Re PARKER, MORGAN v. HILL, [1894] 3 Ch. 400; 64 L. 2558 i. Creditor paid in full by solvent parties—Right to prove against bankrupt co-surety.]—Three parties became bound, conjunctly & severally for a sum, borrowed for the use of one of them. The principal became bkpt. One surety also became insolvent, & the other was obliged to pay the whole debt:—Held: the latter was entitled to rank on his co-surety's estate for the one-half of the debt, each of them having been indebted as principal for a moiety thereof; & as surety for the other moiety.—KEITH (TRUSTEE ON MAXWELL'S ESTATE) v. FORBES & HUNTER & CO. 2559. Payment by surety within six months of petition by co-surety.]—In May, 1857, V., & pltf. & deft. as his sureties, gave their joint & several promissory note to H. for timber supplied by H. to V. The note was payable on Jan. 1, 1858. In Nov., 1857, V. executed an assignment for the benefit of his creditors under which pltf. ultimately received a dividend. In Dec., 1857, deft. became bkpt., & obtained his certificate. In Jan., 1858, pltf. paid the note, & afterwards commenced an action against deft., his co-surety, to recover contribution:—Held: as the payment by pltf. was within six months from the time of the filing of the petition by deft., pltf. had a right not merely to claim, but to prove against the estate of deft., in respect of his liability to contribution "as a liability to pay money on a contingency," within 1849 Act, s. 178, & the bkpcy. & certificate of deft. were an answer to the action.—ADKINS v. FARRINGTON (1860), 5 H. & N. 586; 29 L. 2561. Debt payable on happening of contingency—Distinguished from debt payable at all events.]—If a demand be payable at all events though at a future day, it may be proved under a commission of bkpcy. against debtor, but if it rest in contingency, whether it will be paid or not, it cannot be so proved, unless secured by a penalty which is forfeited at law.—HANCOCK v. ENTWISLE (1789), 3 Term Rep. 435; 100 E. 2572. Bond to be void on payment when requested—Bankruptcy before request.]—Members of a brewing firm executed a joint & several bond to the bankers of the firm, conditioned to be void, if the brewers paid the balance due at any time to the bankers when thereunto requested, such request to be in writing & to be sent to the bank. On the bkpcy. of one of the obligors:—Held: a request must have been made before the bkpcy. to entitle the bankers to prove.

Part of the amount was due on bills of exchange, which had been dishonoured, & which the bankers had, in writing, required the brewers to pay, without, however, referring to the bond:—Held: a sufficient request.—Re RODHAM, Ex p. FLINTOFF (1844), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 726; 8 Jur. 766, Ct. of R.

2573. 2574. Bond for payment of money with interest—On payee attaining twenty-one—Bankruptcy before payee twenty-one—Interest in arrear.]—A. gave to B. a bond conditioned for payment of £1,000 when C. an infant, if living, should attain twenty-one, with interest in the meantime payable half yearly. A. became bkpt. during the minority of C. At the date of the fiat there was an arrear of interest due on the bond:—Held: the bond was forfeited, & the debt was not contingent within 1849 Act, s. 177; & B. was entitled to prove against the estate of A. for the whole £1,000 with interest to the date of the fiat.—Re CAWOOD, Ex p. SHAW (1850), Fonbl. 159; 15 L. o. Bond to be void on payment of debt—Assignment for creditors before payment—Bond creditor acceding.]—In 1825 a party borrowed a sum of £1,000 &, being then in England, granted therefore an English penal bond for £2,000, the condition of which was, that if the sum borrowed was paid, with interest, at the stipulated term, the bond should become void. In 1828 & 1835, the debt being unpaid, debtor executed in Scotland trust deeds for behoof of his creditors, to which the creditor in the English bond acceeded. By the arrangement embodied in these trust deeds & deeds of accession, proceedings which had been commenced for the recovery of the sum due by debtor to the creditors in the bond were suspended, & debtor's estate was conveyed to trustees for payment of his whole debts:—Held: the original obligation in the bond was superseded by the agreement embodied in the trust deeds & deeds of accession which constituted a new contract under which the creditor was entitled to claim such sum of principal & interest as might be held to effeir to the debt of £1,000 for which the bond had been granted, though amounting to more than £2,000.—SCOTT v. SINCLAIR (1865), 3 Macph. 2576. Obligation to pay costs in certain event—Event not determined until after bankruptcy.]—Deft., as surety, entered into a bond in a penal sum with the condition that if he should pay to pltf. such costs as he should in due course of law, be liable to pay in case the verdict should pass for then deft. in an action pending, which had been brought by C. in the name of pltf., such costs to be first taxed by one of the masters in the usual manner, the bond was to be void. The action mentioned in the condition was a sci. fa. on a judgment obtained by pltf., & which had been assigned to C. by T. since deceased, of whom pltf. was exor. The action was tried at the Spring Assizes in 1848, when a verdict was found for deft. In the following Easter Term a rule nisi for a new trial was obtained. On Nov. 14 following a fiat in bkpcy. issued against deft. In Hilary Term, 1849, the rule for the new trial was discharged. On May 29, deft. obtained his certificate, & on Aug. 22 the costs were taxed :—Held : at the time the fiat issued, deft.'s liability under the bond was a mere contingent liability, & not a contingent debt, within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 56, & pltf.'s claim for the costs was not barred by deft.'s certificate.—HANKIN v. BENNETT (1852), 8 Exch. 107 ; 21 L. 2577. Liability under del credere commission.]—A creditor, at the date of a deed of inspectorship & trust made by a debtor for the benefit of his creditors, had a claim against debtor for an ascertained sum of £1,974, & an unascertained sum on account of acceptances, which he had given to debtor on goods shipped by debtor through the creditor as his factor, on a del credere commission, & which had not then been sold, of which acceptances £5,000 had then become due. The creditor, in this state of things, executed the deed generally, without specifying on the deed the amount of his debt or claim. Upon the ultimate account after the goods were sold it appeared that a balance of £5,348 was due to the creditor from debtor :—Held : the creditor was entitled to a dividend from debtor's estate for the sum of £5,348, & not merely for the sum of £1,974.—GRAHAM v. ACKROYD (1853), 10 Hare, 192 ; 22 L. 2579. Obligation to return securities or to substitute others—Contingent on passing of bill—Bankruptcy before bill passed.]—In Jan., 1866, a co. lent consols to be deposited by the promoters of a bill before Parliament, & pltfs., deft., & three others entered into an undertaking with the co. that, if the bill was thrown out, the consols should be returned, & if it passed, an equal amount of stock should be transferred to the co., & that a sum, in the nature of interest on the value of the consols at the time they were lent, from the end of six months to the date of the transfer, should be paid to the co. In Apr., 1866, deft. was adjudged bkpt., & obtained his order of discharge. In Aug. the bill was passed, but the consols were not transferred to the co. till May, 1867, & pltfs. were compelled to pay under the undertaking £500 as interest. An action having been brought by pltfs. to recover contribution from deft., he pleaded his discharge in bkpcy. :—Held : as the liability under the undertaking depended on an uncertain event, viz. the date at which the consols should be transferred, the amount of liability was not capable of being ascertained, & pltf.'s claim was not a debt provable in the bkpcy., & deft. was not discharged.—CARY v. DAWSON (1869), L. E. died, & more than six months after the obligee sued the obligor on the bond. Deft. pleaded his bkpcy. & discharge under 1861 Act, obtained before any breach of the condition & before six months after E.'s death :—Held : the action was not barred by the bkpcy. & discharge, since the obligee could not have proved under the bkpcy., either for "a debt payable on a contingency" within 1849 Act, s. 177, or for "a liability to pay money on a contingency" within s. 178.—KENT v. THOMAS (1871), L. 2584. Covenant to indemnify—By continuing in favour of retiring partner.]—A partner continuing the business took an assignment of all the stock, etc., & covenanted to indemnify the retiring partner from the debts then owing from the partnership. The continuing partner became bkpt. & obtained his certificate, & subsequently an action was commenced against the retiring partner upon an acceptance of the partnership. Judgment was obtained against him & he paid the debt & costs:—Held: no action would lie against bkpt. upon the covenant, since under 48 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 8, the retiring partner might on his liability have resorted to & proved his debt under the commission, & was bound by his certificate. —WOOD v. DODGSON (1813), 2 M. & S. 195; 2 Rose, 47; 105 E. 2585. —— ——.]—A., B., & C. being in partnership as bankers, A. advanced money to the bank by sales of stock, & took bonds for £13,000 from B. & C. separately, conditioned for replacing £9,000 stock each. The stock was not replaced, & A. brought actions on the bonds & recovered judgments. A. withdrew from the bank, being then a creditor for £20,000 stock, which B. & C., by the deed of dissolution, agreed to replace by four instalments, covenanting that if they made default therein, A. might proceed on the judgments, & that he should have a lien on certain securities, both for that debt, & as an indemnity against the partnership debts, which they agreed to pay. B. & C. replaced the first instalment when due, but made default in the second. A written agreement, not under seal, was then made, that the debt should be treated as a loan of money from the first, & that the proceeds of the £15,000 stock then due, being £10,083, should be the debt, & should be repaid at a subsequent time, with legal interest. When that agreement was made, the £15,000 stock was worth only £8,437. Before any part of the £10,083 was paid, B. & C. became bkpts., & at the date of the commission, two out of the three remaining days, named in the deed of dissolution for replacing the stock, were past. After A. left the bank, he paid some of the old partnership debts:—Held: A. might prove for such of the old partnership debts as he had paid.—PARKER v. RAMSBOTTOM (1824), 3 B. & C. 257; 5 Dow. & Ry. 2586. —— ——.]—In Dec., 1818, A., B., C., & D. dissolved partnership as bankers by deed, by which it was agreed that A. & B. should retire, & the business be carried on by C. & D. C. & D. covenanted to indemnify A. & B. against all outstanding demands. In Oct., 1825, C. died, & a commission issued against D. Some works in addition to those in the estimate were done; the contract was completed; & B. paid in full for all. C. brought an action against A. for injuries caused to his house. B. became bkpt. & A. sought to prove for the damages & costs paid by him, & for his own expenses in the action:—Held: the damages which C. might recover against A. were not necessarily identical with those contemplated by the guarantee, & A. could not prove either as for a debt payable upon a contingency, or as for a liability to pay money upon a contingency.—Re QUIN (1860), 11 I. A. made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, & subsequently the land was sold by public auction. Pltf. claimed to rank against A.'s estate for the $500:—Held: the assignment was not a sale within the covenant, & the $500 was not payable.—RYAN v. MALONE (1908), 11 O. W. R. 575.—CAN.

The advertiser before using any space, & before the expiration of twelve months, made an assignment for the benefit of creditors pursuant to the above Act:—Held: the $1,000 would not necessarily become due by effluxion of time, & the newspaper co. could not rank. —MAIL PRINTING CO. v. CLARKSON (1898), 25 A. Deft. became bkpt., & did not pay or give any indemnity, & pltf. was obliged to take up the bill, bkpt. having then obtained his certificate. On action brought by pltf. for the breach of promise :—Held : he could not have proved in respect of it under deft.'s commission, either for a debt not payable at the time of bkpcy., or for a contingent debt, or in the character of a surety, & the bkpcy. was no defence.—YALLOP v. EBERS (1831), 1 B. & Ad. 698 ; 9 L. 2589. —— By transferor of shares in cost book mining company—Payments made by transferee after bankruptcy of transferor.]—Deft., having transferred into pltf.'s name shares in a mine conducted on the cost-book principle as security for a debt, covenanted with pltf. to indemnify him from all calls which might be made upon such shares, & all charges, liabilities & costs that might attach to the shares. Deft. became bkpt., & pltf. was afterwards compelled to pay in respect of such shares certain debts of the mine, which accrued before the bkpcy. In an action on the covenant for not indemnifying pltf. against such payment :—Held : deft.'s liability was not to pay money upon a contingency within 1849 Act, s. 178, nor did pltf. stand in the position of surety for deft. within s. 173 of that Act, & the bkpcy. of deft. was no bar to the action.

The undertaking to indemnify is an additional obligation on the part of debtor that the creditor shall not suffer by the sort of security he is taking, & it is an obligation which does not come within s. 178 (WILLES, J.).—BETTELEY v. STAINSBY (1867), L. The co. was ordered to be wound up, & a call of £40 a share was made on the contributories in Class A. being the existing members, amongst whom M. was placed. They, including M., being unable to pay, pltf. & deft. were placed upon the list of contributories in Class B., as past members, under Cos. Act, 1862 (c. 89), s. 38, & were ordered in Mar., 1869, to pay a call of £40 per share. Deft. had executed a deed of inspectorship under 1861 Act, s. 192, which was duly registered in Dec., 1867. The liquidators of the co. proved for the amount of calls against deft.'s estate, but no part was paid ; & pltf., having paid a sum in compromise of the money remaining due on the shares, sued deft. for the amount :—Held : deft. was liable to indemnify pltf. against calls made after deft. had transferred his interest to M., & the claim of pltf. was not provable under 1861 Act, s. 153, & deft.'s deed afforded no defence.—KELLOCK v. ENTHOVEN (1874), L. 2592. —— Stakeholder against adverse claimant—Bankruptcy before claim established.]—K. & Co., having made a claim to bills of exchange, which were in the hands of W. as stakeholder, W. handed them over, on K. & Co. giving him a guarantee to save & keep him harmless & indemnified from & against all claims & demands which might be made against him for the bills, & from & against all costs & damages, which W. might sustain in consequence of handing over the bills, & further, that if proceedings were taken against W. in respect of the bills K. & Co. would save harmless & keep indemnified W. from all costs & damages by reason of such proceedings, & that if W. was ordered in such proceedings to give security, or bring money into ct. K. & Co. would procure such security, or provide W. with the money to be paid into ct., as the case might be. An adverse claimant brought an action against W. for the bills, which action K. & Co. defended by their own attorney, until K. & Co. executed a deed of inspectorship, which was registered under 1861 Act, & under which deed all creditors might prove who could have proved under an adjudication of bkpcy. of the same date. After this, judgment was recovered in the action against W. :—Held : (1) W. was not a creditor, who could have proved in bkpcy. under 1861 Act, s. 153, for the contract did not contain any warranty of the title of K. & Co. to the bills, nor any undertaking to pay their amount as soon as a valid claim was made against W. for them, but only an undertaking that W. should not sustain any loss or expense in respect of them, & as K. & Co. had defended the action up to the date of the deed of inspectorship, the contract had not up to that time been broken ; (2) the contract was not a contract to pay money upon a contingency, so as to give a right of proof under 1849 Act, s. 178.—Re KELSON, TRITTON & CO., Ex p. WISEMAN (1871), 7 Ch. If the ship should be lost & not arrive in port, the agreement was to become void. Before the arrival of the ship G. became bkpt., & subsequently, on the refusal of his assignees to perform the contract, H. sold the ship for less than £4,000, & claimed to prove for the deficiency against G.'s estate:—Held: the breach of the contract did not constitute a debt provable by H. against the estate of G.—Re GALES (1845), 1 De G. 100; 10 Jur. 166, L. 2600. Sum due before but payable after bankruptcy.]—A debt was due before, but was only payable at a date subsequent to, debtor's discharge:—Held: (1) debtor was discharged from the debt as all other debts, for the question depended when the money became due, & not when it became payable; (2) it was otherwise where the contract was upon a contingency.—ANON (1774), Lofft, 433; 98 E. The receiving order was made on May 3, 1912:—Held: under Public Health Act, 1875 (c. 55), s. 210, the rate was only retrospective in the sense that the money obtained by it might be applied in payment of charges & expenses incurred at any time within six months before the making of the rate, & the official receiver was right in rejecting the proof.—Re JONES, Ex p. SALFORD CORPN. v. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1913), 135 L. 2609. Bond conditioned for payment of money with interest—Power reserved to obligee to allow fund to remain with obligor during life.]—A. on his marriage gave to trustees a bond conditioned for payment of £1,000 with interest. By a settlement of even date it was declared that the trustees should, during his life or until he should become bkpt. or insolvent, allow him to retain in his hands the £1,000 or such parts of it as he should think fit. In 1826 A. became bkpt. The trustees in 1827 proved for the whole £1,000, but the comrs. expunged the proof, & the trustees did not take any steps to have a value set upon the bond as for a sum payable on bkpt.'s death, & to be allowed to prove for the amount of the valuation. In 1860, bkpt. being dead, & fresh assets having come in, the trustees applied again to prove for the whole amount :—Held : (1) although the provision for calling in the money on bkpcy. was void, the debt was valid as a debt payable upon the death of bkpt., & proof of it ought to be allowed, not disturbing former dividends ; (2) the decision in 1827 was not a judgment against the claim, the debt not being then payable, & no attempt having been made to prove for it on the footing of its being payable in futuro.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. BODDAM (1860), 2 De G. 2619. —— Note given for debt provable but not proved under previous composition.]—A receiving order was made against debtor & the creditors, who had proved their debts under it, were paid a composition under 1890 Act, s. 3, & the order was rescinded. Applts. were creditors, who did not prove their debts & received no composition, & after the rescission debtor gave them a promissory note for the amount of their debt. Subsequently debtor, being again in difficulties, executed a deed for the benefit of his creditors, the other parties to the deed including applts. as creditors. The deed recited that he had requested the creditors to give him time for payment, & that they had agreed to do so, & in consideration thereof debtor assigned to a trustee certain property upon trust to realise it & pay the creditors, including applts. Ultimately the trustee had money in his hands for distribution, & he applied for a declaration that applts. were not entitled to the benefit of the deed :—Held : as applts'. debt was a provable debt under the composition & had been discharged & no new consideration had been given for it, & there was no estoppel, applts. were not creditors at all & were not entitled to the benefit of the deed.—Re PILET, Ex p. TOURSIER & CO. &

c. Bills sent by debtor to brokers without indorsement to raise funds—Proof for money paid on behalf of debtor.]—An arranging trader had sent to his brokers in London four bills of exchange drawn by the brokers & accepted by A. in order that the brokers might raise funds to pay for a cargo of corn purchased by them for him, which was afterwards delivered to him ; he did not put his name on the bills. On a previous occasion a bill similar in all respects had not been honoured at maturity, & he had made arrangements for meeting it himself. A. did not pay any of the four bills at maturity, & the brokers sought to prove for the amount of them against the trader. It having been contended by him that the bills not having his name on them must be regarded as bills sold to the brokers, & that they could neither prove for the bills, nor for the consideration of them :—Held : the proof, which was made, not on the bills, but for money paid on account of the trader at his request was properly admitted.—Re C. d. Notes given to secure loan for payment of composition & bonus for loan—Borrowed from creditor by wife of insolvent—Indorsed by insolvent.]—An insolvent made a compromise with his creditors, borrowing from his wife the money to pay the composition. She borrowed the money from one of his creditors, agreeing to pay a bonus, & giving to the creditor for his composition payment & the bonus, her promissory notes indorsed by her husband, with other security. The creditor signed the composition agreement, nothing being said about the bonus to the other creditors, who knew, however, that some arrangement had been made with this creditor for the supply of the necessary funds. The insolvent subsequently made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors : —Held : the transaction with the wife was not a fraud on the composition, & the creditor was not thereby disentitled to rank upon the notes ; but the notes having been made by the insolvent's wife, payable to the creditor's order, & having been indorsed by the insolvent before they were handed to the creditor, the insolvent was not liable as indorser, & the creditor could not rank on his estate. —SMALL v. HENDERSON (1899), 19 C. Amongst the bills so deposited was one for £1,000 accepted by C., who became bkpt. on Mar. 5, 1824, which was sometime after the bill fell due. H. also became bkpt. on Dec. 12, 1825, when B. & Co. proved the amount of the balance he owed them, excepting such bill as a security, but made no attempt to prove the bill under C.'s commission until Jan., 1826, when the comrs. rejected the proof:—Held: the delivery of the bill by H. to B. & Co. must be taken to have been by way of pledge, to secure the amount of the advances then due from H. to B. & Co., & not with an intention to transfer the property in it, &, the amount of those advances having been since paid, B. & Co. could not in the circumstances prove the bill under C.'s commission.—Re CLAUGHTON, Ex p. BRITTEN (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 35.

The drawer discounted the bill for £220 with petitioner, but, instead of applying the proceeds to pay off the first bill, appropriated them to his own use, & the holder of the first bill proved the amount of it under the fiat:—Held: petitioner, who had no knowledge of the circumstances, in which the second bill was given, or of the breach of trust committed by the drawer, was not prevented from proving the amount of such second bill.—Re PHILPOT, Ex p. SAMUEL (1841), 2 Mont. 2634. Accommodation bill.]—A merchant in Bombay bought of a bank bills on their London branch for £25,000, giving for them £5,000 in cash & £20,000 in bills on a firm in London, consisting of himself & another person. The bank bills were all indorsed to the firm in London, & were all accepted. The merchant's bills were sent to the London branch of the bank & were accepted by the London firm. The bank was wound up, & the merchant & his partner each became insolvent, the London firm holding at the time of the winding-up bills to the amount of £19,000, & the bank having parted with the bills for £20,000 :—Held : in the circumstances the bills were not accommodation bills, & the trustees of the London firm were entitled to prove for the £19,000 in the winding-up.—Re LONDON, BOMBAY & MEDITERRANEAN BANK, Ex p. CAMA (1874), 9 Ch. 2657. Bill indorsed after bankruptcy of drawer—Proof limited to amount indorser could have proved for.]—A., being indebted to B., paid him by indorsing & delivering a bill of exchange drawn by A. on C. & accepted by C. for a larger amount, B. undertaking to give him the change in his own acceptance within a week. B. failed to fulfil his promise, & A. afterwards became bkpt. After the bkpcy. B. indorsed the bill to C. for value:—Held: C. stood in the same relation to bkpt. as B., & as B. could not have proved upon the bill against A.'s estate for a larger amount than was due from A. when the bill was transferred, C. could not prove until he had paid to A.'s estate the difference between that sum & the amount of the bill.—Re BAPTY, Ex p. JOWETT (1856), 27 L. 2667. —— —— ——.]—A holder of two bills of exchange, proving in the bkpcy. of the last indorser for the aggregate sum of the two amounts secured by the bills, cannot, where the bills are drawn & accepted by different persons, retain a surplus of over 20*s.* in the pound obtained by proving against the estates of the drawer, acceptor, prior indorsers, & the last indorser of the one bill, & attribute it to a deficiency on the other bill; but the bills for the purposes of proof must be treated as constituting distinct transactions, & the surplus on the one bill must be brought into account without regard to the deficiency on the other bill.

Inasmuch as drawers, acceptors, & prior indorsers are liable to indemnify the subsequent indorser, the dividends paid by their estates are paid out of the assets of the subsequent indorser, & his estate is entitled to have the surplus which has been paid on one of the bills, not exceeding the amount of such surplus paid by his estate, paid to it, & the overpaid bill handed over to his trustee.—Re MORRIS, JAMES v. LONDON & COUNTY BANKING CO., [1899] 1 Ch. 485; 68 L. 2675. Payments received from drawer's estate—Before bankruptcy of acceptor—Proof for balance due & interest.]—A creditor, with whom a bill of exchange had been deposited as security, first proved his debt against the estate of the drawer, his principal debtor, & thereby, & by other means, reduced his debt to £14. Subsequently, the acceptor became bkpt.:—Held: the creditor was entitled to prove under his commission, not only the £14, but all the interest upon his debt at the time of making that proof, to the complete liquidation of the account, in respect of which he held the bill as a security.—Re FOWLER, Ex p. MARTIN (1814), 2 Rose, 87.

2677. Payments received from other parties on bill—Limitation of dividend.]—C., previous to his bkpcy., agreed with R. & E. to deposit with them bills at long dates which they were to receive when due, or otherwise dispose of in the course of their business as they should think fit, & in consideration thereof they were to accept & pay C.'s bills at three months, charging him with interest on their advances & receiving commission, the surplus, if any, to remain to C.'s account. At the time of C.'s bkpcy. he owed R. & E. £8,007 & they held bills, indorsed by him, for £7,999. They proved the whole of their debts under the commission, & before any dividend received the amount of two bills, amounting to £1,424, which sum they deducted when the first dividend was declared; & after the first dividend they received the amount of three other bills, £1,792, & by dividends from the estate of other parties to the bills, £2,240. C.'s assignees petitioned to reduce the proof to that sum which should appear due after deducting what had been received in respect of the bills deposited:—Held: the bills were not to be considered as a deposit, but the indorsees had a right to go against all parties to them & the petition must be dismissed.—Ex p. TWOGOOD (1812), 19 Ves. 229; 34 E. 2679. Accommodation bills deposited—Proof against accommodation drawer or indorser—For full amount & interest.]—B. & Co. being largely indebted to R. & Co., indorsed to them various bills, which had been drawn or indorsed by C. & Co. for the accommodation of B. & Co. B. & Co. & C. & Co., respectively became bkpt., & R. & Co. proved the bills under each commission:—Held: the estate of C. & Co. was a security to make good the amount of principal & interest due to R. & Co. from B. & Co., & R. & Co. were entitled to receive dividends on their proof under C. & Co.'s commission, until not only the balance of the principal sum due from B. & Co., but all interest thereon, was fully satisfied.—Re CALDWELL, Ex p. REED (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 481, Ct. of R.

2680. —— Proof against accommodation acceptor—For full amount.]—F. & Co. sold cochineal to W., for which a small part of the price was paid in cash & the remainder by two bills at four months, but the cochineal was to remain in the hands of F. & Co. as security for the payment of the bills. The bills not being paid when due, W. sent F. & Co. two other bills drawn by himself on J., for which no consideration was given to J., the acceptor. Before those bills fell due both W. & J. became bkpt. & the price of cochineal had fallen so much in the market that F. & Co. afterwards sold it for not a third of the price at which W. had bought it, & they then proved for the deficiency under W.'s commission:—Held: they had also a right to prove the amount of the two bills under J.'s commission, without deducting the proceeds arising from the sale of the cochineal.—Re WOOD, Ex p. FAIRLIE BONHAM & CO. 2681. Accommodation notes deposited—Proof against accommodation maker—Note unindorsed—Right of holder.]—The depositee of a promissory note has no greater right to prove upon the estate of the accommodation maker than the depositor would have had; & where an accommodation note is merely deposited with him, without being indorsed in the usual course of business, he cannot prove against the estate of the maker as a bonâ fide holder.—Re BENTLEY, Ex p. VERE (1835), 4 Deac. & Ch. 295; 2 Mont. & A. 123; 4 L. J. Bcy. 34, Ct. of R.

2682. Some bills paid before & some after declaration of dividend—Reduction of proof—Return of excess dividends.]—Bkpts. kept a banking account, & in the course of their dealings bkpts. indorsed & paid into the bank certain bills of exchange. The bills when paid in were carried to the credit of bkpts., & cheques were drawn by them & payments made on their account from time to time. On the bills arriving at maturity bkpts. were debited with the amount of those dishonoured. The bank proved upon twenty-eights bills of exchange & promissory notes specified in a schedule to the depositions made on the proof, all of which were then in the hands of the bank & unpaid, some of them being overdue & dishonoured. Some of the bills of exchange paid in were paid in full by other parties liable, some before & some after the declaration of dividend:—Held: the proof ought to be reduced by the amount of the paid bills, & the dividends refunded, & the bank had no right to receive more than 20*s.* in the pound.—Re PRITCHARD, Ex p. HORNBY (1844), De G. 69, Ct. of R.

2683. Bill held by indorsee "pending discount."]—Bills of exchange were indorsed by a customer to his bankers & held by them "pending discount," i.e., pending inquiries as to the solvency of the acceptors, the bankers meanwhile making some advances to the customer on the credit of the bills, but without attributing the advances thus made to any particular bills. The customer became bkpt. :—Held : the bills were not securities which the bankers were bound to value, & they were entitled to prove for the full amount due & also to recover what they could from the other parties to the bills, provided they did not receive in the whole more than 20*s.* in the pound.—Re FIRTH, Ex p. SCHOFIELD (1879), 12 Ch. S. & Co. rediscounted the bills with their bankers. Before the bills became due the drawers went into liquidation, & S. & Co. suspended payment. Under a composition in the liquidation of S. & Co. the bank received dividends in respect of the bills held by them. The bank afterwards, under a deed of arrangement, received further sums towards discharge of the balance remaining unpaid on the bills from the estate of the drawers, & also from F., W. & Co., the acceptors. On F., W. & Co. going into liquidation the trustee of S. & Co. claimed to prove in the liquidation against the estate of F., W. & Co., for the amount of the dividend paid out of S. & Co.'s estate to the bank, & for interest on that amount of dividend : —Held : the proof in respect of the amount of dividend must be admitted, & the proof must also be admitted in respect of the interest.—Re FOX, WALKER & Co., Ex p. BISHOP (1880), 15 Ch. One of them was taken up by P. between the time of G.'s bkpcy. & the issuing of the commission against him, & another was taken up after the issuing of the commission. Shortly before G.'s bkpcy. he purported, by agreement under seal, to assign in consideration of the value of the bills certain cargoes & policies thereon, & gave a receipt. A verdict having been given in an action on the bills by the assignees of P., who had also failed, in their favour, with liberty to deft. to move to set it aside, if the debt were provable under G.'s commission, in consequence of the agreement:—Held: neither the assignment nor the receipt were provable, as there was no debt due at law from G. to P. at the time of G.'s bkpcy.—SNAITH v. GALE (1797), 7 Term Rep. 364; 101 E. 2694 i. By accommodation acceptor—Against drawer—Effect of proof by bank discounting bills.]—A cautioner was called on to pay a debt on failure of principal debtor. In an accounting between the estates of the principal debtor & of the creditor who had both become bkpt. the cautioner maintained that debtor's estate was entitled to credit for sums lost through accommodation bills discounted for behoof of the creditor:—Held: as the bank discounting the bills had already been ranked on the creditor's estate there could not be a second ranking.—ANDERSON v. MACKINNON (1876), 3 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 608.—SCOT.

2694 ii. ——Against drawer & indorsee—Bankruptcy of drawer & indorser before bill due—Retirement by maker.]—A., without value, accepted a bill drawn on him by B., & B., without value, indorsed it to C., who discounted it in bank & drew the proceeds; both B. & C. became bkpt. before the bill fell due, & A. retired it:—Held: A. was entitled to be ranked for the amount of the bill on both sequestrated estates to the effect of drawing full payment.—ASHLEY v. MUIR (1845), 7 Dunl. the bankers, to secure any floating balance. B. became bkpt., when the bankers proved for a balance greatly exceeding the amount of the bills, excepting in their proof those bills, with others, as securities, & they afterwards received a dividend of 2*s.* in the pound on the amount of their proof. The bills were subsequently paid in full by A.:—Held: A. had a right to call on the bankers to refund the amount of the dividend of 2*s.* on the amount of the bills.—Re GARNER, Ex p. HOLMES (1839), Mont. & Ch. 301; 4 Deac. 82; 9 L. 2702. —— —— —— ——.]—G. drew a great number of bills payable to V. & A. upon H., who had no effects of G.'s in his hands, but accepted them for the honour of the drawer. G. became a bkpt., & H. by means of the great sums he paid on account of such acceptance, became bkpt. likewise. The bill-holders proved under both commissions, & received dividends, but not sufficient to pay 20*s.* in the pound:—Held: the assignees of H. should stand in the place of the bill-holders for so much as had been paid under H.'s commission to the bill-holders on account of his acceptance of the bills.—Ex p. MARSHAL (1752), 1 Atk. 129; 26 E. 2704. By accommodation maker of promissory note—Against payee.]—Bkpt. being pressed to give security for a debt, prevailed upon a friend to accommodate him with a promissory note for the sum, payable six months after date. The note was not due at the date of the fiat, but had subsequently become due & been paid by the maker:—Held: the proof was admissible, the creditor being, in fact, a surety within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 52.—Re BRIDGLAND (1848), 12 L. T. O. S. 333.

2705. —— Against party accommodated & jointly & severally liable—Note signed under condition not fulfilled.]—A., as surety to a firm, signed a joint & several promissory note, on the faith that B. would join as co-surety. B. never signed it, but A. was afterwards compelled to pay it, by proceedings at law at the suit of an indorsee. One of the firm died, & the others became bkpt.:—Held: (1) the firm were liable to repay the amount & the costs of the proceedings both at law & equity; (2) the claim was of such a nature as not to be provable under the bkpcy., & was not barred by the certificate.—RICE v. GORDON (1848), 11 Beav. 265; 50 E. 2707. —— —— ——.]—An agent applied to a banking co. on several occasions to discount bills drawn by his principal, & at the commencement of the transactions informed the co. who the drawer & acceptors were, & inquired whether the co. would discount the bill without requiring the agent to indorse it. They agreed to do so in some instances, but upon some of the bills required & obtained the agent's indorsement. The acceptances turned out to have been forged by the principal, of which fact the agent was wholly ignorant. On the agent becoming bkpt., & there being nothing to show that he had not handed over the proceeds of the bills to the principal, or that those proceeds were in such a position that they could be recalled:—Held: the co. could not prove upon the bills, which the agent had not indorsed.—Re BOURNE, Ex p. BIRD (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 273; 20 L. J. Bcy. 16; 17 L. T. O. S. 303; 15 Jur. 894; 64 E. R. 829.

2709. —— Against acceptor—Bill transferred after bankruptcy.]—Where the holder of a bill after the issuing of a fiat against a party liable on the bill transfers the bill, this does not give the transferee a right to prove it, but merely a right to call upon the transferor to prove, as trustee for the transferee.—Re GIBSON, Ex p. DICKENSON (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 520, Ct. of R.

2704 i. By accommodation maker of promissory note—Against accommodation indorser.]—C. signed some promissory notes as maker, & B. indorsed them. Both affixed their signatures to accommodate M. B. failed after M. had failed. C. filed a claim as B.'s creditor for half the amount which he had paid on the notes:—Held: as both maker & indorser had signed for accommodation, they were both sureties for M. & had a recourse one against the other for half the amount they paid for M. Consequently C.'s claim against B. was well founded.—Re BOUTIN, CANTIN & ARCAND (1897), Q. R. 12 S. C. 186.—CAN.

If the holder of a bill of exchange, the drawer of which has assigned his estate to a trustee for creditors, loses his right to resort to that estate, by not giving notice of dishonour, neither the assignor nor trustee can, by waiver of the notice of dishonour, revive the liability as against other creditors.—Re LEVY'S TRUST ESTATE, Ex p. AARONS (1871), 2 V. 2713. By indorsee for value—Against drawee—Bankruptcy before acceptance.]—A. sent B., as his agent, to America to purchase cotton, & authorised him to draw bills on A., & to sell & discount same & with the proceeds to pay for the cotton. B. accordingly drew a bill on A. for £3,000 in favour of R., who discounted it for B., & afterwards negotiated it to third parties. B. applied the proceeds of the bill in payment of the cotton, which was shipped off to A. at Liverpool, but before the arrival of the cotton, or the presentation of the bill for acceptance, A. became bkpt., & the cotton was sold by the assignees, & the proceeds applied for the benefit of the estate :—Held : these circumstances did not amount to a virtual acceptance of the bill by A., & a subsequent indorsee for value could not prove the amount of it against A.'s estate.—Re BENTLEY, Ex p. BOLTON (1837), 2 Deac. 537 ; 3 Mont. & A. 367 ; 7 L. 2715. —— Against indorser—Bill accepted by partner of indorser on behalf of firm—Indorsee without knowledge of partnership.] — Bills of exchange were accepted by H., a member of, & on account of the firm of M. & Co. & indorsed by O., also a member of the firm, to S. for value. On the bkpcy. of H., S. proved against his estate in respect of these bills :—Held : he was not entitled to prove upon the same bills against the estate of O., who was also adjudicated bkpt., notwithstanding he had no notice that O. was a member of the firm until his bkpcy.—Re OKELL, Ex p. ROYAL BRITISH BANK OF SCOTLAND (1855), 1 Bankr. & Ins. 2716. —— —— Absolute exchange of bills for indorsee's acceptances of indorser's drafts—Bills indorsed by bankrupt unpaid.]—Defts. gave pltf. their own bills accepted by third persons in exchange for acceptances of other bills drawn by them on him, the different sets of which tallied in the gross amount, except a few shillings in one instance which was paid at the time, in order, as it was expressed, to finish the transaction, & except that in two instances out of five the acceptances so given by defts. were made payable two days before the counter-acceptances of pltf., but no stress was laid at the time on these trifling differences :—Held : the transaction being that of an absolute exchange of securities, each party was confined to his remedy on those securities, & the law would not raise an implied promise in defts., who had become bkpts., to repay to pltf. the amount on the balance of his acceptances paid after such bkpcy.—BUCKLER v. BUTTIVANT & WHITE (1802), 3 East, 72 ; 102 E. k. By indorsee for value—Against transferor for value without indorsement—Separate written acknowledgment.]—B. handed over an negotiable note for valuable consideration to G., not indorsing it, but giving a written acknowledgment on a separate paper to be accountable for the note to G. ; G. indorsed the note, which, with the acknowledgment, came into the hands of M. for valuable consideration, & B. & the several parties to the note became bkpt. :—Held : (1) M. could not prove the note against the estate of B., the acknowledgment not being assignable ; (2) M. was entitled to have the amount made an item in the account between B. & G. & to stand in the place of the latter.—Re BARRINGTON & BURTON (1804), 2 Sch. & Lef. 112. —IR.

l. Payee of note—Against indorser—Maker solvent.]—A. made a promissory note in favour of B., which was indorsed by C., but not by B. C. surrendered his estate. A. was not insolvent, & had not been excused : —Held : B. could prove upon the estate of C.—Re SYDSERFF (1866), 5 S. 193.—S. AF.

2721. —— Against acceptor—After proof against acceptor by third party holding security.]— A. being a bonâ fide holder of two bills accepted by bkpt., for the payment of which he also held a security, transferred the security to B., who proved for the amount under the fiat:—Held: such proof did not prevent the right of A. to prove also on the bills, though it might be a question for future consideration, whether he would be entitled to receive dividends on such proof.—Re BARHAM, Ex p. —— (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 179, Ct. of R.

2722. By payer for indorser's honour—Against acceptor—Blank indorsement filled up by payer.]— A., the payee of a bill of exchange, indorsed it in blank & delivered it to B., who wrote above the blank indorsement, "pay C. or order." B. took up the bill after a commission of bkpcy. had issued against the acceptor:—Held: he could not prove it under the commission.—Re ASTLEY, Ex p. ISBESTER (1810), 1 Rose, 20.

2723. By payer for acceptor's honour—Against acceptor — No protest for non-payment.] — A. accepted a bill of exchange, but became bkpt. before it fell due. On its coming due, B. paid it for the honour of A., but there was no protest of the bill for non-payment, nor did B. make any formal statement that he paid it for the honour of A.:—Semble: B. would have been entitled to prove for the amount of the bill (KNIGHT BRUCE, L.J.). —Re WYLD, Ex p. WYLD (1860), 2 De G. 2724. By drawer—Against acceptor—Other bill transactions outstanding—Retention of dividends.] —C., on Jan. 10, drew upon G. for £69 payable to S. or order three months after date, & G., on Mar. 24, drew on T. for £200 payable to C. or order two months after date, & T. accepted. On the same day C. & G. settled accounts, & G. charged C. with the £69 & £200, making in all a balance of £515 against C., who drew two drafts on H. & Co. for £300 & £215, payable in six months; to C. or order, who immediately discounted them with S. & Co. On Apr. 17 G. failed, not having paid the £69 bill. T. also failed, & refused to pay the £200 bill. C. took up the £69 bill, & never received any part of the other:—Held: C. was entitled to prove against G.'s estate for the £269, but the dividend to be stayed, till the account in respect of the other bills was adjusted.—Ex p. CLANRICARDE (LORD) (1787), 1 Cooke's Bankrupt Laws, 8th ed. 182.

2725. —— —— Debt afterwards paid by drawer's debtor—Proof of drawer available for debtor.]— A., to discharge a debt due from him to B., procured his banker, C., to direct his correspondent & partner, D., to accept a bill drawn by B. Before the bill was due, C. & D. became bkpt., C. being indebted to A. more than the amount of the bill. B. proved against the estate of D., but afterwards received the whole from A.:—Held: A., not having proved against the estate of C. in respect of the bill, was entitled to stand in the place of B. against the estate of D., whose proof having been expunged was reinstated for the benefit of A.—Ex p. MATTHEWS (1801), 6 Ves. 285; 31 E. 2726. —— Against bank discounting bills—Cash balance in favour of drawer.]—The drawer of bills of exchange accepted for value discounted them with his bankers, who afterwards became bkpt. before the bills arrived at maturity, having a cash balance belonging to the drawer in their hands. The bills were dishonoured:—Held: the drawer was not entitled to have the cash balance in his favour applied in discharge of the amount due upon the unpaid bills, &, on payment of the difference, to have those bills delivered up to him, but the bank had a right to obtain payment of such bills from the acceptors & leave the drawer to prove in respect of his cash balance in the usual way. Semble: the doctrine in equity of marshalling assets did not apply to the case.—Re ROYAL BRITISH BANK, Ex p. BANES (1857), 28 L. 2727. Bill drawn by foreigner—One party in England—Payable to agent of foreign government.] —A firm abroad drew bills on one of its own partners, trading on his own account in England, payable to an agent of the foreign govt. The bills were not paid. Process of insolvency issued against the foreign firm, & a commission against the English partner:—Held: the agent might prove under the commission, but would be restrained from receiving dividends, unless he elected not to prove under the insolvency abroad.—Re VANZELLER, Ex p. CHEVALIER (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 345, L. 2728. —— —— Dividend received in foreign bankruptcy.] — Two firms, one composed of A. & B., the other of A., B. & C., carried on business at Liverpool & Pernambuco respectively. An English adjudication of bkpcy., was made against A. & B., & the holder of a bill drawn by A., B. & C. on A. & B. proved under it & received a dividend. Afterwards A., B. & C. failed in Pernambuco, & the same creditor proved & received dividends on his bill under that liquidation:—Held: he ought not to receive any further English dividend without refunding the Brazilian dividends, but could not be ordered to refund the English dividend already received.—Re DEANE & YOULE, Ex p. MELLOR, Ex p. SMITH (1862), 3 De G. 2729. —— —— ——.]—D., who carried on business in England under the firm of D. & Co., & in Brazil under the firm of D., L., & Co., executed a deed of assignment of all his property for the benefit of his creditors. His Brazilian assets were administered under a concordata, a proceeding analogous to bkpcy., under which, by the law of Brazil, the creditors whose debts were contracted in the name of the Brazilian firm had priority. The holders of bills of exchange drawn by D., L., & Co. upon, & accepted by, D. & Co., proved in Brazil, & received a dividend. They then claimed to prove in England:—Held: they could not receive a dividend in England, until all the creditors had received a dividend at the same rate as the Brazilian dividend.—Re DOUGLAS, Ex p. WILSON (1872), 7 Ch. 2730. —— —— ——.]—Two persons carried on business, under one firm, as wine exporters in Portugal, & under another, as wine merchants in London. Bills were drawn by the Portuguese firm on, & accepted by, the English firm. The English firm became bkpt., & before the adjudication proceedings in insolvency were taken in Portugal, under which the property there was administered & divided exclusively among the Portuguese creditors. One of such creditors, who had received a dividend on bills drawn by the Portuguese firm, then sought to prove in the English bkpcy. in respect of the same bills against the English firm as acceptors:—Held: he could only do so on condition of bringing into account the dividend received in Portugal.—BANCO DE PORTUGAL v. WADDELL, Re HOOPER (1880), 5 App. Cas. 161; 49 L. 2731. Notes bought up after bankruptcy of maker.]—Petitioner's testator had bought up, after the bkpcy. of the S. Bank, their outstanding notes from various holders. There was no evidence from whence petitioner's testator bought the notes, or that they were the subject of proof in the hands of the former holders. Petitioner prayed to prove the amount of the notes so bought up:—Held: (1) there could be no proof in respect to the notes, unless it should be established, that at the time of the bkpcy, they were in the hands of holders who were entitled to prove them under the commission; (2) petitioner should be allowed to go again before the comrs. for the purpose of showing that his testator purchased the notes from bonâ fide holders entitled to a proof in respect of the notes they individually held.—Re BOWLES, Ex p. ROGERS (1820), Buck, 490.

2732. Cheques taken as security for loan without inquiry—Proof subject to equities attaching thereto.]—A. undertook to discount bills for B., & in return for the bills gave cheques to B., upon the understanding that they were not to be presented until there were funds in A.'s bank to meet them. Part of such bills were subsequently handed back to A.'s bankers, & security was given by A. & B. to cover the whole amount of them. B. had meanwhile deposited the cheques with his brother C., as security for money advanced. On A.'s bkpcy., C. sought to prove for the full amount of the cheques. The cheques had been presented & dishonoured:—Held: C. having taken the cheques without proper inquiry, took them subject to all the equities attaching to them, & could not prove in respect of them.—Re COBB, Ex p. HUGHES (1880), 43 L. 2733. Whether demand necessary—One joint maker known to join as surety for other.]—The rule that, where a person agrees to pay a debt not his own, demand is necessary to create a right of action against him, does not apply to the case of a joint & several negotiable instrument, e.g., a promissory note, in which one of the makers is known to join only as a surety for the other. In such a case proof can be made without any demand. Re MAYOR, Ex p. WHITWORTH (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 158, Ct. of R.

2734. Whether notice of dishonour necessary—Proof against drawer.]—The drawer of a bill of exchange became bkpt. & absconded before it was due, & before that time the holder of the bill had notice who were the assignees of bkpt.'s estate. The acceptor also became bkpt. before the bill was due, & when due it was dishonoured. The holder did not give notice of the dishonour to the drawer or leave it at his house, nor did he make any attempt to give such notice to his assignees:—Held: the bill was not provable under the commission issued against the drawer, the claim of the holder being barred by his laches.—ROHDE v. PROCTOR (1825), 4 B. & C. 517; 6 Dow. & Ry. 2752. —— Distinction between cross bills & bills accepted of each for different consideration.]—Bkpts. at the time of the bkpcy. owed P. a cash balance of £11,000. Bills had, however, been accepted by bkpts. & negotiated by P. in part payment of the balance, & those bills had been proved by the holders against bkpts.' estate. There was evidence that bills had been accepted by P. in favour of bkpts. for an independent consideration which had failed, & those bills also had been discounted. o. General rule—Sets of bills for approximately same amount—Differing in date, sum & period.]—N. & Co. granted acceptances to H. & Co., for their accommodation, to the amount of £1,493; & H. & Co. granted acceptances, for the accommodation of N. & Co., to the amount of £1,488. The several bills, however, composing the two sets, did not correspond with each other, in date, sum, or period, & had not been directly exchanged for each other. H. & Co. became bkpt. while these bills were in the circle, & N. & Co. were obliged to pay the set of bills they had accepted, & to retire those granted to them. They were ranked on the estate of H. & Co. for the bills accepted by that co., & drew a small dividend. They further claimed to be ranked, & to draw a dividend on the bills accepted by themselves, to the effect of obtaining full payment of the sum which they had paid in retiring the bills accepted by H. & Co. on the ground that the two sets of bills were mutual accommodations:—Held: they were not entitled as the bills were not counterparts.—NEWBIGGING & Co. v. HEYWOOD, COLLINS & Co.'s TRUSTEES (1823), 2 Sh. Two of the acceptances were thus: R. drew a bill on J. & W. for £2,500, which they accepted, & it was indorsed by C. & Co. to the bank. R. accepted another bill to that amount, drawn by J. & W., which was also given to the bank. The bills, when they became due, were renewed. Before the renewed acceptance of J. & W. became due, they stopped payment, & R. the drawer, being called upon, he obtained an acceptance from T. & indorsed it to the bank, & the acceptance of J. & W. was thereupon delivered to him. J. & W. becoming bkpt., R. proved the amount of their acceptances in his possession, & received 18*s.* in the pound:—Held: the proof was right, R. being the principal in his acceptances, & J. & W. the sureties in their drawings, J. & W. being the principals in their acceptances, & R. the surety with respect to their acceptances.—Re GOODCHILD, Ex p. HUNTER, Ex p. REYNER (1825), 2 Gl. & J. 7, L. 2758. —— —— Effect of 49 Geo. 3, c. 121.]—At the time of L.'s bkpcy. the account between R. & L. stood as follows. There was a cash balance of £3,576 8*s.* 4*d.*, including therein a promissory note for £1,603 17*s.* 5*d.* given by L. to R., who had negotiated it, & it was proved under the commission. R. had accepted, for the accommodation of L. bills drawn by L. to the amount of £6,444 7*s.* 4*d.*, none of which had been paid at the bkpcy., & they were proved under the commission. R. had likewise guaranteed debts of L. to the amount of £773 1*s.* 5*d.*, but had not at the bkpcy. paid any part of those debts, & they were proved under the commission. L. had given three bills for £1,000 each, drawn by him on S. to R., who had negotiated them, & those bills were dishonoured, & two of them were proved. R. subsequently compounded with his creditors & paid the holders of the accommodation bills accepted for L., & the guaranteed creditors, a composition. R. claimed to exclude from both sides of the account the unpaid bills or liabilities, or to debit the account with the amount of the cash balance, & with the difference between the amount of the dividends paid by L.'s estate upon S.'s bills & L.'s promissory note, & the amount of the composition paid by R. to the holders of the accommodation bills & the guaranteed creditors, & to prove for the balance:—Held: by reason of the above Act, if the accommodation bills, & that part of the cash balance represented by the promissory note, together with the guaranteed debts, had been paid in full by R., he would have no right to further proof, & could only claim the benefit of the proof already made.—Re LYNN, Ex p. READ (1822), 1 Gl. & J. 224.

A.'s trustee refused to rank the claim except under deduction of £4,000, the amount of B.'s dishonoured acceptances to A. for value, on which certain banks had ranked on A.'s estate & received a dividend of £1,730. The same banks had also received a composition from B. on these bills. B. had also paid a composition to other banks of £2,441 on A.'s dishonoured acceptances to B., for value, to the amount of £9,000:—Held: the rule against double ranking not applying to a case where a debtor had compounded with his creditors without becoming bkpt. or being divested of his estate, A.'s trustee had a good claim against B., to be relieved of payments on account of the £4,000 bills (B. being the true debtor), which he was entitled to deduct from B.'s claim for the £6,000, while B.'s claim against A. to be relieved of payments on account of the £9,000 bills (in which A. was the true debtor) could not be made effectual against A.'s bkpt. estate by reason of the rule against double ranking.—MACKINNON v. MONKHOUSE (1881), 9 R. PART VIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3.—G. (a) i.

q. Allowance pending dissolution of marriage by Act of Parliament—No consideration.]—A husband, pending an Act of Parliament for dissolving a marriage on the ground of adultery, granted a bond, in the English form, for an allowance to his wife in case of the Act passing. Thereafter the Act passed, & the husband died, & his estates after his death were sequestrated. On the opinion of English counsel that the bond claimed on was granted without onerous consideration & that by the law of England a creditor, under such a bond, could not compete with onerous creditors claiming in England in a case of bkpcy. :—Held : as a claimant under the bond could not claim more in the country in which he sought to enforce his right than he would be entitled to in loco contractus, he was not entitled to compete with onerous creditors in Scotland.—WILLIAMSON v. TAYLOR (1845), 18 Sc. Jur. 99.—SCOT.

2770 i. Annuity covenanted under deed of separation.]—Weekly payments payable in the future by a husband to his wife for her maintenance, under a separation deed, are provable in bkpcy., under Bkpcy. Act, 1892, s. 98 (3). The value of such a debt or liability may be estimated under s. 109.—Re BECK, Ex p. BECK (1904), 24 N. Z. L. R. 491.—N.Z.

2773. Whether annuity capable of valuation—Annuity dependent on conditions.]—A. & B. having a lease of certain salt works for twenty-one years, entered into articles of agreement with bkpt., by which the latter undertook the manufacture of the salt, & it was provided that the contract should subsist for the term granted by the lease, wanting three months, but that if there should be a failure of brine in the pits for ten days successively, bkpt. was to be exonerated from his liability to manufacture the salt to an extent proportioned to the extent of the failure of brine. Bkpt. afterwards granted an annuity to petitioner, charging it on the sums payable to bkpt. from A. & B. for the manufacture of the salt:—Held: (1) notwithstanding the possibility of the discontinuance of the salt contract, & of the forfeiture of the lease by non-payment of rent, or non-performance of covenants, the annuity was capable of valuation; (2) it should be ordered that petitioner might prove for the value of the annuity, abandoning all claim of lien as against the assignees, but without prejudice to any claim against other parties.—Re BORRON, Ex p. PARRATT (1836), 2 Mont. & A. 626; 1 Deac. 696, Ct. of R.

2776. —— Annuity payable during joint lives of husband & wife—Terminable if cohabitation resumed.]—By deed of separation between deft. & his wife, deft. covenanted with pltf. that he would every year during the joint lives of himself & his wife pay to pltf., as a trustee for her, to her separate use, such sum as together with the dividends & interest or other income to arise from £948 6*s.* 4*d.* Bank 3 per cent. annuities, or from other funds settled, or which might be settled to her separate use & which might be received by her, would make one clear annuity or yearly sum of £200, such annuity to commence from Jan. 11, 1854, & to be paid by four even & equal quarterly payments, provided that, if deft. & his wife should at any time thereafter cohabit as man & wife, then & from thenceforth the annuity should cease. On Sept. 29, 1854, & while deft. & his wife continued to live separate, deft. became bkpt:—Held: the annual sum, so covenanted to be paid by deft. for the separate use of his wife, was not an "annuity" within 1849 Act, s. 175, nor a "debt payable upon a contingency" within s. 177, or a "liability to pay money upon a contingency" within s. 177, or a "liability to pay money upon a contingency" within s. 178; & the certificate was no bar to an action for the recovery of a quarterly instalment which became due after the bkpcy.—PARKER v. INCE (1859), 4 H. & N. 53; 28 L. 2777. —— —— —— "Wife" being sister of deceased wife.]—A man went through the ceremony of marriage with a sister of his deceased wife, & lived with her as his wife. They afterwards separated, & a separation deed in the ordinary form was executed, in which she was described as his wife, & he covenanted with the trustees of the deed to pay her an annuity for their joint lives. There was a proviso that, if the parties should live together again by mutual consent, the deed should become void. The annuity was paid for twelve years, & then the man became bkpt.:—Held: (1) the value of the future payments of the annuity was capable of estimation, & was provable in the bkpcy.; (2) as the parties never could legally live together as husband & wife, the proviso, making the deed void in the event of their doing so, must be disregarded.—Re WOOD, Ex p. NADEN (1874), 9 Ch. Previous to the assignment the insolvent had covenanted with pltfs. to pay to J. R. $100 per quarter on the first day of each quarter during her natural life:—Held: the growing payments were in the nature of contingent debts; & pltfs. were not entitled under the above Act to rank for the present value of such payments.—CARSWELL v. LANGLEY (1902), 22 C. 2778. —— —— —— Or on wife ceasing to live chaste life.]—By a separation deed between a husband & wife the husband covenanted with trustees to pay to them an annuity of £350, during the joint lives of himself & his wife, for her benefit. The annuity was made determinable in case the wife should not lead a chaste life, in case the husband & wife should resume cohabitation, & in case the marriage should be dissolved in respect of anything done, committed, or suffered by the other party after the date of the deed. The annuity was to be proportionally diminished in the event of the wife becoming entitled to any income independent of the husband exceeding £350 a year:—Held: the value of the annuity was capable of being fairly estimated, & was provable. —Re BATEY, Ex p. NEAL (1880), 14 Ch. 2779. —— Annuity terminable on grantee failing or being unable to perform certain stipulations.]—A yearly sum, payable quarterly to B. during his life, "if he shall so long continue to perform, observe, & abide by the stipulation" contained in the deed, but to cease & be no longer payable "if B. should refuse, neglect, fail, or become incapable to perform, observe, or abide by all or any of the stipulations aforesaid," is not provable under 1849 Act, s. 175, as an annuity capable of valuation, as against the estate of the grantors, under an assignment executed by them for the benefit of creditors under 1861 Act, s. 192. Neither is it provable under s. 154 of that Act, as a liability under a contract or promise to pay money.—Re BEARDSALL & JACKSON, Ex p. BRETT (1867), 15 L. T. 679; 15 W. R. 715.

2780. —— —— To assist grantor & not compete with him in business.]—An annual payment was reserved to pltf. by a deed, by which it was provided that the payment should cease if pltf. should refuse, neglect, or fail or become incapable to perform, observe, or abide by any of the stipulations therein contained. Amongst them were stipulations that pltf. should use his best endeavours to preserve & extend the business of the grantors, & would not by any act, neglect, omission, or default injure the same, or impede the success thereof, that he should perform such services & discharge such duties as the grantors should reasonably require, that he would not, whilst the grantors should continue to carry on the business in question, be engaged or concerned in a similar business within twenty miles of St. Paul's, & that any difference between the parties should be referred to arbn.:—Held: this was not an annuity provable under 1849 Act, s. 175, the conditions for its defeasance being so uncertain as to render it incapable of valuation, & it was not barred by a deed executed by the grantors for the benefit of creditors under 1861 Act, s. 192.—BRETT v. JACKSON (1869), L. 2782. —— Annuity terminable on remarriage of grantee.]—A testator bequeathed his business to his two sons, subject to an annuity to be paid to his wife during her widowhood, & directed that the annuity should be further secured by the joint & several bonds of the sons. The sons filed a liquidation petition:—Held: the deduction to be made from the value of the life annuity for the contingency of marrying again was capable of being fairly estimated, & proof should be admitted for the value of the life annuity less such deduction, which value the ct. directed to be ascertained by an actuary.—Re BLAKEMORE, Ex p. BLAKEMORE (1877), 5 Ch. 2784. Where there is bond & covenant—General rules governing proof.]—Bkpt., by a marriage settlement, agreed as speedily as might be to settle £40 a year upon his wife, to be paid from his decease, a sum of money to be invested in stock for the purpose of raising that annual sum, the dividends for the husband for life, the capital for the issue, etc. Under the husband's bkpcy.:—Held: (1) this was in substance & effect a covenant by the husband to pay on his marriage a sum of money that would produce £40 a year, & if so the moment the marriage took place, & the time elapsed, in which that gross sum could be paid, it was a payment, secured by a covenant to produce a sum to give an annual fruit, but the moment the time was over, it stood upon the same principle as the arrears of an annuity, become due before the bkpcy; (2) a proof should be allowed by the wife & children for £800.

If there is a bond to secure an annuity, & also a covenant, though the bond is forfeited before the bkpcy., & the certificate is a bar as to that, it does not bar the action for breaches of covenant subsequent to the bkpcy. But the arrears of the annuity, actually become due, might be proved. Where there is a bond & a covenant for payment of an annuity, if there is a breach, the penalty is forfeited. The annuitant deals with it, as he may according to law; for it will stand in effect as a security for the payment, by which you may compel the payment of what is due, & to become due. He may prove under the bond, & the certificate will be a bar to the debt upon the bond by breach of the condition, but if he chooses to rest upon the covenant, what is due at the bkpcy. is a debt, &

2798. —— Price paid & time of enjoyment—State of annuitant's health.]—A., aged thirty-two, & of infirm health, gave £8,000 for an annuity of £800. At thirty-four he became convalescent. Under the bkpcy. of the grantor, the comrs. valued the annuity, upon the principle that it having been worth £8,000 at thirty-two, it should be considered as worth ratably less at thirty-four. The grantee contended that it ought to be valued independently of that circumstance, as an annuity for the life of a healthy man of thirty-four:—Held: although in ascertaining the value of an annuity, regard ought to be had to the price paid, & to the time of enjoyment, as evidence of value, yet as, in the present case, the probability was that the purchase might have turned out to the disadvantage of the grantee, he ought to be allowed the benefit of its having operated in his favour.—Re TEMPLE, Ex p. THISTLEWOOD (1812), 1 Rose, 290, L. 2801. —— —— State of money market.]—B., in consideration of £2,000, granted an annuity to W. in Aug. 1822. A commission issued against B. in Oct., 1823, at which date there was due for arrears of annuity £172 10*s*. W. petitioned for an order for the sale of bkpt.'s interest in the premises, on which the annuity was secured, & for payment to him of the arrears out of the proceeds, & of the balance in discharge of the sum of £3,909 15*s*., the then value of the annuity, according to the state of the money market:—Held: the value provable was the original price, with a deduction for the time since elapsed.—Re BURRASTON, Ex p. WEBB (1825), 2 Gl. & J. 29.

2802. —— Where consideration is life estate & annuity not secured at bankruptcy.]—It was agreed between a mother & a son that she should join in conveying her life interest in an estate to a purchaser, the son undertaking, in consideration thereof, to secure to her an annuity. After the execution of the conveyance, & before the annuity was secured, the son became bkpt.:—Held: the mother was not entitled to prove for the value of her life estate, but only for the value of the annuity & the arrears at the date of the bkpcy.—Re BROCKLISS, Ex p. BROCKLISS (1819), Buck, 406.

2803. —— Where consideration is property—Whether price paid for property conclusive.]—Where the consideration for an annuity is not money, but property, the price paid by the grantee for that property is not the criterion of value, provided such value be altered by accidental circumstances, whether general or local, or by improvement of the property.—Re BRADLEY, Ex p. FISHER (1826), 2 Gl. & J. 102.

2805. —— —— Nature of business.] — The goodwill of a business was sold in consideration of an annuity, which was not expressed to be payable out of the profits of the business. The purchaser became bkpt.:—Held: its valuation ought not to be based on arithmetical calculation, but the precarious nature of the business out of which it was to be paid, should be taken into consideration.—Re GIEVE, Ex p. SHAW (1899), 80 L. 2806. —— Death of annuitant—After receipt of dividend—Instalments accrued to death less than dividend.]—A bkpt. had covenanted to pay a life annuity to trustees for the benefit of his wife. The annuity was valued, & proof was made by the trustees for the amount thus ascertained, & a dividend was paid to them. The wife died, & the dividend which the trustees had received exceeded the amount of the payments of the annuity which bkpt. would have had to make if he had remained solvent:—Held: the trustees could not be called upon to refund the excess of the dividend above the payments of the annuity which accrued due during the wife's life.—Re PANNELL, Ex p. BATES (1879), 11 Ch. 2807. —— —— After proof lodged but before proof admitted or rejected.]—A creditor's proof of debt alleged that debtor was indebted to her in the sum of £7,000, the value of an annuity of £1,440 payable to her by debtor during the residue of her natural life, & further stated the creditor's age, & that the annuity was valued accordingly. The trustee did not within twenty-eight days admit, nor reject, nor require further evidence of the proof. Four months later, & before any dividend had been declared or anything further done, the creditor died. The trustee then called upon her exors. to withdraw the original proof & make an amended proof limited to the amount of the payments of the annuity due to the date of the creditor's death, & on their refusal rejected the proof, on the ground that the annuity had been determined by the creditor's death:—Held: (1) although the trustee must be taken to have admitted the existence & the amount of the annuity, the omission to deal with the proof in accordance with 1883 Act, Sched. 2 r. 22, & 1886 Rules, r. 228, was not equivalent to an acceptance of the estimate, which by 1883 Act, s. 37, was to be made by the trustee & not by the creditor, & it was open to the trustee to place an estimate on the value of the annuity after the creditor's death; (2) the true value of the annuity was the amount of the payments due & unpaid at the time of the creditor's death.—Re DODDS, Ex p. PRITCHARD (1890), 59 L. 2821. ——.]—The declaration was upon an indenture made Aug. 16, 1861, between A., since deceased, & deft. of the one part, & pltf. of the other part, whereby A. & deft. covenanted to pay the premiums upon a policy of insurance upon the life of A., which had been deposited with pltf., until the payment of a certain bond therein mentioned. Pltf. alleged that, although the bond had not been paid, both A. & deft. had neglected to pay any of the premiums upon the policy of assurance, from the date of the indenture. Deft. pleaded a deed, dated June 21, 1869, under 1868 Act, between himself, two inspectors, & the creditors, who would be entitled to prove under an adjudication of bkpcy. against deft., founded on a petition filed upon the day of the date of the presents, upon an act of bkpcy, committed upon the day of the date thereof. The plea merely stated that it was agreed by the deed that the provisions therein contained should operate & have the same force & effect as an order of discharge under Bkpcy. 1861 Act, & might be so pleaded in bar of every action commenced by any creditor of deft., & with the same effect as an order of discharge under 1861 Act, in case deft. had been adjudicated bkpt. The plea then averred the performance of all conditions precedent, & that at the time of the execution of the deed pltf. was a creditor of deft. in respect of the claim therein pleaded to within 1861 Act:—Held: the plea was no answer to the action.—SOLOMON v. ISAACS (1872), 27 L. Plea to the new assignment, on equitable grounds, that pltf. proved part of the debt under the bkpcy., & elected to take the benefit of the petition in respect of the debt. Demurrer & issue. On the trial it appeared that pltf. proved the balance of the debt, & expressly reserved the sum secured by the policy:—Held: (1) the election to take the benefit of the petition for the whole debt was not an inference of law from proof of part; (2) the averment in the plea must be understood as of an election in fact, & the plea was good, but not proved; (3) deft. should have judgment on the demurrer, & pltf. should have the verdict.—ELDER v. BEAUMONT (1857), 8 E. & B. 353; 27 L. In 1871 the husband filed a liquidation petition, after which the trustees paid the premiums out of the wife's life estate. The husband's covenant was valued at £2,052 8*s.* & a claim for that amount was admitted as a proof. A dividend of 10*s.* was declared, but before the amount reached the hands of the trustees the husband died. At that time the sums which had been disbursed by the trustees amounted to £766 5*s.*:—Held: the trustees were not entitled to receive the whole dividend which had been declared, but only the amount of their payments for premiums with such interest as the dividend had been actually making.—Re MILLER, Ex p. WARDLEY (1877), 6 Ch. The deed contained no actual assignment of debtors' estate, but contained provisions for converting their estate into money, & applying it in payment of the debts due to the creditors, & also contained provisions for a release being given to them in certain events. The deed was duly registered in bkpcy.:—Held: the Ct. of Ch. ought not to make an order in the winding up upon debtors for payment of calls, though the calls were made since the deed was executed, but the calls were debts provable under the deed of inspectorship.—Re BANK OF HINDUSTAN, CHINA & JAPAN, MITCHELL'S CASE (1870), 5 Ch. 2846. ——— ———.]—A., a member of a mutual marine insurance assocn. limited by guarantee, was liable to contribute, in the winding up, the amount he had guaranteed, & certain additional sums in respect of contracts he had entered into under the rules & regulations of the co. A. became bkpt., &, while the bkpcy. proceedings were still open, the co. went into voluntary liquidation. Neither the co. nor the liquidator took any steps to prove in the bkpcy. for A.'s liability in respect of future contributions:—Held: the liability in respect of calls of a liquidating member of a co., where the liquidation began before the winding up of the co., & were pending at the time of the winding up, was a debt or liability capable of being fairly estimated, & provable, & where there had been no proof for such calls, & the liquidating member obtained his discharge, he could not be placed on the list of contributories.—Re MERCANTILE MUTUAL MARINE INSURANCE ASSOCN. 2847. ——— 1883 Act.]—On appeal from the rejection of a proof of debt carried in by the liquidator of a mutual insurance co. for the sum of £85, the amount due from bkpts. as contributors in respect of calls, & also for the estimated sum of £100 for further calls which had accrued before the date of the receiving order but had not been then ascertained, the county ct. judge allowed the proof as to the £85 & directed the proof as to the £100 to stand over. On July 30, 1886, proof for the ascertained sum of £74 in substitution for the £100 was tendered & was rejected by the trustee, on the grounds (1) the claim was made too late by reason of the fact that on July 9, 1886, notice to declare a dividend had been inserted in the Gazette, by which July 28 was specified as the last day for claims to be sent in, & (2) the alleged claim had already been adjudicated upon by the ct.:—Held: the notice in question did not prevent the creditor from making the claim, & the proof in respect of the further calls was not res judicata & must be allowed.—Re SHEPHERD & LEECH, Ex p. WHITEHAVEN MUTUAL INSURANCE SOCIETY (1887), 4 Morr. 130.

2848. ——— ———.]—An intestate, whose estate proved to be insolvent, was entitled at the time of his death to a number of £5 shares in a co., on which 30*s.* had been paid up & three calls of 5*s.* each had since become due & payable. The co. set up a proof in an administration action for the unpaid calls & also for the estimated future liability:—Held: having regard to Jud. Act, 1875 (c. 77), s. 10, & to 1883 Act, s. 37 (3), (4), (6), (8), it was the intention of the Legislature that a bkpt. should be enabled to get a release from such debts, & the claim ought to be admitted, & no distinction drawn between the three unpaid calls & those which might be made.—Re MCMAHON, FULLER v. MCMAHON, [1900] 1 Ch. 173; 69 L. 2852. General rule.]—There is a general rule in bkpcy., whether a right & a reasonable rule or not, that there is to be no proof in bkpcy. for interest subsequent to the bkpcy. (JAMES, L.J.).—Re SAVIN (1872), 7 Ch. App. 760; 42 L. J. Bcy. 14; 27 L. T. 466; 20 W. R. 1027, L. JJ.

2853. History of law as to proof of interest—Contract for future payment with interest in meantime.]—The effect of 1883 Act, s. 37, is that when a debt is by contract payable at a future date, with interest in the meantime, & debtor becomes bkpt. before the time of payment has arrived, the creditor may prove for interest accruing after the date of the receiving order. In such a case the proper course is to prove for the principal sum as a present debt; then under r. 21 to deduct a rebate of interest at 5 per cent. from the dividends upon it, & then to value the liability to pay interest & prove for that value, the dividend on which is to be paid without any rebate. When the rate of interest contracted for is 5 per cent. the proper course is simply to prove for the principal sum as a present debt, without any rebate. History of the law as to proof for interest in bkpcy. considered.—Re BROWNE & WINGROVE, Ex p. ADOR, [1891] 2 Q. B. 574; 61 L. J. Q. B. 15; 65 L. T. 485; 40 W. R. 71; 7 T. L. 2857. —— Stated account.]—No interest on the balance of a stated account is provable under a commission, unless by express contract.—Ex p. FURNEAUX (1790), 2 Cox, Eq. Cas. 219; 30 E. R. 101, L. C.

a. On calls made prior to petition.]—Interest upon calls upon shares in a joint stock co. previously made ceases on the filing of the petition.—Re J. H. (1869), 3 I. R. Eq. 245.—IR.

2863 i. Where there is a surplus—Debts carrying interest.]—Where a surplus remains, interest must be allowed on all debts proved, which, by express contract or by stat., bear interest, or where a contract to pay it is implied, but on no other debts.—Re LANGSTAFF (1851), 2 Gr. 165.—CAN.

2863 ii. —— Insolvency—Interest after filing of petition—Bankruptcy & Insolvency Act, 1857, s. 304.]—The old rule in insolvency cases, of not allowing interest on debts after the filing of a petition in insolvency, is now set aside by the above sect.; &, where there is a surplus, interest will be allowed in insolvency as well as in bkpcy.—Re SLEATOR (1869), 3 I. R. Eq. 240.—IR.

b. Whether rule applies to assignments for creditors.]—The rule in bkpcy. that interest should not be allowed after the date of the commission does not apply in the case of voluntary assignments for the benefit of creditors.—STEWART v. GAGE (1887), 13 O. R. 458.—CAN.

2873. —— Promissory note for principal & interest—Appropriation of payments.]—A creditor had advanced £600 to bkpt. upon two promissory notes for £400, & £600, at 3 & 6 months respectively. The first had been paid before the date of the receiving order. The payment had not been appropriated by bkpt. either to interest or principal :—Held : the amount of the two notes must be considered as a lumped sum of principal & interest, & the £400 note represented four-tenths interest, & six-tenths principal, leaving due for principal £360, for which sum proof should be admitted, with interest at 5 per cent. from the date the £600 note became due to the date of the receiving order. —Re HOLLAND, Ex p. PARKER v. YOUNG (1894), 71 L. 2876. Agency—Proof for money paid to agent—Placed to credit of principal's account.]—H. purchased an annuity from M. through the agency of bkpts., to whom M. was indebted. The consideration money was received by bkpts. as agents for M., & placed by them to M.'s account:—Held: H. could not prove for the consideration money, as money had & received for his use, unless the grant of the annuity was a mere colourable transaction contrived to obtain H.'s money in payment of the debt due by M. to bkpts.—Re HOWARD & GIBBS, Ex p. SHAW (1826), 2 Gl. & J. 106.

2877. —— Proof for differences—Bankrupt stock-broker.]—Share-brokers, by direction of a customer, purchased shares in a projected railway co., the consideration for which purchase, it was agreed, should be paid on the delivery of the scrip. After the purchase, the brokers, by the direction of the customer, sold the same shares at a higher price, to be paid on the delivery of the scrip. The share-brokers then became bkpt. The co. was amalgamated with another co., & the scrip in the amalgamated co. was delivered. The customer was not allowed to prove against the estate of bkpts. for the difference of the bought & sold prices.—Re ROBINSON, Ex p. NORTON (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 374; 11 Jur. 699, Ct. of R.

2878. —— Proof for secret profit.]—Under a secret agreement between the vendors of a mine & G., who was promoting & afterwards formed a co. for its purchase, G. received from the vendors part of the purchase-money without the knowledge of the co. In an action by the co. to make G. liable for the amount of the secret profit he had so made, a specific sum was found due from him to the co. upon that footing. G. then presented a petition for liquidation, & his creditors passed a resolution for liquidation of his affairs by arrangement, & a trustee was appointed of his estate, & he obtained his certificate of discharge:—Held: the co. were at liberty to prove against G.'s estate as creditors for the sum found due from him in the action, it not being a "demand in the nature of unliquidated damages arising otherwise than by reason of a contract," & the debt so due was incurred by "fraud" & was also a "breach of trust," & G. was not released from such debt by his discharge, & must pay the debt to the co., or so much thereof as should not be received by the co. under the liquidation.—EMMA SILVER MINING CO. v. GRANT (1880), 17 Ch. 2880. —— Proof for loss of profit on stock-broker's account—Bankrupt stockbroker.]—A broker on the Stock Exchange was officially declared a defaulter. The same day the official assignee, under the Rules of the Stock Exchange, closed all accounts of the broker then open, & received & paid all amounts owing by or to him on the Stock Exchange, &, after payment of all the Stock Exchange liabilities of the broker, there remained a surplus in the hands of the official assignee. Shortly afterwards the broker was adjudicated bkpt., with large outside liabilities. Part of the surplus above mentioned comprised a sum of money which represented differences, being profits, due on contracts made with jobbers on the Stock Exchange by the broker as agent for an outside customer, who was running a speculative account on the Stock Exchange through him, & which the broker, had he been solvent, would have received for such customer on the day he became a defaulter. Both the customer & the trustee in bkpcy. of the broker having claimed the sum of money, the official assignee paid it into ct. under an inter-pleader summons:—Held: the remedy of the customer was to prove in the bkpcy. for the amount.—KING v. HUTTON, [1900] 2 Q. She afterwards became bkpt. & obtained her discharge. After her discharge she revoked her will, & made another appointing the sum of money to another person :—Held : as the contingent liability under the covenant was incapable of proof under 1849 Act, the covenant was not released by the bkpcy., & an action would lie for damages for a breach of the covenant committed after the bkpcy.—ROBINSON v. OMMANNEY (1883), 23 Ch. Covenant to assign after acquired property—Whether absolute assignment or contract to assign.]—A debtor by bill of sale assigned for value to a creditor certain specified chattels at his place of business, "& all other chattels which might be or at any time thereafter be brought thereon in addition to or in substitution thereof." Debtor became bkpt., & after his order of discharge brought other chattels upon the premises. The creditor did not prove for his debt in the bkpcy. : —Held : the assignment of the after-acquired chattels, although absolute in form, amounted merely to a contract to assign, for the breach of which the assignor incurred a liability provable in his bkpcy., & from which he was released by the order of discharge, & the goods brought on the premises after the order of discharge could not be seized by the creditor under his bill of sale. —COLLYER v. ISAACS (1881), 19 Ch. 2902. —— ——.]—In 1905, L. mortgaged to the N. Society, his then expectant share in the estate of his mother as security for an advance. In 1908 he mortgaged to A. his expectant share, subject to the mtge. of 1905 as security for an advance. In 1908 L. was adjudicated a bkpt., & in 1910 he obtained his discharge, neither the N. Society nor A. having proved in the bkpcy. In 1911, L., by deed as beneficial owner, assigned to pltfs. his expectant share. In Feb., 1914, L.'s mother died intestate, & his share thereupon came into existence :—Held : the mtges. of 1905 & 1908 were not mere contracts to assign the then expectant share of L., but were actual assignments of that share directly it came into existence on the death of L.'s mother, & the rights of the N. Society & of A. were not discharged by their having failed to prove in the bkpcy. of L., & the N. 2903. Continuing contracts generally—Trustee not disclaiming but abandoning.]—If the trustee of a bkpt., when called upon to decide whether he will disclaim a continuing contract of bkpt., does not disclaim it, but carries it on for the benefit of the estate, he is still at liberty, when he finds it unprofitable, to cease to perform it, & in that case the other party to the contract is entitled, under 1869 Act, s. 31, to prove against bkpt.'s estate for the damages occasioned by the breach of the contract, & this is his only remedy.—Re SNEEZUM, Ex p. DAVIS (1876), 3 Ch. 2906. —— Alteration of intention to forgive debt.]—A father lent his son £1,000 to set him up in business, for which he took his promissory note. Two years afterwards, he said, in a letter to his son, "I may venture to inform you that the promissory note will descend to you, without any deductions," but four years after that, the father took a bond from his son for the amount, & died. The son became bkpt. :—Held : the taking of the bond showed an alteration of the father's intention to forgive the debt at his death, & his exor. might prove the amount of the bond, under the fiat against the son.—Re MARKLAND, Ex p. RIDLER (1837), 2 Deac. 225, Ct. of R.

2908. —— To bankrupt's wife.]—A husband, a sea captain, handed over his income amounting to more than £1,000 to his wife for the support of herself & the household, of which she was the responsible manager. The wife got into difficulties & borrowed from her sister various sums amounting in all to £1,327, for which a proof was tendered in the subsequent bkpcy. of the husband, on the ground that the wife had authority to pledge his credit :—Held : although in certain cases it might be that an authority to a wife to pledge her husband's credit would be presumed, even though that which the wife did was to borrow money, viz., where a wife borrowed money to pay for absolute necessaries, yet in the present case that had not been done, & as there was no authority either in law or in fact to the wife to incur the debt, the proof against the husband's estate could not be admitted.—Re COOK, Ex p. VERNALL (1892), 10 Morr. 8, D. 2909. Loan of money from proceeds of stock—To be repaid by instalments on given days.]—A., B. & C. being in partnership as bankers, A. advanced money to the bank by sales of stock, & took bonds for £15,000 from B. & C. separately, conditioned for replacing £9,000 stock each. The stock was not replaced, & A. brought actions on the bonds & recovered judgments. A. withdrew from the bank, being then a creditor for £20,000 stock, which B. & C., by the deed of dissolution, agreed to replace by four instalments, covenanting that if they made default therein, A. might proceed on the judgments, & that he should have a lien on certain securities, both for that debt, & as an indemnity against the partnership debts, which they agreed to pay. B. & C. replaced the first instalment when due, but made default in the second. A written agreement, not under seal, was then made, that the debt should be treated as a loan of money from the first, & that the proceeds of the £15,000 stock then due, being £10,083, should be the debt, & should be repaid at a subsequent time, with legal interest. When that agreement was made, the £15,000 stock was worth only £8,437. Before any part of the £10,083 was paid, B. & C. became bkpts., & at the date of the commission, two out of the three remaining days, named in the deed of dissolution for replacing the stock, were past :—Held : A. might prove under the commission against B. & C. for the £15,000 stock, the value of the two instalments, due before the bkpcy., to be estimated by the price of stocks on the days when they became due, & the value of the third by the price of stocks on the day of the date of the commission, with a rebate for the interval between that day & the day when that instalment would have become due.—PARKER v. RAMSBOTTOM (1824), 3 B. & C. 257 ; 5 Dow. & Ry. 2918. Money paid in error.]—In 1806, P. proved a debt against the estate of B. & Co., bkpts., on a bill of exchange, & died in 1807 appointing G. his exor. G. became bkpt. in 1816 & obtained his certificate in 1817. In 1811, 1814, 1815, G. had, as exor., received three dividends on P.'s debt, & in 1817, 1822, & 1828, he received three other dividends. It afterwards turned out that the bill of exchange was paid by another party in 1807, so that no dividend was ever due. On petition by B. & Co.'s assignees to expunge the proof & for G. to refund the six dividends:—Held: as the first three dividends were paid in error & were a legal debt against G. & might have been proved under his bkpcy., the claim as to them was barred by G.'s certificate, but the other three received since his bkpcy. should be refunded.—Re BAILLIE, Ex p. BOLTON (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 556; 1 Mont. & A. 60; 3 L. 2923. Underwriting shares—Proof of loss—Amount of loss.]—By a contract made in Feb., 1898, H. agreed to sell to a co. certain properties, & by the same contract H. agreed to subscribe & pay for in cash so much of the share capital of the co. as should not be taken up by the public. In the events which happened H. became bound under a contract to take up & pay for certain preference shares & twenty-five thousand ordinary shares of £1 each in the co. In June, 1898, H. became bkpt., & in the July following his trustee in bkpcy. disclaimed the contract. Soon afterwards the co. went into liquidation, & the liquidator lodged a proof against H.'s estate for damages for breach of the contract. H.'s estate was estimated to realise not more than 4*s.* in the pound. The liabilities of the co. were about £16,000, whilst its assets comprised, practically about £4,000 at a bank & the claim against H.'s estate. The liquidator made a call of £1 per share on the ordinary shares of the co., & claimed that the proof against H.'s estate should stand at £25,000, on the ground that the measure of damages

2924. —— —— Deceased debtor—Whether contract personal.]—By an agreement dated Nov. 30, 1912, W. agreed with a French co. (inter alia) to form an English co. with a capital of £105,000 divided into one hundred thousand ordinary shares of £1 & one hundred thousand participation shares of 1s. each, & to place the ordinary share capital in three blocks of shares by certain short dates. On Dec. 10, 1912, the English co. was registered with the stipulated capital. W. placed the first block of shares & died in Feb. without placing any further shares. A claim by the French co. to prove against his estate, which was being administered in bkpcy., for damages for breach of the agreement of Nov. 30, 1912, was objected to by the trustee, on the ground that that agreement was a contract personal to W. which determined at his death:—Held: the agreement was not a contract personal to W., but was enforceable against his exors., for the breach of which damages would lie.—Re WORTHINGTON, Ex p. PATHÉ FRÈRES, [1914] 2 K. SUB-SECT. 4.—CLAIMS ARISING OUT OF BREACH OF TRUST.

2925. In respect of what breaches—Breach committed but undiscovered at previous bankruptcy.]—A trustee, who was directed to convert the whole of testatrix's property into money, & place same out at interest upon mtge. for the benefit of the cestuis que trust, employed the money in his business, paying interest to the parties entitled to it, & afterwards became bkpt. & obtained his certificate, without any proof having been made under his commission for the amount of the trust-money, either by himself, or the cestuis que trust, who were entirely ignorant of his misapplication of the trust-money, & he continued to pay the interest to them after his bkpcy., the same as before. He became bkpt. a second time, when the cestuis que trust discovered that he had not invested the money pursuant to the trusts of the will:—Held: his certificate under the first commission was a bar to any proof for the amount under the subsequent fiat.—Re MAKIN, Ex p. HOLT (1835), 1 Deac. 248; 5 L. 2927. —— Bankrupt entitled to sum for his trouble.]—H. assigned to R. £600 in trust to invest, to pay the interest or dividends thereof to H. for life, & after her death, in trust that R. should pay all interest or dividend, except of the principal sum of £100, part of the £600, which it was declared R. might deduct & retain for his care & pains during one year next after the death of H., for the benefit of the children which H. might leave, & if H. should die without issue, then in trust, as to the remaining stock & the dividends or interest due thereon, unto A. & N., the sisters of H., or their children in case of the death of either of them, in equal proportions, & H. thereby agreed that R. should retain out of the trust money all costs & charges in respect of his trust, & the clear yearly sum of £20 for his care & trouble, & also the sum of £100 for one year's allowance for such care & trouble which he should have from the death of H., & then the annual sum of £20 from the end of such year until the trusts should be completed. R. applied the £600 to his own use, paying the interest to H. during his life. H. died in July 1819, & in Jan., 1822, R. became bkpt. Upon a petition by the parties entitled upon the death of H.:—Held: the proof should be only for the £500.—Re SMITH, Ex p. KETTLEWELL (1823), 1 Gl. & J. 321.

2928. —— Interest added.]—The master found that two exors. had, by signing joint cheques, enabled each other to receive sums belonging to the estate of their testatrix, when they were both largely indebted to that estate, & that the sums so received by them were debts provable under their respective commissions, both exors. having become bkpt.:—Held: interest at 5 per cent., as the consequence of the devastavit, should be added to the principal sums found to be provable against the bkpt. estates of the exors.—BICK v. MOTLY (1835), 2 My. & K. 312; 39 E. 2929. —— Trust fund consisting of two separate debts—Trustees in possession as tenants in common.]—By an antenuptial settlement, the intended wife assigned a debt due to her from A., & another debt due to her from B., to A. & B., upon trust to invest same, & stand possessed thereof upon the trusts of the settlement. Neither of the debts was invested, but A. & B. continued to pay interest on their respective debts to the cestuis que trust. B. became bkpt:—Held: proof could only be made by the cestuis que trust for the amount of the debt due from B.—Re TURNER, Ex p. WOODWARD (1837), 2 Deac. 401; 3 Mont. & A. 232; 6 L. 2931. —— Breach of trust resulting in large profits.]—The father of infants received a legacy bequeathed to them & by investing it in unauthorised securities made large profits, but subsequently became bkpt:—Held: the legatees were entitled to have proof made in respect of such profits.—Re MONTEFIORE, Ex p. MONTEFIORE (1845), De G. 171; 5 L. T. O. S. 222; 9 Jur. 562, Ct. of R.

2932. —— Loss caused by ultra vires investment—Proof against one of several trustees.]—By a will & seven codicils three exors. were made residuary legatees subject to a life interest, & although no valid trust had been created, they had always treated themselves as not being beneficially interested. By an eighth codicil the residuary gift was converted into a trust for certain other persons, subject to the life estate. The eighth codicil was not proved or discovered for many years after the testatrix's death. In the meanwhile, & during the lifetime of the tenant for life, the exors. invested part of the funds upon a security, which would be an improper one for investment by trustees, & which afterwards proved deficient. The security was appropriated to the purposes of the trusts of the eighth codicil. It did not appear whether the tenant for life consented to the investment, but she received the interest during her life, & did not in fact suffer from the insufficiency of the security:—Held: a proof against the estate of one of the trustees who had become bkpt. by the persons claiming under the codicil for the deficiency was good.—Re BIDDULPH, Ex p. NORRIS (1869), 4 Ch. App. 280; 38 L. J. Bcy. 5; 19 L. T. 755; 17 W. R. 452, L. JJ.

2933. —— Improper investment adopted by cestui que trust—Proof for damage to trust estate.]—L., a trustee, advanced trust funds on a contributory mtge. which was an unauthorised investment. He afterwards became bkpt. The mtgor. commenced an action against L., & all others claiming through or under him, to set aside the mtge. on the ground of fraud. L.'s cestuis que trust compromised their claims in the action without the concurrence of L.'s trustee in bkpcy:—Held: as L.'s cestuis que trust had adopted the improper investment they could not prove in L.'s bkpcy. for the whole amount of the trust fund, but their remedy was a proof for the damages the trust estate had sustained by reason of the improper investment, & the measure of damages was the difference between the total sum invested & the assessed value of the compromise.—Re LAKE, Ex p. HOWE TRUSTEES, [1903] 1 K. 2934. —— Proof of whole amount against any one trustee—Until twenty shillings received.]—Where an action has been brought by pltfs. as beneficiaries under a settlement to enforce liability against trustees for a breach of trust, & a sum has been certified to be due from the insolvent estate of a deceased trustee, & from the other trustees, pltfs. will be entitled to prove against the insolvent estate for the full amount of the sum certified to be due. The liability of all the trustees being joint & several, until pltfs. have received 20*s.* in the pound they are entitled to claim the whole debt from any one trustee, notwithstanding that another trustee has made a payment by way of compromise in respect of his several liability.—EDWARDS v. HOOD-BARNES, [1905] 1 Ch. 20; 74 L. 2941 i. Judgment before bankruptcy—Debtor taken in execution—Judgment debt—Right to prove.]—S. sued D. for defamation & obtained judgment, whereon he sued out a ca. sa. & imprisoned D. Whilst D. was in prison S. obtained sequestration of D.'s estate, on a distinct debt & tried to prove his defamation judgment. The chief comr. ordered it to be entered as a claim, with leave to S. to prefer his proof again when D.'s year of imprisonment was out, which S. did:—Held: he was entitled to prove for his judgment.—Re DIBBS, SHEPHERD'S CLAIM (1881), 2 N. S. W. L. R. 10.—AUS.

2941 ii. —— —— —— ——.]—A judgment creditor who resides in England, although he has his debtor confined there in execution, will be allowed to prove in Ireland for the same debt in a cause, so as to be paid out of the produce of the sale of debtor's estate.—CAMPBELL v. HAY (1830), 4 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 65.—IR.

2941 iii. —— On bond given by principal debtors & surety jointly—Proof in bankruptcy of principal debtors.]—When two debtors execute a joint bond, with a third party as their surety, the creditor who enters up a joint judgment on the bond cannot, upon the original debtors becoming bkpt., prove upon their estate upon foot of the joint judgment, whilst their co-conusor remains solvent.—

2940. Interlocutory judgment before bankruptcy — Final judgment after.]— Interlocutory judgment having been obtained against bkpt. before his bkpcy. in an action of detinue, trover & case :—Held : pltf. was entitled to prove for the amount of damages & costs ascertained under a writ of inquiry in the action, although final judgment was not signed till after the bkpcy.—Re BAXTER, Ex p. MAURICE'S ASSIGNEES (1861), 3 L. 2941. Judgment before bankruptcy—Damages assessed after.]—Deft. entered into a charterparty with pltfs., by which he bound himself to supply a cargo of guano. An action was brought against him for an alleged breach, in not supplying the cargo in pursuance of his agreement, & he suffered judgment by default. Before the execution of a writ of inquiry, a fiat in bkpcy. issued against him, & he obtained his certificate, with a suspension for six months. The damages were afterwards assessed at £1644 3*s.* 9*d.*, & for that amount he was arrested :—Held : this was not a debt provable under the fiat, & deft. was not entitled to be discharged.—WOOLLEY v. SMITH (1846), 3 C. 2943. —— To be reduced to nothing in certain events—Execution stayed—Bankruptcy during stay.]—Pltf. in an action for the wrongful detention of a lease recovered judgment for £100, to be reduced to nothing if the lease was returned. Execution was stayed for a month, to give deft. time to search for the lease, which had been mislaid. Before the month had expired, deft. filed a petition. No execution was issued. The lease was found, & was tendered to pltf. who refused to accept it :—Held : the £100 was not a provable debt.—Re SCARTH, Ex p. SCARTH (1874), 10 Ch. App. 234 ; 44 L. J. Bcy. 29 ; 31 L. 2944. —— Not to be entered up until happening of contingency—Bankruptcy before contingency.]—If A. gives a warrant of attorney to B. to confess a judgment immediately, with a defeasance that judgment shall not be entered up until a subsequent day on a contingency, & A. becomes bkpt. before that day, though B. afterwards enters up judgment on the happening of the contingency, he cannot prove such debt under A.'s commission. —STAINES v. PLANCK (1799), 8 Term Rep. 386 ; 101 E. R. 1448.

See 1914 Act, s. 30 (3).

2945. Judgment after bankruptcy.]—When in support of a claim to prove a debt in a bkpcy. the only evidence of the debt is a judgment, & that judgment has been obtained after the act of bkpcy., the judgment debt cannot be proved.—Re TOLLEMACHE, Ex p. BONHAM (1885), 14 Q. 2946. —— Relation back to first day of term.]—A judgment signed on any day in term relates back to the first day of the term, so as to entitle pltf. to prove under a commission of bkpcy. issued against deft. during the term, &, Semble : it is immaterial whether the commission has issued before or after the day on which judgment was actually signed.—BOYER v. —— (1826), 5 L. J. O. S. K. B. 71.

2947. —— In action by accommodation acceptor against bankrupt drawer of bill—Proof by assignee of judgment.]—Acceptor without effects, for the accommodation of the drawer, being compelled on his bkpcy. to pay the bill, before 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, obtained judgment in an action for the amount, with interest & costs. The assignee of that judgment was admitted under the Act, which passed in the interval, to prove the original debt, not disturbing any dividends already made, the judgment being considered as a security for the original debt, which might be proved, & would be barred by the certificate.—Re LLOYD, Ex p. LLOYD (1810), 1 Rose, 4 ; 17 Ves. 245 ; 34 E. 2948. Award before bankruptcy—Judgment after.]—In an action to recover the balance upon an account current, a verdict for pltf. was taken by consent, subject to a reference to an arbitrator, who was empowered to direct that a verdict should be entered for pltf. or deft., & the costs were to abide the result of the award. After the award, which was in favour of pltf., & before judgment, deft. committed an act of bkpcy., of which notice was given to pltf. in the action, but judgment was nevertheless entered upon the award. On deft. being adjudicated a bkpt. :—Held : the amount for which judgment was entered up, with interest & costs, constituted a provable debt.—Re PICKERING, Ex p. HARDING (1854), 5 De G. 2941 v. —— In actions for breach of promise of marriage & for seduction.] —In 1866 judgment was recovered against deft. in this action for breach of promise of marriage, & in another for seduction. Deft. then made an assignment under Insolvent Act, 1864, having no assets, & his only creditors being pltfs. in the two actions. No creditors appeared, & after twelve months he petitioned for his discharge. The application was duly advertised, & no opposition being made, was granted. He subsequently acquired some property, & execution was then issued in this action :—Held : pltf.'s claim was one which was barred by the discharge.—FORRESTER v. THRASHER (1882), 9 P. 2955. General rules.]—If an action is brought against a person, who afterwards becomes bkpt., for the recovery of a sum of money, & the action is successful, the costs are regarded as an addition to the sum recovered & to be provable if that is provable, but not otherwise. If what is recovered is unliquidated damages "arising otherwise than by reason of a contract, promise, or breach of trust," that sum is not recoverable unless judgment, or at least a verdict for it, has been obtained before adjudication, or now the receiving order; & if the sum recovered is not provable, neither are the costs of recovering it. On the other hand, if what is recovered is provable, so are the costs of recovering it. If the action against a person who becomes bkpt. is unsuccessful, no costs become payable by him or out of his estate, & no question as to them can arise. But if an unsuccessful action is brought by a man who becomes bkpt., then, if he is ordered to pay the costs, or if a verdict is given against him before he becomes bkpt., they are provable. On the other hand, if no verdict is given against him & no order is made for payment of costs until after he becomes bkpt., they are not provable. In such a case there is no provable debt to which the costs are incident, & there is no liability to pay them by reason of any obligation incurred by the bkpt. before bkpcy.; nor are they a contingent liability to which he can be said to be subject at the date of his bkpcy. 2992. —— Judgment before composition agreement—Costs not taxed—Proof for estimated amount.]—A claim for costs is a provable debt under 1869 Act, s. 31, although the costs have not been taxed at the date of the adjudication.

Debtor, who made a composition with his creditors under s. 126, was liable to a creditor for payment of untaxed costs in an action at law, & debtor inserted them in his statement at an estimated amount. The costs were not taxed at the time appointed for payment of the composition, & debtor did not tender the composition to the creditor. The creditor then signed judgment & had the costs taxed, & levied execution against the 2993. —— Costs of first trial to abide result of new trial—Bankruptcy & annulment between trials.]—An order for a new trial provided that the costs of the first trial should abide the event of the new trial. Pltf. in the action subsequently became bkpt., but the bkpcy. was annulled before the new trial took place. The new trial resulted in favour of deft., & pltf. was ordered to pay the costs of the first trial, which had been taxed, & the costs of the second trial to be taxed. Deft. served on pltf. a bkpcy. notice in respect of the costs of the first trial. Pltf. impeached the validity of the bkpcy. notice on the ground that it related to a debt provable in the late bkpcy. :—Held : at the date of the annulled bkpcy. pltf. was not subject to a contingent liability to pay costs by reason of any obligation incurred before the date of the bkpcy., & the objection to the bkpcy. notice failed.—Re A DEBTOR (No. 68 of 1911), [1911] 2 K. See, also, Sect. 12, post.

Annotation:—Folld. Re Holland, Ex p. Dilworth (1842), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 63, Ct. of R.

See 1914 Act, s. 65.

3005. ——.]—Where a creditor, through inadvertence, omits to prove at the final dividend meeting, the ct. will allow him to call a fresh meeting for that purpose, at his own costs, & will rescind the former dividend, so, however, as not to disturb any payments made to the creditors who have already received it.—Re HOLLAND, Ex p. DILWORTH (1842), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 63; 7 Jur. 95, Ct. of R.

3007. Omission to prove through solicitor forgetting day.]—Where a creditor sent up the proper documents to prove his debt at a dividend meeting, & his solr. forgot the day, another meeting was appointed at his expense to enable him to prove his debt, the payment of the dividend being ordered to be stayed meantime, & to be calculated afresh, in case he substantiated his proof.—Re GRAHAM & TATE (1833), 2 Deac. & Ch. 554, Ct. of R.

3008. Omission to prove through being misled as to composition.]—Where a creditor delayed proving his debt, in consequence of having been misled by an intended composition of bkpt. with his creditors, the ct. allowed him to call a meeting to establish his proof, &, in the meantime, stayed the payment of a dividend.—Re MEYER, Ex p. HUNT (1837), 2 Deac. 213; 6 L. J. Bcy. 51, Ct. of R.

3009. Omission to prove until after payment of dividend.]—Where a creditor has omitted to prove his debt, until after a dividend has been declared & is in course of payment, the ct. will not permit him to prove, so as to interfere with the amount of the dividend payable on the proof of the other creditors.—Re M'CHEANE, Ex p. M'CHEANE (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 329, Ct. of R.

3010. Omission to prove through other business in court & subsequent insolvency.]—Where a creditor of the bkpcy. after attending to prove, & being prevented from doing so by the other business in ct., became insolvent, & the title of his assignee was not complete in time to enable the assignee to prove:—Held: he must pay the costs of his petition to stay the dividend, & of the requisite sitting to receive his proof, & retain them out of insolvent's estate.—Re OSBORNE, Ex p. HUGHES (1847), De G. 387.

3011. Omission to prove until after close of bankruptcy—Bankrupt becoming entitled to further property.]—After the close on Dec. 1, 1874, of a bkpcy., debtor, who had been made bkpt., became entitled, under the will of a testatrix who died in 1875, & under a decree dated Jan. 8, 1878, in a suit for the administration of her estate, to property amounting to about £20,000. During the three years which elapsed after the close of the bkpcy., debtor did not pay 10*s.* in the pound, & he had not obtained an order of discharge. On Feb. 26, 1878, a creditor, whose name & debt appeared in bkpt.'s statement of affairs, but who had not proved before the close of the bkpcy., sent in a proof for his debt to the registrar, who had become the trustee:—Held:—the proof was good, & the creditor, notwithstanding his debt was not proved before the close of the bkpcy., was entitled to apply for leave to enforce payment of his debt as a judgment debt against the property of debtor, under 1869 Act, s. 54 (2).—Re WESTBY, Ex p. LANCASTER BANKING CORPN. (1879), 10 Ch. D. 776; 48 L. J. Bcy. 89; 39 L. T. 673; 27 W. R. 292.

3012. Omission to prove before estate administered & trustee released—Proof of unliquidated damages.]—Semble: a creditor who, with full knowledge of his rights, neglects to assert them, until after the estate has been fully administered a. Unavoidable delay in filing—Exercise of discretion to admit.]—The presiding officer refused to allow proof of appct.'s claims, amounting to £17,000, on the ground that they had been filed only twenty-two instead of twenty-four hours, before the first meeting, as required by Act 32 of 1916, s. 42. The delay arose in circumstances which gave him a discretion to allow the claim. Resp. was elected trustee by vote of the only creditor for £700, who proved his claim:—Held: resp.'s election as trustee should be set aside, & a new meeting of creditors called to prove their claims & elect a trustee.—GRAAFF-REINET BOARD OF EXECUTORS v. THE MAGISTRATE, PEARSTON & TAUTE (1917), C. P. D. 332.—S. AF.

PART VIII. SECT. 5.

b. Application out of time—How made.]—Applications being made to lodge proofs of debt after sitting for proof of debt:—Held: appcts. must issue a summons & take out a sitting.—Re CORMACK (1871), 5 I. L. T. 67.—IR.

c. Further evidence—Time limit not required.]—Held: an order for further evidence did not require to have a time limit attached to it.—CAMPBELL v. HOWDEN (1909), 2 S. L. T. 209.—SCOT.

d. Proof against separate estate—After proof against joint estate—Right to dividend.]—In the bkpcy. of a firm a creditor proved against the joint estate for the whole amount due, but afterwards made two amended proofs for part of the amount against the joint estate, & the remainder against the separate estate of one of the partners in the firm. A dividend in the latter estate had then been declared & partly paid:—Held: the creditor making the amended proof against the separate estate was entitled to a dividend only out of the funds remaining in the hands of the official assignee after payment of the dividend already declared.—Re ROBINS & DAY Ex p. GALLAGHER (1884), 3 N. Z. L. R. 93.—N.Z.

& the trustee released, comes too late to prove for unliquidated damages & claim a dividend thereon. —Re GILL, Ex p. BARNARD (1882), 46 L. T. 824.

3013. Laches.]—When the omission to prove a debt proceeds from a creditor's own laches, the ct. will not order a dividend to be stayed until his petition to prove can be heard.—Re SMITH, Ex p. BREES (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 283, Ct. of R.

3014. ——.]—S. became bkpt. on July 8, 1835, & B. became bkpt. on Oct. 8, 1835, & on Apr. 2, 1837, a dividend of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound was declared in B.'s bkpcy. The result of a long investigation into the accounts between S. & B., which was completed in May 1837, was, that B.'s estate was indebted to S.'s in the sum of £8,000. A petition by assignees of S. that the dividend of 2*s.* 6*d.* might be rescinded, & that they might be allowed to prove on the £8,000, was refused, on the ground of laches.—Re BOUTLAND, Ex p. TODD (1837), 2 Deac. 416; 1 Jur. 434, Ct. of R.

3015. ——.]—A party delaying to prove, & not giving satisfactory reason for the delay, cannot stay the certificate in order to prove.—Re YOUNG, Ex p. HELLINGS (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 147; 6 L. J. Bcy. 27, Ct. of R.

3016. —— Assignee proving on behalf of many creditors.]—Assignees of one bkpt. applying to prove against the estate of another are not bound by the same laches as might bind a mere individual creditor.

As the parties come here as assignees, for the benefit of a large body of creditors, we are bound to entertain the application (ERSKINE C.J.).—Re MARSH, Ex p. SMITH (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 267, Ct. of R.

3017. Effect of delay—Application of Statute of Limitations.]—Creditors sought to prove in 1824, upon promissory notes dated May, 1810, payable four months after date, under a commission dated July, 1810:—Held: they were entitled to prove, as the effect of the commission was to vest the property in the assignees, as trustees, for the creditors, & unless debts were barred by Stat. Limitations when the trust was created, they were not afterwards affected by lapse of time.—Re COLES, Ex p. ROSS (1827), 2 Gl. & J. 330, L. C.

SECT. 6.—MODE OF PROOF.

SUB-SECT. 1.—THE AFFIDAVIT.

3018. What must be stated in—Consideration.]—An affidavit in support of a deposition of proof on a bill must state the consideration.—Re YOUNG, Ex p. MABERLEY (1834), 2 Mont. & A. 23, Ct. of R.

3019. —— Proof by public officer of bank.]—Proof of debt by the public officer of a banking co. must aver that he is authorised to make the proof.—Re DOBBS, Ex p. COUNTY OF GLOUCESTER BANK (1866), 15 L. T. 53.

3020. —— Proof by manager of company.]—The affidavit of the manager of a co. filed in support of a debtor's summons served on a trader in respect of two overdue bills of exchange, described himself as the registered public officer of the co., & stated that he had authority to affirm that the debt was due to the co., but did not state that he had authority to sue on behalf of the co. Debtor objected that the affidavit was insufficient, & that the debt ought to be proved with the same particularity as in an action at law on the bills:—Held: as all the requirements of 1870 Rules had been complied with, & debtor had not been misled, the debt was sufficiently proved.—Re LOWENTHAL, Ex p. LOWENTHAL (1874), 9 Ch. App. 324; 43 L. J. Bcy. 132; 30 L. T. 282; 22 W. R. 459, L. C. & L. J.

Annotations:—Mentd. Re Latham, Ex p. Latham (1876), 4 Ch. D. 105; Blaiberg v. Parke (1882), 10 Q. B. D. 90.

3021. —— Proof by married woman against husband.]—When a married woman seeks to prove under her husband's bkpcy. for money lent by her to him, she must show that the money was not lent for the purposes of his trade or business; & if she fails to do so, she cannot prove or vote until all the other creditors have been paid 20*s.* in the pound.—Re GENESE, Ex p. DISTRICT BANK OF LONDON (1885), 16 Q. B. D. 700; 55 L. J. Q. B. 118; 34 W. R. 79; 2 Morr. 283.

3022. Signature of—By liquidator of company without qualification.]—The liquidator of a limited co. in voluntary liquidation in his affidavit of proof in bkpcy. described himself as "the liquidator" of the co., & at the foot of the affidavit there was a proxy in this form: "I appoint T. & D. jointly & severally my proxy," which was signed by the liquidator in his own name, without adding any description or stating that he acted in the name & on behalf of the co.:—Held: the description of the liquidator was sufficient, & the proxy good.—Re POOLEY, Ex p. TAYLOR (1877), 36 L. T. 679; 25 W. R. 641, C. A.

3023. Who must join in—Proof by assignee of bankrupt creditor.]—Where a creditor becomes bkpt., he must join with his assignee in the affidavit in proof of the debt. The affidavit of the assignee, alone, is not sufficient.—Re AMNER, Ex p. ROBSON (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 65, Ct. of R.

PART VIII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 1.

3018 i. What must be stated in—Primâ facie evidence of debt.]—The duty of the presiding officer under Act 32 of 1916, s. 42, is a judicial one; he must see that primâ facie proper proof is produced; he must examine the proof of debts carefully & decide whether they should be admitted or not.—ASPELING v. HOFFMAN'S TRUSTEE (1917), T. P. D. 305.—S. AF.

3018 ii. —— ——.]—A creditor's proof of debt against an insolvent's estate is complete when he delivers or sends through the general post-office to the assignee or trustee, as the case may be, the affidavit or declaration required by Insolvency Act, 1890, s. 106, containing a full & complete statement of account between himself & the insolvent, & that the debt thereby appearing is justly due from the estate to him.—Re BENNESS (1890), 16 V. L. R. 691.—AUS.

3018 iii. —— Account subscribed to & referred to in affidavit.]—Where the deduction of the interest of bills falling due after sequestration was made in a subscribed account on the same sheet with the affidavit & referred to therein:—Held: a sufficient compliance with the requirement of the bkpcy. stat., that such deduction should be made in the oath.—CULLEN v. M'FARLANE (1842), 4 Dunl. (Ct. of Sess.) 1522.—SCOT.

3018 iv. —— Debtor carrying on two businesses—Creditor of one business only.]—Where a single individual carried on business at two places under different co. firms, & separate sequestrations of the two firms were awarded:—Held: as there was but one estate to be disposed of in both sequestrations, the affidavit of a creditor lodged in one of the sequestrations, describing bkpt. carrying on business under the two firms as indebted to him, was in proper form.—CULLEN v. M'FARLANE (1842), 4 Dunl. (Ct. of Sess.) 1522. —SCOT.

3022 i. Signature of vouchers—As relative to affidavit.]—Held: it was not necessary for claimants in a sequestration to subscribe their vouchers as relative to the affidavit.—CULLEN v. M'FARLANE (1842), 4 Dunl. (Ct. of Sess.) 1522.—SCOT.

3024 i. Before whom sworn—English commissioner.]—A proof sworn in England before a comr. for taking affidavits for the English Ct. of Ch. may be used in a case in the Irish ct. —Re M'DONALD (1875), 9 I. L. T. 175.—IR.

3024. Before whom sworn—Scottish creditor.]—Held: a creditor in Scotland was within 5 Geo. 2, c. 30, s. 26, as to the mode of proving debts under a commission of bkpcy. by creditors in "foreign parts," & might make affidavit of his debt before a magistrate in Scotland.—Ex p. MACDOUGALL (1788), 2 Cox, Eq. Cas. 8; 30 E. R. 4, L. C.

3025. —— Creditor sworn abroad—Notarial verification.]—Held: an affidavit to prove a foreign debt, sworn abroad by a creditor before a British consul or vice-consul, must, under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 46, be verified by a notary.—Re MAIDEN, Ex p. MOENS (1829), Mont. 15.

See 1914 Act, s. 140.

3027. Whether fresh deposition necessary—Objection to proofs made under proceedings in arrangement.]—Where a creditor objects to the admission in bkpcy. of proofs of debt made under proceedings in arrangement, it is necessary to produce fresh proofs; & the ct. will, for that purpose, adjourn a meeting for choice of assignees. —Re WILLIAMS (1861), 4 L. T. 343; 9 W. R. 561.

3028. —— Proofs made under liquidation proceedings.]—At the first meeting held under a petition for liquidation pursuant to 1869 Act, s. 125, the creditors resolved upon a bkpcy., & a petition for adjudication was presented:—Held: the affidavits of debt made by the creditors under the petition for liquidation need not be resworn for the purposes of proofs under the bkpcy., but the proper course was to transfer the proceedings under the petition for liquidation to the petition for adjudication, whereby all the proceedings would be consolidated.—Re GOODBEHERE & GAINE, Ex p. HOPKINS (1870), 22 L. T. 450.

3029. —— ——.]—A bkpcy. had been resorted to by the creditors to obtain redress after having been defeated by the delays of the liquidation. On an application to require further proof of certain debts:—Held: when the ct. had already been satisfied, they could dispense with further formal proof.—Re MCHENRY, Ex p. NEW YORK, LAKE ERIE & GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. (1886), 35 W. R. 20; 2 T. L. R. 801, C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—WHAT MUST BE PRODUCED.

3031. By creditor abandoning execution & proving on contract debt—Office copy judgment.]—A judgment & execution creditor, who abandons his judgment & execution, claiming only to prove as for a simple contract debt, need not produce, for the purposes of proof, the office copy of the judgment.—Re WATERS, Ex p. SPILLER (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 43; 5 Jur. 659, Ct. of R.

3032. In proof for costs in divorce suit—Order for payment.]—In proving for costs ordered to be paid in a divorce suit, the order for payment must be set out in the proof or exhibited.—Re MALLETT, Ex p. COLLARD (1864), 10 L. T. 792.

3033. In proof on bill—Bill proved on.]—Where a creditor of a bkpt. tenders proof of a debt due to him on bills of exchange, the bills must, unless there be some special reason to the contrary, be produced before the proof can be admitted.—Re CARTER, Ex p. JACOBS (1874), L. R. 17 Eq. 575; 43 L. J. Bcy. 46; 30 L. T. 133; 22 W. R. 439.

SECT. 7.—WHAT EVIDENCE SUFFICIENT TO SUPPORT PROOF.

SUB-SECT. 1.—VERDICTS, JUDGMENTS AND AWARDS.

3034. Verdict primâ facie evidence only—May be impeached.]—A verdict is only primâ facie evidence of a debt, which the creditors or bkpt. are at liberty to impeach, & into the circumstances of which, if impeached, the comrs. are bound to inquire.—Re DINGLE, Ex p. BUTTERFILL, Ex p. RASHLEIGH (1811), 1 Rose, 192, L. C.

Annotations:—Apld. Re Ridsdale, Ex p. Marson (1837), 2 Deac. 245, Ct. of R. Consd. Re Pickering, Ex p. Harding (1854), 5 De G. M. & G. 367, L. JJ. Mentd. Re Pickering, Ex p. Thornthwaite (1854), 1 Bankr. & Ins. R. 201; Re Harrison, Ex p. Crowther (1871), 24 L. T. 330.

3035. Whether judgment conclusive—Power of court to inquire.]—Where a judgment creditor is attempting to prove in bkpcy.:—Semble: the comrs. may inquire into the consideration of the judgment debt.—Re RIDSDALE, Ex p. MARSON (1838), 3 Deac. 79; 3 Mont. & A. 444, Ct. of R.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Hawkins, Ex p. Troup (1895), 1 Q. B. 404, C. A.

3036. —— ——.]—Any creditor, who alleges that another creditor has proved upon a judgment for more than was due to him, has a right to an inquiry as to the amount really due. A judgment, 3027 i. Whether fresh deposition necessary—Proof of debt missing from file.]—Where it appears that a creditor of a bkpt. has proved his debt, & that his deposition is lost off the file of the proceedings, he will be allowed to put another proof on the file.—Ex p. DEEY (1828), 2 Mol. 142; 2 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 41.—IR.

PART VIII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 1.

3035 i. Whether judgment conclusive—Power of court to inquire.]—The consideration for the judgment is always subject to investigation.—Re JENNINGS (1851), 1 I. Ch. R. 236.—IR.

3035 ii. —— —— On debtor's summons.]—Y., obtained judgment against M. for the price of a horse. M. had pleaded infancy in his defence, but had withdrawn the plea at the trial, & fought the case on other grounds. Y. issued a debtor's summons for the amount of the judgment & costs. The judge in bkpcy., being of opinion that the horse was not a necessary, dismissed the summons:—Held: the Ct. of Bkpcy. had power to go behind the judgment, & inquire into the consideration; & there being evidence before the judge entitling him to find as he did, he was right in dismissing the summons.—Re MEAD, [1916] 2 I. R. 285.—IR.

3035 iii. —— —— Defence of infancy raised after voluntary sequestration.]—In 1883 the estate of A., an infant, was voluntarily sequestrated. The only debts proved against the estate was a judgment debt & costs in an action for money had & received, in which A. did not raise the defence of infancy. In 1901 A. applied for a certificate of discharge:—Held: the Ct. of Insolvency ought not to go behind the original judgment.—Re CAULFIELD (1901), 27 V. L. R. 588.—AUS.

3035 iv. —— —— Judgment by confession.]—Where a creditor's petition in bkpcy. is founded on a judgment by confession, evidence will be admitted to impeach the bonâ fides of petitioning creditor in obtaining such judgment, & to show that in fact the money is not owing.—Re SCOTT (1884), 2 N. Z. L. R. 287.—N.Z.

3035 v. —— —— Action pending by judgment debtor against creditor.]—Where a judgment debtor has commenced an action against his creditor, & sets this up as a bar against an order being granted for his adjudication as a bkpt., the ct. will take cognisance of the subject-matter of the action by which the judgment debt was incurred, & if it be found that the result of the pending action cannot affect the judgment already delivered, the order will be made.—Re HUMPHREYS (1890), 8 N. Z. L. R. 421.—N.Z.

3039. —— ——.]—By a contract in writing debtor sold to petitioning creditors a quantity of coloured plums. By the Plums (Sales) Order, 1918, clause 11, which applied to the contract, contracts for the sale of scheduled plums, which included Blaisdon plums, but not coloured plums, were cancelled. Debtor failed to deliver any plums, & judgment in default of defence was entered against him in an action for breach of contract. The registrar of the county ct. refused to make a receiving order on a petition in bkpcy. founded on the judgment on the ground that there was no consideration for the contract :—Held : the decision of the registrar was wrong.

The discretion which a registrar has on the hearing of a bkpcy. petition should not be used to go behind a judgment on a nice balance of evidence, if the judgment was taken after a real & genuine consideration by debtor of the facts.—Re TURVEY, Ex p. LEWIS & SON, LTD., [1918–19] B. & C. R. 128, D. C.

3040. —— —— Insufficient objections.]—The registrar has a discretion to refuse to go behind a judgment debt, if the facts relied on by debtor are insufficient.—Re LIPSCOMBE, Ex p. KNIGHT (1887), 3 T. L. R. 446; 4 Morr. 43, C.A.

3041. —— —— ——.]—A receiving order was made in the county ct. against a debtor, who had failed to comply with the terms of a bkpcy. notice requiring him to pay a judgment debt. Debtor alleged that the county ct. registrar had wrongly refused to allow him to go behind the judgment & enquire into the consideration of the judgment debt, upon which the bkpcy. notice had been founded :—Held : no facts had been brought to the notice of the county ct. registrar which would afford any grounds for going behind the judgment, & he was right in refusing to do so & in making the receiving order as prayed.—Re SHURLY, Ex p. SHURLY (1888), 5 Morr. 158, D. C.

On taxation of a bill of costs debtor offered no evidence of a surcharge carried in by him, & although on subsequent application for judgment under R. S. C. Ord. 14 for the amount certified, he filed an affidavit alleging that he had a counterclaim, yet he did not appeal from the order for judgment then made. On a bkpcy. petition being presented by the judgment creditors, such debtor was desirous of going into the merits of the surcharge or counterclaim :—Held : the registrar was right in refusing to allow the question to be reopened, & in making a receiving order as prayed.—Re SAVILLE, Ex p. BEYFUS (1887), 35 W. 3044. —— —— ——.]—There is no power in the Bkpcy. Ct. on the hearing of a petition to go behind a judgment obtained in open ct. against a person represented there, no fraud being suggested.

The registrar should only go behind a judgment obtained by default or compromise, or where fraud or collusion is alleged. The registrar having refused in the exercise of his discretion to reopen a judgment obtained after trial in the presence of deft., the ct. declined to interfere.—Re HOWELL (1915), 84 L. J. K. 3045. —— —— Judgment irregular or wrong in form.]—The Ct. of Bkpcy. has power, on the hearing of a bkpcy. petition founded on a judgment debt, to go behind the judgment & inquire into the consideration for the debt; but the fact that the judgment may be irregular or wrong in form is not a sufficient reason for going behind the judgment & dismissing the petition. After his majority, & after the Act came into operation, the creditor obtained judgment by default against him in an action on the bill of exchange, & then took out a debtor's summons, &, on his failing to comply with it, filed a petition for adjudication against him :—Held : (1) the Ct. of Bkpcy. would look into the consideration for the judgment, & if the conduct of debtor, in allowing the judgment to go by default against him, operated as a ratification of the bill of exchange, such ratification was rendered void by s. 2 of the Act ; (2) the petition for adjudication should be dismissed.—Re ONSLOW, Ex p. KIBBLE (1875), 10 Ch. 3050. —— Judgment on promissory note.]—On May 25, 1899, B. filed a petition against G. in respect of a sum of £112, the amount of a judgment recovered in respect of the balance due on a promissory note for £154. Prior to the adjourned hearing of his petition B. agreed with G. for the dismissal of the petition & the delivery of the promissory note on the terms that G. should pay £50 cash & give a new promissory note for £100 (the balance of the old debt & costs, plus a bonus of £20), payable by instalments. On Nov. 10, 1899, B. obtained judgment against G. for the sum of £90, the balance of the sum of £100 due on the second promissory note, & subsequently B. filed another petition :—Held : (1) the ct. was always entitled to look behind a judgment ; (2) the second promissory note was substantially, to some extent, obtained by extortion based on an abuse of the bkpcy. process, & in the circumstances the creditor must be left to his ordinary legal rights, without invoking the machinery of bkpcy.—Re G., Ex p. B. 3052. —— ——.]—Where the debt of a petitioning creditor was a judgment debt founded upon the compromise of an action :—Held : (1) (LORD ESHER, M.R., & LOPES, L.J.) the Ct. of Bkpcy. was entitled to inquire into all the circumstances relating to the compromise, &, if it appeared to have been unfairly obtained, to refuse to make a receiving order ; (2) (RIGBY, L.J.) the evidence shewed that the judgment was founded upon a fair compromise of a disputed claim, & it constituted a good petitioning creditor's debt, & a receiving order ought to be made.—Re HAWKINS, Ex p. TROUP, [1895] 1 Q. 3053. —— Onus of proof of consideration.]—A judgment is primâ facie evidence in support of a proof for the debt on which the judgment was founded, but where there are circumstances of suspicion, the party claiming to prove may be called on to show consideration for the debt, & if none is shown the proof will be rejected.

A judgment may be proved by a certified copy of the entry of the judgment in the entry-book of the ct. in which it was recovered.

A proof tendered long after the bkpcy. on a judgment recovered on a bill of exchange shortly after bkpt.'s majority, the record & bill of exchange being both lost, was rejected.—Re TOLLEMACHE, Ex p. ANDERSON (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 606 ; 54 L. J. Q. B. 383 ; 52 L. T. 786, C. A.

3054. —— Grounds for rule.]—It has been long established, as regards the proof of a debt in bkpcy., that the trustee, acting on behalf of the creditors, can go behind a judgment, & that, although the judgment is primâ facie evidence of a debt due to the creditor who claims to prove for the judgment debt, yet the trustee, on behalf of the creditors, may show that in fact the judgment does not establish a debt. That rule is founded upon this principle, that, in whatever circumstances a judgment may have been obtained against bkpt., yet no act of his, collusion, compromise improperly entered into, or anything else, ought to prejudice the rights of the other creditors, because the assets ought to be distributed in the bkpcy. only amongst the honest bonâ fide creditors of bkpt. This rule is necessary, in order to prevent a man from allowing any number of judgments to be obtained by default against him by his friends or relations, for the purpose of giving them a right of proof in his bkpcy. without any debt being due to them at all (COTTON, L.J.).—Re LENNOX, Ex p. LENNOX (1885), 16 Q. 3055. —— Gambling debt.]—Betting commission agents obtained judgment under R. S. C. 3057. —— Except in regard to assessed taxes.]—The rule that, on a proof for a judgment debt, the ct. will go behind the judgment & ascertain whether there is a provable debt, does not apply to a proof for assessed taxes.

Where a debtor, who had carried in a scheme of arrangement, applied to expunge a proof for an assessment to income tax under Sched. 3060. —— ——.]—Applt., an unregistered money-lender, became the holder of promissory notes made by debtor in respect of a money-lending transaction, & obtained judgment in default of defence against debtor in an action upon the notes. An arrangement was subsequently made, whereby debtor agreed to pay the debt with interest by instalments, & all further proceedings upon the judgment were to be stayed. The ct. refused an order for the legatee to prove for the specific sum mentioned in the order of the Ct. of Ch., but gave him leave to go before the comrs., & prove for such sum as might be due to him.—Re STANDLEY, Ex p. LAWDEN (1841), 1 Mont. 3063. Whether award conclusive.]—N. & bkpt., who had been in partnership, dissolved it in 1809. In Sept., 1810, they referred disputes as to the settlement of their accounts to arbn. The arbitrator in Jan., 1811, awarded N. £715. In Mar., 1811, the commission issued against bkpt. on an act of bkpcy. committed on Apr. 12, 1810. N. had been admitted to prove for the £715, but the proof had been resisted before the comrs., on the ground that only £190 was due. The comrs.

3064. —— No application to set aside award.]—All matters in difference between A. & B. were referred to arbitrators, who awarded £9,400 to be due to A. on a balance of accounts, & directed the money to be paid by instalments, & likewise awarded B. to deliver some amber & shells to A., but B. not appearing, nor any agent for him, on the day & place appointed for the delivery of the amber & shells, & for making one of the payments according to the award, attachments were made out against him into London & Middlesex, for a breach of the award, & upon his absconding to avoid his being arrested under the attachments, a commission of bkpcy. was taken out against him, & he was declared a bkpt. Subsequently B. preferred his petition to the Lord Chancellor, suggesting that he was not indebted to A. petitioning creditor, & that an issue might be directed at law to try whether petitioner was a bkpt. at or before the issuing of the commission of bkpcy. against him, & that all proceedings on the commission might be stayed in the meantime:—Held: petitioning creditor's was a just debt, while the award stood, for the arbn. bond was a debt at law, & bound the parties, until it was set aside for corruption or partiality, etc., & the bill brought by B. for that purpose, could not be a foundation to suspend it, for if it was, a person then had nothing more to do but to file such a bill, & frustrate the effect of the award, & the debt was sufficient to support the commission.—Ex p. LINGOOD (1742), 1 Atk. 240; 26 E. Signature of accounts at time of granting annuity—Payment of annuity to date of grantor's bankruptcy.]—Bkpt. having granted an annuity ten years since, & paid it for ten years, until his bkpcy., & having at the time of granting it signed an account with the grantor, showing what the consideration was, is precluded from questioning the validity of that consideration, & so are his assignees.—Re LLOYD, Ex p. FAIRMAN (1838), 3 Deac. 467; Mont. & Ch. 125; 8 L. J. Bcy. 25.

3070. Creditor's oath—No adverse evidence.]—A creditor is entitled to have his proof admitted upon oath, unless there be adverse evidence, or surrounding circumstances rendering it improper to admit it.—Re BYRON, Ex p. BOLER (1841), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 602; 5 Jur. 323, Ct. of R.

3071. Admission by bankrupt—In account filed in regard to abortive deed of arrangement.]—A trader entered into a contract to deliver goods at a stated time at a specified price. He performed part of the contract, but before the time or times for the performance of the remainder he petitioned under 1849 Act, ss. 211 et seq., but no arrangement being effected, he was adjudicated bkpt. on that petition. In the account of debts filed, he inserted a sum as due from him for loss on the unfulfilled parts of the contract. A proof was tendered by the purchaser of the goods, for the amount, less than that specified by bkpt., of the loss by reason of the non-delivery of the goods:—Held: the admission of the debt by bkpt. in his account was evidence of a debt as against the assignees, & the purchaser was entitled to prove for the amount he claimed.—Re LAWFORD, Ex p. HARRISON (1856), 26 L. 3071 i. Admission by bankrupt—Statute-barred debt—Affidavit in other proceedings—Debtor too ill to read or sign admission.]—One of two bkpt. partners, in a Ch. suit, made an affidavit in which he admitted a statute-barred debt. When he made the affidavit, he was too ill to read or sign it, but the British Consul at B. read it to him & he affixed his mark:—Held: the affidavit was not admissible in evidence in the bkpcy. proceedings.—Re CLENDINNING (1859), 9 I. e. Proof for property of wife brought into settlement—Evidence of payment.]—Where the assignees sought to expunge proof of the payment of the fortune of bkpt.'s wife, which proof was made in order to recover that fortune pursuant to articles covenanting that in case of her husband's bkpcy. trustees should be entitled to it. The amount of the evidence was that bills were passed for its payment, & this being sufficient to rebut the negative evidence that these bills did not appear in the books, the motion was refused.—Re ROBINSON, Ex p. MACKEY (1828), 2 Ir. a bkpcy. will, after a great lapse of time & loss of the securities, be accepted as primâ facie proof of the existence of the debt, & any objection to it must rest on evidence showing some probable reason for supposing, not that it may be, but that it is, bad.

A bkpcy. took place in 1783, & a person claiming under an assignment of a proof received dividends in 1820 & 1824:—Held: the representatives of the assignee claiming in 1863 were entitled to the dividends subsequently declared, though the deed of assignment was not produced.—Re GRANT, Ex p. GRAHAM (1863), 33 L. 3076. Time allowed to expire—Trustee wishing to reject.]—A proof was sent to the trustee in Dec., 1872. In Dec., 1875, he gave notice of rejection:—Held: it was too late for the trustee to proceed in that way, but the proper course would have been to apply to the ct. to have the proof expunged.—Re ARMITAGE, Ex p. GOOD (1877), 5 Ch. 3077. —— Rejection appealed from on that ground.]—A creditor's appeal against the rejection of a proof was allowed in the county ct., on the ground that it had not been made within the time limited by the Rules:—Held: the objection was good, but being only a matter of form, the creditor's application should have been treated as if it had been a motion by the trustee to expunge the proof.—Re SISSLING, Ex p. FENTON (1885), 53 L. h. One creditor asking for time to be given to debtor—Proof in subsequent bankruptcy.]—At a meeting of creditors it was agreed between the mother of debtor & the creditors present that debtor should be granted an extension of time, provided that the mother allowed a claim she had as extrix. of his father to stand over till the other creditors were paid. Debtor subsequently became bkpt.:—Held: whether or not the agreement come to at the meeting of creditors remained binding after the bkpcy., & whatever might be the ultimate destination of any dividends payable in respect of her claim, the extrix.'s proof must be admitted. —Re FAIRBROTHER, Ex p. FAIRBROTHER (1897), 16 N. k. Creditor suing bankrupt—Imprisonment under execution & subsequent discharge—Proof admitted by consent.] —A reference will be granted to the comrs. to receive proof of a debt in a bkpcy. matter, where the creditors consent, although the party had proceeded against bkpt. at law for the debt, lodged him in gaol under an execution, & afterwards consented to his discharge.—Re ROBINSON, Ex p. CREAGH (1830), 4 Ir. l. Creditor wife of insolvent—Whether payment loan or gift—Question of fact.]—Where the trial judge found against the assignee, that money of the insolvent's wife used by him in his business was a loan from & not a gift by her & the judgment was affirmed on appeal:—Held: as the whole case was one of fact, the second appellate ct. would not interfere with such finding.—WARNER v. MURRAY (1889), 16 S. m. Creditor bank acting ultra vires—To whom objection available.]—L. borrowed a sum of money from a savings bank, which he agreed to repay with interest, transferring in pledge as collateral security letters of credit on the Govt. of Quebec. L. having become insolvent the bank filed its claim for the amount of the loan, with interest, with the curator of the estate, & on appeal appcts., as creditors of L., contested on the ground that the securities were not of the class mentioned in R. S. C. c. 122, s. 20, & the bank's act in making the loan was ultra vires & illegal:—Held: L., having received good & valid consideration for his promise to repay the loan, could not, nor could appcts., his creditors, who had no other rights than debtor himself had, impugn the contract of loan, or be admitted to assail the pledge of the securities.—ROLLAND v. CAISSE D'ECONOMIE NOTRE DAME DE QUEBEC (1895), 24 S. 3082. Contracting debt with bankrupt after notice of prior act of bankruptcy—Before act on which commission issued.]—46 Geo. 3, c. 135, s. 2 does not restrain a creditor from proving under a commission of bkpcy. a debt contracted before the act of bkpcy., on which the commission issued, but after notice of a prior act of bkpcy.—Re PHILLIPS, Ex p. BOWNESS (1814), 2 M. & S. 479; 105 E. R. 459.

3088. Refusing disclosure as to alleged payment of debt.]—Proof under a commission of bkpcy. refused, the party claiming the debt being charged by the examination of bkpt. with the receipt of money, & refusing a disclosure as to the receipt & application, on the ground that it might tend to criminate him.—Ex p. SYMES (1805), 11 Ves. 521; 32 E. R. 1191.

3089. Holding out as not a creditor—During negotiations for arrangement with creditors—Subsequently proving in bankruptcy after arrangement breaking down.]—Bkpt. was indebted to his father, by whose permission he occupied a leasehold farm. Two attempts were made to come to an arrangement with some of bkpt.'s creditors. The father did not disclose that he was a creditor, & at the second attempt he inserted the lease as bkpt.'s property. The creditors in question claimed that the father was not entitled to prove as against them:—Held: (1) although the general rule was well established that "a person dealing with another, & holding out that he is no creditor shall be bound by his representation," as both plans failed, the claim of petitioners must be dismissed; (2) if either plan had been adopted, the father could not have entered into competition with those particular creditors.—Re ROOKE, Ex p. OAKLEY (1811), 1 Rose, 138.

3090. Agreeing to change in contract—Election to keep bill in satisfaction of debt proved on.]—A. purchased coals of B. & agreed to give him a bill of exchange for part of the purchase-money payable at two months. Afterwards A. sent to B. a paper purporting to be a bill accepted by him with a blank left for the name of B. as drawer. The bill not being such as was stipulated to be given, B. consulted his attorney whether he should take it in satisfaction of his debt, & upon his advice decided to keep it. B. did not sign the bill until after he had sued out a commission against A. upon an affidavit for goods sold & delivered:—Held: B. having elected to keep the bill, thus giving his sanction to a change in the contract, could not prove his debt as petitioning creditor for goods sold & delivered.—Re FARENDEN, Ex p. FARENDEN (1817), Buck, 34, L. C.

3091. Selling contraband goods abroad—Participating in smuggling them.]—A seller abroad, of contraband goods, is entitled to prove, unless he be a participator in smuggling them.—Re POWELL, Ex p. CAVALIERE (1825), 2 Gl. & J. 227.

3092. Concealing facts from public—Inducing public to give bankrupt credit.]—A., an innkeeper, assigned the premises & furniture to B., as his successor in the inn, & placed his son, a minor, with B. at a yearly salary in the first instance, but upon the understanding that he was afterwards to be taken in as a partner. The licence was transferred to B. & A.'s son jointly. B. became bkpt., after contracting a large debt with A., the proof of which was rejected by the comrs., on the ground that A. concealed his son's minority, & thus induced parties to trust bkpt., who had no capital:—Held: the comrs. were not justified in rejecting the proof.—Re NEW, Ex p. ARCHER (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 784, Ct. of R.

3093. Payment to assignees—Of proceeds of irregular execution.]—Execution, executed under a warrant of attorney, which was subsequently set aside for irregularity, & the amount levied paid over to the assignees by the judgment creditor, will not preclude him from proving under a fiat in bkpcy. issued against the judgment debtor.—ANON (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 318.

3094. Party competing with his own creditors.]—A party cannot prove in competition with his own creditors.—Re SAMUEL (1848), 10 L. T. O. S. 464.

3095. Election to prove in foreign bankruptcy.]—Two commercial firms, one in Brazil, consisting of A., B. & C., the other in England, consisting of A. & B., had mercantile transactions with each other. The two firms were totally distinct, but both traded under the style of A. B. & Co. In the course of their dealings the Brazilian firm drew bills on the English firm in favour of petitioners. The English firm having accepted the bills became bkpt., & the Brazilian firm afterwards became insolvent, & entered into a concordata with their creditors. Petitioners received a dividend under the concordata out of the assets of the Brazilian firm as drawers of the bills, & also claimed to prove in respect of the same bills under the English bkpcy., against the English firm as acceptors:—Held: (1) the Brazilian concordata must be taken as equivalent to a bkpcy.; (2) petitioners having elected to prove against the Brazilian firm under the concordate, could not also prove against the English firm.—Re DEANE & YOULE, Ex p. GOLDSMID (1856), 1 De G. & J. 257; 25 L. 3096. Entering into irregular submission—Bound by award.]—By an agreement between a creditor & the assignees in bkpcy., it was agreed that the creditor's right to prove as the holder of a bill of exchange, which bkpt. had accepted, should be referred to arbn. The submission to arbn. was made without leave of the ct. The arbitrator decided that the creditor had no right to prove as holder of the bill:—Held: having acted under the submission, the creditor was precluded from objecting to its informality, & was bound by the award.—Re WYLD, Ex p. WYLD (1860), 2 De G. F. & J. 642; 30 L. J. Bcy. 10; 3 L. T. 794; 7 Jur. N. S. 294; 9 W. R. 421; 45 E. R. 770, L. JJ.

3097. Covenanting not to receive payment until other creditors paid.]—A. & B. covenanted not to receive payment until all the other creditors of debtor had been paid a composition of 13*s.* in the pound. Before the whole was paid debtor became bkpt.:—Held: A. & B. were entitled to prove & receive dividends, although the other creditors had not received the full amount of their composition, but they were not entitled to their costs of establishing their right.—Re BALDWIN, Ex p. BALDWIN (1860), 2 L. T. 224.

3098. Allowing bankrupt to lie in prison for non-payment of penalty.]—Debtor was convicted under Fine Arts Copyright Act, 1862 (c. 68), s. 6, for violations of copyright in engravings, & sentenced to pay a fine, & in default was imprisoned. After the conviction he executed a deed of composition with his creditors, which was duly registered. He then applied for discharge from prison:—Held: he was not entitled to his discharge.

Semble: whether the fine was provable or not under the bkpcy. made no difference, as applt. could not prove, after having allowed debtor to be imprisoned for non-payment of the fine (PAGE WOOD, L.J.).—Re PRINCE, Ex p. GRAVES (1868), 3 Ch. App. 642; 19 L. T. 241; 32 J. P. 790; 16 W. R. 993, L. JJ.

3099. Making statement inducing debtor to alter position.]—A receiving order having been made against debtor, his debts were paid in full with certain exceptions, which included one due to K. & one due to B. K. held a mtge. as security, & debtor, having made an application to rescind the receiving order, asked K.'s solr. to write a letter saying that K. was satisfied with the security. K.'s solr. replied declining to say so, but adding that K. did not seek to prove against the estate for any possible deficiency. Eventually debtor was adjudicated bkpt. Afterwards the debt due to K. was assigned to R., & later debtor arranged for his mother's exors., of whom he was one, to buy all outstanding debts except those due to R. & to B. Subsequently a proof was put in by R.:—Held: R., who was in no better position than K., was estopped from putting in the proof.—Re WICKHAM (1917), 34 T. L. R. 158; [1917] H. B. R. 272.

3100. Creditor illegal society.]—An illegal society is incapable of proving for its debts.—Re DAY, Ex p. DAY (1876), 1 Ch. D. 699; 45 L. J. Bcy. 53; 33 L. T. 867; 24 W. R. 492.

3101. —— Illegality removed by registration—Payments made by debtor after knowledge of registration.]—In 1881 seven persons formed a loan society, & when business was commenced their members had increased to twenty. As the club in its inception comprised less than twenty members & was unregistered, it became an illegal assocn. within Cos. Act, 1862 (c. 89), s. 4, so soon as it comprised upwards of twenty members. In June, 1883, the society was registered under the Act, with the knowledge & consent of all the members. In 1881 the society advanced £100 to a borrowing member, repayable by monthly instalments, & he duly paid the instalments as they fell due until Dec. 1883, when he became bkpt.:—Held: in the circumstances the inference was that all the members had, either expressly or by acquiescence, mutually agreed that all the transactions of the society previous to its registration should continue to be binding on the registered society, & the registered society could prove for the balance of the loan.—Re THOMAS, Ex p. POPPLETON (1884), 14 Q. 3103. Partnership with debtor—Joint stock bank.]—A member of a joint stock banking co. kept an account with them as his bankers, & at the time of his bkpcy. was indebted to them in a large balance on such banking account, the co., being also considerably indebted to various other persons:—Held: the co. had a right of proof against bkpt., for the balance due on such banking 3105. Failure to prosecute.]—Bkpt., a banker's clerk, having absconded on Mar. 16, 1877, defalcations to the extent of a few hundred pounds were being discovered, when on the 24th of the month the bankers received from bkpt. a letter confessing thefts to the amount of £7,852 19*s.* Instructions were given on the 26th, in consequence of which a warrant for his apprehension was, on the 28th, placed in the hands of a detective, who failed to find him in England. Conversations on Mar. 19, & again on the 22nd, between a partner of the bank & relatives of bkpt., were deposed to. In the course of the former the partner said, "My advice is, that he should get out of the country to America, or elsewhere," & on the latter occasion an offer having been made by bkpt.'s wife that bkpt. should return & throw himself on the mercy of the bank, the partner said, "No, if he did that, we should be obliged to prosecute him; if he were abroad, I don't suppose we should trouble further for him." It was also in evidence that after the conversation on the 19th, one of the relatives who was present had an interview with bkpt. in England, since which he had disappeared. The registrar of the county ct. having refused to admit to proof a claim of the bankers for the sum of £7,852 19*s.*:—Held: there was not proof of such negligence on the part of the bankers to bring the criminal to justice as disentitled them to prove for the amount stolen, and appeal allowed.—Re SHEPHERD, Ex p. BALL (1879), 10 Ch. 3106. Fictitious sale on credit to bankrupt—By consignee for sale—Limitation of proof.]—Consignment with authority to sell, to reimburse advances on the consignment, any deficiency to be made good, & the surplus, if any, restored. Part of the goods being sold to the consignors, proof under their bkpcy. was limited to the balance of the original advance.—Re CARSON & DISTELL, Ex p. THOMPSON (1811), 18 Ves. 234; 1 Rose, 165; 34 E. R. 305, L. C.

3107. Claim under agreement for dissolution of partnership—Fraudulent deed.]—A partnership was dissolved in 1818, the two continuing partners indemnifying the outgoing partners against the outstanding partnership debts. One of the partners died, & in 1825 the survivor became bkpt. One of the original partners had to pay a debt due at the time of the dissolution of the original firm. His proof was objected to, on the ground that at the time of the dissolution he knew the firm was insolvent, & the deed of dissolution was therefore fraudulent:—Held: (1) the deed was not necessarily fraudulent because the retiring partners were allowed to retire without paying any proportion of the actual deficiency, & the long period during which the business was carried on negatived the suggestion of fraud; (2) the proof must be admitted.—Re JOHNS, Ex p. CARPENTER (1826), Mont. & M. 1.

On the dissolution of the partnership D. was entitled to £8,000, which was secured by bkpt.'s bond. Bkpt., who continued the business, reduced the debt to £7,000, & entered into an agreement, under which his bond to D. was cancelled, & two joint & several bonds, in which D. joined, were executed, one to T. for £3,000, & one to J. for £4,000:—Held: J. was a creditor in his own right for valuable consideration, & entitled to prove.—Re TODD (1844), De G. 87, L. C.

3109. Payment to induce creditor to agree to composition.]—Before his bkpcy. bkpt. had compounded with his creditors. In addition to the composition he had paid a particular creditor £87, as the creditor alleged, in order to induce him to supply further goods, but as bkpt. alleged, to induce the creditor to agree to the composition:—Held: the probabilities being strongly against the account given by the creditor, the proof, which was for goods sold & delivered between the composition & the bkpcy., must be reduced by £87.—Re GREEN, Ex p. MINTON (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 440; 3 Deac. & Ch. 688, Ct. of R.

3110. ——.]—A composition deed was entered into by a debtor, subject to a proviso making the release therein contained void on the non-payment of the instalments agreed on. A., a creditor for £989, received £200 by a secret agreement. On the subsequent bkpcy. of debtor after some instalments had been paid, A. sought to prove for his original demand, deducting from it what he had received:—Held: he was not entitled to do so.—Re HODGSON, Ex p. OLIVER (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 354; 64 E. 3111. Debt founded on warrant of attorney & judgment in fraud of creditors.]—Although a creditor, whose debt has been inserted in the schedule of a party taking the benefit of Insolvent Debtors' Act, 1826 (c. 57), is not prevented from proving for the balance of his debt under a subsequent fiat against the insolvent, yet where the debt is founded on a warrant of attorney given by the insolvent, & a judgment thereon entered up by him, in fraud of his creditors, the creditor cannot then prove for the balance under a subsequent fiat.—Re COPLESTONE, Ex p. RORIE (1842), 2 Mont. 3112. Mere suggestion of fraud insufficient.]—The mere suggestion that a creditor has obtained a fraudulent preference from a debtor will not justify the ct. in delaying the admission of his proof of debt.—Re ALLEN, Ex p. SMITH'S ASSIGNEES (1860), 9 W. R. 148.

3113. Fictitious sale by bankrupt to surety.]—The owner of a business, who had procured A. to become surety for the payment of a debt, & for that purpose to join him in making promissory notes, upon the eve of his bkpcy. entered into an agreement with A. for the sale to him of his business & stock-in-trade. By the terms of the agreement A., by way of part payment of the purchase-money, took over the sole liability upon the notes. Subsequently the vendor was adjudicated bkpt., & the trustee in bkpcy. obtained a judgment declaring that the agreement & sale were a sham & void. A., who in the meantime had paid the notes, then put forward a proof against debtor's estate for the money so paid as in respect of a consideration which had failed:—Held: although debtor's estate had had the benefit of the payment, A. could not prove for it, as it had been paid in the course of carrying out a transaction devised in fraud of the general body of creditors, & so much of the fraudulent agreement as was disadvantageous to A., & precluded him from having recourse to debtor as the principal maker of the notes, was binding on him, though the part which was advantageous to him did not bind the other creditors.—Re MYERS, Ex p. MYERS, [1908] 1 K. The House of Lords on appeal from the Ct. of Session found that the fraud alleged was not proved. Subsequently a second claim was lodged by the co., based (1) upon a decree of the Ct. of Ch. in England, finding that the sale was fraudulent, & that the co. were at liberty to prove against bkpt.'s estates, & (2) upon the grounds upon which the English decree had proceeded, viz. that the sale was fraudulent:—Held: the question whether the co. were entitled to rank on the ground that the sale was fraudulent, was res judicata by the judgment of the House of Lords. Qu.: whether, in regard to the plea of res judicata, a creditor claiming in a sequestration is in the same position as the pursuer of an action.—PHOSPHATE SEWAGE CO. v. LAWSON & SON'S TRUSTEE (1878), 5 R. 3133. Debt merged on bond.]—A. was indebted to B. in £20,000. An interview took place between B. & C., a son of A., in respect of the debt. A bond was subsequently drawn out & executed by A. & C., whereby they became jointly & severally bound to pay to B. £10,000, by instalments of £1,000 a year, with interest on such instalments as should be in arrear. The terms of the agreement, under which the bond was executed, were not put into writing. It was stated by B. that the agreement made at the above-mentioned interview was, that the debt should not be cancelled until the bond was satisfied, but it was stated by C. that the agreement was that the old debt should be at once cancelled on the execution of the bond. A. became bkpt. A proof for the old debt, tendered by B., was rejected, on the ground that the old debt was extinguished by the bond.—Re EWENS, Ex p. HERNAMAN (1848), 17 L. J. Bcy. 17 ; 11 L. T. 3134. No privity of contract between party proving & bankrupt — Sub-contract.] — Bkpts., coal proprietors, for some time previous to & at the time of their bkpcy. worked a coal mine, & for that purpose employed colliers, to whom the work was let off at so much per score baskets, each collier having a drawer attached to him. When the colliers were hired they brought their drawers with them, & the colliers were not hired, unless bkpts.' manager approved the drawers, or unless, in case of disapproval, the colliers took drawers provided for them by the manager, & whether the drawers were brought by the colliers or provided by the manager, they were paid by the colliers out of their earnings, & they were so paid according to such agreements as they might have made with the colliers, neither bkpts. nor their manager taking any part whatever with reference to such agreements. If the manager at any time withdrew the drawers from the service of the colliers, he paid the colliers for the drawers' time, & the colliers had full power to discharge the drawers, & neither bkpts. nor their manager interfered with that power, further than that if the colliers discharged their drawers unjustly, the colliers would themselves be discharged, & the drawers as well as the colliers were liable to be discharged by the manager for transgressing the rules of the mine. The wages of the drawers were in arrear at the time of the bkpcy., & they tendered proofs before the comr. for those arrears. The comr. having rejected the proofs :—Held : the question depended wholly upon whether bkpts. were indebted to the drawers, & as they were not, the decision of the comr. was correct.—Re BYROM, Ex p. BALL (1853), 3 De G. M. & G. 155 ; 20 L. T. O. S. 267 ; 43 E. R. 62, L. JJ.

3135. —— Mortgagor & assignees of lease.]—Bkpts. were assignees of a lease, & the trustees refused to admit a proof by the lessor, who was also mtgor., against their joint estate :—Held : privity of estate remained between the mtgor., & bkpts., & the proof must be admitted.—Re MALDEN GIBSON & CO., Ex p. JAMES (1886), 55 L. T. 708 ; 3 Morr. 185, D. C.

3136. —— Assignee of equity of redemption & transferee of mortgage.]—A mtgor. assigned his equity of redemption, & the estate of the two mtgees. was transferred, so that it vested in one alone. The assignee of the equity continued to pay interest on the mtge., & when sued for arrears suffered judgment by default. He was subsequently adjudged bkpt., & the transferee of the mtge. claimed to prove against his estate for further arrears of interest :—Held : the proof could not be allowed, since there was no privity of contract between the assignee of the equity & the transferee of the mtge., & no personal liability on the part of the assignee of the equity of redemption to pay interest.—Re ERRINGTON, Ex p. MASON, [1894] 1 Q. B. 11 ; 69 L. T. 766 ; 10 R. 91, D. C.

3137. —— Fictitious company interposed by bankrupt.]—A corpn. consisted of only the seven signatories to its memorandum of assocn. It was formed by D. & G., two of the signatories, to cloak their identity in carrying on their financial operations, & they were the sole directors & managers of the corpn. The corpn. then contracted to buy a licence to work a quarry for a small sum, & promoted a co. to acquire the licence, & the usual contracts were entered into by means of a trustee for the co., whereby the corpn. as vendors agreed to sell the licence to the co. for £10,500 in cash, £2,000 in debentures, & £5,500 in fully-paid shares of £1 each of the co. D. & G. then caused the co. to be registered & found the seven signatories to its memorandum of assocn. & its directors, all of whom were their creatures. The co. duly adopted the contract of sale & issued to the corpn. five thousand five hundred fully-paid shares & £2,000 in debentures. D. & G. then prepared prospectuses which were issued by the co. to the public inviting subscriptions to an issue of two thousand debentures of £10 each, & as subscriptions came in the co. paid the corpn. some £9,000 cash, on account of the £10,500, which D. & G. then divided between themselves. The only shareholders of the co. were the seven signatories to its memorandum & the corpn. as holders of the five thousand five hundred shares. The contracts & prospectuses disclosed that the corpn. was promotor & vendor to the co. & was making the profit, but did not disclose the fact that D. & G. were the real promoters & vendors & were receiving the profit through the corpn. The co. went into liquidation & subsequently D. & G. became bkpt. D. had assets, G. had none. They were prosecuted for fraudulent & material misstatements in the prospectuses & convicted :—Held : as the corpn. was only an "alias" for D. & G., the liquidator of the co. could prove in the bkpcy. of D. for the whole of the secret cash profit that D. & G. had received.—Re DARBY, Ex p. BROUGHAM, [1911] 1 K. B. 95 ; 80 L. J. K. B. 180 ; 18 Mans. 10.

3138. Statement of account not "full, true & complete."]—If a creditor, who proves his debt by declaration under 1861 Act, s. 144, files a statement of account, which is not "full, true, & complete," his proof ought to be rejected.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. BARNETT (1868), 4 Ch. App. 68; 19 L. T. 406; 17 W. R. 88, L. JJ.

3139. Instrument proved on not complying with foreign law—Document executed abroad—Failure to register.]—M. & his wife, who were married in Batavia, entered into a contract before the marriage, by which a sum was settled on the wife for her separate use. By the law of Batavia no marriage contract excluding a community of goods had any effect with regard to third parties until registered. The contract in question was never registered. M. & his wife subsequently came to England, where M. became bkpt., & his wife claimed to prove against his estate for the sum settled:—Held: the law of Batavia respecting registration did not affect the validity of the contract, but only the remedy of those claiming under it, & as all questions of priority of creditors must be determined by the law of the country where the bkpcy. took place the wife was not precluded by the non-registration of the deed from proving for the sum settled pari passu with the other creditors.—Re MELBOURN, Ex p. MELBOURN (1870), 6 Ch. See 1914 Act, s. 42 (2).

3140. Uncertainty as to who eventually entitled to benefit.]—In a divorce suit a decree for a divorce was made, & co-resp. was ordered to pay into the registry £5,000, the amount of damages assessed by the jury. The decree was made absolute. Co-resp. being resident abroad, the order for payment could not be enforced against him, & an order was obtained from the Divorce Ct. rescinding so much of the decree as ordered payment into the registry, & ordering the £5,000 to be paid to the husband, he undertaking to pay it into the registry to abide the further order of the ct. The husband then commenced proceedings in bkpcy. against co-resp.:—Semble: there being a sum presently payable, & an order for its payment, the mere uncertainty as to who was ultimately to receive it, & for whose benefit it was ultimately to be applied, would not prevent its being a provable debt (MELLISH, L. J.)—Re MUIRHEAD, Ex p. MUIRHEAD (1876), 2 Ch. D. 22; 45 L. J. Bcy. 65; 34 L. T. 303; 24 W. R. 351, C. A.

3141. Proof not bonâ fide for benefit of creditor.]—A creditor of a firm, of which one partner had become bkpt., proved against bkpt.'s estate in respect of a judgment debt. He subsequently issued writs against the firm for money due, & compromised the actions with the solvent partner, who alone had been served. The terms of the compromise included payment of a lump sum to the creditor, & the assignment to the solvent partner of all sums to be received under proof:—Held: the proof under the compromise was properly rejected, as not being a bonâ fide proof for the benefit of the creditor.—Re REESE, Ex p. BRYANT (1890), 7 Morr. 144, D. C.

3142. Voluntary part payment of debt by third party—Without debtor's knowledge.]—At the date of his bkpcy. A. owed B. some £16,500 for money advanced to him by B. on the deposit of a transfer of shares, which turned out to be a forgery. Subsequently C., who was formerly A.'s partner, whilst repudiating all liability for A.'s fraud, voluntarily paid B. £6,500 for the loss thereby sustained. This payment was made without A.'s knowledge:—Held: the payment was not made on account of either the debt or debtor, & B. could prove for the full amount of the debt without deducting the £6,500.—Re ROWE, Ex p. DERENBURG & Co., [1904] 2 K. 3143. Proof by bankrupt's wife on covenant to discharge mortgage debt—Proof by mortgagee already admitted.]—Bkpt. charged to mtgees. certain property & conveyed to his wife & another the equity of redemption of that property & covenanted with them to discharge the mtge. debt. A proof was put in on behalf of the mtgees. & admitted to rank for dividend against the estate. Bkpt.'s wife sought to prove in the bkpcy. in respect of the covenant with her to discharge the mtge. debt:—Held: if bkpt.'s wife was allowed to prove in the bkpcy., it would be a case of double proof in respect of the same liability.—Re HOEY, Ex p. HOEY, (1918) 88 L. 3144. Debt satisfied by imprisonment.]—Motion to prove a debt of upwards of £1,000 of bkpts. on a judgment obtained against them prior to the bkpcy., & upon which one of bkpts. was detained in custody from the arrest up to the time of his having obtained his certificate:—Held: the debt was satisfied in law by the imprisonment & discharge of bkpt. & motion refused.—Re ROBINSON & TARLEY (1847), 9 L. SUB-SECT. 4.—NOTICE OF REJECTION.

3145. Sufficiency of—Application for particulars.]—A trustee under a scheme of arrangement in bkpcy. rejected a proof in respect of certain bills, on the grounds (1) the acceptance, issue & negotiation of each of the bills were effected by fraud, & (2) the bills were taken with knowledge that the givers of them had no rights thereto. Appct. asked for particulars of the alleged fraud & of the creditor's knowledge:—Held: as to (1) the notice of rejection did not set forth sufficient grounds, & the application must be allowed, but as to (2) the grounds were sufficient, & the application must be dismissed.

The ct. will not grant applications for particulars of grounds of rejection of a proof by a trustee in bkpcy. in every case of rejection as of right. They will consider each case & see whether the trustee has properly stated his grounds of decision.—Re HUNTLY (MARQUIS), Ex p. GOLDSTEIN (1917), 87 L. J. K. B. 590; *sub nom. 3146. Time for.]—P., a creditor, proved under proceedings for the liquidation by arrangement of the affairs of R., the proof being made prior to the appointment of the trustee. Subsequently to the proof being made the trustee caused P. to be summoned for examination. The course of the examination was such as to show that the trustee was not satisfied with the proof, & the registrar ordered P. to furnish further accounts. The further accounts never were furnished, although demanded in writing by the trustee.

SUB-SECT. 5.—APPEALS.

3147. Against rejection of proof—Jurisdiction of court—To hear appeal.]—Where a proof of a creditor's debt has been disallowed by comrs., the ct. will hear the proof.—ANON. (1676), 1 Cas. in Ch. 275; 22 E. R. 798.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Chambers, Ex p. Davy (1834), 4 Deac. & Ch. 322.

3148. —— —— To place proof on proceedings without remitting back to commissioners.]—Where the comrs. have not admitted a proof tendered to them, the ct. may direct it to be placed on the proceedings at once, without referring it back to the comrs., although the proof may not have been rejected, but only adjourned.—Re MAYOR, Ex p. WHITWORTH (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 158, Ct. of R.

3149. —— —— To refuse application—Until costs previously incurred paid.]—Where a petition of a creditor to prove a debt had been dismissed with costs, & the creditor presented a petition in the nature of a petition to rehear on new facts, the ct. refused to hear the latter petition until he paid the costs of the former petition, which had been taxed, although there had been no actual demand on him for the payment.—Re JAMES, Ex p. MUDIE (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 669, Ct. of R.

3150. —— Who may appeal—Alien enemy.]—An alien enemy, cannot be heard during war in support of a motion, to revise or vary the decision of the trustee in bkpcy. rejecting his proof, & the motion must be dismissed.—Re WILSON & WILSON, Ex p. MARUM (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1893; 113 L. T. 1116; [1915] H. B. R. 189.

3151. —— Who may oppose appeal—Bankrupt.]—Where, at the first meeting of the creditors of bkpt., the chairman rejects the proof tendered by a creditor for the sum at which bkpt. has entered & sworn to the debt in his statement of affairs, & the creditor appeals from such rejection, bkpt. has no locus standi to appear & oppose the appeal, even though he may have been served with notice of the appeal.—Re KNIGHT, Ex. p. SMITH & CO. (1884), 1 Morr. 74.

3152. —— Notice of motion—Time for.]—If a creditor desires to appeal against the rejection of his proof by the trustee, he must give notice of motion in the usual way under 1883 Rules, r. 19, & within the twenty-one days limited by r. 174. The old practice of applying to the ct., in the first instance, to fix a time & day for hearing such an application no longer obtains.—Re GILLESPIE, Ex p. MORRISON (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 385; 52 L. T. 55; 33 W. R. 751; 1 Morr. 278.

3153. —— —— Service of.]—Notice of appeal against the decision of the official receiver rejecting a proof for the purposes of voting must be served upon resps. within twenty-one days from the date of such decision, & must give resp. eight days before he is to be called upon to appear & argue the appeal.—Re SMITH, Ex p. VALENTINE (1910), 54 Sol. Jo. 215.

3154. —— What should be stated in petition—Grounds for rejection.]—On petitions in bkpcy. to be admitted to prove debts, which have been rejected by the comrs., petitioners ought to state to the ct. in the first instance the grounds of the comrs.' objection.—Ex p. WILSON (1787), 1 Cox, Eq. Cas. 308; 29 E. R. 1179.

3155. —— —— —— .]—A petition to enforce a claim of proof ought to state the grounds of rejection by the comrs.—Re ALDEBERT & CO., Ex p. SCHMALING (1817), Buck, 93.

3156. —— —— —— Only when grounds stated.]—In a petition, complaining of the rejection of a proof by the comrs., it is not necessary to state their grounds of rejection, unless it appears that such grounds were assigned.

The ct. will not, in the absence of evidence, assume that the comrs., in rejecting a proof, stated their reasons.—Re JAMES, Ex p. MUDIE (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 490; 11 L. J. Bcy. 18; 6 Jur. 135, Ct. of R.

3157. —— Evidence.]—On an appeal from the rejection of a proof:—Held: it is the duty of bkpt. to assist the trustee during the bkpcy., & to attend the ct. & give evidence if so required.—Re FITZGERALD, Ex p. HOBBS, [1916] H. B. R. 157.

Subsequently they put in a claim for a much larger sum, but the official assignee disallowed this claim. More than twenty-one days later the exors. applied to the ct. to have the claim admitted. The official assignee contended that, under the above sect., English 1883 Rules applied to India & that under r. 230 the application was too late:—Held: the English rule did not apply to India, & the application was not barred by time.—Re KALIDAS KESHOWJI (1902), I. SECT. 9.—EXPUNGING OR REDUCTION OF PROOF.

SUB-SECT. 1.—JURISDICTION OF COURT.

3159. To vary order reducing but not expunging proof.]—Where, upon an application to expunge a proof, an order has been made reducing it merely, the comr. has no power to entertain an application to vary that order upon the same evidence as was produced upon the former occasion, where the effect would be to expunge the proof altogether. The proper course is to appeal against the order to the Lords Justices.—Re EATON, Ex p. EATON (1856), 28 L. T. O. S. 178.

See 1914 Act, Sched. II., rr. 24, 26, & s. 108.

3160. Effect of 1861 Act, s. 155.]—The above sect. does not give to the ct. any additional power to expunge a proof beyond what it had under 1849 Act, but it simply gives to the ct. a large discretion as to the time when, & the manner in which, an application to expunge should be made. —Re ASPINWALL, Ex p. HANNAH (1866), 14 L. T. 295.

3161. Effect of order of Court of Review—Binding on commissioners.]—The comrs. have no jurisdiction to expunge a proof which has been placed on the proceedings, in pursuance of an order of the Ct. of Review.—Re MAYOR, Ex p. WHITWORTH (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 164, Ct. of R.

SUB-SECT. 2.—WHO MAY APPLY.

3162. Another creditor who has proved.]—A creditor, who has proved a debt in a bkpcy., has an interest which entitles him to apply to expunge the proof of another creditor which has been admitted by the trustee.—Re STENSON, Ex p. MERRIMAN (1883), 25 Ch. 3164. Bankrupt—With consent of all parties.]—A bkpt. applied to reduce a proof. All parties consented:—Held: the application was contrary to the law & practice in bkpcy., & should have been made by the assignees, but, as all parties consented, it might be granted, subject to an affidavit that there was no collusion, bkpt. paying the costs of all parties served.—Re POWNALL, Ex p. POWNALL (1836), 2 Mont. & A. 707, Ct. of R.

3162 ii. Another creditor who has not proved.]—Although, under Creditors' Relief Act, a creditor who does not come in within the period prescribed, may not be entitled to rank for a dividend, he is interested in the proper distribution of the money realised, & is, under s. 10 of that Act, entitled to contest the certificates of claim of other creditors.—BANK OF HAMILTON v. AITKEN (1893), 20 A. R. 616.—CAN.

3163 i. Official assignee—Under debtor's petition for arrangement—Application to expunge proof without which arrangement could not have been carried.]—A., being desirous of raising a loan for the purpose of consolidating the mtges. on his estate, employed V., a mtge. broker, to obtain the money for him on an agreement in writing that V. should receive £3 per cent. commission on the amount of the loan, if he got a firm offer. V. entered into negotiations with W. & Co., a firm of solrs. in London, who had a client willing to advance the money, on good title & proper security. V. negotiated for some time between the parties, & some of the terms were arranged, when A. proposed a larger loan than that originally sought, & the negotiations terminated. V. sued A. for £1,050, the amount of his commission, & though A. delivered a defence, he did not appear at the trial. On Jan. 11, 1895, V. obtained judgment for the full amount claimed & costs. On Jan. 12, 1895, A. presented a petition for arrangement to the Ct. of Bkpcy. in Ireland, by which he proposed to vest his estate in M., one of the official assignees, who was to act as receiver & manager over the estate, upon trust, after payment of the rent & outgoings, the costs, & a sum for maintenance to petitioner, to pay the unsecured creditors till they were paid in full. V. proved his debt, & the arrangement was carried, V.'s proof being used to carry the arrangement, at the first & second private sittings. In Ap., 1897, the first dividend was paid to the creditors, including V. In Feb., 1898, a second dividend was about to be paid, when M. applied to have V.'s proof of debt expunged, as there was no bonâ fide consideration for it:—Held: whether there was good consideration for V.'s debt or not, M. was not entitled to have it expunged, as without it the arrangement under which M. had been appointed receiver could not have been carried, & M.'s status as receiver, & his right to represent the creditor's depended on the existence of V.s, debt.—Re AN ARRANGING DEBTOR, Ex p. VAGG, [1899] 2 I. 3168. —— Application made in name of another creditor.]—A creditor, who applied to the ct. to expunge a proof, admitted he made the application at the request of & for the benefit of debtor, & not bonâ fide for his own benefit :—Held : as debtor himself could not make such an application, the application, though nominally made in the name of a creditor, could not be granted.—Re TALLERMAN, Ex p. ROONEY (1888), 57 L. The bill being dishonoured, B. sought to prove for the difference between £237 & £136. On a petition to expunge the proof :—Held : it must be expunged.—Re WETTON & PAYNE, Ex p. STONE (1822), 1 Gl. & J. 191.

3178. (1876), Buch. 160.—S. AF.

PART VIII. SECT. 9, SUB-SECT. 4.

m. Agreement not to enforce judgment—Until certain conditions fulfilled—Conditions not fulfilled.]—A. agreed in writing with C. not to enforce a judgment about to be obtained against him by consent, until he was entitled to the payment of certain money. More than six years afterwards C., who had not become so entitled, became insolvent. A. then claimed to prove absolutely against his estate for the whole amount of the judgment & six years' interest :—Held : the proof of debt, being an absolute proof, was an enforcement of the judgment contrary to the agreement & ought to be expunged.—Re MERRY (1888), 14 V. L. R. 176.—AUS.

n. Alleged alteration of bond—Lapse of time in making claim.]—A debt will not be expunged from the file of proceedings, upon an affidavit stating that the bond by which the debt was secured had been altered by some chemical process, & that the commission was issued so far back as 1815, & three dividends had been paid, & this claim never advanced until 1827.—Re FRENCH, 2 Ir. actions on the bonds & recovered judgments. A. withdrew from the bank, being then a creditor for £20,000 stock, which B. & C., by the deed of dissolution, agreed to replace by four instalments, covenanting that if they made default therein, A. might proceed on the judgments, & that he should have a lien on certain securities, both for that debt, & as an indemnity against the partnership debts, which they agreed to pay. B. & C. replaced the first instalment when due, but made default in the second. A written agreement, not under seal, was then made, that the debt should be treated as a loan of money from the first, & that the proceeds of the £15,000 stock then due, being £10,083, should be the debt, & should be repaid at a subsequent time, with legal interest. When that agreement was made, the £15,000 stock was worth only £8,437. Before any part of the £10,083 was paid, B. & C. became bkpts., & at the date of the commission, two out of the three remaining days, named in the deed of dissolution for replacing the stock, were past. While A. remained in the bank he received the full interest upon his advances, without deducting the property tax :—Held : the property tax allowed to A. could not be deducted from the sum to be proved by him, it not appearing that B. & C. had accounted to Govt. for it.—PARKER v. RAMSBOTTOM (1824), 3 B. & C. 257 ; 5 Dow. & Ry. 3180. Debt improperly proved—Duty to expunge.]—Held : it was the duty of the comrs. to expunge so much of petitioning creditor's debt as was, in their opinion, improperly proved.—Re DAWES, Ex p. NEAL (1827), 2 Gl. & J. 308.

3181. —— Double proof.]—A. drew bills to the amount of £3,000 on B., which were indorsed by C. without any consideration. All the parties became bkpts., at which time C. was indebted to A. on a distinct account in £2,000. The assignees of A. proved the debt of £2,000 under C.'s commission, & the several holders of the bills also proved the amount under C.'s commission, & received a dividend of 8*s.* in the pound :—Held : the assignees of C. should retain the dividend on the proof of £2,000 for the benefit of the general creditors, & the proof of the £2,000 should be expunged.—Ex p. MASKELYN (1787), 1 Cox, Eq. Cas. 394 ; 29 E. R. 1218, L. C.

3182. Debt discharged aliunde—Bill paid in full.]—When a party is paid aliunde, there is no right to expunge, it is a mere matter of convenience. There are many cases, where as between assignees & a creditor, the former may be bound by equities, so as to prevent the operation of a rule that a proof is to be expunged made on a bill paid in full (SIR G. 3184. Affidavit by bankrupt that debt was gaming debt—Failure of creditor to show consideration.]—A proof by exors. on a warrant of attorney had been admitted by the comrs. 3187. Proof against separate estate—Because no solvent partner—Partner solvent at time of proof—Afterwards becoming insolvent.]—Where a proof has been made against the separate estate of a partner, on the ground that there is no joint estate & no solvent partner, the fact that a partner was solvent at the time it was made, is not a ground for expunging it, if he has afterwards become insolvent.—Re LOMAX, Ex p. BAUERMAN &

p. Balance of debt proved in prior insolvency.]—On an insolvent surrendering his estate for a second time, a claim for the value of improvements made on insolvent's land admitted in the first insolvency, was again proved in the second insolvency without any account or vouchers in support thereof. On the application of a creditor, who became such after the first insolvency, the ct. ordered the proof of debt to be expunged, with leave to substantiate the claim by action.—Re LE ROUX, DE KLERK v. ZEEMAN (1896), 13 S. q. Partnership debt—Partnership dissolved before bankruptcy of one partner—No notice of dissolution to creditors.]—The ct. will not expunge the proof against the separate estate of one of two partners, who has been declared a bkpt., although the partner was solvent, & it does not appear that there was no joint estate, the partners having previous to the bkpcy. dissolved the partnership, without giving notice of such dissolution to the creditors.—Re WILLIAMS (1835), 3 Ir. L. Rec. N. S. 263.—IR.

r. Debts purchased by creditor—With intention of hindering realisation of property.]—Debtor entered into a deed of assignment for the benefit of his creditors, which was duly registered. The property assigned included a life interest, as to which it was provided that it should not be sold or disposed of by the trustee "except with the consent & by the direction of a three-fourths majority in number & value of the creditors & with the consent of debtor, or failing the consent of debtor then under & subject to the approval of the ct." The "creditors" were defined by the deed as being the signatories to the schedule of creditors & all other creditors who should assent to the deed. Several of the creditors, sufficient in number to render it impossible without some of them to obtain a three-fourths majority in number of all the creditors, assigned to debtor's mother, who was herself a creditor, their debts & proofs of debt & all their interests & rights therein. The assignments were procured by debtor with the object of benefiting himself & of hindering as far as possible the sale of his life interest, & his mother intended to use any power which she might obtain by reason of them in furtherance of that object : Held :—the trustee of the deed was not entitled to have the assigned debts expunged or to an order restraining debtor's mother from using the proofs of debt & assignments thereof or from voting thereon, or from obstructing by means of such proofs of debt or assignments thereof the realisation of the estate by the trustee.—HOWDON v. COCK (1915), 20 C. 3189. Entries in debtor's books.]—Bkpt. had absconded to America, & the comrs. expunged the proof of a debt, relying chiefly on the evidence afforded by the entries in bkpt.'s books:—Held: the proof should be restored, as evidence of that description ought not to have countervailed the oath of petitioner.—Re BYRON, Ex p. BOLER (1841), 1 Mont. 3192. ——.]—At the hearing of a petition to expunge a proof made by the holder of a promissory note, an objection to the proof was raised, on the ground that the note was not stamped, but the form of the note, & the case made by petitioner, appearing sufficiently upon the petition, & no notice having been served upon resp. to produce the note, the ct. refused to entertain the objection. —Re CLARKE, MITCHELL, PHILLIPS & SMITH, Ex p. CHRISTIE (1844), 8 Jur. 919.

3193. Advances made by bankers—But not as bankers.]—Two members of an iron co. carried on a distinct trade as bankers, but were not the ordinary bankers of the co. They made advances at interest to the co. for the purpose of relieving it, when it was in a state of difficulty & pressure, & without taking any security or asking for any security, & in such circumstances as to lead to the inference that the advances would not have been made, had not the bankers been partners in the iron co. On the co. becoming bkpt., & there being no evidence, except such as was furnished by the nature of the transaction itself, that the character of a banking transaction belonged to it:—Held: the advances, though made in fact by bankers, were not made by them in their character of bankers, & were not dealings between trade & trade, giving a right of proof against the estate of the co.; & a proof which had been admitted against the joint estate on behalf of the estate of the two partners must be expunged.—Re OLIVER, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1843), 3 Mont. 3195. Submission entered into before bankruptcy—Whether creditor bound by award.]—Where the subject-matter of the debt claimed for proof was by consent referred to arbn., & the arbitrator awarded to the creditor 40*s.* only in respect of such debt, the creditor was allowed to prove only for the sum so awarded, & a proof for a larger amount was reduced to such sum.—Re DRAY, Ex p. PARKYNS (1860), 2 L. 3196. Satisfaction by drawer of indorsees' claims—On bills accepted by bankrupt similar to bill proved on by another indorsee.]—The fact that the claims of several indorsees of bills of exchange, drawn upon & accepted by bkpts., have been satisfied by the drawer, affords no presumption that the claim of another indorsee of a similar bill of exchange drawn & accepted by the same parties had been satisfied in like manner.—Re GRANT, Ex p. GRAHAM (1863), 33 L. 3197. Matter one of account—Reference ordered.]—Where an action was brought by an extrix. & an order of reference made therein before the bkpcy. of deft., & pltf. afterwards abandoned the action & claimed under the bkpcy., the ct., on application of the assignees, refused to expunge the proof, but referred the matter to the official assignee, with liberty for him to raise & state any question for the opinion of the ct.—Re FLEET, Ex p. NASH (1864), 9 L. 3198. Conditional discharge—Granted for purpose which failed.]—Certain creditors executed a deed of release to their debtor, who had been adjudicated a bkpt., for the purpose of enabling him to petition to annul the adjudication. The proceedings, however, became abortive, by reason of all the creditors not having joined in the release. Some time afterwards bkpt. applied to expunge the proofs of the creditors who had executed the release:—Held: as the release was given for a particular purpose, it could not be used for an object not contemplated at the time of its execution.—Re CAZENEAU, Ex p. CAZENEAU (1863), 8 L. 3200. Creditor ceasing to exist—Creditor company wound up—Rights of Crown.]—A trading firm became bkpt. in 1847, & a corpn. created by stat. proved in the bkpcy., with other creditors. In 1887 the corpn. was dissolved by an order of the ct. under Cos. Acts. Afterwards it was discovered that bkpts. had been entitled to certain railway shares, & the official receiver recovered the value of the shares, & held the proceeds as trustee in the bkpcy. Another creditor moved to expunge the proof of the dissolved corpn., claiming that the money to which the corpn. had been entitled as a creditor, & which was then in the hands of the official receiver as trustee, was divisible among the still existing creditors. The county ct. judge having made an order expunging the proof:—Held: on the dissolution of the corpn. the proceeds of the shares in the hands of the official receiver as trustee in the bkpcy. had passed to the Crown as bona vacantia, & the Crown was entitled to the amount, & the order must be reversed.—Re HIGGINSON & DEAN, Ex p. A.-G., [1899] 1 Q. SUB-SECT. 5.—SERVICE OF NOTICE OF MOTION TO EXPUNGE.

See 1914 Act, s. 146, 1915 Rules, rr. 26–28, 32, 90.

3201. On agent presenting proof on behalf of foreign creditor.]—A. living in America, sent over to his agent, B., an affidavit of the debt due from bkpt., & on the production of same by B.'s attorney to the comrs., a proof was allowed of the debt. A petition having been presented to expunge the debt:—Held: service on the agent, to whom the affidavit of debt was sent, should be deemed good service.—Ex p. DUNLOP (1818), 3 Madd. 279; 56 E. R. 511.

3202. On attorney appointed to receive dividends.]—One of two partners, the other being abroad, proved a debt & died:—Held: service of the petition to expunge the debt upon the attorney appointed to receive the dividends, should be good service.—Re —, Ex p. PEYTON (1818), Buck, 200.

3203. On drawer of bill—Proof by holder against acceptor.]—Upon an application by assignees to expunge a proof upon a bill of exchange by the holder against the acceptor, because the bill had since been paid by a third party, the drawer must be served, notwithstanding the assignees have the bill in their possession.—Re BAILLIE, Ex p. GREENWOOD (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 65; 3 Deac. & Ch. 398; 3 L. J. Bcy. 24, Ct. of R.

3204. On solicitor presenting proof on behalf of creditor outside jurisdiction—By registered post.]—Where proofs had been lodged against debtor's estate by creditors, who were resident out of the jurisdiction, viz., at Edinburgh & in Western Australia, & debtor had obtained leave to move to expunge the proofs, the ct. gave leave to debtor to serve the Edinburgh creditors by sending the notices of motion by registered letter to their address in Edinburgh, & the Western Australian creditors by serving the notices of motion on the solrs. in London who had lodged their proofs.—Re CALVERT, Ex p. THE DEBTOR (1899), 80 L. T. 499; 6 Mans. 216.

SUB-SECT. 6.—WHAT EVIDENCE ADMISSIBLE AND ONUS OF PROOF.

3205. Examination of bankrupt in another commission.]—The examination of a bkpt., taken, not in his own bkpcy., but under another commission, is not, upon the death of bkpt., evidence upon a petition in his bkpcy. to expunge the debt of a creditor, but it may be used by the comrs. as a clue to direct them in the investigation of the subject upon which it has proceeded.—Re BROMER, Ex p. CAMPBELL (1814), 2 Rose, 51.

3207. Examination of bankrupt at time proof admitted.]—On petition by assignees to expunge a proof, the examination of bkpt. before the comr., taken at the time the proof was admitted, is receivable in evidence.—Re CLAY, Ex p. FREEMAN (1835), 4 Deac. & Ch. 404.

SUB-SECT. 7.—EFFECT OF EXPUNGING PROOF.

3208. As regards dividends previously paid.]—It does not follow, as a necessary consequence of the comrs.' order to expunge a proof, that the party who has made it must refund the dividends he has received upon it.—Re BENTLEY, DEAR & RICHARDSON, Ex p. WILSON, Ex p. WYMAN (1841), 1 Mont. 3209. ——.]—A firm of two persons, D. & Y., carrying on business as D., Y., & Co. at Liverpool, & of three persons, D. Y. & Y., carrying on business in Pernambuco, were adjudicated bkpts. in 1854 at Liverpool. The holder of a bill drawn by the Pernambuco firm on the Liverpool firm proved under the bkpcy., & received a dividend, after which receipt the Pernambuco firm also became bkpt., & the creditor proved the same debt against the estate there, & received a dividend in respect of it. In 1861 an order was made by the comr. in England that the proof in England should be expunged, unless the creditor paid to the assignees the dividend received by him at Pernambuco. That order was varied by the Lords Justices, who declared that the creditor was not entitled to any dividend in England, except the first which he had received, but without prejudice to any question as to that dividend, or as to any question under the foreign bkpcy. The assignees presented a petition praying that the creditor might be ordered to refund such first dividend:—Held: in the absence of all

3215. Whether leave required.]—Bkpt. was indebted to a money-lender for money lent, the money-lender holding a security for the debt. The creditor lodged a proof for the debt, stating the amount at which he valued the security. The proof was not made use of in voting at any meeting of creditors. The trustee having required the creditor to give up the security under 1883 Act, Sched. I., r. 12, he gave notice of withdrawal of the proof & of intention to correct the valuation by a new proof. The trustee then moved the Bkpcy. Ct. for an order for an account, & for relief under Money-lenders Act, 1900 (c. 51):—Held: as the proof had not been used either for purposes of voting or of claiming a dividend, the creditor was at liberty to withdraw it without the consent either of the trustee or of the ct.—Re ATTREE, Ex p. WARD, [1907] 2 K. 3222. —— —— —— ——.]—The director of a co. holding a security for a debt due to the co. proved for the whole of the debt & voted at a meeting of creditors. The trustee claimed that by so proving & voting the security had been surrendered, & he moved for a declaration that the proceeds of sale of the security should be paid to him. The co. by cross-motion applied for liberty to amend the proof under 1914 Act, Scheds. I. (10) & II. (13), (14), (15):—Held: (1) the onus was on the creditor to show that the omission to value the security was due to inadvertence; (2) the true inference on the evidence was that the director had overlooked the security at the time he made the proof, & the proof was wrongly made by inadvertence; (3) leave should be given to amend the proof on payment of the costs of the motion.—Re MAXSON, Ex p. TRUSTEE, Re MAXSON, Ex p. LAWRENCE & LAWRENCE, LTD., [1919] 2 K. 3223. —— —— —— What is inadvertence.]—One of the articles of a limited liability co. provided that the co. should have a paramount lien on all the shares not fully paid of any member for all the debts & liabilities due from such member to the co. A member of the co., who held partly paid-up shares & also fully paid-up shares, became bkpt. The co. proved in his bkpcy. for the amount due to them on his partly paid-up shares, without claiming any lien under the article, & their proof was admitted. Subsequently the co., under Cos. Act, 1862 (c. 89), s. 50, passed a resolution altering the article by omitting the words "not fully paid up," such alteration having a retrospective effect, & giving them a lien on the fully paid shares. The co. afterwards went into liquidation, & it appeared that there would be surplus assets to distribute on the fully paid-up shares. The liquidator applied in the bkpcy. that the co. might be at liberty to amend their proof, or to withdraw it & lodge a fresh one, & set up their lien on the fully paid-up shares:—Held: they were not entitled to do so, for it was not a case of inadvertence.—Re ROWE, Ex p. WEST COAST GOLD FIELDS, LTD., [1904] 2 K. 3228. —— Proof used at first meeting—Vote of no effect.]—At the first meeting the creditors resolved to accept a composition. At the second meeting a creditor, who had proved his debt at the first meeting & had voted, but who had been advised that his proof was not in a proper form, & might affect his right to a security, which he had expressed a wish to withdraw the proof & not to vote. No objection was made, & he did not vote. The composition fell through, & the vote at the first meeting had no effect:—Held: the creditor was entitled to have his proof taken off the file, the costs to be paid by the creditor.—Re WILLIAMS, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1874), L. R. 18 Eq. 373; 43 L. J. Bcy. 105; 30 L. T. 404; 22 W. R. 570.

3229. —— Part of security omitted.]—Semble: a secured creditor, who by mistake has omitted from his proof of debt a part of his security, will not necessarily be held to have forfeited that part, but may be allowed to rectify his proof.—Re KER, Ex p. BAGSHAW (1879), 13 Ch. 3230. —— —— Conditional leave given & appealed from.]—A creditor, who had proved a debt & voted in respect of it, subsequently discovered that he had omitted to state & value a certain mtge. security. He obtained leave to withdraw his proof & file an amended one upon certain conditions. Having appealed against the order, & the appeal having been dismissed, no further steps were taken by the creditor. The trustees in the bkpcy. obtained an order declaring that they were entitled to the proceeds of the mtge. security, which had been omitted from the original proof:—Held: the matter was not res judicata, &, as there had been a bonâ fide mistake on the part of the proving creditor in the omission of his mtge. security, he was entitled to have it rectified & to amend his proof.—Re GREAVES, Ex p. WHITTON (1880), 43 L. T. 480.

3231. —— Security increased in value after proof—Notice of intention to redeem at original valuation—Payment of assessed value—Notice putting trustee to election.]—A creditor held as security for his debt a policy of insurance on the life of bkpt. for £200. This security the creditor in his proof valued at £21. The trustee gave him written notice of his intention to redeem at that value. Shortly afterwards bkpt. died, & £200 became due on the policy. Before any further step had been taken the creditor claimed to amend his valuation & proof by increasing the value of the security to £200:—Held: the right of the creditor to amend his proof under 1883 Act, Sched. II., r. 13, was not put to an end by the notice:—Semble: the amendment could not be allowed after the trustee had paid the assessed value to the creditor, or if, the creditor had by notice put the trustee to his election whether he would redeem the security at the assessed valuation, & the trustee had elected.—Re SADLER, Ex p. NORRIS (1886), 17 Q. 3232. —— —— —— Tender not equivalent to payment.]—A secured creditor valued his security, which consisted of a policy of insurance for £500 upon the life of debtor, at £10. A year later debtor died, & the trustee in bkpcy. a few days afterwards tendered the assessed value of the policy, & served a written notice that he elected to redeem the security at its assessed value. The creditor refused, & applied to the ct. to amend his proof:—Held: such time had not elapsed, or events happened, to deprive the creditor of his right of amendment, & the tender, even though coupled with a written notice of the trustee's election to redeem at the assessed valuation, did not amount to payment.—Re NEWTON, Ex p. NATIONAL PROVINCIAL BANK OF ENGLAND, [1896] 2 Q. 3233. —— —— Whether conditional withdrawal or amendment granted.]—A creditor, who claims to hold security for part of his debt, & who makes a proof for the unsecured balance for the purpose of voting on a composition proposed by debtor, which proof is admitted for voting by the official receiver, will not, while an appeal against the decision of the official receiver is pending, be allowed, on the ground that the security has increased in value, to withdraw the proof conditionally, but leave may be given to the creditor to amend the proof by revaluing his security.—Re CLARK, Ex p. BUENOS AYRES & PACIFIC RY. CO., LTD., [1901] 1 Q. B. 655; 70 L. J. Q. B. 259; 84 L. T. 208; 49 W. R. 528; 45 Sol. Jo. 206; 8 Mans. 136.

3234. —— —— Whether creditor disentitled to amend by conduct.]—In 1895 a debtor, against whom a receiving order had been made, lodged a scheme providing for the payment of 10*s.* in the pound to his unsecured creditors, exclusive of M., whom he alleged to be fully secured. The scheme was duly accepted by the creditors. M. took no part in the proceedings, but lodged a proof, in which he assessed the value of his security, which was a mtge. subject to a jointure in favour of debtor's wife, at one-half of the amount of his debt, & proved as an unsecured creditor for the other half. The scheme fell through in consequence of M.'s proof, which he refused to withdraw, & debtor's estate paid only 1s. in the pound. Debtor's wife died in Jan., 1903, & in 1904 M. applied to amend his proof by revaluing his security on the footing that he was fully secured :—Held : M. had done nothing to disentitle himself to the relief he claimed, & his application must be granted.—Re FANSHAWE, Ex p. LE MARCHANT, [1905] 1 K. 3235. —— Security deducted in error—After proceedings terminated.]—B. & Co. were creditors of a partnership for £2,400, for which they held a security comprising joint property of the firm & also separate property of one of the partners. The joint creditors of the firm agreed to accept a composition, & B. & Co. valued their security at £800, & proved & received the composition upon the balance. Subsequently they received from their security more than £800 & interest from the date of valuation. Four years after the close of the composition debtors brought an action to redeem their security. B. & Co. claimed to retain the security on the separate property until they had received payment in full of their claim : —Held : (1) although B. & Co. need not have deducted the value of the separate security, yet, as the composition had been fixed, & the whole proceeding in the composition had been taken & completed upon the footing of the valuation of the compound security at £800, it was too late to upset the transaction ; (2) leave to amend the proof could not then be given, whatever might have been the case had a proper application for that purpose been made during the pendency of the composition proceedings.—COULDERY v. BARTRUM (1881), 19 Ch. 3236. —— Security undervalued at time of proof.]—A mtgee., who has valued his security, will, in a proper case, be allowed to amend his valuation & proof, on the ground that by mistake he had underestimated the security, notwithstanding the opposition of a subsequent mtgee.—Re ARDEN, Ex p. ARDEN (1884), 14 Q. 3237. —— Security overvalued.] — Debtor's estate was vested in the trustees under a scheme of arrangement, approved by the ct. under 1890 Act, s. 3. The net proceeds were to be applied in payment of (1) the expenses, (2) the preferential debts, & (3) a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on the unsecured debts in three instalments. The payment in full of the instalments at their respective dates was further secured by the joint & several promissory notes of the trustees. A creditor who had made no claim for a year, & then had overvalued his security, applied to amend his proof by revaluing his security :—Held : he was entitled to revalue his security, & prove for the balance.—Re MORTER, Ex p. NICHOLLS (1897), 45 W. 3238. —— Proof by agent as principal.]—Where the creditors at the first meeting, under a petition for a liquidation pursuant to 1869 Act, s. 125, only voted an adjournment :—Held : a proof which had been inadvertently admitted, & in respect of which the creditor had voted for the adjournment, might be taken off the file, in circumstances showing that the party, in whose name the proof was made as the principal, was only an agent in the matter.—Re RUSSELL, Ex p. B. 3240. —— Proof rejected on technical grounds—Proof rejected on merits.]—A proof was rejected on its merits. The creditor did not appeal against the rejection, but withdrew his proof, reserving the right to present a fresh proof. He subsequently represented the rejected proof :—Held : although a proof rejected on technical grounds might be withdrawn & a fresh proof tendered, a proof rejected on its merits must be appealed from within the time limited by 1886 Rules, r. 230.—Re DEERHURST, Ex p. SEATON (1891), 8 Morr. 258.

d. When amendment required—Proof originally admitted as preferent.] —A creditor, who was in fact a concurrent creditor, proved as a preferent creditor & his proof was allowed as preferent, but the trustee in his distribution account only awarded him a dividend as a concurrent creditor :—Held : the trustee was not bound first to apply to the ct. for an amendment of the proof of debt.—DREYFUS & Co. v. ESTATE NAPIER (1907), 24 S. e. What amounts to withdrawal.]—C. held a policy of insurance on the life of M., an arranging debtor, as security for his debt, & proved for his debt in the arrangement valuing his security, the unsecured balance amounting to £786. M.'s proposition to pay a composition in four instalments was accepted ; he made default in payment of the third instalment, & thereupon presented a second petition for arrangement & proposed a cash composition of 5*s.* in the pound, which was accepted. C. filed a proof for £972, in which he expressly included the amount of the first proof (£786), & credited the composition instalments paid, the balance being the price of goods supplied since the first arrangement, & with his proof filed a release or waiver, by which it was agreed that he should make no claim for the composition payable in respect of his debt, but that it should be taken in M.'s application for a certificate that the resolution had been carried into effect as regards C. M. paid the other creditors & obtained his certificate, & subsequently paid C. the composition of 5*s.* on the amount of his proof :—Held : the waiver or release did not amount to a withdrawal of proof by C.—MAHALM v. M'CULLAGH & SCOTTISH AMICABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (1891), 27 L. why this should be done, & notwithstanding the fact that, when a bonâ fide mistake has been committed in the estimation of a proof, the trustee in the bkpcy. ought not to be permitted to take a technical advantage of such mistake, where a creditor for more than a year & a half took no steps to reverse the decision of the county ct. judge, refusing to allow such creditor to amend or withdraw his proof alleged to be so wrongly estimated:—Held: the ct. could not permit him to reopen the case for the purpose of setting aside that decision.—Re TRICKS, Ex p. CHARLES (1885), 3 Morr. 15.

SECT. 11.—SUBSTITUTION OF PROOF.

3243. Procedure — Legal assignees.]—If an assignor refuses to pay over dividends received by him to his assignee, or to give the trustee a proper authority to pay the dividends to him, the assignee may prove in his own name in substitution for his assignor, & in that case will become a creditor & be entitled to receive payment of dividends for the trustee.—Re FROST, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1899] 2 Q. 3256. On jurisdiction of court.]—If a creditor has proved, it gives the ct. a jurisdiction quite different from that which it is authorised to exercise, where there has been no proof.—Re OLIVER, Ex p. HILTON (1820), 1 Jac. & W. 467 ; 37 E. R. 446, L. C.

3257. —— Limited to extent of proof.]—A petitioning creditor fraudulently sued out a commission, & prevailed upon twelve persons to make proofs on fictitious debts, for the purpose of carrying the choice of assignees, which object was attained, in opposition to the bonâ fide creditors. The assignees were afterwards removed, but not till one of them had absconded with a large sum belonging to bkpt.'s estate, & when the whole fraud was discovered, the proofs were ordered to be expunged, & the dividends received on them repaid. Two of the parties, however, having become insolvent, were unable to repay the dividends, & the estate in other ways sustained considerable loss from the fraudulent proofs. The fresh assignees, who had been appointed under an order of the ct., petitioned that five of the parties, who had made such fraudulent proofs might be ordered to make good the sum abstracted by the defaulting assignee, & all the other loss which had thus been occasioned to the estate :—Semble : (1) as it did not appear that any of the parties contemplated the abstraction of the funds by the defaulting assignee, at the time of their respective proofs, the ct. had no jurisdiction to order them to make good the loss experienced by his default, which was only a substantive ground of charge against him, in his character of assignee ; (2) the circumstance of a party having proved a debt under a commission, merely vested in the ct. a jurisdiction to the extent of the proof.—Re SMITH, Ex p. BRAND (1836), 1 Deac. 308 ; 2 Mont. & A. 707 ; 5 L. J. Bcy. 57, Ct. of R.

3258. —— To decide collateral matters.]—Whatever it is necessary to decide collaterally to the point of proof, will give jurisdiction in bkpcy.—Re BRICKWOOD, Ex p. ROWTON (1810), 1 Rose, 15 ; 17 Ves. 426 ; 34 E. R. 165, L. C.

3259. —— Over party seeking to prove—Injunction against continuing action at law.]—If a creditor, who is proceeding at law, present a petition that he may be admitted to prove, he brings himself within the jurisdiction of the Great Seal, & will be enjoined from proceeding at law.—Ex p. HARDENBERGH (1812), 1 Rose, 204, L. 3260. —— —— Foreigner.]—When a foreign creditor comes in & proves his debt under an English bkpcy., & receives a dividend in respect of his debt, he thereby submits to the jurisdiction of the ct., & is as much bound by all the proceedings, & the ct. has as much authority over him, as though he were resident in England.—Re MORTON, Ex p. ROBERTSON (1875), L. PART VIII. SECT 13.

o. On rights of legatee—Necessity for election—Between proof & action on devastavit.]—V. bequeathed £1,500 each to his daughters, & also an annuity of £40 each, charged on house property until they should have been provided for by the payment of the legacy, on payment of which the annuities should cease. He bequeathed the house property to his sons A. & B., whom he appointed exors., & directed that they should, within three years after his decease, invest £3,000 in stock, for the purpose of discharging the legacies to his daughters. A. & B. were traders, & did not invest the £3,000, in pursuance of the direction in the will, but paid interest at £6 per cent. on the legacies, & also the annuities to the daughters. B. died, & A. became bkpt. The daughters proved for the legacies, under a ruling of the comr., that they should elect to do so within a given time, & the house property was sold in the bkpcy., subject to the annuities :—Held : the daughters, by proving in the bkpcy., had not waived their right to the annuities.—GATCHELL v. GEOGHEGAN (1857), 6 I. Ch. R. 312.—IR.

3262 i. On creditors right to sue—Necessity for election—Between proof & continuing action at law.]—A person cannot come into the Ct. of Ch., & claim any benefit from a commission of bkpcy. without giving up his proceedings at law, but it is not so, where he claims no benefit, but wishes to have it set aside as an imposition on the ct.—Re BURGESS (1828), 1 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 374.—IR.

Sect. 13.—Effect of proof.]

3261. On rights of landlord—Necessity for election—Between proof & distress.]—A landlord is considered in a higher degree than a common creditor, & it would be hard to preclude him from distraining where there are goods on the premises, & he must be put to his election to waive his proof or his distress.—Ex p. GROVE (1747), 1 Atk. 104; 26 E. R. 69, L. C.

3262. On creditor's right to sue—Necessity for election—Between proof & continuing action at law.]—A man who has a debt may come in & prove his debt & afterwards he may bring an action at law, & the ct. will not absolutely stop him from bringing an action, but put him to his election, & even then allow him to assent or dissent to the certificate.—Ex p. GROVE (1747), 1 Atk. 104; 26 E. R. 69, L. C.

3263. —— Proof & action begun before 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 14.]—Where a creditor had both proved his debt under a commission of bkpcy., & commenced an action against bkpt., before the passing of 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 14 :—Held : that Act did not compel him to relinquish his action.—ATHERSTONE v. HUDDLESTON (1809), 2 Taunt. 181; 127 E. R. 1046.

3264. —— Proof & action for same debt—No dividend received.]—A creditor, who had proved, was restrained from proceeding for the same demand in the county ct., although there was no dividend.—Re FLOWER, Ex p. FLOWER (1847), De G. 503; 16 L. J. Bcy. 9; 9 L. T. O. S. 202; 11 Jur. 482, Ct. of R.

3265. —— —— Debt substantially but not actually same in amount.]—Deft. having been convicted on an indictment for a nuisance, on his being called up for judgment, an order was made by consent, respiting the judgment until a report should be made, as to the nuisance, by a referee, & ordering the costs to be taxed. The costs were taxed, but the referee refused to undertake the reference. Deft. not having on demand, paid the taxed costs, prosecutors issued a fi. fa., which proved unfruitful; afterwards deft. became bkpt., & the prosecutors proved the taxed amount of costs under the bkpcy., upon which a dividend of 2*s.* 10*d.* was declared. Afterwards, deft. was called up for judgment & sentenced, & prosecutors thereupon took out a side bar rule for taxation, & the allocatur was given for a sum including the amount formerly taxed, with a small addition for the costs of the last bringing up for judgment. Deft. & his bail not having paid those costs, a motion was made to attach him, & to estreat the recognisances :—Held : as against deft., the rule must be discharged, the proof in bkpcy. having been made for substantially the same sum as that in the last allocatur.—R. v. HILLS (1853), 2 E. & B. 176; 22 L. 3266. —— —— Balance due on composition—Rights reserved in event of instalments being in arrears—No arrears at date of bankruptcy.]—A mtgee. agreed to accept a composition by instalments in respect of the mtge. debt, upon condition that if any instalment should be unpaid for ten days after it became due, the mtgee. should be remitted to his original rights & remedies. He proved under the bkpcy. of the mtgor. for the amount remaining due upon the composition, no instalment being then in arrear :—Held : he had made his election to come in under the bkpcy., & could not take advantage of the condition to increase his proof upon default being made in paying an instalment subsequent to such proof.—Re COLLIER & COLLIER, Ex p. SMITH (1853), 1 Bankr. & Ins. R. 61.

3267. —— —— Proof on judgment for master's wages—Action in rem against ship—Ship having changed hands.]—A master having sued for his wages at common law & recovered judgment, which judgment remains unsatisfied in consequence of deft.'s bkpcy., & having further proved his debt under deft.'s bkpcy., is entitled to sue the ship in the Admlty. Ct., notwithstanding the ship

3264 i. —— Proof & action for same debt—Stay of proceedings.]—Deft. having been adjudicated, & pltf. having proved for the amount of bills of exchange, he commenced an action on the bills. In Nov., 1867, a defence was filed, & in Jan., 1868, deft. obtained a certificate of conformity :—Held : the proceedings should be stayed.—LEESON v. OUTHWAITE (1868), 2 I. L. T. Jo. 353.—IR.

3264 ii. —— —— Dividend received—Discharge suspended.]—A firm proved their debt, & opposed bkpt.'s final discharge, which was suspended. The firm received a dividend, &, during his suspension, sued bkpt. for their debt, giving credit for the dividend :—Held : the firm had elected to come in under the adjudication & action stayed.—GRAVE v. BURTON, 1 J. R. 181.—N.Z.

3264 iii. —— —— —— Discharge refused.]—A creditor, who has proved a debt under a liquidation under Debtor & Creditor Act, 1875, & received a dividend, is not barred from suing for the balance where the order of discharge has been refused.—Re HERBERTSON v. BLACKETT, 2 J. R. N. S. 166.—N.Z.

3264 iv. —— —— —— —— Certificate not obtained.]—A creditor, though he proves a debt, & is paid a dividend, may, if bkpt. has not obtained his certificate, proceed with an action to recover the same debt. After bkpt. has obtained his certificate, the ct. will not restrain the creditor from proceeding with the action, but will leave bkpt. to apply to the ct. in which the proceedings are pending.—Re PURDES & OUTWAITHE (1868), 2 I. R. Eq. 264; 2 I. L. T. Jo. 266.—IR.

3264 v. —— —— Debt contracted by fraud.]—Pltf. sued deft., an insolvent, who had obtained his discharge under a composition, for a debt alleged to have been contracted in such circumstances that the imprisonment of debtor for enforcing payment was permitted :—Held : pltfs. had not precluded themselves from enforcing the claim by having proved it in the ordinary way, & not as a debt contracted by fraud, or by having taken notes made by deft. & his sureties for the composition, & received payment of one of them.—MCMASTER v. KING (1878), 3 A. R. 106.—CAN.

p. —— Right to prove on promissory notes made by husband & wife—& levy execution on wife's property.]—F. conveyed real estate to O., who then conveyed to the wife of F. Afterwards F. became an insolvent & the transaction was declared void as against his assignee, who sold the property to defts. Pending the proceeding pltf. had obtained execution on a judgment against F.'s wife, on promissory notes made by her & F. under which the sheriff, after the sale by the assignee, sold all her interest in the property to pltf., who proved his claim on the notes & received a dividend in the insolvency :—Held : he was not estopped from asserting that the property was exigible under his execution against F.'s wife.—BEEMER v. OLIVER (1884), 10 A. R. 656.—CAN.

q. —— Whether entitled to prove against estate of surety for composition—& against estate of principal debtor.]—The principal debtor & his cautioner under a composition arrangement were sequestrated without having paid the composition, & the creditors claimed on the estate of debtor for their original debts, & on the estate of the cautioner for the amount of the composition :—Held : the creditors had not abandoned or forfeited their right to claim on the cautioner's estate for the composition debt by claiming on debtor's estate for the full debt.—THOMSON & CRAIG v. LATTA (1863), 35 Sc. Jur. 545.—SCOT.

r. —— —— ——.]—V. became security for payment of a composition by an arranging trader. When two instalments had been paid, the case was turned into bkpcy. The creditors proved against the estate of the principal for their first bills, giving credit for the instalments paid. V. then became bkpt. The creditors were not allowed to prove on his estate for two sets of unpaid bills, they having made their election.—Re SHEEHAN & FREHAN'S ESTATE (1863), 16 Ir. Jur. 198.—IR.

3270. —— Right to prove joint debt under commission against one partner—And sue all partners for same debt.]—Separate commissions of bkpcy. were issued against three of four partners, to which they conformed & passed their examination. An order was made for allowing the joint creditors to prove their debts under the commission of one of the three, under which commission pltfs. proved their joint debt, & afterwards sued all the partners for same debt, & arrested one of the other two, under whose commission they had not proved :—Held : he was not entitled to be discharged out of custody.—YOUNG v. HUNTER (1812), 16 East, 252 ; 104 E. 3272. —— Right to prove for debt due to retiring partner by continuing partner—& sue in regard to partnership debts subsequently paid by retiring partner.]—A. & B. having dissolved partnership, an award was made between them, by which B. was directed to pay A. a sum certain, & to pay several partnership debts. B. gave a warrant of attorney for securing the money awarded, with a stipulation in the defeasance that, if A. should be called upon to pay any of the partnership debts, he should be at liberty to enter up judgment. B. became bkpt., & A. proved his private debt under the commission, & received a dividend thereon. A. was afterwards sued for a partnership debt, & entered into an arrangement with the creditor to pay it by instalments, & then entered up judgment, & took out execution on the warrant of attorney, before B. had obtained his certificate :—Held : A. was not deprived of his remedy by 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 3 & 14.—DALLY v. WOLFERSTON (1823), 3 Dow. & Ry. 3273. —— Right to prove on bills accepted by one partner—& sue other partners.]—One of the members of a foreign firm resident in England, bought goods on account of the firm, for which he gave his own acceptances. Before the maturity of the bills, the acceptor became bkpt., & the drawer, or those to whom he had indorsed them, proved for the amount against the acceptor's estate, & received dividends :—Held : the vendor of the goods, to whom the bills had been returned, had done nothing to prejudice his right to have recourse against the other members of the firm for the unpaid balance, & the mere fact of the vendor's having dealt with the resident partner, made out the invoices to him individually, & drawn upon him alone, though aware that he was a member of a firm, & that the goods were to be shipped for the firm, made no difference.—BOTTOMLEY v. NUTTALL (1858), 5 C. 3283 i. —— Where two distinct debts—Both debts due at time of proof.]—A docket of bkpcy. was struck against deft. & a commission issued, at which time deft. was indebted to pltf. for goods sold & on a promissory note. Pltf. having abandoned an action, which he had commenced before the striking of the docket for the amount of the goods, proved under commission for the amount claimed, & afterwards arrested deft. on the promissory note, for which he continued in custody :—Held : this was not the case of the splitting of a single simple contract, & proceeding at law for one moiety & proving for the other, & a motion to have deft. discharged out of custody must be refused.—CHRISTY v. NEWELL (1831), Alc. & N. 28.—IR.

3282. —— ——Limits of application of 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 14.]—Declaration upon four bills of exchange. Plea in bar that deft. was indebted to pltfs. in large sums of money for goods sold, & that, for securing to pltfs. the several sums of money, deft., before his bkpcy., accepted a bill of exchange drawn by pltfs., for & in payment of one of the several sums of money in which he was so indebted, & that he had accepted each of the several bills of exchange for which the action was brought, in payment of one other of the several sums of money in which he so stood indebted. The plea then stated that deft. had duly become bkpt., that the bills of exchange mentioned in the declaration were provable under the commission, & that pltfs. being creditors of deft. for the amount of the money comprised in all the several bills, proved the amount of one bill only under the commission, & thereby made their election to take the benefit of the commission, not only with respect to the debt so proved, but also as to the bills & debts mentioned in the declaration :—Held : the election of the creditor to take the benefit of the commission, was confined by the above sect. to the debt actually proved, & did not extend to distinct debts ejusdem generis due at the same time, & the plea could not be supported.—HARLEY v. GREENWOOD (1821), 5 B. & Ald. 95 ; 106 E. 3284. —— —— Separate bill transactions.]—Bkpt. & R. had various bill transactions with each other, which were entered in a regular debtor & creditor account current. R. proved on four of the bills credited in the account for the sum of £800, & afterwards brought an action against bkpt., to recover the amount of four other bills, amounting to £620, which were also included & credited in the account current, & which were returned dishonoured to R., after he had proved for the £800 :—Held : the £800 & £620 must be considered as distinct & separate debts, & the proof for the one did not prevent the creditor from suing bkpt. for the other.—Re NEWTON, Ex p. NEWTON (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 422 ; 11 L. J. Bcy. 7 ; 6 Jur. 68, Ct. of R.

s. On right to sign judgment.]—A writ was served on deft. by pltf. on Feb. 12, & on the 15th a debtor's summons, & on the 18th deft. filed a declaration of insolvency, notice of which was given to pltf.'s attorney. On Mar. 1 pltf. filed a petition for adjudication against deft., & subsequently a proof of debts, on which deft. was adjudicated a bkpt. At the meeting for the appointing of a trade assignee pltf. & his agent alone proved & voted. The meeting for final examinations adjourned sine die. On Dec. 6 a petition of appeal was presented against the refusal of the ct. to pass a final examination, & on Dec. 17 a case by way of answer was filed ; on Dec. 19 judgment was marked, & subsequently deft. was arrested. The Exch. Ct. set aside the judgment & discharged deft.—GIROND v. BURKE (1863), 8 I. L. T. Jo. 450.—IR.

t. On right to enforce judgment.]—A judgment debtor who had been adjudicated bkpt., & whose final examination was adjourned sine die, was arrested for a judgment debt which had been proved in bkpcy. by the creditor. The ct., on motion, ordered his discharge out of custody.—JOHNSTON v. GERMAINE (1872), 6 I. L. T. 121.—IR.

w. On rights of mortgagee.] — A mtgee. proved under the arrangement clauses. The case was turned into bkpcy. :—Held : such proof was not an abandonment of his right as mtgee., but an establishment of that right, the mortgaged property having been valued, & credit given for its worth.—Re WILSON (1861), 14 Ir. Jur. 328.—IR.

3285 i. On right to levy execution—For costs of unsuccessful action by insolvent —No dividend received.]—Pltf. filed his bill on Mar. 14, 1874. On the 31st an attachment in insolvency was issued by deft. against pltf. The decree dismissed pltf.'s bill with costs, in Oct., 1874. Deft. proved against the estate for the costs of the suit, but did not take his dividend, & took no further steps to recover his claim until after the order for discharge of pltf., when he issued execution :—Held : the proving against the estate for the costs, when the claim was not legally provable, did not operate as an estoppel in pais. — STEVENSON v. SEXSMITH (1880), 8 P. R. 286.—CAN.

3285 ii. —— Who may take objection.]—Pltf., a judgment creditor of deft., proved his claim before the assignee under Insolvent Act ; afterwards, & before deft. obtained his discharge, pltf. issued execution on his judgment, & levied upon property which insolvent had not included in his schedule of assets :—Held : whether the property belonged to deft. at the time of his insolvency, or was the property of a third person, he had no right to apply to set aside the execution, as in either case he could have no right to it.—JONES v. DES BRISAY (1871), N. B. Dig. 714.—CAN.

3285. On right to levy execution—On bankrupt's property in hands of trustee.]—A creditor who has proved will, upon a petition by the assignees, be restrained from issuing execution against the property of bkpt. in the possession of the assignees. —Re CHAMBERS & SON, Ex p. BERNASCONI (1828), 2 Gl. & J. 381.

3286. —— Jurisdiction against execution creditor not proving.]—The ct. has not, by 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 108, jurisdiction against an execution creditor, who does not prove.—Re WHITEHEAD, Ex p. BOTCHERLEY (1828), 2 Gl. & J. 367.

3287. —— For costs—Proof for debt before judgment.]—Where deft. in an action has become bkpt., after verdict & before judgment, & pltf. has proved for the debt., but has not been permitted to prove for the costs, the ct. will, upon summary application, under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 59, stay proceedings by sci. fa. in the action for the recovery of the costs.—WOODWARD v. MEREDITH (1844), 2 Dow. & L. 135; 13 L. 3288. On rights of sureties—For bond given for part of debt proved.]—On Feb. 1 pltfs. commenced an action against A. & B. to recover the amount of a bill of exchange for £468 1*s.* 9*d.*, & also a large sum for goods sold & delivered, money paid, & money due upon an account stated. They afterwards filed an affidavit in the Ct. of Bkpcy. under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 8, alleging A. & B. to be indebted to them in £468 1*s.* 9*d.*, for which sum A. & B. on Feb. 11 gave a bond with sureties pursuant to the Act. On Mar. 21 pltfs. signed judgment against A. & B., against whom a fiat in bkpcy. had issued, for £1,332 19*s.* 6*d.*, which included the £468 1*s.* 9*d.* On Apr. 5 pltfs. proved their debt under the fiat, excluding the amount of the bill of exchange, in respect of which the bond had been entered into, & on Apr. 12 they lodged a ca. sa. against A. & B., & on May 30 commenced actions against the sureties upon the bond:—Held: the proof under the fiat was an election to relinquish the action against A. & B., &, the principal debtors being thus entitled to be discharged if rendered pursuant to the condition of the bond, the sureties were entitled to summary relief on motion.—GEIKIE v. HEWSON (1842), 4 Man. & G. 618; 5 Scott, N. R. 484; 134 E. R. 254.

3289. On party undertaking to get bankrupt to refer dispute.]—A., an attorney, in order to get possession of papers belonging to B., in the hands of C., B.'s former attorney, who had a lien upon them for the amount of his bill then in dispute, undertook that B. should enter into an unqualified reference, not revocable, etc. B. having become subsequently bkpt. for the second time, & without paying 15*s.* in the pound:—Held: the proof of the debt under the commission was not an election by C. under 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 14, so as to dispense with the reference, & A. was liable, pursuant to his undertaking, to procure B.'s signature to an agreement of reference, & to find security for the performance of the award to the satisfaction of the master.—Ex p. HUGHES (1822), 5 B. & Ald. 482; 106 E. 3290. On creditor's right to question validity of commission.]—An assignee, who has proved his debt, & against whom an action is directed to be brought to try his right to property of bkpt. alleged to have been fraudulently delivered to him, cannot dispute the validity of the commission; if he does, it is at the hazard of his proof. —Re GREEN, Ex p. JEEKS (1813), 1 Rose, 393, L. 3293. —— —— Unpaid vendor.]—X. bought hops of T., on a custom known in the hop trade as W.O., i.e., the hops were to wait the order of X. in T.'s warehouse, & to be charged for warehouse room & insurance. X. paid for the hops by bills of exchange, which were dishonoured at maturity. X. afterwards registered a deed of composition, which was assented to & executed by T. to the full amount of his debt in respect of the dishonoured bills:—Held: T.'s assent & execution of the deed operated as a proof in bkpcy., & as an abandonment of his lien for unpaid purchase-money.—Re OXLEY, Ex p. TURNBULL (1868), 19 L. 3291 i. How far equivalent to payment —Discharge of lien—Bailee.]—S. stored fish with defts., which he afterwards sold to R., giving him a memorandum headed "R. bought of S." signed by the latter. R. paid half in cash, & gave S. a note for the balance, which was indorsed by defts., & retired by them at maturity. R., after the sale, became insolvent, & pltf., his assignee, produced at the first meeting of creditors a statement of assets, the first item of which was "236 bbls. mackerel stored at B. Bros.," defts. One of defts. attended the meeting & saw the statement, remarking to those present that he was not aware of any fish of R.'s stored with them, but he gave no such intimation to the assignee or inspector, &, long after, defts. made a claim on the estate for the amount of the note, stating that they held no security, & a dividend was paid them. The assignee having brought an action of trover for the fish:—Held: as defts. had knowledge that the fish sued for were included by insolvent in the statement of his assets, to which statement they made no objection, but proved against the estate for the whole amount of insolvent's note, & received a dividend thereon, they could not claim the fish or set up a claim for lien thereon.—TROOP v. HART (1882), 7 S. d. In colonial bankruptcy—On right to receive dividends in Scottish sequestration.]—A co. carrying on business in Glasgow & Sydney became insolvent, & a commission of bkpcy. issued against them in Australia. Six weeks afterwards they were sequestrated in Scotland. Both processes of distribution proceeded concurrently with the full consent of all parties, the assets of bkpts. in Australia being managed by the assignee under the commission of bkpcy., & the estates in Scotland being managed by the trustee. A creditor, who had obtained payment of 7*s.* 6*d.* per pound under the Australian commission, claimed to rank in Scotland for his full debt, without deduction of the sum received by him in Australia. The trustee refused the claim, & declared an equalising dividend of 7*s.* 6*d.* per pound out of the funds in Scotland in favour of the creditors who had not recovered in Australia. 3332. To decide all questions in regard to securities—& as to debt due.]—Two partners, A. & B., dissolved partnership, on the terms that A. should make over all his interest in the partnership property to B., & should be indemnified by him against all the debts. One of the partnership debts was due to a banking co., who held, as security, property of the partnership, & also separate property of A. A. agreed to make over all his interest in the securities in the hands of the bank to B. to enable him to pay the debts of the partnership. B. afterwards executed a deed of composition with his creditors, which was registered under 1861 Act, by which it was agreed that the creditors holding securities should only be entitled to a composition on the balance due to them, after giving credit for the value of their securities. A. filed a bill against the bank & B., praying relief against the bank for neglect in realising their securities, & praying for a declaration that if the bank resorted to his separate property, which, he stated, was not intended to be made over to B., he was entitled to have the loss sustained by him made good out of the fund raised under the deed of composition. Two of the creditors, parties to the deed, applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an order declaring the rights of all parties in the securities, & to restrain A. from taking any proceedings in law or equity with respect to them :—Held : the ct. had jurisdiction to decide all questions relating to the securities & the debt due to the bank, but the ct. would not stay the suit in Ch. as it prayed relief against the bank & B., which could not be obtained under the deed.—Re TAYLOR & RUMBOLL, Ex p. RUMBOLL (1871), 6 Ch. The auctioneer sold them on those terms, stated in the conditions of sale, & received part of the price from some of the purchasers, but H., who had purchased part, took them away without payment, & without the consent of the auctioneer or of P. H. refused to pay, offering to set off a debt due to him from P., but that was declined. H. having obtained judgment against P., obtained an order to attach the price of the goods remaining in the auctioneer's hands under C. L. P. Act, 1854, s. 61, which was served on the garnishee. On the same day, but after the service, P. became bkpt., & his assignees claimed the money from the garnishee:—Held: the effect of s. 62 was that the service bound the debt so as to render the judgment creditor a creditor having security for his debt, within 1849 Act, s. 184, but did not give a lien, so as to bring him within the exception in that sect., & the judgment creditor could not prevail against the assignees.—HOLMES v. TUTTON (1855), 5 E. & B. 65; 24 L. 3338. —— Assignment for benefit of creditors before payment by garnishee.]—Declaration, for a debt due from deft. to S., by pltfs. as trustees under a deed for the benefit of the creditors of S. under 1861 Act, all the requirements of which had been complied with so as to vest the debt in pltfs. Plea, that the judgment creditor of S. had obtained an order, attaching deft.'s debt & calling on him to show cause why he should not pay it to the judgment creditor, that deft. having no notice of the trust deed had no cause to show, & an order was made upon him to pay the debt to the judgment creditor, that this order was, before deft. had any notice of the trust deed, served upon him, & deft., in compliance with the order, & to avoid & because he could not otherwise have avoided execution, paid the debt to the judgment creditor. Replication, that the trust deed was registered under 1861 Act, before payment by deft. to the judgment creditor :—Held : though the payment by deft. to the judgment creditor was made after the registration of the deed, the plea must be taken to mean, either that deft. paid without notice of the deed, or, if with notice, that it was in such circumstances that he was unable to get the order set aside before he was compelled to pay to save execution being actually levied, &, in either case, the payment was a protection to deft., the garnishee, as made under an order of a ct. of competent authority.

Semble, pltfs.' remedy was against the judgment creditor for money received to their use, as he was in the position of a person having security for his debt, but not a lien, within 1849 Act, s. 184.—WOOD v. DUNN (1866), L. 3340. —— Made absolute before bankruptcy.]—An attachment under C. L. P. Act, 1854, ss. 61–63, being a seizure by way of execution for a debt due from a specific person named in the garnishee order, resembles an actual seizure by a sheriff, & a garnishee order absolute is a security on the property of the judgment debtor within 1869 Act, s. 12, & if he afterwards becomes bkpt. the execution creditor is a creditor holding security.

A creditor, who has obtained & made absolute a garnishee order before the bkpcy. of his debtor, is a creditor holding "a charge" on bkpt.'s estate, as a security for a debt due to him, within 1869 Act, s. 16 (5).—EMANUEL v. BRIDGER (1874), L. Under that impression he made payments for gas & rent, in respect of which the ct. declared him a salvage creditor on the proceeds to be received out of the premises. In the same way he was induced to bid for the hotel himself, on the understanding with the solrs. for the assignees that he would have to advance only a certain sum over the amount due to him, & for which he would get credit as against the purchase money, but creditors having objected that the amount so bid was insufficient, the hotel & furniture were, with his consent, sold to another person, under an order of the ct. directing "the hotel premises" to be put up for sale by auction as a "going concern," & B. was treated as a necessary party to the deed of conveyance & giving up of possession to the purchaser. B. having claimed to be declared entitled to payment, out of the purchase money, of the amount due on foot of the bill of sale, which was resisted by the assignees, relying on the order & disposition clause of 1857 Act:—Held: independently of the doctrine of estoppel in pais, the assignees were precluded from disputing B.'s right to rank as a secured creditor.—Re WALSHE, Ex p. BRUNKER (1878), 12 I. Before sale debtor was adjudicated bkpt. upon the petition of other creditors, & the county ct. judge granted an injunction, under 1883 Act, s. 10, restraining the sale:—Held: the sequestrator was a creditor within s. 9 (1); but he was not a secured creditor within the proviso in s. 9 (2), & the ct. had jurisdiction to restrain the sale.—Re HASTINGS, Ex p. BROWN (1892), 61 L. 3360. Appointment of receiver—Judgment debt—Mortgage debt.]—A judgment creditor became the transferee of a legal mtge. of leaseholds belonging to the judgment debtor. He then commenced an action in the Ch. Div., claiming an account & payment of what was due to him on both mtge. & judgment, or a sale of the property & payment out of the proceeds, & the appointment of a receiver. On the same day he obtained ex p. an order extending over eight days, appointing an interim receiver of the rents, without security. On the eighth day he obtained, on notice, an order absolute for the appointment of the same person to be receiver of the rents, upon his giving security, On the same day debtor filed a liquidation petition, & a receiver of his property was appointed by the Ct. of Bkpcy. It did not appear which receiver was appointed first. The receiver in the action never gave security. The creditor had not sued out an elegit:—Held: the appointment of the receiver in the action was such a delivery in execution by lawful authority of the mortgaged lands, within 27 & 28 Vict. c. 112, s. 1, as to render the judgment creditor a secured creditor, within 1869 Act, & he was entitled to hold the lands as a security for his judgment debt as well as for his mtge. debt, although he had not sued out an elegit, as the appointment of the receiver operated as an immediate delivery of the land in execution.—Re WATKINS, Ex p. EVANS (1879), 13 Ch. 3365. —— —— Order to retain profits.]—Two judgment creditors on an application for leave to proceed obtained an order dated Dec. 23, 1915, for the appointment of a receiver of the profits of an hotel, which provided that the receiver should "retain the balance of the profits to be applied in discharge of the debt & costs due to pltfs. as & when may be hereafter ordered." By a further order, dated Mar. 22, 1916, the receiver was to be at liberty to accumulate the balance of the profits to form a fund out of which the judgment creditors might be paid their debts & costs. On Mar. 12, 1918, a receiving order was made against debtor, who was adjudicated bkpt. on May 8, & on July 11 the receiver paid the money in his hands into ct. pursuant to an order :—Held : the orders of Dec. 23, 1915, & Mar. 22, 1916, did not constitute the pltfs. secured creditors, nor did they create in favour of the creditors a "mtge., charge, or lien on the property of debtor as a security for a debt" due to them respectively from debtor within 1914 Act, s. 167, & the fund in ct. belonged to the trustee & not to the judgment creditors.—Re PEARCE, Ex p. THE OFFICIAL RECEIVER, THE TRUSTEE, [1919] 1 K. The articles of assocn. of the co. provided that the co. should "have a first & paramount lien on all shares for all money due to the co. from the registered holder thereof, or other the persons for the time being entitled thereto as against the co." :—Held : as the co. were not bound to recognise trusts of their shares, debtor was not a person "entitled to the shares as against the co,," &, they had no lien upon the shares for the debt due to them from him, & were not "secured creditors" of debtor within 1883 Act.—Re PERKINS, Ex p. MEXICAN SANTA BARBARA MINING CO. book debts, & also the business of M., which he had contracted to purchase, & a large quantity of stock bought on credit not in the ordinary course of business, for £35,539 to a co., which he promoted for that purpose. The purchase-money was paid, as to £400 in cash, as to £10,000 in 100 debentures of £100 each of the co., & as to the balance in fully paid-up shares of the co. The debentures, at the request of N., were issued as follows:—Seven to B., fifteen to Z., thirty to N., thirty to M., & eighteen to S. The fully paid-up shares for the balance of the purchase-money were allotted to S., who had been appointed chairman of the board of directors. The debentures issued to N. were the remuneration for his services to S. in the matter, & B. & Z. were cash creditors of S. The first acting directors of the co. & N. were the mere instruments of S. in carrying through the transaction, which divested S. of substantially the whole of his property, & left him with trade creditors to a large amount & some cash creditors totally unprovided for. M.'s business was genuine, & he acted in good faith & without notice of any fraud. He accepted the £400 in cash & his debentures as payment for his business, & there were some bonâ fide shareholders of the co. Within three months S. was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: M.'s debentures were a charge upon the property of S. in the hands of the trustee so far as the assets of the co. might prove insufficient to satisfy same.—Re SLOBODINSKY, Ex p. MOORE, [1903] 2 K. 3380. Creditor holding securities in which debtor might claim to share as surety—In respect of sums already paid under guarantee.]—On the advance of £400 by a bank to one of their customers whose overdrafts were already secured by the deposit of certain shares a surety executed a charge on certain money & guaranteed repayment of the sum advanced. Other persons also gave separate guarantees to the bank & deposited securities with them in respect of the customer's accounts & overdrafts. The surety having paid off the £400 guarantee brought an action, which was dismissed with costs, against the bank to have assigned to him a proportion of the shares deposited with the bank. The bank issued a bkpcy. notice against him in respect of the costs, & a receiving order, from which the surety appealed, was made against him on a bkpcy. petition founded on the notice:—Held: assuming the bank might in future hold money applicable to the discharge of the indebtedness they were not secured creditors within 1914 Act, s. 167, & were entitled to a receiving order.—Re DEBTOR (No. 8 OF 1919), Ex p. DEBTOR (1919), 88 L. Respondentia bond.]—A. became bound as surety with B. in a respondentia bond, upon a ship bound to the East Indies, conditioned to be void upon payment, within thirty days after arrival in the Thames, or at the end of thirty-six calendar months, or upon an utter loss. B. assigned all his goods on board the ship to A. upon trust, in the first place to pay a debt owing from himself to A. & in the next place to pay off all the debts for which he had become surety on the respondentia bond. Before the time specified in the bond A. became bkpt., & the assignees received a sum of money on account of the proceeds of the goods:—Held: after deducting the amount of A.'s private debt, the residue of the proceeds, & all future receipts, should be divided among the respondentia creditors only.—Re LEE, Ex p. CARSTAIRS (1811), 1 Rose, 130, L. At the date of the sale, the tenant owed the auctioneers £244, part being alleged to be an advance of £200 made by the auctioneers to the tenant on Sept. 26, 1900. On Oct. 19, 1900, a receipt, which was ante-dated Sept. 26, 1900, had been granted by the tenant to the auctioneers in the following terms:—"Received from" [the auctioneers] "the sum of £200 to account of my displenishing sale":—Held: the receipt having been granted within sixty days of the tenant's bkpcy. & in the knowledge that he was insolvent, was invalid to entitle the auctioneers to a preference as secured creditors to that amount on the tenant's estate.—CRAIG'S TRUSTEE v. MACDONALD, FRASER & Co. SECT. 3.—GENERAL POSITION OF SECURED CREDITOR.

3383. Remedies available.]—If a secured creditor wants to prove, he must do one of three things: he may give up his security altogether & prove for the full amount, or he may get his security valued & prove for the difference, or he may sell & realise his security, & then prove for the difference. If, without doing either of the latter two things, he proves for the full amount, as he cannot prove for the full amount & receive a dividend except on the theory of giving up the security, he shows by that an intention to give up his security; &, if he so proves & receives a dividend or votes, he shows pretty conclusively that he has finally elected to give up his security & take his dividend; in other words, having two funds to resort to, bkpt.'s general estate, so as to get a dividend on the whole amount of his debt, or his security, he elects to take bkpt.'s estate, & in that way gives up his security. It is not forfeiture, it is election; but the petitioning creditor gets nothing, unless he proves. There is no obligation on the petitioning creditor to prove; he may make the man a bkpt., & then he may be satisfied as far as he is concerned, & leave other creditors to prove; he does not elect simply by making a man a bkpt. It is a new doctrine of forfeiture to be brought into bkpcy. law, if petitioning creditor is to lose his security without getting anything out of the bkpt.'s estate; it is no longer election, it is forfeiture, & forfeiture must be discovered in some Act of Parliament or sect. of an Act of Parliament, & there is no such sect. to be found (JESSEL, M.R.).—MOOR v. ANGLO-ITALIAN BANK (1879), 10 Ch. D. 681; 40 L. T. 620; 27 W. R. 652.

3383 i. Remedies available.]—A creditor holding security from the insolvent may, under 1875 Act, ss. 84, 106, assume any one of three positions:—either release his security & prove as an unsecured creditor, or he may value his security & prove for the whole debt less the valuation, or he may outside of insolvency proceedings realise his security in any manner authorised by law.—DEACON v. DRIFFIL (1879), 4 A. R. 335.—CAN.

3383 ii. ——.]—A railway co., proving against the estate of a bkpt. for calls, must, according to the universal principle in bkpcy., deduct the price or value of the shares from the amount of their claim, or give up the shares for the benefit of the creditors of bkpt.—Re JENNINGS, Ex p. BELFAST & COUNTY DOWN RY. 3383 x. —— Fidelity bond—Debt founded on felony—Right of proof against principal debtor.]—Where a debt is founded on a felony, a surety bond given for the offender is no bar to the right of proof on the part of those to whom the bond is given. Although the proof is put forward to protect the surety it is no objection to it, as the surety, by a bill in equity, could compel the creditor to prove against the original debtor.—Re M'MASTER (1858), 32 L. T. O. S. 288.—IR.

3383 xi. —— After receipt of dividend under assignment for specified creditors—Proof for balance.]—An insolvent having assigned certain property to trustees for the benefit of B. & other creditors named, subsequently made a voluntary assignment under Insolvent Act. The trustees after this assignment realised part of the property assigned to them. B. then claimed to prove against the estate for the balance due to him above what he had received from the trustees:—Held: the mere fact of the sale did not necessarily exclude him from proof, but the securities sold might yet be valued, & if the estate had not been prejudiced or were recompensed for any loss thereby, B. should still be allowed to prove.—Re HURST (1871), 31 U. C. R. 116; dbtd. DEACON v. DRIFFIL, 4 A. R. 335.—CAN.

3383 xii. ——Appropriation of securities.]—A creditor, holding securities generally for debts due is entitled to appropriate such securities in discharge of a portion of such debts, & to realise the securities so appropriated; but such creditor can prove only in respect of the balance, if any, of such portion of the debts remaining due after the realisation of the securities, or after having deducted the value of the latter, & cannot, meantime, on foot of the balance, participate in any intermediate dividend payable out of debtor's estate. The other portion of the demand uncovered & excluded from the securities, may be treated as an independent, unsecured debt, & the creditor may prove therefor.—Re GREER, Ex p. PROVINCIAL BANK (1877), 11 I. 3383 xiii. —— Creditor holding charge on compensation fund—Transfer of proceedings.]—W., claiming to be entitled to a compensation fund, for lands taken by a co., became insolvent, having previously given R., one of his creditors, a specific charge on that fund. R. presented a petition, for the application of the fund in discharge of the debts & incumbrances affecting it, according to the provisions of the co.'s special Act. A cross petition was subsequently presented by the insolvent to obtain a transfer of the fund to the Insolvent Ct. for administration there:—Held: (1) the creditor having a specific charge on the fund was entitled to have the order; (2) the cross petition was not sustainable by claimant, either as an insolvent, or under the provisions of the Act, & should be dismissed.—Re GREAT SOUTHERN & WESTERN RY. 3383 xiv. —— Purchase by mortgagee on sale—By registrar before bankruptcy.]—Where a mtgee. sells through the registrar & purchases the mortgaged property, & his mtgor. subsequently becomes bkpt., he is entitled to deduct the sum which he has paid for the mortgaged premises & to prove for the balance of his debt.—Re BENJAMIN & JACOBS (1890), 9 N. Z. L. R. 152.—N.Z.

3383 xv. —— —— Under prior mortgage—After bankruptcy.]—K., being indebted to pltf. bank, gave the bank a promissory note for the debt, & subsequently while the note was current, a third mtge. upon land, as additional security. On K., assigning all his estate & effects for general benefit of creditors, the bank claimed to rank for the amount then due upon the note & mtge., & interest. The mortgaged land was offered for sale under the second mtge., & the bank bought at the sale subject to the first mtge., & afterwards resold at a profit:—Held: (1) the mtge. sale did not extinguish or affect the debt secured by bank's mtge.; (2) K. was liable to the bank for any sum still owing under the covenant, & the bank was entitled to prove against his estate for the sum due, & to rank with the other creditors in the ratable distribution of the assets of the estate, whilst still retaining any profit made on the resale.—UNION BANK OF CANADA v. BATES (1914), 28 W. 3388. Failure of security.]—B. became insolvent in 1827. His mother held a security on a contingent interest of his expectant on her death, which interest would fail if he died in her lifetime. She did not prove in the insolvency, but retained her security, & the assignee sold the equity of redemption, which was purchased by a trustee for persons of whom the mother was one. In 1857 B. died in his mother's lifetime, so that the security failed. The mother died in 1864, & in 1866, further assets having unexpectedly come in, the personal representative of the mother claimed to prove, & the proof was admitted by the comr.: —Held: the proof had been rightly admitted.—Re BRODIE, Ex p. PEAKE (1867), 2 Ch. 3388 ii. —— Creditor remitted to original remedies.]—A bond, although it merges a debt by simple contract, yet if it turns out bad by the bkpcy. of the obligor, leaves the original debt to be set up again, if from any circumstance it may be more beneficial.—KEMMIS v. STEPNEY (1828), 2 Mol. 85.—IR.

3388 iii. —— Knowledge by creditor of fraud of debtor.]—A husband assigned all his property to his wife in consideration of her paying off a creditor who was threatening proceedings. The wife who owned separate property entered into possession, sold some of the property to the value of £50, & paid off the creditor. On the sequestration of the husband's estate the assignment was held void as a fraud on the other creditors. The wife claimed to prove against her husband's estate for the balance of the amount paid to D. less the £50:—Held: her payments to D. must be regarded as bonâ fide payments made by her at the implied request of her husband & were not affected by her knowledge of the attempted fraud on the creditors & she was entitled to prove.—Re ORR (1889), 15 V. 3395. —— Mortgagee declining to assume possession.]—The mtgee. of property, which had been some time untenanted & unproductive, consented that the assignee of bkpt. mtgor. should let the premises to such person as he might think proper, the mtgee. stipulating that the rents should be paid into a bank in the joint names of mtgor. & mtgee. for the benefit of the party who might be ultimately found entitled to same, & that his consent was not to be considered as assuming the possession of the premises as mtgee. In pursuance of such arrangement the assignee let the property, & received the rents, but paid them into a bank in his own name, for a period of seven years, when the property was sold. The proceeds of the sale were not sufficient to pay off the whole of what was due upon the mtge.:—Held: the assignee, & not the mtgee., was entitled to such bygone rents.—Re WILCKENS, Ex p. CARR (1842), 2 Mont. 3397. —— Mortgagee entering into possession after trustee.]—After a mtgor. had presented a liquidation petition, the trustee went into possession of mortgaged lands & commenced cutting the growing crops. The mtgee. put a man in possession & required the trustee to give up possession, which he declined to do. An injunction was granted restraining him from cutting crops & from removing the crops cut after the demand made by the mtgee.—BAGNALL v. VILLAR (1879), 12 Ch. D. 812; 48 L. J. Ch. 695; 28 W. Resps. obtained judgment against B., & put the sheriff in possession. On May 2 a receiving order was made against B., & the sheriff on May 4 withdrew from possession. On June 25 resps. took possession under their mtge., & on the same day an arrangement was come to between them & the official receiver, by which certain crops on the land were cut & sold without prejudice to the legal position of the parties:—Held: as second mtgees., resps. had taken lawful possession of the land, & they were entitled as against the official receiver to the proceeds of sale of the crops.—Re GORDON, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1889), 61 L. 3399. Grantee of bill of sale & trustee in concurrent possession—Removal of property by grantee.]—The grantee of a bill of sale & the trustee in bkpcy. of the grantor were in concurrent possession of the property comprised in it. The grantee had taken possession first. The trustee impeached the validity of the bill of sale. Before the question of its validity had been decided, the grantee forcibly removed part of the property:—Held: notwithstanding the fact that the grantee had taken possession first, the removal was an unlawful act, & the grantee must pay the trustee's costs of a motion, which had been refused in the county ct., to compel the restoration into the joint possession of the property which had been removed.—Re FELLS, Ex p. ANDREWS (1876), 4 Ch. 3400. Holder of unindorsed bill of exchange—Right to indorsement.]—Bkpt., owing creditors £800, undertook to indorse to them a bill for £500 to be drawn upon himself, & accepted by a co. He delivered to them such a bill unindorsed, promising to indorse the bill or to give an equally good security in its place. The bill was not indorsed prior to the bkpcy., in which the creditors proved for the balance of their debt, after deducting the £500. The bill was presented & refused payment, because bkpt. had not indorsed it:—Held: bkpt. must indorse it.—Re DEAN, Ex p. RHODES (1837), 2 Deac. 364; 3 Mont. & A. 217, Ct. of R.

3405. —— —— —— Creditor having further demand against which security set.]—An attorney proved a debt without exhibiting a bond given to bkpt. by a debtor, which bkpt. had deposited with him as security. The attorney had a further demand for costs, against which he had set the bond:—Held: the bond need not be given up.—Re BROOKS, Ex p. AMPHLETS (1830), Mont. 77.

3406. —— —— Made to preserve rights pending decision as to validity of security.]—Where the intention of all parties, in entering a proof upon the proceedings, appears to be for the simple purpose of reserving the dividend until such time as the respective rights of the assignees & the creditor, in respect of the security held by the latter, are determined, the ct. will not construe such proof, without more, as an election on the part of the creditor to abandon his security.

The proof of a debt by a creditor holding security, the dividends upon which are ordered to be stayed until a suit in Ch. wherein the assignees are disputing the security is settled, is not per se an election on the part of the creditor to abandon his security.—Re AXTELL, KNIGHTS & AXTELL, Ex p. MERCANTILE DISCOUNT CO., LTD. (LIQUIDATORS) (1866), 14 L. T. 260.

3407. —— —— Security valueless at time of proof.]—A deed of assignment provided that it should not affect any surety nor any security which any of the creditors might have, but if such security should be enforceable against debtor or his estate, then the creditor, unless he should consent to abandon his security, should be entitled to receive dividends upon so much only of his secured debts as might remain after such security

PART IX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 1.

3401 i. Who may abandon—Creditor jointly interested with others.]—A petitioning creditor, who is jointly interested with others in a security, may, so far as he is concerned, value it as nothing, & give it up for the benefit of creditors generally.—Re INGLIS (1877), 3 V. L. R. 100.—AUS.

3402 i. What amounts to abandonment—Proof of debt—Without valuing security.]—A bank, sent in a claim in response to a posting for creditors. The claim stated the full amount of the debt, & stated also that the bank held security, but stated that the bank, not expecting that the estate would be insufficient for payment of debts in full had not valued the security, but would do so if a deficiency was apprehended. In reply to an inquiry, the bank was informed that the estate was likely to prove insolvent. The chief clerk's certificate, set out the bank's debt in the first schedule, & set out the security in the fourth schedule, & stated that the full amount of the debt was due thereon. The bank subsequently applied for liberty to realise their security with a view to ascertaining its value in the event of the estate proving insolvent:—Held: it was still competent for the bank to value their securities, & prove for the balance of the debt against the general assets.—COOPER v. TEAHAN (1889), 23 L. R. Ir. 203.—IR.

3402 ii. —— —— Valuation of part.]—A creditor filed a claim with the assignee without valuing his securities which consisted of a lien on machinery & a policy of fire insurance on the machinery & on the plant & buildings of debtor. There was a fire & debtor assigned for the benefit of creditors. The assignee insisting on a value being placed on all the securities, the creditor placed a value on the machinery but stood by knowing that the assignee was carrying on a suit against the insurance co. in the belief that the fruits of the litigation would belong to the estate or to those creditors who voluntarily contributed to the cost thereof. The assignee succeeded in his suit:—Held: an abandonment of the preferential claim & no revaluation was permissible.—WILLIAMS MACHINERY CO. v. GRAHAM (1918), 1 W. W. R. 161; 25 B. C. R. 284; 39 D. L. R. 143; affd. 43 D. L. R. 437; 3 W. W. R. 597; 57 S. C. R. 229.—CAN.

3402 iii. —— —— On bill already due—Other bills not due.]—A creditor, who has received several bills accepted by his debtor for the amount of a general balance, may prove under a commission of bkpcy. against his debtor upon one bill, & afterwards sue at law upon another bill, which had been negotiated & was not due at the time of making proof on the first; it is not an election.—Re CONROY, Ex p. CONROY (1827), 1 Mol. 1.—IR.

3404 i. —— —— Without disclosing security.]—A creditor who proves without giving notice of securities, does not thereby necessarily waive his right to such securities.—DALTON & RYAN'S TRUSTEES v. ATTWOOD & HAYNES (1818), 1 Nfld. L. R. 67.—NFLD.

3404 ii. —— —— ——.]—A judgment creditor who files a claim for whole amount of his judgment without putting a value upon it abandons his security.—SHERLOCK v. MCLELLAN, R. E. D. 165.—CAN.

3404 iii. —— —— —— Withdrawal or amendment of proof.]—T., who had a claim against an insurance co., gave several orders upon the local agents of the co. in favour of certain creditors for amounts due to them, & these orders were accepted by the local agents. He was subsequently adjudicated a bkpt. as from Nov. 16. On Nov. 17 the claim was paid by the co. to the local agents. It was not alleged that any of these orders amounted to a fraudulent preference. Some of the creditors who had obtained orders subsequently proved in the bkpcy., without stating that they held the orders as security, or without valuing their security:—Held: as those creditors who had proved without disclosing that they held an order as security, or without valuing their security, the official assignee was not justified in paying them the amounts of their respective orders, but they could make a substantive application to the ct. to be allowed to withdraw or amend their proofs.—Re THOMAS'S ESTATE (1910), 29 N. Z. L. R. 510.—N.Z.

3408 i. —— —— Acceptance of composition.]—A debtor having failed to pay the second instalment of a composition, was adjudicated bkpt. upon a declaration of insolvency. D. Co., who had a vendors' lien for the unpaid purchase-money on certain goods sold to C. which had not been delivered, filed a proof in the arrangement for the full price of the goods, & stated that they held no security. After C. had been adjudicated, D. Co. filed a proof of debt in the bkpcy., in which they valued their security, & claimed to prove for the balance of their debt : —Held : upon the failure by debtor to pay the composition, D. Co. were remitted to their original rights, giving credit for anything which they received, & they were entitled to rely on their lien.—Re CAMPION, [1899] 2 I. R. 112. —IR.

3408 ii. —— —— ——.]—P. carrying on business at Cork, as a sole trader, under the style of D., & at Glasgow (in partnership with M.), under the style of S. & Co., gave both as D. & in his individual capacity a continuing guarantee by deed to the U. bank, carrying on business in Scotland, for advances to S. & Co. At a meeting of the creditors of S. & Co., at which the U. Bank was represented, statements of their affairs & of D., were investigated & P. proposed to liquidate the debts of S. & Co. by acceptances of D., which proposal was accepted & it was agreed that P. should carry on the business of S. & Co. alone. P., being unable to meet the composition bills, was adjudicated a bkpt. in Ireland on his own petition. On a petition filed by the U. Bank in Scotland on foot of their original debt, a sequestration of the estates of S. & Co. was ordered. The U. Bank also claimed to be admitted to prove unconditionally, in the Irish bkpcy., for the amount of the guarantee :—Held : notwithstanding the composition bills taken by them the U. Bank were entitled to prove on the guarantee. In the case of a composition with creditors, nothing short of a clear & express contract to give up his securities can preclude a creditor from relying on them.—Re PIM (1881), 7 L. R. Ir. 458.—IR.

a. —— —— Under arrangement clauses.]—A mtgee. proved under the arrangement clauses. The case was turned into bkpcy. :—Held : such proof was not an abandonment of his right as mtgee.—Re WILSON (1862), 14 Ir. Jur. 328.—IR.

b. —— Release of lien to enable property to be sold.]—A. conveyed his real & personal estate to deft. in trust (1) to pay expenses, commissions, mtges., judgments, liens, etc., & (2) to pay to a bank the amount of all promissory notes & bills of exchange held by the bank, upon which pltf. & others were liable as sureties. The bank having released liens on real estate of insolvent for the purpose of enabling same to be sold :—Held : the bank, by becoming a party to the deed, & afterwards releasing the liens, did not abandon & forfeit the position of a preferred creditor.—HARRIS v. RITCHIE (1889), 22 N. S. R. 141.—CAN.

c. —— Acceptance of composition —After declaration of intention to rely on security.]—A creditor of an arranging debtor declared his intention to rely upon his security, &, although he took no part in the arrangement proceedings, the assignees sent him a dividend warrant for his composition, which he put to the credit of his mtge. debt :—Held : this was not such an acquiescence in the arrangement proceedings as to level his security to the same position as ordinary creditors, & he should be allowed to put the dividend to the credit of his mtge. debt & to prove on the estate for the difference, on the trader afterwards becoming bkpt.—Re FERRALL (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 103. —IR.

d. —— Arrest of debtor.]—A verdict having been recovered against F., a rule nisi was taken out to set aside, & the sureties to respond the final judgment took a mtge. from him to secure them from loss on account of their bond. The rule nisi having been discharged & judgment entered up against F., an execution was issued, under which he was arrested. While he was in custody his estate was placed in insolvency :—Held : the judgment creditors had not lost their lien on the mortgaged property in consequence of their having arrested F. under the judgment.—TUCKER v. CREIGHTON (1877), R. E. D. 261.—CAN.

e. —— Failure to exercise jus retentionis.]—A pledgee, who fails to exercise his jus retentionis, loses his right of preference upon the insolvency of the pledgor.—M'GLASHAN'S TRUSTEE v. THOMPSON (1903), 17 E. D. C. 117.—S. AF.

3413 i. Effect of abandonment—Right to retract.]—Mtgees., who had obtained an order for sale of the premises, subsequently proved for a portion of the mtge. debt, as being the balance over the value of the premises as then estimated by the mtgees. A dividend being struck on debts proved, the mtgees. refused to accept their quota, pending the realisation of their security. The premises, afterwards sold, realised sufficient to pay the mtgees. in full :—Held : the mtgees. had elected to take a dividend upon the amount proved for, as unsecured creditors, & such election was binding & could not be retracted.—Re DALY (1872), 6 I. L. T. 172.—IR.

3414. —— On surety for original debt.]—Deft. became surety for the payment of a debt owing from P. to pltf. P. handed over a policy of insurance on his life to pltf. as collateral security. P. became bkpt., & at that time premiums on the policy remained unpaid, & the policy had lapsed. Pltf. proved in P.'s bkpcy. for the full amount of her debt, stating in her proof that she held the policy as collateral security, but putting no value on it. The policy was afterwards given up to the trustee for the benefit of the creditors, & the insurance co. agreed to reinstate it. Pltf. sued deft. as surety, for the amount of P.'s debt, & at the trial pltf. agreed to credit deft. with the admitted value of the policy when reinstated:—Held: (1) deft.'s position as a surety was not discharged by reason of the course pltf. had pursued in the bkpcy., as the policy was valueless when she sent in her proof; (2) if the policy was of value when pltf. proved in the bkpcy., & if she exercised her option under the bkpcy. law of handing over her security to the trustee & proving for the whole amount of her debt, deft. was not thereby wholly discharged from liability as a surety, but only to the extent of the value of the policy.—RAINBOW v. JUGGINS (1880), 5 Q. 3415. —— ——.]—Debtor was indebted to petitioning creditor, &, as a collateral security, transferred to him bills of lading & a quantity of butter. Petitioning creditor signed a memorandum, acknowledging that he had received the bills of lading in consideration of the money due to him. Before delivery the consignor had stopped the goods in transitu, & the bills of lading became of no value to petitioning creditor:—Held: petitioning creditor had a right, in the circumstances, to repudiate his claim on the bills of lading, & to issue a fiat on the original debt, & having done so, whatever might become of the right of the consignor to stop in transitu, the assignees had a right to hold petitioning creditor to his relinquishment of the bills of lading.—Re ASHTON, Ex p. ASHTON (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 5, Ct. of R.

3416. —— Right to prove as unsecured creditor.]—A legal mtgee. sold part of the property under an order for sale, & applied the proceeds in reduction of the debt. The remainder of the property proved unsaleable:—Held: the mtgee., on giving up the unsold part of the property, might prove.—Re PRICE, Ex p. GREAVES (1845), De G. 119, Ct. of R.

3417. —— ——.]—A creditor advancing money at 6 per cent. on bills of exchange to a trader, who afterwards becomes bkpt., with collateral real security, is entitled to prove on the estate of bkpt. as an unsecured creditor, on giving up all his real securities.—Re LEAKE, Ex p. WARRINGTON (1853), 3 De G. 3418. —— Petition subsequently dismissed—Security returned to creditor.]—Where a creditor gives up his security for the purpose of proving his debt under the bkpcy., & the petition is afterwards dismissed on the ground that certain creditors have been omitted from bkpt.'s statement of debts, the creditor is entitled to have his security returned to him, notwithstanding a new petition is presented by a creditor the same day, & bkpt. is adjudicated thereunder, upon the ground that the surrender of the security was conditional only & not absolute.—Re TYRIE, Ex p. MORRIS (1866), 14 L. 3419. —— On subsequent incumbrances—Whose estate benefited.]—A. & B. were respectively first & second mtgees. A. proved in the mtgor.'s bkpcy. for the full amount of his debt, giving up his security. B. did not prove:—Held: the benefit of A.'s mtge. had passed to the trustee, & was kept alive for the benefit of the general creditors, & was not merged in the equity of redemption of the mortgaged premises for the benefit of B.—CRACKNALL v. JANSON (1877), 6 Ch. 3420. —— Security also covering debts not proved—Surrender of whole security.]—At the first meeting of creditors a creditor of bkpt. proved for a debt of £1,113, without stating the particulars of or valuing a deed of indemnity & mtge., which covered not only the debt of £1,113, but all money which might become owing by debtor to him, & voted in respect of the proof for the £1,113. At the time the creditor voted debtor was in fact indebted to him in further sums, & the creditor was entitled to prove also for his contingent liability as a surety for bkpt.

3416 i. —— Right to prove as unsecured creditor.]—A creditor held a mtge. over property of bkpt., & proved, valuing her security. The assignee claimed to avoid the security, & the creditor ultimately agreed that it should be given up, but before this was arranged a dividend was declared. The creditor then put in a new proof, which was ultimately allowed, & claimed to be paid a sum equal to a full dividend on the amount of the new proof. There were not funds to the credit of the estate sufficient to make such a payment:—Held: assignee could not be compelled to pay a full dividend.—Re MCGREGOR, Ex p. MCGREGOR (1888), 7 N. Z. L. g. —— Abandonment of part of security.]—A creditor having a bill of sale over insolvent's furniture as security for his debt & claiming a lien on two deeds gave up the deeds & agreed to a sale of the furniture by the official assignee on his behalf the assignee consenting to his proving on the estate for the deficiency:—Held: the proof must be rejected.—Re KINGSLAND, Ex p. WARBURTON (1869), 6 W. 3420 i. —— Security also covering debts not proved—Partial waiver of security.]—Petitioning creditors, in their petition, & the affidavit in support of it, relied upon debts due by a trader, amounting to £2,000, which were stated to be part of his debts to petitioning creditors. The petition & affidavit stated that petitioning creditors held a security or lien on goods of bkpt. in the hands of a New York firm, which security or lien they waived as against the debt on which they relied, but without prejudice to their right to retain it against their other demands:—Held: the petition could not support an adjudication.—Re EASDALE, Ex p. BIRLEY BROTHERS (1874), 8 I. L. T. 212.—IR.

3420 ii. —— —— Partial surrender of security.]—A petition having been presented against a debtor, on a bill of exchange which formed part of a floating balance of money due to petitioner, for which they held a general security, the ct. adjudicated debtor bkpt. upon petitioner giving up his security, so far as related to the bill of exchange.—Re O'NEILL, Ex p. NATIONAL BANK (1873), 7 I. on bills for a considerable amount on which he had placed his name. All these matters were covered by the mtge. The judge was not satisfied that the omission to value the mtge. had arisen from inadvertence:—Held: (1) the creditor, by voting in respect of the debt he had proved, must be deemed under 1914 Act, Sched. I., clause 10, to have surrendered the mtge., not only to the extent of the £1,113, but to the extent of the whole liability of bkpt. to him, & the mtge. must be cancelled so far as it consisted of a security on the property of bkpt. for debts to become due from him to the creditor; (2) the words "whole debt" in clause 10 meant the debt for which the creditor had proved.—Re PAWSON, [1917] 2 K. 3422. —— Costs of action brought against creditor—Costs of appeal by creditor—Loss on realisation.]—Bkpt. had, before his bkpcy., obtained advances from a bank on the security of the deposit with them of the dock warrants of a quantity of tobacco, which he represented to be his own property. After the adjudication it was discovered that fifty bales of the tobacco did not belong to him, but that he had sold them & had received the purchase-money, the purchaser having left the dock warrants relating to them with him to enable him to clear them as the purchaser should require them. After the adjudication the purchaser of the fifty bales sued the bank, & recovered from them as damages the sum which he had paid for the fifty bales, together with his costs of the action, & the judgment was affirmed by the Ct. of Appeal. The bank afterwards tendered a proof in the bkpcy. for the balance of their debt beyond the value of their security:—Held: in estimating that value, they were entitled to bring into account the costs (their own as well as pltf.'s) of the action, but not the costs of the appeal.

After the decision of the appeal, the bank sold the fifty bales for less than the purchaser had paid bkpt. for them:—Held: there being no evidence that his loss had arisen from any default on the part of the bank, they were entitled to bring that loss into account in estimating the value of their security.—Re HOFMANN, Ex p. CARR (1879), 11 Ch. 3423. —— Lumping securities—Right of trustee & creditor to separate valuations.]—A secured creditor is entitled to lump his securities together & assess their value as a whole. He need not state the particular securities he holds against particular debts, nor need he assess the value of each security. The trustee in bkpcy. can, however, compel him to value any particular security, & the creditor has a corresponding right to have any security separately valued.—Re SMITH, Ex p. LOGAN (1895), 72 L. PART IX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.

m. What securities must be valued—Limited guarantee against loss on sale of goods.]—A deceased person, of whom pltf. was exor., gave defts. a guarantee in respect of goods sold & to be sold to another in the following terms:—"I hereby undertake to guarantee you against all loss in respect of such goods sold or to be sold, provided I shall not be called on in any event to pay a greater sum than $2,500." The principal debtor being indebted to defts. in $5,500, made an assignment under R. S. O. 1887, c. 124, & defts. filed a claim with the assignee, but did not in the affidavit proving the claim state whether they held any security or not. At a later date pltf. paid defts. the $2,500 & filed a claim with the assignee. The dividends from the estate were insufficient to pay the balance of defts.' claim:—Held: the guaranty was not a security which defts. were required to value, & the omission from their claim of a piece of information which could not affect it did not render it invalid.—MARTIN v. MCMULLEN (1890), 19 O. R. 230.—CAN.

n. —— Judgment debt after seizure.]—Where execution has been levied by seizure, the creditor has a security for his debt, but as the property levied upon passes to the assignee or trustee of debtor's estate upon sequestration, the creditor, in petitioning therefor on the ground that such process has not been bonâ fide satisfied within four days of seizure, need not state in his petition that he will be ready to give up such security or give an estimate of the value thereof.—Re KENNEDY, Ex p. TATTERSON (1892), 18 V. o. —— Security held for unsatisfied judgment.]—Where petitioning creditor seeking to sequestrate an estate sued upon an unsatisfied judgment for which he held a security, but which security he did not allege or value in his affidavit, the ct. discharged the provisional order of sequestration, on the ground that the security should have been alleged & valued.—FLEMING & MUDIE v. VAN ESSEN (1886), 4 S. p. —— Securities returned by sheriff as valueless.]—Where the affidavit did not put a value on the securities held by petitioner, but the sheriff's return described the securities as practically valueless, & the value was fully discussed in affidavits on both sides, objection on the ground that petitioner's affidavit had not put a value on the securities was overruled.—KERR v. ALDERSON, ALDERSON v. KERR (1884), 1 Buch. r. Affidavit of valuation—Who may make—On behalf of corporation.]—5 Vict. 3423 i. Basis of valuation—Lumping securities—Right of trustee to separate valuation.]—A debtor borrowed several sums from the same lenders depositing shares as security for each loan & it was agreed that the security on each occasion so furnished should extend to any sums of money in which he might be indebted to the lenders, while the shares remained in their hands:—Held: the lenders were not compellable separately to value the securities held by them.—Re DU BEDAT (1892), 29 L. R. Ir. 324.—IR.

s. At what time—After partial realisation.]—An insolvent, having assigned certain property to trustees for the benefit of B. & other creditors named subsequently made a voluntary assignment under Insolvent Act. The trustees after this assignment realised part of the property assigned to them. B. then claimed to prove against the estate for the balance due above what he had received from the trustees:—Held: the mere fact of the sale did not necessarily exclude him from proof, but the securities sold might yet be valued.—Re HURST (1871), 31 U. 3424. Power of trustee when dissatisfied.]—1870 Rules, r. 136, applies only to the case of a secured creditor, who desires to value instead of realising his security, & even then it only gives the trustee, if he is dissatisfied with the value stated by the creditor, a power indirectly to compel the realisation of the security, by refusing to admit the creditor's proof till he has realised the security (COTTON, L.J.).—Re LEE, Ex p. GOOD (1880), 14 Ch. 3425. Creditor relying on security incapable of valuation—Security realising less than debt.]—A. died in 1889 insolvent, & an order was made for the administration of his estate. A creditor for £47,000 held as security (inter alia) shares & debentures of the Delagoa Bay Railway. The railway was seized by the Portuguese Govt., & an arbn. tribunal was appointed in 1891. Creditor declined to prove for his debt, & stated that he preferred to rely on his securities. In 1893 the chief clerk filed his certificate, in which the creditor's claim was entered as disallowed. In 1900 the award was made, & resulted in the creditor only receiving £1,448 in respect of his shares & debentures. In Jan., 1902, he took out a summons to vary the certificate by allowing his claim, & for liberty to prove for his debt:—Held: under 1886 Rules the creditor could come in & prove at any time if there were assets undistributed, & if no injustice would be caused, & the creditor must be allowed upon terms to come in & prove.

The Legislature clearly contemplated the right of a creditor, on any alteration during the bkpcy., in the value of his security by realisation of that security or otherwise, to be allowed to readjust his claim, of course, not by so doing thereby creating any injustice to the other parties, & of course not interfering with anything that had been done as to dividend or otherwise prior to the change of proof, & it could not be said that merely because the creditor had originally valued his security as being greater than his debt, or equal to it, he was thereby for ever prevented from coming in & proving when it turned out, by realisation or otherwise, that his security was insufficient to pay his debt. Of course the Ct. of Bkpcy. would have had power to impose terms, if terms had been necessary, &, in such a case, in the absence of any special circumstances which would render it unjust to allow the creditor to come in, he would & ought to have been allowed in bkpcy. to come in, & the bkpcy. practice would clearly have allowed him to do so (ROMER, L.J.).—Re MCMURDO, PENFIELD v. MCMURDO, [1902] 2 Ch. 684; 71 L. 3426. What securities—Securities stolen by bankrupt—& returned to creditor under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96)—Securities valued & deducted from proof.]—V. bought shares of H., & induced H. to give him the certificates of the shares & to accept his cheque for £3,298 16*s.* in payment, representing that it would be met. The cheque was dishonoured & V. absconded. Soon afterwards V. was adjudicated bkpt. on a petition presented against him by H., based on the dishonoured cheque, H. alleging in his petition that he had a security or lien on the shares, which security or lien he valued at £3,200. Meantime H. had issued a warrant against V., under which he was arrested & committed for trial for fraud, & subsequently convicted. Thereupon the certificates of the shares were, on an order of the ct. made under s. 100 of the above Act, restored to H. The trustee in bkpcy. of V. then claimed to redeem the shares at the value placed on them by H. in his petition:—Held: (1) as the title to the shares had, on the conviction of V., revested in H. under s. 100, he ought not to be deprived of them by reason of his mistake

a. —— —— Value of security uncertain.]—A bank valued certain shares held by it as security for its debt in its proof, but the value was only approximate, inasmuch as pending the result of a certain arbn. it was impossible to state the value of the shares with accuracy. The award of the arbn. being announced, the shares rapidly declined in value, & became practically worthless. One of the trustees in the estate then wrote to the manager of the bank (who was his co-trustee) suggesting that the bank should retain the shares at its own valuation. This proposal was at once repudiated, & the shares subsequently revalued on oath:—Held: the trustee had not given a definite notice to the bank to retain the shares; & the bank was within its rights in revaluing the securities.—WILLIAMSON'S TRUSTEE v. STANDARD BANK, LTD. The creditor thereupon claimed to revalue:—Held: he could do so to the extent of the principal sum secured by the mtge.—HUMPHREY v. LOBB (1875), 13 N. S. W. S. C. R. 1.—AUS.

A fire having occurred the co. assigned for the general benefit of creditors. The assignee by threatening to enforce a valuation of W.'s security by the ct. succeeded in obtaining a valuation from W., the insurance being at the time a subject of litigation in which W. took no part: W. subsequently claimed that he had not valued or that if he had he was entitled to revalue on the grounds of a mistake in law:—Held: W. could not succeed.—WILLIAMS MACHINERY CO. v. GRAHAM, [1917] 1 W. 3432. —— ——.]—Where a secured creditor presents a petition in bkpcy. & gives an estimate of his security, if the estimate is a genuine estimate, the ct. will not inquire into its correctness, although the result of the inquiry might be to show that the unsecured balance of the debt was not sufficient to support the petition; & when petitioning creditor comes in to prove in the bkpcy. in the absence of mistake as to value he will not be allowed to depart from his estimate.—Re BUTTON, Ex p. VOSS, [1905] 1 K. B. 602; 74 L. J. K. B. 403; 92 L. T. 250; 53 W. R. 437; 49 Sol. Jo. 296; 12 Mans. 111, C. A.

3433. —— Security transferred by creditor to third party.]—On application by the trustee in the bkpcy. for a declaration that the handing over of certain wine to resp. by a creditor, with whom they had been deposited as security for a loan, was a mere transfer of a pledge & that the trustee was entitled to redeem the wine on paying off the security:—Held: upon the evidence the transaction was a mere substitution of resp. in place of the original creditor as pledgee of the wine & was not a purchase by resp. out & out, & an account must be taken of the sums due to resp. on the security of the wine taken over by him, credit being given by resp. for money received from the sale of certain of the wine, & the trustee would be entitled to redeem on payment of the balance due.—Re TILLETT, Ex p. HARPER (1890), 7 Morr. 286.

See 1914 Act, s. 59.

3429 i. Within what time.]—M., being resident in the Transvaal, pledged certain shares to C. in security of a debt incurred there, & afterwards his estate was sequestrated as insolvent by the High Ct. of the Transvaal. C. neither proved his debt nor realised his security. M., without first obtaining his rehabilitation, came to reside in the Cape Colony. In an action by C. for the amount of the debt:—Held: the shares should not be declared executable without giving the trustee an opportunity of claiming delivery of the shares for realisation.—CAPE OF GOOD HOPE BANK v. MELLÉ (1893), 10 S. C. 280.—S. AF.

3429 ii. ——.]—Where the secured creditor has valued his security for the purpose of proof, the decision of the assignee must be promptly made. A formal resolution of the assignee allowing the creditor to retain the property is not necessary.—BELL v. ROSS (1885), 11 A. R. 458.—CAN.

3430 i. At what price—Payment of dividend not sufficient.]—Payment of a dividend in bkpcy. is not payment of the debt except as against debtor, himself, & confers no right on bkpt. or his assignee to call upon the creditor to surrender any collateral securities.—EWART v. LATTA (1865), 4 Macq. 983.—SCOT.

3430 ii. —— Creditor's valuation—Claim to revalue.]—A secured creditor valued his security & proved for the balance as a creditor in distribution. After the plan of distribution was confirmed & the creditor had received his dividend on his current claim, the official assignee claimed an assignment of the security, & a conveyance of the premises, upon payment of the sum at which the security had been valued. The creditor thereupon claimed to put another value on the security:—Held: the official assignee was not entitled, at the time he made the demand, to a conveyance & assignment of the premises on payment of the amount of the creditor's valuation.—HUMPHREY v. LOBB (1875), 13 N. S. W. S. C. R. 1.—AUS.

3430 iii. —— Book-keeper's lien for work done.]—An independent book-keeper had a lien on the books of insolvent, & on a dispute arising the trustee elected to take an assignment of the lien:—Held: the value of the security or lien was not the value of the mere leaves or cover of the books, but the value at the time the dispute arose & the assignment took place.—SPURRIER v. COXWELL (1914), C. P. D. 83.—S. AF.

3434 i. —— Securities lumped.]—In an action of foreclosure, an order was made for foreclosure or redemption, & the usual accounts.

S., B., C. & D. were made parties to the action & proved the claims on their respective judgments. The master reported that pltfs. & these four were the only incumbrancers. W. who had trustee asked for details of value, & (1) was assessed at £1,325, & the property in (2) at £2,481, making in the aggregate £3,806. The trustee did not object to the proof being made for a lump sum, nor did he require the separate values of the securities to be assessed in the proof, but he admitted the proof to rank for the amount claimed less the aggregate assessed value of the securities. Subsequently a scheme for a composition was approved, & on payment of the composition the bkpcy. was annulled & the outstanding estate of P. was ordered to revest in him. A subsequent incumbrancer on the freeholds included in mtge. (2) having claimed to redeem, K. & Co. contended that redemption could only be obtained on payment of the full sum of £3,806 :—Held : the trustee in bkpcy. could not, by accepting the securities as worth the aggregate sum assessed, confer upon the secured creditor any part of bkpt.'s property to which the secured creditor was not entitled, or compel a mtgee. to put a separate value on two different properties included in the same security, & mtge. (2) could be redeemed for £2,481 after allowing for what had already been received by the mtgees. on that security. Pearce v. Bullard, King & Co., [1908] 1 Ch. 780, overd.—Re PEARCE, [1909] 2 Ch. 492 ; 78 L. SUB-SECT. 4.—REALISATION OF SECURITY.

See 1914 Act, Sched. II., r. 13, 1915 Rules, r. 75.

A. Jurisdiction of Court.

3435. Court of bankruptcy—To postpone sale of mortgaged property.]—The ct. in bkpcy. has no jurisdiction to postpone the sale of mortgaged property, the mtgees. not consenting.—Re MABERLY, Ex p. BELCHER (1833), 2 Deac. & Ch. 587, Ct. of R.

3436. —— To interfere if property sold to disadvantage.]—Where an order has been made for the sale of property under an equitable mtge., the ct. has jurisdiction, on the application of a creditor who is an aggrieved party, to interfere, if the property has been sold to a disadvantage, but it will not move merely to get a better price. —Re WHITEHEAD, Ex p. COLUMBINE (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 24, Ct. of R.

3437. —— To order trustee to give creditor possession—To have accounts taken—To make foreclosure order.]—A first mtgee. of a leasehold house, of which bkpt. had been weekly tenant, applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an order that the trustee in bkpcy. should deliver him possession, that an account should be taken of what was due on his security, & that, in default of payment, the trustee might stand foreclosed :—Held : the ct. had jurisdiction to make the order for delivery of possession, & for the account to be taken. Qu. : whether the Ct. of Bkpcy. would have had jurisdiction to make a foreclosure order, if a second mtgee., who was not before the ct., had been before the ct.—Re HART, Ex p. FLETCHER (1878), 9 Ch. D. 381 ; 39 L. T. 187 ; 26 W. R. 843, C. A.

3438. —— To order sale of security—Held by creditor who has not proved.]—The trustee of a liquidating debtor had, with the sanction of the creditors, accepted a composition under 1869 Act, s. 28 :—Held : the Ct. of Bkpcy. had no jurisdiction, upon the application of a secured creditor who had not proved in the liquidation, to order the sale of his security, but his proper course was to realise his security as a mtgee. in the usual manner in the High Ct., & then prove for any deficiency that might ensue in the Ct. of Bkpcy. —Re HOLMES, Ex p. WOODS (1880), 43 L. T. 447.

3439. —— —— Title deeds of which held by third party—Agreement to pay creditor out of proceeds.]—Bkpt. being indebted to petitioners, as the acceptor of two bills of exchange, entered into an agreement with them & L. that the bills should be paid out of the proceeds of certain property, the deeds of which were then in the hands of L. for sale :—Held : the agreement amounted to an agreement by bkpt. to deposit the deeds subject to any lien of L. & an order ought to be made as in the case of an equitable mtgee. Form of order.—Re SELL, Ex p. GREENHILL (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 334, Ct. of R.

3440. —— —— Held by creditor not claiming under composition deed.]—Upon the bkpcy. of two partners, A. & C., the creditors at the first meeting passed resolutions pursuant to 1861 Act, s. 110, providing for the administration of the joint estate, & also of the separate estate of A., & providing that all questions & disputes arising in the course of such winding up & administrations should be referred to the decision of the ct., but making no provision for the winding up & administering the separate estate of C., except that his separate creditors should accept a composition to be secured by a deed, upon payment of which his estate was to be reconveyed to him :—Held : the ct. had no jurisdiction, by s. 136, under the deed, to entertain a petition of a creditor of the firm, claiming to be an equitable mtgee. of part of the separate estate of C. in respect of a debt of the firm, & praying the usual accounts & sale of the properties comprised in the several securities, upon the ground that the obtained assignments of the judgments of four execution creditors of the mtgor. also redeemed the mtges. The master made the usual order for redemption on a given date. Before that date the mtgor., made an assignment to E., who claimed to redeem by paying the mtge. claim & in priority to the claims of the execution & judgment creditors held by W. :—Held : W. had a right to redeem the mortgaged premises which he exercised before E., pendente lite, acquired the equity of redemption. & in the event of a sale taking place, W. had priority over E. as well in respect of the mtge. as of the judgments.—FEDERAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO. v. STINSON (1906), 8 O. W. R. 929.—CAN.

g. Failure of assignee to redeem—Rights of creditor.]—When the assignee for the benefit of creditors has failed within a reasonable time to exercise his right to take over the securities held by a creditor at 10 per cent. over the amount at which the creditor has valued them, the creditor may collect what he can from the securities & rank on the estate for the full amount of the difference between his total claim & the valuation made, although he may have collected on the securities more than the amount of the valuation, provided he shall not receive in all more than 100 cents in the dollar. —BANK OF OTTAWA v. NEWTON (1906), 4 W. L. R. 508 ; 16 Man. L. R. 242.—CAN.

PART IX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 4. —A.

3435 i. Court of Bankruptcy—To vary conditions of sale approved by creditors.]—In an application under Insolvency Law (No. 13 of 1895), s. 96, objecting to conditions of sale as determined by a meeting of creditors, the ct. has general powers to approve, disapprove, or vary such conditions. Such application should be made timeously & not a few days prior to the advertised date of sale.—PRETORIA ESTATE & MARKET CO. v. ROOD'S TRUSTEE (1910), T. P. D. 1080.—S. AF.

3435 ii. —— To set aside creditors' directions as to sale—When exercised.]—Creditors in an insolvent estate passed a resolution under Act 32 of 1916, s. 76 (1) directing the trustee to dispose of the mortgaged property by public sale, sale out of hand . . . or by sale on such terms as the trustee might determine. A secured creditor applied under s. 51 (2) to set aside this direction :—Held : (1) the direction was too wide in its terms ; (2) the onus was on the secured creditor to prove that the direction interfered with or injured his first rights ; the ct. in coming to a decision on the application should not be guided by the resolution alone, but should take all the facts of the case into consideration.—BOURBON v. TERBLANCHE'S TRUSTEE (1917), W. L. D. 58.—S. AF subject-matter of the petition did not refer to a dispute between any of the parties claiming under the deed.—Re CARTER & JUSTINS, Ex p. SHEFFIELD UNION BANKING CO. (1865), 13 L. T. 477.

Even in the case of a legal mtge. the comrs. are not authorised to order a sale, unless in cases where bkpt. has in himself the equity of redemption (PLUMER, V.-C.).—Ex p. TOPHAM (1815), 1 Madd. 38; 56 E. R. 15.

3442. —— To restrain sale of property—Mortgaged by undischarged bkpt.]—An undischarged bkpt. executed a mtge. of reversionary property, & the mtgees. subsequently put the property up for sale, the property being "offered for sale subject to the rights of the trustee & the creditors under the bkpcy." Upon an application by the trustee a county ct. judge made an order perpetually restraining the mtgees. from proceeding with the sale:—Held: there was no jurisdiction to make the order.—Re EVELYN, Ex p. GENERAL PUBLIC WORKS & ASSETS CO., LTD., [1894] 2 Q. B. 302; 63 L. J. Q. B. 658; 70 L. T. 692; 42 W. R. 512; 10 T. L. R. 456; 38 Sol. Jo. 479; 1 Mans. 195; 10 R. 238, D. C.

B. The Order for Sale.

3444. Who may apply—Legal mortagee.]—A mtgee., with a power of sale, may apply to the ct. to have the premises sold.—Re COOK, Ex p. HODGSON (1821), 1 Gl. & J. 12.

3445. —— ——.]—A petition for the sale of property of a bkpt., over which the creditor holds a legal mtge., will be dismissed with costs.—Re HUNTINGDON, Ex p. MOORE (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 7, Ct. of R.

3446. —— —— Of equitable estate.]—In the case of a legal mtge. of an equitable estate, it is unnecessary to petition for the sale of the property.—Re JACKSON, Ex p. ATTWOOD, SPOONER & CO. (1834), 2 Mont. & A. 24, Ct. of R.

3447. —— —— After previous act of bankruptcy.]—A petition to obtain an order for sale of estates, & to be admitted to prove for the residue, was objected to on the ground that the mgte. was subsequent to an act of bkpcy.:—Held: the relation to the act of bkpcy. could not be carried back beyond the debt upon which the commission had proceeded, & an order should be made in the terms of the petition.—Re REYNOLDS, Ex p. BIRKETT (1814), 2 Rose, 71, L. C.

See 1914 Act, s. 30 (3).

3448. —— —— After notice of bankruptcy.]—A legal mtge. was executed by bkpt., in pursuance of a previous equitable mtge., but not till after the mtgee. had notice of the act of bkpcy.:—Held: it did not operate as a merger of the equitable mtge., & the party was entitled to the usual order, as equitable mtgee.—Re EMERY, Ex p. HARVEY (1839), 2 Mont. & Ch. 261; 3 Deac. 547; 4 Deac. 52, Ct. of R.

3449. —— Sub-mortgagee of mortgage for fluctuating amount—Preliminary inquiry as to sum due.]—A person, to whom estates were mortgaged to secure the balance due from time to time on an account current, mortgaged his interest under the mtge., & became bkpt.:—Held: the sub-mtgee. could not have an order for sale of the original mtge. debt, without a preliminary inquiry as to its amount.—Re WRIGHT, Ex p. MACKAY (1841), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 550, Ct. of R.

3450. —— Vendor with lien for unpaid purchase-money.]—A quantity of tea was sold at a price, which was to be paid at a future day. After the day had elapsed, the purchaser paid a sum on account, & wrote to the vendors, who had retained the warrants in their possession, requesting them to wait the arrival of the overland mail, & on its receipt to dispose of the tea. He afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: (1) the vendors had a lien on the tea for the unpaid purchase-money; (2) an application to the ct. for an order for sale was not improper or unnecessary; (3) the letter was a sufficient written memorandum to entitle the vendors to costs.—Re COLES, Ex p. TWINING (1841), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 691; 10 L. J. Bcy. 60; 5 Jur. 536, Ct. of R.

3451. Service of petition for order—Who must be served.]—The petition of an equitable mtgee. for a sale need not be served on an incumbrancer, whose title was prior to that of the mtgor.—Re HILDYARD, Ex p. SMITH (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 587; 11 L. J. Bcy. 16; 6 Jur. 610, Ct. of R.

3443 i. Court of Chancery—To set aside fraudulent sale—In Insolvent Court.]—The Ct. of Ch. has jurisdiction to set aside a fraudulent sale in the Insolvent Ct.; but it will not be exercised if there be a remedy in the latter ct.—MAGUIRE v. O'REILLY (1846), 9 I. Eq. R. 335; 3 Jo. & Lat. 224.—IR.

PART IX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 4. —B.

3444 i. Who may apply—Legal mortgagee.]—Where a mtgor. becomes bkpt., the mtgee. is not compelled to go in under the Act, but may proceed to sell the property under a power of sale in his mtge.—GORDON v. ROSS (1865), 11 Gr. 124.—CAN.

3444 ii. —— Assignee of mortgage in possession.]—An assignee of a mtge. of part of a bkpt.'s property, who had got into possession, petitioned that an account might be taken of what he had received while in possession, for a sale, & that he should be permitted to prove for any deficiency:—Held: he was entitled to this relief, & he might have the account taken before a Master in Ch., instead of one of the comrs.—Re WILSON (1830), 3 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 112.—IR.

3444 iii. —— Judgment creditor.]—A judgment creditor of 1843, during the lifetime of the conusor, filed a bill to redeem a judgment of 1842, & for a sale, to pay the sum advanced for redemption & his own debt:—Held: he was entitled to redeem, & to have an assignment of the prior creditor's security, but not to a sale, there being creditors prior to Nov., 1840. Semble: a detaining creditor of an insolvent cannot file a bill for a sale on foot of his judgment under 3 & 4 Vict. c. 105.—MAGUIRE v. O'REILLY (1846), 9 I. Eq. R. 335; 3 Jo. & Lat. 224.—IR.

3444 iv. —— Sureties.]—The ct. will not, sitting in bkpcy. on behalf of the sureties of a bkpt., direct a sale of mortgaged premises for payment of the debt secured by recognisance, or for payment of any other security except a mtge.—Ex p. USHER (1809), 1 Ball & B. 197.—IR.

3452. What procedure court may adopt—To protect interests of surety's creditors—On sale of security.]—A. deposited deeds with B., by way of equitable mtge., & C. became his surety for the payment of any balance due. Separate fiats issued against A. & C., & under the fiat against C. B. was appointed sole assignee. B., as equitable mtgee., petitioned for the usual order for the sale of the property:—Held: before such order could be made, some person must be chosen by C.'s creditors, to protect their interests, & the petition must stand over until that had been done.—Re BARNETT, Ex p. HAINES (1838), 4 Deac. 20; Mont. & Ch. 32, Ct. of R.

3453. —— Reference to commissioners to ascertain validity of security.]—On a petition that the property, on which an annuity was charged, should be sold, for the payment of the value of the annuity:—Held: the ct. would refer it to the comrs. to ascertain, in the first instance, whether petitioner had a valid security on the premises, on which the annuity was alleged to be charged.—Re STUART, Ex p. STUART (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 540.

3454. —— Sale by private contract.]—The ct. will not make an order for a sale, by private contract, of premises, under an equitable mtge., but the comr. may order such sale if thought most expedient.—Re BARKER, Ex p. LADBROKE (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 384; 3 L. J. Bcy. 56, Ct. of R.

3455. Grounds for refusing—Security of no value—Possibility of becoming valuable.]—In May, 1820, bkpt. deposited the bond of a debtor to him with J. as a security for money lent by J. to bkpt. The commission issued in Nov., 1824. J.'s exors. prayed that the bond be sold before the comrs. & the proceeds paid to them, & that they might prove for any deficiency. The obligor had left the country & gone to the East Indies, & the assignees suggested that, if the bond were then sold, it would produce nothing, though, with proper management, it might thereafter prove valuable:—Held: no sale should be ordered, but petitioners should be at liberty to prove their whole debt under the commission.—Re BUNSCOMBE, Ex p. SMITH & STRICKLAND (1826), 2 Gl. & J. 105.

3456. —— Dispute.]—The ct. will only interfere to order the sale of equitable mtges., in cases where there is no dispute.—Re JACKSON, Ex p. ATTWOOD, SPOONER & Co. (1834), 2 Mont. & A. 24, Ct. of R.

3457. —— —— As to whether deeds deposited as security or not.]—The ct. will order a sale of property comprised in deposited deeds, although there is conflicting evidence upon the question whether they were deposited as a security or not.—Re STRATTON, Ex p. BARNES (1842), 6 Jur. 652, Ct. of R.

3458. —— Suspicion that mortgage fraudulent preference.]—The ct. will not interfere in making an order for the sale of mortgaged property, where the circumstances, are suspicious as to the mtge. being a fraudulent preference.—Re DAVY, Ex p. DEWDNEY (1835), 4 Deac. & Ch. 181; 2 Mont. & A. 72, Ct. of R.

3459. —— No memorandum—Delay—Bankrupt dead.]—Where there is no memorandum, the deposit of deeds twelve years ago, & bkpt. dead, the ct. will not interfere to make the common equitable mtge. order.—Re OLIVER, Ex p. JONES (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 152, Ct. of R.

3460. —— Bankrupt not mortgagor but purchaser of equity of redemption—Vendor joining in application.]—A mtgee. cannot have the usual order for sale where bkpt. is not the mtgor., but a purchaser of the equity of redemption, although the vendors of the equity of redemption, with whom bkpt. has covenanted to pay the debt, join in the petition, & pray to be at liberty, after paying the deficiency, to prove for the amount.—Re STOCKDALE, Ex p. KEIGHTLEY (1849), 3 De G. & Sm. 583; 64 E. R. 616.

3461. —— Debt not provable—Sum due bankrupt member of banking company—Lien on shares.]—Petition, by the public officer of a joint stock banking co., for the usual order as equitable mtgees. of some property in which bkpt. had a life interest, & also claiming a lien on shares held by bkpt. as a member of the co. The Act of Parliament, under which the co. was incorporated, provided that the co. should have a lien on the shares of any proprietor who became indebted to the bank. The right to an order for the sale of the life interest was not disputed:—Held: the balance due by bkpt. to the bank being a provable debt, the order might be taken for the sale of the shares, as well as of bkpt.'s life interest in the other property, with liberty to prove for the residue.—Re DREWRY, Ex p. WALLIS (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 201, Ct. of R.

3462. —— Application on appeal—No consent of trustee.]—When no application has been made by a mtgee. to the registrar for a sale of the property under 1870 Rules, r. 78, an order for sale on appeal cannot be made without the consent of the trustee.—Re HART, Ex p. FLETCHER (1879), 10 Ch. D. 610; 27 W. R. 622, C. A.

3463. What may be ordered to be sold—Part of security.]—An order was made for sale of part of the property comprised in a security, without prejudice to the creditor's lien upon the remainder, which was at the time unsaleable, being the subject of litigation.—Re PRICE, Ex p. WACE (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 730.

3464. —— Bankrupt's reversionary interest—Misapplication of trust funds by bankrupt trustee.]—A bkpt.'s reversionary interest under the trusts of a will was ordered to be sold, & the proceeds applied in making good money which had come to his hands as trustee under the same trusts, & which had been misapplied.—Re MOLYNEUX, Ex p. HARDMAN (1844), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 559, Ct. of R.

3465. —— Equity of redemption purchased by sub-mortgagor—After deposit of title deeds of mortgage by way of equitable mortgage.]—W. being mtgee. of an estate under a demise by way of mtge. for five hundred years, deposited the mtge. deed

3453 i. What procedure court may adopt—Reference to commissioners to inquire into facts.]—In a mtge. petition in a bkpcy. matter, it appearing that the mtgee. was the sole creditor, & was assignee; the ct. referred it to the comrs. to inquire into the facts & the sum now due, & if it appeared fair, to sell.—Re MEARA (1820), 2 Mol. 453.—IR.

3456 i. Grounds for refusing—Dispute—As to position of creditors.]—Where certain secured creditors in an insolvent estate objected to an advertised sale being held, on the ground that a dispute was pending as to the preference of certain other creditors, & that until that question was settled & appcts. did not know their position & were therefore prejudiced in bidding at the sale:—Held: appcts. must show that they had some strict legal right which might be injured or interfered with, & they failed so to do.—PRETORIA ESTATE & MARKET Co. v. ROOD'S TRUSTEE (1910), T. P. D. 1030.—S. AF.

3463 i. What may be ordered to be sold—Dispute as to property included in the mortgage—Proceeds to be paid into court.]—Where the mtgees. of a bkpt. apply for liberty to prove their debt under the commission, & there is a doubt whether the machinery of the mill which is the subject of the mtge. is included in their security, the mill & machinery will be ordered to be sold together, so as to make the produce most beneficial, & the money to be brought into ct. until the title to that produce is decided.—Re MILLNER (1831), 4 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 163.—IR.

with T. in order to give him an equitable mtge. for £800. W. afterwards purchased the equity of redemption, & subsequently became bkpt. T. petitioned that he might be declared equitable mtgee., & for a sale, not of the mtge. term only, but of the equity of redemption which had been purchased by W., on the ground that the deposit was not a conveyance, but a transaction giving a lien for the full amount intended to be thereby secured, & that the redelivery of the deeds could not be enforced until the whole sum so secured was paid:—Held: the usual order for sale should be made, & if the assignees did not take the equity of redemption & pay off T., he might put up for sale the whole interest of bkpt. in the premises, in which case the assignees would join in the conveyance to the purchaser.—Re WATTS, Ex p. TUFFNELL (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 620; 4 Deac. & Ch. 29, Ct. of R.

3466. —— Purchase of mortgaged property by bankrupt not completed.]—Bkpt. was the purchaser of an estate, but the purchase-money was not paid. Bkpt. had equitably mortgaged the estate to W., who presented the common petition of an equitable mtgee.:—Held: (1) unless the unpaid vendor consented the estate could not be sold, but only bkpt.'s interest therein; (2) the ct. expected petitioner to exert himself to have the estate sold to the very best advantage, & to do that the unpaid vendor should be brought before the ct., in the hope that he would consent to a sale; (3) the unpaid vendor should be served with the petition, & if he would not appear or would not consent then perhaps the ct. might order a sale of bkpt.'s interest only.—Re WATTS, Ex p. WRIGHT (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 49, Ct. of R.

3467. At what time order may be made—Security for replacing stock within three years.]—B. by bond bound himself in the penalty of £1,000 to replace within three years £550 Govt. stock & meanwhile to pay dividends on that sum. He also agreed in writing to assign as collateral security for the replacing of the stock & the payment of the dividends certain real estate. Before the expiration of the three years B. became bkpt. Dividends had accrued before the bkpcy., which had not been paid. On a petition for a sale of the estate, the produce to be applied in replacing the stock, & to prove for the difference, if the proceeds were not sufficient to satisfy the demand, it was contended for the assignees that the money to arise from the sale ought not to be laid out until the three years had expired, & that the estate might have the benefit, if the price of the stock should then have fallen:—Held: (1) the bond being forfeited at the time of the bkpcy., there was then a legal demand for the penalty, & the amount of the penalty would upon proof have been reduced upon equitable principles to the then actual value of £550 stock; (2) the estate was a security for the sum which would have been the subject of proof, & the creditor was entitled to have his stock replaced immediately, & an order should be made as prayed.—Re BARKER, Ex p. FISHER (1818), 3 Madd. 159; Buck, 188; 56 E. 3468. —— Power of sale not to be exercised for five years.]—Bkpt. executed a mtge., with a power of sale, subject to a proviso that the power was not to be exercised for five years, if the interest was regularly paid:—Held: the mtgee. might have the common order for sale within five years, with liberty to prove for the residue.—Re THEOBALD, Ex p. BIGNOLD (1838), 3 Deac. 151; 3 Mont. & A. 477; 7 L. 3471. —— What order may provide—As regards conduct of sale.]—When an equitable mtgee. applies to the ct. to realise his security, the conduct of the sale is in the discretion of the ct. As a general rule, where the security is sufficient, the conduct of the sale will be given to the trustee, but where the security is insufficient, the conduct of the sale will be given to the mtgee. In either case the costs, charges, & expenses of the trustee, properly incurred, will be a first charge upon the proceeds of sale.—Re JORDAN, Ex p. HARRISON (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 228; 53 L. J. Q. 3472. —— —— —— Petitioning creditors also assignees.]—A petition stated that in Jan., 1826, M. had lent to L. £300 on the security of a note of hand & on a deposit of title deeds. Before any payment M. died, having appointed petitioners his exors. In Nov., 1826, petitioners issued a commission against L., under which they were chosen assignees. The petition prayed that the premises might be sold, etc. The application was ex p., as the characters of exors. & assignees were blended, & it was desirable that the sale should take place under the immediate direction of the ct.:—Held: an order should be made as prayed for the sale, & an account of what was due to petitioners for principal & interest, & for the application of the purchase-money, & the comrs. should name a solr., whose costs were to come out of the estate, who, as if he were sole assignee, were to attend the taking of the account.—Re LEVETT, Ex p. COWDRY & PITT (1827), 2 Gl. & J. 272.

3473. —— —— —— Whether reserved biddings allowed to assignees—Sale of mortgaged estates.]—A reserved bidding was allowed to assignees, on the sale of an estate, which had been mortgaged by bkpt.—Re DUCKETT, Ex p. ELLIS (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 297, Ct. of R.

3474. —— —— —— —— Sale of life policies by equitable mortgagee.]—A petitioning creditor's debt amounted to £16,000. Three life policies, of the value of £500, had been deposited with him by way of equitable mtge., & he obtained an order for their sale, with leave to bid. Bkpt.'s assignees applied for leave to fix a reserved bidding. The ct. refused the application, but was prepared to give them leave to bid.—Re SKINNER, Ex p. BARNARD (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 291.

another solr. should be appointed to conduct the sale.—Re JOHNSON, Ex p. ROLFE (1832), Mont. 515; 1 Deac. & Ch. 77, Ct. of R.

3476. —— —— Sale of leaseholds—Whether trustee entitled to indemnity in respect of covenants.]—An equitable mtgee. of leasehold property prayed that the assignees might be directed to sell the property & for leave to bid at the sale. The assignees contended that so much of the prayer of petition related to a sale could not be granted, as the premises being leasehold, & if the assignees meddled with the property, though even for the purpose of joining in a sale, they would become responsible for any breach of the covenants of the lease as between themselves & the lessor, & that if the ct. did grant that part of the prayer asking a sale, it ought at least to order petitioner to indemnify the assignees against the breach of any of the covenants in the lease:—Held: the Ct. of Review could not impose any terms on petitioner, as it was in the option of the assignees either to accept or reject the lease, & if they took it, they must also take all the responsibility attaching to it, & the utmost the ct. could do was to give the assignees a reasonable time to consider whether they would accept or reject the lease.

The petition having stood over in order that the assignees might have time to elect, & the assignees not having come to any determination:—Held: the assignees had had a reasonable time to come to a decision & the usual order should be made.

If the assignees choose to have the conduct of the sale they may, but if they decline, then the equitable mtgee. may conduct it (SIR G. ROSE).—Re COLLINS & PRIOR, Ex p. FLETCHER (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 318, 356; 1 L. J. Bcy. 44, Ct. of R.

3477. What judgment for foreclosure must contain—As to official receiver's right to redeem.]—A mtgor. was adjudicated bkpt., & the mtgee. assessed the value of his security under 1883 Act, Sched. II. The debt amounted to £4,566 10*s.* 1*d.* & the assessed valuation of the mtge. security was £3,500. The mtgee. commenced a foreclosure action against the official receiver & subsequent incumbrancers. Upon motion for judgment in default of pleading:—Held: the judgment for foreclosure ought to show on the face of it that the official receiver was entitled to redeem the mortgaged property at a sum less than that at which the subsequent incumbrancers were entitled to redeem the mortgaged property.—KNOWLES v. DIBBS (1889), 60 L. 3478. Costs of application.]—On a petition by an equitable mtgee. to have the mortgaged premises sold & to prove for the difference, where the necessity of the application is created by the defect of petitioner's title, the expenses of it, & of all fair inquiries into the validity of the security must be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale, unless the assignees by an unnecessary & vexatious resistance call for a deviation from that practice.—Ex p. GARBUTT (1814), 2 Rose, 78, L. 3479. —— Form of order agreed between parties.]—On a petition for the sale of an equitable mtge., counsel for the petition stated that pettioner & resp. assignees had agreed out of ct. as to the order to be taken, except as to the costs, which the agreement left for the ct. to decide:—Held: (1) as the petition was necessary by the conduct of the assignees, arising from a mistaken view of their rights, they could claim nothing beyond costs out of bkpt.'s general estate; (2) costs as between party & party should be given to each party out of their respective funds.—Re GOUGH, Ex p. BATE (1839), Mont. & Ch. 58; 4 Deac. 46, Ct. of R.

3486. —— —— Security taken after notice of act of bankruptcy—Party granting security ignorant.]—Bankers, with the knowledge of an act of bkpcy. committed by their customer, took a guarantee from a surety on his behalf, to secure to a given amount all sums then, or thereafter, to become due from the customer. The surety had no notice of the act of bkpcy., & afterwards paid to the bankers the full sum for which he was guarantee, without specifying to which portion of the bankers' debt the payment was to be applied:—Held: such payment was to go in reduction of that portion of the bankers' debt which was provable under the fiat, & not of that which was not provable.—Re MASON, Ex p. SHARP (1844), 3 Mont. n. —— Interest on arrears of annuity.]—J. by his will gave his wife E. an annuity of $2,000 a year, & charged it on his estate. After his death E., C. & M., two daughters, & W. & G., two sons, entered into an agreement whereby the annuity was charged on certain property, & the sons covenanted to pay it, & the exors. of J. transferred all their interest as exors. in all the estate of J. to the sons, subject to the charge. Subsequently all parties joined in borrowing $16,000 on mtge. of part of the property for the purpose of reconstructing the buildings, the annuity being postponed to the mtges. W. & G. afterwards became insolvent, & B. became assignee in insolvency. The annuity fell into arrear for several years, & E. died, having made a will by which she devised all her estate to C. & M., who brought an action against B. to have a lien declared on the property for the amount of the arrears of the annuity. On a reference to the master he found that they had the right to maintain the action, & settled the amount of the annuity due, & allowed interest for the six years preceding action brought:—Held: R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 266 & 267, was not applicable to cases where a recovery was sought against deft.'s estate, & except under extraordinary circumstances upon particular grounds suggested of hardship or peculiarity, interest was not to be allowed upon the arrears of an annuity.—SNARR v. BADENACH (1885), 10 O. 3494. —— —— Provision for capitalisation of interest during life of third party.]—Bkpt. mortgaged his interest in an estate, of which his father was tenant for life, the mtge. providing for the redemption of the debt six months after the death of the father, together with interest at 5 per cent. capitalised at compound interest "by means of half-yearly rests" until the death of the father, with interest on that aggregate capital sum from the father's death. The bkpcy. took place three years before the father's death, & the mtgees. claimed to prove the aggregate sum due under the covenant at the death of the father less the value of their security:—Held: to the extent to which the aggregate sum included interest subsequent to the bkpcy. the proof must be disallowed.—Re FANE, Ex p. HOPE, [1888] W. 3498. —— Interest to date of deed of inspectorship.]—A debtor executed a deed of inspectorship under 1861 Act, & under Liquidation Act, 1868 (c. 68), a scheme was settled, under which the ct. ascertained the value of the securities held by the secured creditors, which value was to be taken by those creditors in part discharge of their debts, & they were to be at liberty to prove for the deficiency:—Held: the value must be taken as a discharge pro tanto of the principal & interest due at the date of the deed, & not in discharge of any subsequent interest, so that the balance only of such principal & interest due at the date of the deed could be proved under the deed.—Re SAVIN (1872), 7 Ch. The creditors allocated a sufficient part of the assessed value of the security to the amount of interest in question, & claimed to prove for the whole unpaid balance, less only the balance of the assessed value of the security after satisfying the claim for interest:—Held: they were entitled to do so, as s. 23 had not altered the rights of secured creditors.—Re FOX & JACOBS, Ex p. DISCOUNT BANKING CO. ---

PART IX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 5.—D.

3500 i. Security realising more than estimated value—Costs of mortgagee.]—A. bank holding title-deeds of a bkpt. deposited with them as security filed a charge on foot of their security, & before same was heard, filed a proof of debt, & therein valued their security. On the hearing of the charge, an order was made declaring the amount of the valuation well charged upon the proceeds of the sale of the lands, & also declaring the bank entitled to their costs. The lands were sold for more than the valuation:—Held: the bank were entitled to be paid their costs out of the surplus proceeds of the sale remaining after the payment of the amount at which they had valued their security.—Re LOVE (1882), 9 L. R. Ir. 6.—IR.

3500 ii. —— Surplus applicable to deficiency on security held for separate debt.]—Where a creditor has different securities for the same debt, & in his proof values them separately, & there is an excess realised upon one security, & a deficiency upon the other, the official assignee is only entitled to the excess, if any, in the aggregate sum realised over the aggregate valuation.—Re BAYLDON, Ex p. BANK OF AUSTRALASIA (1875), 1 V. 3500 iii. —— Whether surplus applicable to subsequent unsecured advance.]—A. assigned to B., in security for a debt of £500, a policy of insurance on his own life for £1,000 with power, in case of his death, & the debt being then unpaid, to uplift & recover the contents, but taking B. bound to hold count & reckoning for whatever sums he might recover under the policy, &

K., gave him a policy of insurance on his own life as security. K. estimated the value of his security at £200, & proved for the balance of his debt. The trustee was satisfied with the value put upon the security, & he did not offer to redeem, & it was admitted that he had no intention of doing so. K. intended to retain the policy, & continue to pay the premiums. Before any premium was paid P. died:—Held: the balance of the fund, after deducting the estimated value of the security, must be paid to the trustee.—Re PALETHORPE, Ex p. KING (1875), L. 3505. In repayment of composition paid to other creditors by secured creditors.] — Bkpt. having mortgaged two fishing boats to some fish-salesmen to secure his current account with them, & having subsequently failed in his business, the mtgees. offered to pay his creditors a composition, which nearly all the creditors agreed to accept, &, after having notice that debtor had committed an act of bkpcy., they paid the composition in good faith to the assenting creditors, believing that they were entitled under their mtge. to add the money so paid to their security. They then sold the fishing boats, & claimed to retain the balance of the proceeds of sale, after paying themselves the amount due on their mtge. at the date of the act of bkpcy., on account of the composition paid to the creditors. The official receiver applied that the balance might be paid over to him:—Held: the mere fact that the mtgees. were not familiar with the working of the bkpcy. law was not a ground for precluding the official receiver from insisting on his right to treat the balance as part of debtor's estate, & the money ought to be paid over to him.—Re HALL, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1907] 1 K. 3506. Towards repayment of insurance premiums advanced.]—P. was adjudicated bkpt. K. & Co., who had various debts & various securities, sent in their proof as secured creditors, lumping together their debts & securities & claiming to prove for the balance. The securities consisted of (1) a vendor's lien on ship shares, & (2) a mtge.

to impute same in extinction of the debt, & on payment of the debt to retrocess A. or his exors., & to pay any balance of the funds recovered. A. subsequently granted bond to B. for another debt, of £700, but the bond bore no reference to the former transaction, or to the policy of insurance, & it was not alleged by B. that the second advance was made on the faith of the previous assignation. A. died, & the balance due under the policy, after payment to B. of the £500 debt, was consigned under reservation of all claims. In a competition between B. & the trustee on A.'s estate, which was sequestrated:—Held: B.'s title to the policy was limited to a security of the £500 debt, & he had no right to retain it, or the balance of the contents, in security or extinction of the subsequent debt.—NATIONAL BANK OF SCOTLAND v. FORBES (1858), 21 Dunl. 3500 iv. —— Right to surplus.]—The official assignee, after a secured creditor, who had valued his security & proved for the balance, had received a dividend on his claim, claimed an assignment of the security at the creditor's valuation. The creditor claimed to revalue. The property comprised in the security was subsequently sold by consent:—Held: the official assignee was not entitled to the difference between the valuation & the principal sum.—HUMPHREY v. LOBB (1875), 13 N. S. W. S. C. R. 1.—AUS.

s. Towards general costs of administration.]—Appcts., secured creditors, in proving upon an insolvent estate valued their securities at the full amount of their claim, "without prejudice to such valuation being afterwards corrected & without prejudice to the amount of the said debt in other respects." The trustees in their distribution account awarded appcts. on their proof of debt a less sum, leaving a deficiency, & contended that as appcts. had become concurrent creditors for the amount of this deficiency they were liable as contributories upon a contribution account for the costs of the administration of the estate:—Held: the trustees were not entitled to place appcts. upon the list of contributories.—AFRICAN MUTUAL TRUST & ASSURANCE CO., LTD. v. RAUBENHEIMER'S TRUSTEES (1912), C. P. D. 439.—S. AF.

t. ——.]—After sequestration of a debtor's estate his trustee took possession of certain assets pledged to G. subject to G.'s rights. G. was prepared to take over the pledged assets in satisfaction of the debt. G. thereafter proved against the insolvent estate for the amount of his debt in respect of the goods handed over to the trustee & offered to pay the costs of realisation:—Held: G. was only liable to pay those costs & the trustee was not entitled to frame a contribution account against him.—GOLD v. LIPMAN'S TRUSTEE (1914), T. P. D. 639.—S. AF.

u. ——.]—A bondholder is entitled to the proceeds of property specially mortgaged after all costs in realising same have been paid. a. —— When secured creditor proves for balance of debt.]—Where a trustee had awarded to a bondholder the amount of the proceeds of the property specially mortgaged & he had proved under the general clause for the balance still due to him, he was liable under such proof for a proportionate share of the general costs of sequestration.—SLATER'S TRUSTEE v. SMITH & CO. (1886), 4 S. C. 135.—S. AF.

3506 i. Towards repayment of insurance premiums advanced.]—A mtgee., after sequestration of mtgor.'s estate, gave notice to the trustee that a premium was payable on the insurance policy of the mortgaged premises. The trustee in reply told the creditor that his proper course was to pay the premium & claim against the estate by ordinary proof of debt. The creditor paid the amount & claimed it as part of the costs of administration paid by him on behalf of the estate:—Held: the mtgee. was entitled to the repayment of the premium by the trustee.—WHALES' TRUSTEE v. EARLY (1909), 3 Buch. of policies, a debt, & freeholds. The trustee asked for details of value, & (1) was assessed at £1,325, & the property in (2) at £2,481, making in the aggregate £3,806. The trustee did not object to the proof being made for a lump sum, nor did he require the separate values of the securities to be assessed in the proof, but he admitted the proof to rank for the amount claimed less the aggregate assessed value of the securities. Subsequently a scheme for a composition was approved, & on payment of the composition the bkpcy. was annulled & the outstanding estate of P. was ordered to revest in him. A subsequent incumbrancer on the freeholds included in mtge. (2) having claimed to redeem:—Held: K. & Co. were entitled to be repaid all premiums paid by them on the life policies from the date of the receiving order with interest from the same date.—Re PEARCE, [1909] 2 Ch. 492; 78 L. g. Towards debts incurred by subsequent trading with creditor.]—C. held a policy of insurance on the life of M. as security for his debt. M. presenting a petition of arrangement, C. valued his securities, including the policy valued at £90, & proved for the balance. M.'s proposal to pay instalments was accepted & confirmed, but he made default in payment of the third instalment, & thereupon presented a second petition for arrangement, & proposed a composition in cash. The proposal was accepted & confirmed. C. filed a proof expressly including the amount of the first proof, & crediting the composition instalments paid, the balance being the price of goods supplied since the first arrangement. With his proof, he filed a release or waiver, by which it was agreed that he should make no claim for the composition payable in respect of his debt, but that it should be taken on M.'s application for a certificate that the resolution had been carried into effect as regards C. M. carried out his proposal as to the other creditors, obtained his certificate, & subsequently paid C. the composition on the amount of his proof. After M.'s death his administratrix offered C. the £90. C. had continued to trade with & give credit to M., who had become indebted to C. on the new account, & C. claimed to hold the policy as security, not only for the £90, but also for the entire unpaid balance of the old debt, & for the amount due on the new account, alleging an agreement with M. to that effect:—Held: on the evidence as to the old debt, C. had not established the existence of the alleged agreement, but he was entitled to hold the policy as security for the amount due on the new trading account, in addition to the £90.—MAHALM v. M'CULLAGH & SCOTTISH AMICABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (1891), 27 L. 3511. —— —— —— Joint adventure.] — A. & Co., Glasgow merchants, agreed with B. & Co., London merchants, to enter into a joint adventure for the purchase of cotton in America, with a view to realise a profit by importing cotton into England & disposing of it in the Liverpool market. To raise a fund for the purchase of the cotton, B. & Co., with the privity of A. & Co., applied to C. & Co., to ascertain the terms on which C. & Co. would grant a credit on their agent in New York. The terms being satisfactory, a credit was given to B. & Co. by C. & Co. on their New York agent to the amount of £20,000, & A. & Co. executed jointly with B. & Co. a guarantee to secure to C. & Co. the repayment of that amount by bills of exchange, which, according to the terms of the guarantee, were drawn by B., & accepted by B. & Co. in favour of C. & Co. Cotton was purchased to the value of £20,000, & about the time that the shipment arrived in the port of Liverpool, A. & Co., having reason to suspect the solvency of B. & Co., & fearing eventually to become solely liable for the amount of the guaranteed acceptances, persuaded B. & Co. to consent that the bales of cotton, when landed, should be handed over to E. & Co., of Liverpool, to be by them sold, & the proceeds specifically applied in payment of the bills when they fell due. In conformity with such arrangement, E. & Co. received the cotton, but before any proceeds were available to meet the acceptances, B. & Co. became bkpt. C. & Co. applied, that the comrs. of B. & Co.'s bkpcy. might be ordered to admit C. & Co. to prove the amount of the bills of exchange against the estate of B. & Co., the acceptors, without prejudice to C. & Co.'s lien on the cotton in the custody of E. & Co. :—Held : the comrs. ought to admit the proof without deduction.—Re BENTLEY, Ex p. WILSON (1838), 2 Jur. 67, Ct. of R.

3512. —— —— —— ——.]—A firm in Charleston applied to a firm in Liverpool to raise the necessary funds for the purchase of cotton in America for sale in England, at the risk of certain speculators for whom they acted, & the Liverpool firm applied to an English bank for an advance for that purpose. An arrangement was made, under which the Charleston firm drew upon an American branch of the bank for the amount required, purchased the cotton, consigned it to the Liverpool firm, drew bills upon that firm, & indorsed them to the bank. At the same time the cotton was consigned to the Liverpool firm, who accepted the bills drawn upon them by the Charleston firm, & the bills of lading were indorsed by the Charleston firm to the bank as security for their advance. Afterwards the Liverpool & Charleston firms became insolvent. The value of the cotton was insufficient to cover the acceptances of the Liverpool firm :—Held : the transaction was a joint adventure of the Charleston & Liverpool firms, & they were jointly interested in the cotton, & the bank could prove against the estate of the Liverpool firm for the sum advanced without giving up their security.—Re FRASER, TRENHOLM & Co., Ex p. ENGLISH & AMERICAN BANK (1868), 4 Ch. 3514. —— —— Subject to deduction in certain events.] — At the hearing of a suit instituted by the wife of bkpt. for redemption of a mtge. executed by the husband & wife of the wife's real estate, the assignees of bkpt., who were co-defts. with the mtgee., disclaimed their right to redeem, & a decree was made giving the first equity of redemption to the wife. After such decree, the comr. in bkpcy. having allowed the mtgee. to prove against the estate of bkpt. for the full amount of his principal & interest :—Held : the disclaimer of the assignees operated only in acceleration of the wife's right to redeem, but if she did not exercise the right, then, the purpose for which the disclaimer was given having ceased to exist, the assignees' equity of redemption would continue as before, & the mtgee. could only be admitted to prove, subject to the condition that in the event of the bill being dismissed as against him, the interest of bkpt. in the mortgaged premises should be sold, & proof admitted for the residue of the mtge. debt, after deducting the proceeds, or, in the event of redemption by the wife, the proof should be admitted subject to same being expunged, or remaining wholly or partially for the benefit of the person paying the mtge. debt. —Re GLEAVES, Ex p. PAINE (1863), 3 De G. J. & Sm. 458 ; 32 L. J. Bcy. 65 ; 8 L. T. 190 ; 9 Jur. N. S. 701 ; 11 W. R. 553 ; 46 E. R. 712, L. C.

3515. Security over property alleged to belong to bankrupt's wife—Subsequently proved to belong to bankrupt—Proof for balance—After deducting proceeds of sale of security.]—Bkpt. obtained a further advance from a creditor on his wife mortgaging property, which bkpt. represented as belonging to her separate estate. Bkpt. joined in the mtge. After the bkpcy. the trustee obtained a declaration that the mortgaged property formed part of bkpt.'s estate, & that his wife was his nominee. The creditor, who had sold the property under the powers in the mtge., sought to prove the full amount of his debt, on the ground that the trustee was estopped from denying that the mortgaged property was the separate property of the wife :—Held : there was no estoppel against the trustee, & proof could only be made for the balance due, after giving credit for the amount realised by the sale.—Re COOKSEY, Ex p. PORTAL & Co. (1900), 83 L. T. 435.

3516. Security over property devolving on bankrupt—Bankrupt taking no beneficial interest—Proof for full amount—Without deduction of security.]—A father & son made a joint & several bond to creditors, & the father made an equitable mtge. of part of his real estate as further security. The estate so mortgaged descended to the son, but subject to the father's debts which exceeded his assets. The son afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: primâ facie the creditor could not prove his whole demand without deducting the value of the mtge. security, but as no beneficial interest in the property descended to the son, the case was an exception to the general rule, & the fact that the debts which exhausted the father's assets were debts due from a partnership, which existed between the father & son, & were provable in the bkpcy., did not in the special circumstances of the case restore the general rule.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. TURNEY (1844), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 576; 2 L. T. O. S. 476, Ct. of R.

B. Security by way of Deposit of Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes.

3517. General rule.]—The rule, that a creditor seeking to prove in bkpcy. must give up or deduct the value of the securities he holds from the amount of his proof, holds good in the case of bills of exchange & promissory notes deposited as a security only, & not by way of actual transfer.—Re EARLY & SMITH, Ex p. EARLY'S EXECUTORS (1866), 14 L. T. 296.

3518. ——.]—A secured creditor, who holds bills of exchange as collateral security, must set them out in his proof.—Re RUTHEN, Ex p. KIDD (1898), 5 Mans. 227.

3519. Proof for balance remaining due—After sale of bill.]—A. & B., indebted to C. for goods sold, delivered to C. two bills of exchange in part payment of such debt, but they did not indorse the bills, nor did their names in any manner appear thereon. A. & B. became bkpts. before the bills became due, & all the parties on the bills became insolvent:—Held: the bills must be sold, & C. should receive the produce & prove the residue of his debt under the commission against A. & B.—Re LEWIS & POTTER, Ex p. SMITH (1789), 2 Cox, Eq. Cas. 209; 1 Cooke's Bankrupt Laws, 7th ed. p. 139; 30 E. R. 97, L. C.

3520. —— After collecting as much as possible from bankrupt parties thereto.]—A. having purchased goods of B., gave him an order on C., A.'s banker, to pay to B. a bill to the amount of the goods. C. accordingly gave to B. a draft on D., in London, payable three months after date to the order of B., which was accepted before the bill became due. A., C., & D. became bkpt.:—Held: B. must be considered as holding the bill as a pledge, which he must make available as far as he could against the estates of C. & D., & prove the deficiency against the estate of A.—Ex p. DICKSON (1789), 2 Cox, Eq. Cas. 194; 30 E. R. 90, L. C.

3521. —— After deducting value of bill.]—Bkpt. being indebted to his bankers, some time before his bkpcy. lodged a promissory note indorsed by him with a third person, who deposited it with the bank as security for the debt due to them from bkpt. The note had not arrived at maturity when the bkpcy. occurred:—Held: the bankers were not entitled to prove for the full amount of their debt without giving up the note, but only for the difference between the amount secured by the note or the agreed value of the note & the amount of their debt.—Re SAMPSON & BARNARD, Ex p. GLOUCESTERSHIRE BANKING CO. (1861), 5 L. T. 216.

3522. —— —— Bills merely deposited for collection.]—C., a bkpt., previous to his bkpcy., agreed to deposit with L. bills at long dates, which bills L. was to receive when due, or otherwise dispose of in the course of business, in consideration whereof L. undertook to accept & pay C.'s bills at three months, charging him with interest on advances, etc., the surplus, if any, to remain to C.'s account:—Held: in the circumstances a deposit was not intended, & L. was entitled to prove for the whole amount of his debt, treating the bills as securities.—Ex p. TWOGOOD (1812), 19 Ves. 229; 34 E. 3523. Sum received on account of bill from party other than bankrupt—Before proof—Proof for balance.]—Goods were sold, to be paid for by bill at three months. The drawers & acceptors having become bkpt., before the bills were due:—Held: the vendors, who had received dividends under their commissions, were entitled to prove under a commission against the vendees, who had not indorsed the bills, the deficiency, as a debt; till that should be ascertained, a claim & dividends should be reserved for the whole.—Ex p. BLACKBURNE (1804), 10 Ves. 204; 32 E. PART IX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 6.—B.

3523 i. Sum received on account of bill from party other than bankrupt—Before proof—Proof for balance.]—A debtor agreed with the A. Bank for a line of credit to be secured by the discount of certain bills which he had himself discounted, & which he indorsed & delivered to the bank. He also arranged with the M. Bank to discount his own notes to be secured by the deposit of his customers' notes as collateral. He made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, being largely indebted to both banks. The banks contended that they were only bound to give credit in their proofs on the amount of their claims for sums received on the collateral securities up to the date of the assignment:—Held: a creditor was entitled to prove for the whole amount of his debt, & to take a dividend upon the whole, without prejudice to his rights against such securities he might hold, subject to the qualification that he must not ultimately receive more than 20s. in the pound. The state of the accounts, at the time the claim was put in, was that which formed the basis of the dividend sheet, & the amount was to be fixed by the assignee, as at that date. Any money received prior to that from collaterals was to be credited: that received afterwards from such sources need not be taken into account, unless it, with the dividend, brought up the amount received by the creditor to 100 cents on the dollar.—EASTMAN v. BANK OF MONTREAL (1885), 10 O. R. 79.—CAN.

3523 ii. —— —— ——.]—A creditor who by way of security for his debt holds a portion of the assets of his debtor, consisting of goods & promissory notes indorsed over to him for the purpose of effecting a pledge of the securities, is not entitled to be collocated upon the estate of such debtor in liquidation under a voluntary assignment for the full amount of his claim, but is obliged to deduct any sum of money he may have received from other parties liable upon such notes or which he may have realised upon the goods.—BENNING v. THIBAUDEAU (1890), 20 S. C. R. 110.—CAN.

Sect. 4.—Proof by secured creditors: Sub-sect. 6, B., C. & D.]

3525. —— —— Proof for full amount of debt.]—If bills amounting to £1,320 be delivered by the drawer to a creditor as collateral security for a debt of £4,000, & the drawer & acceptor become bkpt., but the estate of the acceptor proves solvent, the creditor is entitled to receive 20*s.* in the pound on the bills against the estate of the acceptor, & also prove the debt of £4,000 & receive dividends in liquidation of the remaining portion of his debt under the commission against the drawer.—Re PEIRSON & SAMMON, Ex p. SAMMON (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 564, Ct. of R.

See 1914 Act, Sched. II., r. 18.

3526. —— After proof—Proof expunged—New proof for net sum due after sale of unpaid bills.]—Bankers, having proved the whole of their debt, exhibiting bills deposited with them as securities, afterwards received the amount of several of the bills. The proof was expunged, & the bills, remaining unpaid, were ordered to be sold, & a new proof to be made, deducting all that was received on account of the bills, considering them as mere pledges.—Ex p. BALDWIN (1797), cited 19 Ves. at p. 230; 34 E. R. 504.

3527. —— —— Reduction of proof & dividends—Return of excess dividends.]—Where a creditor, holding bills of exchange, proves their amount as his debt, with a statement that he holds the bills as security, & any of the bills are subsequently paid by the other parties to them, the amount so paid must be deducted from the proof & the dividends, or if the dividends have been paid upon the whole of the proof without such deduction, the assignees are not thereby concluded, for the Lord Chancellor will order them to be refunded. It makes no difference whether the bills have been deposited without indorsement, or have been indorsed by bkpt. to the creditor.—Re MOULSON, Ex p. BURN (1814), 2 Rose, 55, L. C.

A.

3528. —— Before dividend declared—Reduction of proof & dividends.]—Where a party holds bills of exchange, indorsed by bkpt. as collateral security for his debt, if one of them is paid before the dividend declared, the proof must be reduced by the amount of the bill paid, & he will receive dividends on the remainder of his debt.—Re BENTLEY, Ex p. BRUNSKILL (1835), 2 Mont. & A 220; 4 Deac. & Ch. 442; 4 L. 3529. —— After dividend received—Reduction of proof—Return of dividend.]—Where a creditor has made a proof, having as a security for his debt a bill of exchange, which is afterwards paid in full, but not till after the creditor has received dividends on his whole debt, the assignees cannot call on the creditor to return the dividends on the amount of the bill, but can only insist on a reduction of the proof.—Re BEAUMONT & HOLT, Ex p. CARR (1837), 2 Deac. 273; 3 Mont. & A. 64, Ct. of R.

C. Security by way of Guarantee.

3530. Surety holding security from principal debtor—Proof by creditor for full amount without deduction.]—Y. applied to his father-in-law, A., for a loan of £3,000. A. requested his bankers to credit Y.'s account with £3,000, giving them a promissory note for the amount. On being pressed by the bankers to pay the amount due on the note, A. applied to his solr., B., to pay off the amount, which he did, taking a joint & several promissory note for the amount from A. & Y. At the time of the original advance by the bankers, Y. had given to A. a mtge. on a policy to secure to him the repayment of the sum for which he was liable to the bankers. On the bkpcy. of Y. a proof for £3,000 was tendered by B. on the promissory note. No proof was tendered by A.:—Held: B. was entitled to prove for the £3,000 without any deduction of the value of the policy, & the ct. had no power to make S. give up for the benefit of the estate the security which he held.—Re YEWDALL, Ex p. BARNFATHER (1877), 46 L. 3531. Limited continuing guarantee—Payment received from surety—Proof for full amount.]—Merchants procured accommodation from bankers on entering with sureties into a covenant to pay the floating balance due from time to time up to a certain limited amount, subject to a proviso that in the event of the merchants' bkpcy., & in the event of the amount due exceeding at that time the fixed limit, any dividends received under the bkpcy. should be applied exclusively in payment of the excess, without the sureties being entitled to any part of the dividends until the whole of such excess was paid. Some of the sureties took from one of the principal debtors a counter-security & indemnity in respect of their liability under the covenant, but without the bankers having notice of the transaction. The merchants became bkpt., being indebted to the bankers beyond the limit fixed by the deed, &

3529 i. —— After dividend received—No reduction of dividend.]—A bank held, as security, a bond & certain bills in favour of the insolvent; in their proof of debt values were placed upon these securities & deducted in the usual manner for voting purposes. From the amount for which the bank appeared as a creditor in the third distribution account, filed by the trustee, the trustee deducted the amount of certain of the bills paid to the bank since the filing of the second distribution account, & awarded the bank the dividend payable under the third account, on the balance only. The trustee also deducted the dividends paid under the first & second accounts respectively in regard to the sum so received by the bank on the bills:—Held: so long as the amounts recovered by the bank, plus dividend, left a balance of indebtedness the bank was justified in claiming the dividend as well as any payments from debtors up to 20*s.* in the pound.—BANK OF AFRICA, LTD. v. CAMROODEEN & CO. n. Limited guarantee—Payment by surety before bankruptcy—Proof for balance.]—A cautioner for M.'s account at a bank wishing to terminate his liability, paid to the bank the whole sum for which he was liable at that date. He had obtained the whole sum which he paid to the bank with the exception of £400 by realising property belonging to M. which had been assigned to him in security for the sums due under his guarantee. The bank placed the money received from the cautioner in a special account in name of its agent & treated the interest on it as extinguishing pro tanto the interest falling due to the bank on the principal debt. On M. becoming bkpt., the bank claimed on his estate for the full amount of his indebtedness to it without deducting the sums paid by the cautioner:—Held: the payment by the cautioner having been made before the bkpcy. of M. the bank was only entitled to rank on M.'s estate for the balance of the principal debt after deduction of that payment.—MACKINNON'S TRUSTEE v. BANK OF SCOTLAND, [1915] S. 3532. —— —— ——.]—A bank permitted a customer to overdraw his account upon having a guarantee from a surety to the extent of £300, which guarantee provided that all dividends, compositions, & payments received on account of the customer should be applied as payments in gross, & that the guarantee should apply to & secure any ultimate balance that should remain due to the bank. The customer gave the surety a mtge. on part of his estate by way of indemnity. The customer compounded with his creditors by a deed, which provided for the administration of the assets as in bkpcy. His banking account was overdrawn £410. The mtge. was realised, & the surety paid the bank the £300 secured by it : —Held : the bank was not restricted to proof for the balance of £110, but was entitled to receive dividends on the whole £410, not receiving in the whole, including the £300, more than 20*s.* in the pound.—MIDLAND BANKING CO. v. CHAMBERS (1869), 4 Ch. Debtor having filed a petition for liquidation, B. paid £800, the amount of his guarantee, to the bank :—Held : B. having by the guarantee contracted himself out of his original right in favour of the bank, the latter were entitled to prove for the whole amount of their debt, including the £800 paid by B.—Re SELLERS, Ex p. MIDLAND BANKING CO. (1878), 38 L. T. 395.

3534 —— —— ——.]—A customer gave to his bankers, as a security for the balance which might from time to time be due from him to them, the joint & several bond for £1,000 of himself & a surety, the liability of the surety being expressly limited to £500. There was a proviso in the bond that any dividends received by the bankers in the bkpcy. of the customer should not, so far as concerned the surety, go in discharge of his liability, but the bankers should notwithstanding be entitled to recover on the bond against the surety to the full extent of £500, or so much thereof as should, together with the dividends, amount to 20*s.* in the pound on the debt due by the customer to the bankers. The customer filed a liquidation petition, & the bankers proved for the debt due to them. Afterwards the surety paid the bankers £500, & proved for £500 :—Held : the bankers were entitled to retain their proof for the full amount. —Re REES, Ex p. NATIONAL PROVINCIAL BANK OF ENGLAND (1881), 17 Ch. 3535. —— —— ——.]—A surety guaranteed a bank the payment of all sums of money, which then were or might thereafter from time to time become due or owing to the bank from their customer, S., but nevertheless the total amount recoverable from the surety was not to exceed £300. The guarantee was to be a continuing security, & any dividends, which the bank might receive on the bkpcy. of S., were not to prejudice their right to recover from the surety to the full extent of the guarantee any sums which, after the receipt of such dividends, might remain owing to them by S. S. became bkpt., & the bank, after receiving the £300, from the surety, claimed to prove in the bkpcy. for the full amount due to them from S. The trustee in bkpcy. contended that the proof ought to be reduced by the amount the bank had received from the surety :—Held : the bank were entitled to prove for their whole debt without any deduction.—Re SASS, Ex p. NATIONAL PROVINCIAL BANK OF ENGLAND, LTD., [1896] 2 Q. 3542. —— Proof for balance of bills after deducting proceeds of goods less broker's commission—Deduction of bare expenses of realisation from proceeds.]—A Bombay firm drew bills upon a London firm, who accepted them against certain consignments. The Bombay firm pledged the bills & shipping documents with a bank under a letter of hypothecation, to which the London firm was not a party. The Bombay & London firms both became bkpt. The bank thereupon sold the goods, & sought to prove against the estate of the London firm for the balance due after deducting the proceeds of sale, less ½ per cent. broker's commission & 2½ per cent. merchant's commission:—Held: the London firm was not bound by the terms of the letter of hypothecation, & the bank were in the position of mtgees. or pledgees of the goods, & were entitled only to deduct from the purchase-money the bare expense of realisation, viz., the broker's commission, & to prove for the balance of the bills after deducting the proceeds of the goods, less the broker's commission.—Re BAUMANN & Co., Ex p. ORIENTAL BANK CORPN. 3538 i. Instalments secured by guarantee —Proof for original debt after deducting sums received from debtor—Election to enforce composition.]—A debtor carried an arrangement for a composition, the last instalment being secured by the promissory note of debtor & a surety. The last instalment not having been paid, a creditor sued the surety on the promissory note, & recovered judgment, but was unable to realise anything under it. Debtor having died, in an action to administer his estate the creditor sought to prove for the amount of his original debt, giving credit for the amount of the first two instalments:—Held: he had elected to enforce the composition, & could only prove for the amount of the unpaid promissory note.—Re ROE, MANTON v. MAGRATH (1893), 31 L. R. Ir. 106.—IR.

3538 iii. —— Proof for original debt after deducting sums received from surety.]—Though the holders of composition bills enforce their rights against the sureties, they can prove in a subsequent bkpcy. for unpaid dividends, as well as for a deficiency in one. They are not limited to proof of the amount of the composition unpaid, but can prove for the full original debt, giving credit for payments. Proceedings against the sureties are not an election which would oust their proof.—Re NAIRN, CUTHBERT & Co., Ex p. KING (1894), 28 I. L. T. 99.—IR.

PART IX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 6. —E.

3539 ii. Proof against acceptor—For balance of bills after deducting proceeds of goods.]—C., in pursuance of a request from S. ordered a shipment of iron through his London agents, P., who drew against the shipment two bills of exchange on S. in favour of C. The bills were accepted by S. & discounted by C. with a bank, C. at the same time depositing with the bank, as collateral security, the bill of lading for the iron. Both S. & C. filed their petitions in the Insolvent Ct. & were adjudicated insolvents. In the schedule of S. the bank was inserted as a creditor in respect of the transaction for the amount of the bills. When the bills of exchange became due, they were duly presented for payment to the acceptors but were dishonoured & protested by the bank for non-payment, & on such non-payment the bank sold the shipment of iron for which it held the bills of lading:—Held: the bank was only entitled to prove for so much as was due to it on the bills of exchange after deducting the amount realised by the sale of the iron.—Re SHIBCHANDRA MULLICK (1871), 8 B. L. R. 30.—IND.

3539 ii. —— Deduction in respect of sum received by discounter—In respect of security given by acceptor.]—Bills drawn by P. were accepted by W., who gave P. a mtge. as collateral security. P., joined by W., assigned the mtge. to G., who discounted the bills for P., who subsequently got them discounted by a bank. W. became bkpt. The bank, holding W.'s acceptances for the entire debt, proved for the whole. G. made the mtge. available to the extent of £387:—Held: this sum must be deducted from the proof made by the bank, or else they should allow the assignees to proceed in their name against P., on foot of the bills.—Re WILSON, Ex p. PROVINCIAL BANK (1863), 15 Ir. 3543. Proof against indorser—For full account—Without deduction of value of guarantee—Whole beneficial interest in guarantee in proving creditors.]—H. & Co. lent a sum of money, receiving from the borrower a promissory note for the amount of the loan, together with the guarantee of a co., who thereby undertook to pay "to H. & Co., or the holders of the promissory note for the time being," the amount of the note, if not paid at maturity. H. & Co. indorsed the promissory note, & handed it, together with the guarantee, to applts., their bankers, who gave them credit for the full amount of the note. The note was dishonoured at maturity, & H. & Co. became bkpts. Applts. sought to prove in the bkpcy. as unsecured creditors for the amount due to them by H. & Co.:—Held: all the beneficial interest in the guarantee must be taken to have passed to applts. so that they were not "persons holding a mtge., charge or lien on the property of the debtors, or any part thereof," & they were not secured creditors in respect of the contract of guarantee within 1883 Act, s. 168, & were entitled to prove as unsecured creditors for the full amount of their debt without deducting the value of the guarantee.—Re HALLETT & Co., Ex p. COCKS, BIDDULPH & Co., [1894] 2 Q. 3545. Proof amended on ground of mistake of fact—Whether credit should be given for securities realised since first proof filed.]—A merchant in Bombay bought of a bank bills on their London branch for £25,000, giving for them £5,000 in cash & £20,000 in bills on a firm in London, consisting of himself & another person. The bank bills were all indorsed to the firm in London, & were all accepted. The merchant's bills were sent to the London branch of the bank & were accepted by the London firm. The bank was wound up, & the merchant & his partner each became insolvent, the London firm holding at the time of the winding-up bills to the amount of £19,000, & the bank having parted with the bills for £20,000. The trustees of the London firm had sent in a previous claim to prove for £5,000, taking that amount as the balance between the bills for £25,000 & the bills for £20,000, & not being aware that the bank had parted with the bills for £20,000. At the time of the previous claim the trustees held securities which had since been realised by them:—Held: notwithstanding the previous claim made by mistake, the trustees might prove for the £19,000, & the claim would be considered as made when the previous claim was made, so that the trustees representing the London firm were not bound to give credit for the money received by realising the security.—Re LONDON, BOMBAY & MEDITERRANEAN BANK, Ex p. CAMA (1874), 9 Ch. 3548. —— —— & costs—Less realised value of security.]—Bkpt.'s real estate was pledged as security for an annuity, & sold by order of the ct. There were arrears due at the date of the commission, & arrears had subsequently accrued:—Held: the proceeds of sale, after payment of the costs, should be applied to the payment of the arrears due at the date of the commission, & then to the value of the annuity as ascertained, the creditor to prove for the deficiency.—Re JARMAN, Ex p. SLACK (1823), 1 Gl. & J. 346.

3552. Debt secured by—Reserved right of forfeiture of shares—Value of shares forfeited not deducted.]—A. was the proprietor of seventy-one shares in a joint-stock banking co., registered under Country Bankers Act, 1826 (c. 46), & he also kept a current banking account with the co. The co.'s deed of settlement provided that every proprietor of shares should on demand pay any debt owing from him to the co., & that the share or shares of every proprietor who, or whose assignees, should omit to do so, should be liable to be forfeited to the co. for the benefit of the other proprietors thereof, but that the forfeiture should not discharge the debt, which the proprietor or his assignees should continue liable to pay. A. in Nov., 1867, owed the co. £8,000 on his current account, which was partly secured by an equitable mtge. On Nov. 25 the directors served him with a notice to pay the balance due from him on or before Dec. 2, & that in default of payment his shares would be forfeited. On Nov. 28 A. filed a declaration of insolvency, & the next day he was adjudicated a bkpt. on the co.'s petition, & on Dec. 3 the directors of the co. passed a resolution forfeiting his shares absolutely for the benefit of the co. The co. having realised their mtge., tendered a proof against A.'s estate for the balance of the debt due from him. The comr. in bkpcy. held that proof could only be made for the balance due, after deducting the value of the forfeited shares :—Held: the proof must be admitted for the whole balance claimed, but without prejudice to the right of the assignees to question the validity of the forfeiture.—Re ANDREW, Ex p. RIPPON (1869), 4 Ch. 3553. —— Lien under foreign law—Proof for full amount.]—The rule that a creditor proving under an English bkpcy. cannot take the benefit of the English law, without bringing into the common fund any part of bkpt.'s estate which he may have already received abroad, applies only to property obtained by process in the foreign country, not to property, to which the proving creditor is entitled by the law of the foreign country, e.g., as manager of a mine in Venezuela, on which the Venezuelan law gives the manager a lien or charge for working expenses.—Re SOMES, Ex p. DE LEMOS (1896), 3 Mans. 131.

Covenant by B. to pay the interest so long as the principal sum should remain unpaid. Proviso, that in case the interest should be in arrear thirty days next after same should have become due, B. should be considered as a tenant to A. of the messuage, lands, etc., from the date thereof, at the yearly rent of £40 10*s.*, payable on Apr. 16 & Oct. 16 in every year, & it should be lawful for A., his heirs & assigns, to enter & distrain, & to sell & dispose of the distress, or otherwise to deal with same, in like manner as in distresses for rent, reserved by lease, to the end that A. might be fully paid & satisfied the interest & costs. B. gave due notice that he would require the purchase-money to remain a charge on the premises for five years; he was let into possession & received the rents, & in July, 1828, became bkpt., & half a year's interest being in arrear for more than thirty days, A. distrained on the tenants then in possession of the premises. The assignees paid the amount of the distress. On Oct. 16, 1828, after bkpt. had obtained his certificate, another half year's interest became due, & an action of covenant was brought against bkpt. to recover same. He pleaded the bkpcy. generally:—Held: the agreement was substantially an agreement for a purchase of the premises, & the unpaid vendor was entitled to have the estate resold, & the produce & interest applied in payment of the purchase-money, & to prove against the estate for the residue, & the claim for interest was a debt provable under the commission, & barred by the certificate.—HOPE v. BOOTH (1830), 1 B. & Ad. 498; 9 L. 3560. —— —— Mortgagee assessing value of security—Proof for balance.]—An equitable mtgee. obtained a common decree for administration of his deceased debtor's estate, & sent in a claim for the whole amount of his debt. When the certificate of debts came to be settled the mistake was pointed out, & the chief clerk required pltf. to put a value on his security. He did so, & was admitted as a creditor for the balance, £28. The estate was then believed to be insolvent, but the fact had not been formally established. After the certificate had become binding, pltf. took out a summons asking that the property might be sold, & that he might be allowed to prove for the deficiency. A sale was ordered, & the summons directed to stand over. The property sold for much less than the value set upon it, & the summons was then brought on again:—Held: by Jud. Act, 1875 (c. 77), s. 10, 1870 Rules, r. 101, was made applicable to the case, & pltf. could only stand as a creditor for £28.—Re HOPKINS, WILLIAMS v. HOPKINS (1881), 18 Ch. D. 370; 45 L. B. Debit and Credit in same Right.

(a) Joint and Several Debtors and Creditors.

3566. Creditor of bankrupt—Debtor to bankrupt & another jointly.]—A separate commission of bkpcy. issued against one partner & the other paid the joint debts. A debtor to the partnership, being also a separate creditor of bkpt., was allowed upon petition to set off against bkpt.'s share of the joint debt, & to prove for the residue of his separate debt, the solvent partner consenting to receive his share.—Ex p. QUINTIN (1798), 3 Ves. 248; 30 E. R. 994, L. C.

3567. —— ——.] — Separate commission of bkpcy. Relief in the nature of set-off against a separate creditor of bkpt., indebted to the partnership to a greater amount, refused.—Ex p. TWOGOOD (1805), 11 Ves. 517; 32 E. R. 1189.

3568. —— ——.]—For twenty years defts. had been accustomed to settle each year the balance between the goods supplied to them by a firm & the goods supplied by them to the several members of that firm. Upon the firm's liquidation in bkpcy., defts. sought to set off the amounts due for goods supplied to the separate members against the amount of goods received from the firm. There was no agreement, either express or implied, to make the firm liable for the debts of the separate members:—Held: there could not be mutual dealings within 1869 Act, in the absence of such agreement.—TYSO v. PETTIT (1879), 40 L. T. 132, D. C.

3569. —— —— Bankrupt believed to be sole partner—Goods not supplied for firm purposes.]—The trustee in bkpcy. of a firm sued for the price of goods sold & delivered. Deft. counterclaimed to set off the price of goods, which, not for the firm purposes, were supplied to a partner, whom he believed to be the only partner:—Held: deft. had no right of set-off.—BAKER v. GENT (1892), 9 T. L. R. 159; 37 Sol. Jo. 133.

3570. —— —— Bankrupt held out & believed to be sole partner.]—Bkpts., F. & P., had traded in partnership. P. had sold goods to deft. who thought P. was trading alone. F. had allowed P. to deal in a manner only consistent with the fact that he was the sole partner. In an action by bkpt.'s trustee in bkpcy. for goods sold & delivered:—Held: deft. could set off a separate debt due from P.—HARPER v. MARTEN (1895), 11 T. L. R. 368, C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. Bevan v. National Bank, Bevan v. Capital & Counties Bank (1906), 23 T. L. R. 65.

3571. —— Debtor jointly with others to bankrupt.]—Part owners of a ship cannot set off their proportions of a debt to bkpt. on that account against the debts due by bkpt. to them severally.—Ex p. CHRISTIE (1804), 10 Ves. 105; 32 E. R. 783.

Annotation:—Mentd. Green v. Briggs (1848), 6 Hare, 395.

3572. —— —— Fraud.]—Bankers directed by A. to lay out money in navy annuities, did not do so, but represented that they had, making entries & accounting for the dividends accordingly, & they took a joint promissory note from A. under that supposition, & B., her brother, to secure a debt from him to them. The assignees under the bkpcy. of the bankers having sued B. alone on the note, an order was made for proof of the balance, setting off the debt upon the note.—Ex p. STEPHENS (1805), 11 Ves. 24; 32 E. R. 996, L. C.

3573. —— —— ——.]—V., a customer of the banking house of D. & Co., transferred to N., a partner in the firm, a sum of stock by way of security for money borrowed of them, & gave notes for the amount, payable on the stock being retransferred to him. He paid off those notes, & afterwards borrowed a further sum on the joint note of himself & his son, without calling for a retransfer. The stock so transferred having been blended with other stock, of which N. was in like manner possessed by way of security for other customers, was sold by the partnership, & the produce applied to the use of the partnership, except a small balance still remaining in the name of N. D., another of the partners, afterwards died, & the partnership was carried on without any alteration of firm till the surviving partners became bkpt. On the bill of V. against the assignees of bkpts., & against the representatives of D.:—Held: he was entitled to the stock remaining in the name of N., the other creditors in respect of stock transferred having been satisfied their demands, as being sufficiently appropriated; to set off, against the joint note of himself & his son, so much of the money received by the partnership out of the sale of the remainder of the stock as was equal to the amount of such joint note; to prove the residue as a debt against the estate of bkpts.; & to receive from D's. estate the amount of the deficiency.—VULLIAMY v. NOBLE (1817), 3 Mer. 593; 36 E. R. 228.

3574. —— —— One account merely security for other.]—A., on entering into partnership with B., borrowed his stipulated capital from his bankers on B. joining as security. The partnership opened an account with the bankers, who became bkpt. The balance on the joint account arising from the loan was against A. & B., but A.'s private account was in his favour:—Held: A. & B. might set off such private balance against the joint debt, which was nothing more than a security for the separate one.

In equity the creditor who has such a security cannot resort to it, without allowing what he has received from the separate debts (LORD ELDON, C.).

PART X. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 2.—B. (a).

3571 i. Creditor of bankrupt—Debtor jointly with others to bankrupt.]—A judgment debtor, against whom sequestration was brought, claimed to defeat petitioning creditors' debt in respect of unpaid calls by setting off a joint debt due from them to him:—Held: the joint debt could not be set off against the separate debt.—Re SLOSS, Ex p. ROBISON BROTHERS, CAMPBELL & SLOSS, LTD. (1893), 19 V. L. R. 710.—AUS.

3571 ii. —— ——.]—In 1847, an order to supersede a commission of bkpcy. was made with costs, to be paid by petitioning creditors. Before those costs were paid the party was discharged, in 1849, as an insolvent:—Held: the assignee in the insolvency matter, who had been a petitioning creditor in the bkpcy. matter, took the costs under the order of 1847 subject to the lien of the solr. who had obtained it, & could not be allowed to set off against that lien a debt due to himself by the insolvent when those costs were incurred.—Re PETTICREW, Ex p. ORR (1850), 1 I. Ch. R. 102.—IR.

3575. —— —— Joint debt security for separate debt due by creditor to bankrupt.]—A set-off in bkpcy. was allowed of a debt of bkpts. to one partner separately against a joint debt of him & his partner on their bond to secure the separate debt of the former.—Ex p. HANSON (1806), 12 Ves. 346; 33 E. R. 131; subsequent proceedings (1811), 18 Ves. 232, L. C.

3576. —— —— Transfer of credit after stoppage by bankrupt.]—A. & B. had a joint account at their bankers', & A. had also a separate account at the same bank. The bankers suspended payment; at that time the joint account of A. & B. was indebted to the bankers, but the bankers were indebted to A. upon his separate account. A. assigned his balance to his firm, & the firm gave notice to the bankers to transfer the balance of A.'s account to their joint account. The bankers did not comply, & became bkpts. Their assignees brought an action against A. & B. for the balance due upon their joint account. A. & B. filed a bill to restrain the proceedings at law:—Held: the bankers, after a suspension of payment, could not transfer or set off one account against another, & A. & B. had no right to be relieved from the proceedings at law.—WATTS v. CHRISTIE (1849), 11 Beav. 546; 18 L. J. Ch. 173; 13 L. T. O. S. 297; 13 Jur. 845; 50 E. R. 928.

Annotation:—Mentd. Farley v. Turner (1857), 5 W. R. 666.

3577. Creditor jointly with others of bankrupt—Debtor to bankrupt.]—If A., a debtor of bkpt. is also his creditor in as much as bkpt. owes money to a partnership in which A. is a partner, A. cannot set off a debt owed by bkpt. to the partnership against the amount which he, A., owes to bkpt.—Ex p. RILEY (1731), Kel. W. 24; 25 E. R. 476.

3578. —— ——.]—J. apprenticed his son to bkpt. two years before his bkpcy., & agreed to pay a premium of £200. J. was in partnership with T., & bkpt. owed them a joint debt exceeding the amount of the apprentice fee due from J. to bkpt.:—Held: J. could not set off the apprentice fee against the joint debt due from bkpt. to J. & T.—Re PESTELL, Ex p. SOAMES (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 320, Ct. of R.

3579. —— —— Debt to bankrupt originally joint but subsequently becoming separate.]—A. had a joint demand against B. & C., who were also creditors of A. B. by letter having made himself separately liable to A. on account of the demand originally joint:—Held: he could not either at law or in equity set off the joint debt due from A. to himself & C.—Re FISHER, Ex p. Ross (1817), Buck, 125, L. C.

3580. —— —— Fraud.]—P., the solr. of K. & R., trustees of a settlement, received on their behalf £4,000, & represented that he had invested the whole of it on mtge. He did invest on mtge. two sums of £2,200 & £850, part thereof, but he never invested the balance of £950. The debt of £2,200 was, with the knowledge of K. & R., paid off & received by P., & retained by him for reinvestment, but no reinvestment was ever made. P. died insolvent:—Held: there was no rule allowing a debt due to joint creditors, contracted by fraud, to be set off against a separate debt due from one of the joint creditors, & neither of the sums of £2,200 & £950 could be set off against a separate debt due from K.—MIDDLETON v. POLLOCK, Ex p. KNIGHT & RAYMOND (1875), L. R. 20 Eq. 515; 44 L. J. Ch. 618.

3581. —— —— Debtor sole surviving creditor.]—A debt due to deft. as a surviving partner may be set off against a demand on him in his own right.—SLIPPER v. STIDSTONE (1794), 5 Term Rep. 493; 101 E. R. 277.

3582. Creditor of bankrupt & others jointly—Debtor to bankrupt.]—Debtor by bond to the separate estate of a deceased partner was not allowed in equity to set off his bond debt in respect of acceptances, for which he had become liable to the partnership estate, & which were proved by him under a joint commission of bkpcy.

As at law a joint cannot be set off against a separate demand, the same rule prevails in equity (GRANT, M.R.).—ADDIS v. KNIGHT (1817), 2 Mer. 117; 35 E. R. 885.

3583. —— —— Relation between bankrupt & joint debtors severed.]—J. & W. carried on business as W. & Co., & a bank advanced to the partners jointly the sum of £11,000. On Sept. 20, 1909, W. retired, & by the deed of dissolution W. assigned his interest to J., & an account was to be taken of W.'s share as on Dec. 31, & such share when ascertained was to be credited to him in the books of the firm & was to remain a loan to the firm for ten years, at 5 per cent., & if on the taking of such account the assets of the firm were found to be insufficient to meet its liabilities, W. was to pay J. a half part of such deficiency. J. & W. subsequently became bkpt., & the two bkpcies. were consolidated. The trustee of the separate estate of J. claimed a sum on current account at the bank in the name of the firm, but the bank claimed to set off against that claim the joint liability of J. & W. for £11,000:—Held: as the partnership was dissolved as from Sept. 20, 1909, & not from Dec. 31, the bank's claim failed.—Re JANE, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1914), 110 L. T. 556, C. A.

(b) Insurance Broker and Bankrupt Underwriter.

3584. Policy in own name—Del credere commission—Set-off.]—A broker with a commission del credere may set off, under the general issue, a loss upon a policy happening before bkpcy., to an action by the assignees of bkpt., for premiums upon various policies underwritten by him, & for which he had debited the broker.—GROVE v. DUBOIS (1786), 1 Term Rep. 112; 99 E. 3585. —— —— ——.]—Where bkpt. has underwritten a policy to a broker acting under a commission del credere, & a loss upon the policy happens before, but is not adjusted till after the bkpcy., the broker may deduct the amount of the loss from the debt which he owes to the estate of bkpt., & if by mistake, he pays all that is due to the assignees without deducting such money, he may recover it from the assignees as money had & received to his use.—BIZE v. DICKASON (1786), 1 Term Rep. 285; 99 E. In an action for premium by the assignees of one of the underwriters, who had become bkpt.:—Held: deft. might set off losses & returns due on all such policies as were effected in the name of their own firm, such losses & returns having become due on those policies before the time when bkpt. stopped payment, though they had never been adjusted by bkpt., but only by the other underwriters between the time of his stopping payment & committing the act of bkpcy., on which adjustment defts. had given their principals credit for the amount.—KOSTER v. EASON (1813), 2 M. & S. 112; 105 E. c. Second insurance by broker—Set-off of premiums under first & second insurance.]—S., who had underwritten policies to a large amount, of which the risks were undetermined, became bkpt. No part of the premiums on the policies had at that time been paid. The brokers, conceiving their contracts of insurance with S. to be no longer binding, made second insurances on the same subjects, & in settling with S.'s trustee gave S. credit for the premiums in the policies he had underwritten, but placed to his debit the premiums paid for the second insurances, alleging the right to apply the premiums unpaid towards making such second insurances, the first insurances having failed. According to opinions of English counsel the bkpcy. of the underwriter, while the risk was undetermined, did not entitle the insured to retain the premium, but he must pay the premium to bkpt. estate:—Held: (1) if the re-insurances were made for behoof of S.'s estate, they were ineffectual, not having been made with the concurrence of S.'s trustee, & if they were double insurances, S.'s estate could not be charged with the expense thereof as that would create an undue preference; (2) there was no consensus of debit & credit entitling the broker to retain or apply the premiums in his hands to second insurances, & defenders must pay the balances due by them without deduction of the premiums paid or other expenses incurred in connection with the reinsurances.—SELKRIG v. PITCAIRN & SCOTT (1808), 14 Fac. In Oct., 1908, debtor holding debenture stock in petitioning creditor co. claimed to be entitled to set it off against petitioning creditor's debt. In Nov. following, but before the bkpcy. petition was disposed of, a receiver was appointed on behalf of another creditor of the debtor's interest in the debenture stock :—Held : an essential change was effected by the appointment of the receiver, & thenceforward there were no mutual credits between petitioning creditor & debtor.—Re A DEBTOR, Ex p. PEAK HILL GOLDFIELD, LTD., [1909] 1 K. PART X. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 2.—B. (c).

3598 i. General rule.]—A. drew a bill of exchange in favour of B., who indorsed it over to C., who was indebted to pltfs. C. presented the bill for acceptance, & it was noted for non-acceptance. Pltfs. wanting the money due from C., he indorsed the note over to them. A. became a bkpt., & the assignees refused to pay the amount to pltfs. alleging that C. was indebted to bkpt. in more than the amount of the bill, & that the bill being indorsed over, after being noted for non-acceptance, they were entitled to that defence against the indorsees :—Held : the set-off & mutual credits clause did not operate in favour of the assignees against pltfs., but would as against C., because he was a party to the drawing of the bill.—VICKARS v. TUBET (1800), Rowe, 710.—IR.

3600 i. Creditor of bankrupt—Debtor to assignees—Proceeds of sale received by auctioneer.]—B. died in Aug., 1884, indebted to T., an auctioneer, to the amount of £199. B.'s exors., through their agent, employed T. in Sept., 1884, to sell the movables in the estate, which T. did, & realised £491. After the sale it was discovered that B. had been insolvent at his death & his estate was surrendered. T., who had not made any claim upon the estate, sought to set off £199 of the proceeds in his hands against the debt due to him, & to pay the balance to the trustee of B.'s estate :—Held : he was bound to hand over the whole amount of the proceeds, & to prove on the estate as a concurrent creditor.—BRINK'S TRUSTEE v. THERON (1885), 4 S. 3600 ii. —— —— Sums recovered by solicitor in action.]—M. employed C. as his attorney in an action, in which he obtained judgment with costs. M. was also indebted to C. for previous legal expenses. Before the amount of the judgment could be recovered M. became insolvent, & C. then obtained the amount on instructions received from M.'s trustees :—Held : C. was not entitled to set-off against the amount so obtained by him, his previous claims against insolvent, but must prove for the same in the ordinary manner.—MURTHA'S TRUSTEE v. COGHLAN (1883), 1 H. The estate of B. after all debts, etc., were paid, left a clear residue exceeding the amount of the bond debt. A. became surety for C. by joining in promissory notes. C. became an insolvent debtor, & A. was compelled to pay the notes. C. died, & the assignees under his insolvency took out letters of administration de bonis non of B., & sued A. on the bond:—Held: A. might set off the sums which he had been compelled to pay as surety for C. against the bond debt.

On Oct. 27, 1845, A. became bkpt., £92 10*s.* being at that time due as rent from D. to bkpt. The assignees, upon being appointed, elected to take the property held under B., & on Feb. 26, 1846, elected not to take the property held under C. At Christmas, 1845, rent to the amount of £114 7*s.* 6*d.* became due from A. to C., for which amount, on Feb. 19, 1846, C. distrained upon the goods in the vault held by D., who, to relieve himself of that distress, paid that sum to C. An action having subsequently been brought by the assignees of A. against D. to recover the above sum of £92 10*s.* & £35 for a quarter's rent due at Christmas for the warehouse & cellar:—Held: D. was not entitled to set off the sum so paid by him to C.—GRAHAM v. ALLSOPP (1848), 3 Exch. 186; 18 L. 3608. —— —— Debts incurred after bankruptcy.]—A trading firm assigned their estate, stock, debts due to the firm, etc., to trustees, upon trust for sale & distribution, with power to carry on the business, but the trustees did not thereby undertake to discharge the liabilities of the firm. The deed of assignment contained a proviso making it void, if the firm became bkpt. before a certain day. Pltfs., who were at the date of the assignment creditors of the firm, afterwards became indebted to the trustees, who continued to carry on the business. The firm becoming bkpt. before the day named:—Held: pltfs. had no right to a set-off, but the result would have been different, if pltfs., instead of creditors, had been debtors at the date of the assignment, & had afterwards become creditors of the trustees.—HUNT v. JESSEL (1854), 18 Beav. 100; 2 W. 3609. —— —— Arrears of rent—Outgoing valuation.]—Bkpt. was tenant of a farm upon the terms that, at the expiration of the tenancy, he should be paid by the landlord allowances for tillages & cultivation according to the custom of the country. His trustee did not disclaim the tenancy, but carried on the business of the farm for the benefit of the creditors, until the tenancy was determined by notice to quit. The estate was sufficient to indemnify the trustee against any personal liability in respect of the tenancy. In an action to recover the value of tillages & cultivation by the trustee during his tenancy, according to the custom:—Held: the landlord was not entitled to set off rent, accrued due before the bkpcy., against the trustee's claim.—ALLOWAY v. STEERE (1882), 10 Q. 3611. —— —— Property in hands of creditor passing to trustee by relation back.]—Two of three partners, affecting, but without authority, to bind the firm by deed, assigned a debt due to them from a correspondent abroad, without his privity, to a creditor at home, & afterwards by direction of such correspondent drew a bill of exchange in the name of the firm upon his agent in England, which was accepted, payable to their own order for the amount of the debt. The two partners, having in the meantime committed acts of bkpcy., indorsed such bill to the creditor of the firm in part satisfaction of his debt, & afterwards separate commissions were sued out against the two partners, who were declared bkpts., & their affects assigned, the other partner being all the time abroad :—Held : (1) by such indorsement of the bill by the two after acts of bkpcy. committed by them, though before the commission issued, nothing passed to the creditor, for bkpt. partners had by relation ceased at the time of such indorsement to have any control over the joint stock as partners, & could not bind either the property of their assignees or of their solvent partner ; (2) the solvent partner might join with the assignees of the other two in maintaining an action for money had & received to recover back from the creditor the amount of the bill received by him from the acceptor, & such creditor could not set off a greater demand which he had upon the joint firm, though represented by the different pltfs.—THOMASON v. FRERE (1809), 10 East, 418 ; 103 E. On the 6th the bill became due, & M. having failed the same day, the bill was dishonoured. On the 7th defts., who then had in their hands sufficient assets of B. to cover the bill, returned it to B. with a receipt for the amount indorsed on it, & having on the 2nd entered the bill to the credit of B. now entered it as a debit. Defts., were also the acceptors of a bill for £1,000, drawn by B., indorsed to M., & due on Jan. 12. On the 9th B. sent back the £760 bill to defts., with instructions to carry into effect views expressed by B. in a letter addressed to defts. on the 6th in anticipation of M.'s failure. That letter was as follows :—" We think that you would be entitled to retain the £1,000 as a set-off for the £760 ; at all events we will trust to your doing the best for us in this matter." 3620. —— Debtor to bankrupt as county treasurer—Two separate accounts with same bank—Both accounts treated as one.]—G., a county treasurer, used to pay the county money into the B. Bank, but kept his private account at the N. & P. Bank, & carried over the police rates to that account by cheques drawn on the B. Bank. In Feb., 1869, he opened a separate account with the N. & P. Bank, headed "Police Account." Some of the items to his credit in that account could be traced as having come from county funds, but most of them could not. The cheques which he drew upon it were all headed "Police Account," & appeared to have been drawn only for county purposes. For the purposes of interest the N. & P. Bank treated the accounts as one account, & the interest on the balance in his favour was carried to the credit of his private account. At the time when the police account was opened, the manager of the bank knew that G. was county treasurer, & understood that he had been in the habit of paying county money into the bank. On Apr. 8, 1870, G. absconded, his private account being overdrawn, & the police account being in credit:—Held: the bank was not entitled to set off the one account against the other, but the county magistrates were entitled to recover the balance standing to G.'s credit on the police account.—Re GROSS, Ex p. KINGSTON (1871), 6 Ch. 3621. —— Debtor to bankrupt in right of third party.]—The owner of a cargo insured it against marine risks. He subsequently executed a deed of inspectorship under 1869 Act. 3622. Creditor of bankrupt in right of third party—Debtor to bankrupt—Bankrupt's bill procured to provide set-off.]—Third persons holding the acceptance of a trader, who was known to be in bad circumstances, agreed with defts., as a mode of covering the amount of the bill, that it should be indorsed to them, & that they should purchase goods of the trader, which were to be paid for by a bill at three months' date, or made equal to cash in three months, before which time the trader's acceptance would be due, but without communicating to the trader that they were the holders of his acceptance. The trader having become bkpt., & his assignees having brought assumpsit to recover the value of the goods sold & delivered to defts:—Held: the latter could not set off bkpt.'s acceptance, which they did not hold in their own right, but in effect for such other persons.—FAIR v. M'IVER (1812), 16 East, 130; 104 E. 3623. —— —— ——.]—To an action at the suit of assignees of bkpt. for £48, the price of a phaeton, which deft. had purchased from bkpt. for cash on delivery, deft. pleaded that, before & at the time of the delivery of the phaeton, & of the bkpcy., bkpt. was indebted to deft. in the sum of £48 upon a bill of exchange drawn by E. upon & accepted by bkpt., payable to H., & by H. indorsed to deft. Pltfs. replied that bkpt. had accepted the bill for a debt due from him to H., & that, after the bill became due & was dishonoured, H. indorsed it to deft. without consideration, in order that deft. might purchase the phaeton, setting off the amount of the bill, & then hand over the phaeton to H. They also received from other parties notes of bkpts. for which they were to pay so much only as they should receive from the assignees for such notes. An action for money lent having been brought by the assignees of bkpts. against defts.:—Held: defts. had a beneficial interest in the first description of notes, & might set them off, but they could not set off the second description of notes, as they held them merely as trustees.—FORSTER v. WILSON (1843), 12 M. & W. 191; 13 L. The estate was conveyed to the trustees, the sale took place, & the auctioneer received deposits to a greater amount than his advances The auctioneer became bkpt. :—Held : A. was entitled to an equitable set-off of deposits against his debt to bkpt.'s estate, according to the amount in which, on taking the account, A. should appear to be in reality interested beneficially in the surplus of the proceeds of the sales, & if he was not so interested, then the deposits were the money of the trustees.—ALVANLEY v. LEWIS (1831), 1 L. 3627. —— —— ——.]—N. & C. were exors. of a will & trustees of the residuary real & personal estate of testator, who died in 1859. N. & F. were tenants for life of the residuary estate in equal shares. In Jan., 1873, C. was residing abroad, & N., being about also to go abroad, gave to P., the solr. of the exors. & trustees, an authority on behalf of both trustees to receive the rents of the real estate & pay the outgoings. Under that authority P. received the rents, & at his death a considerable sum was due from him in respect thereof. P.'s estate proved insolvent, & the usual creditor's decree was made for administration. Subsequently to the decree F. assigned to N. all F.'s interest in the sum due from P. N. was indebted to A. & B., as trustees for P., in a sum the repayment of which was secured by a mtge. of real estate belonging to N., & that sum was paid into ct. in the suit to a separate account, under an order made without prejudice to any question as to set-off. N. afterwards presented a petition claiming to be entitled to set off the debt due from P. against the mtge. debt, & seeking to have the amount of the debt due from P. paid out of the fund standing to the separate account :—Held : the debt due from P., being either due to both trustees & exors., or if due to N. alone, due to him in his character of trustee & exor., could not be set off against a debt due from him individually.—MIDDLETON v. POLLOCK, Ex p. NUGEE (1875), L. C. & Co. were creditors of bkpts., & had proved. 3631. —— Jointly with another—Debtor to bankrupt—Whole beneficial interest not absolutely in creditor.]—An exorship. account was kept with bankers in the joint names of the two exors., who were brother & sister. The brother, who was the residuary legatee under the will, kept another account of his own with the bankers. At the bkpcy. of the bankers there was a balance standing to the credit of the joint account, but the other account was overdrawn. Securities had been set apart to answer the legacies bequeathed by the will, & testator's debts & funeral & testamentary expenses had been paid, but the exors. were jointly liable for rates & taxes & for a solr.'s bill of costs :—Held : the one account could not be set off against the other, & the rules of equitable set-off or mutual credit could not apply, unless the brother was so much the person solely beneficially interested in the balance of the joint account that a Ct. of Equity, without any terms or any further inquiry, would have compelled the sister to transfer the account into the brother's name alone.—Re WILLIS, PERCIVAL & Co., Ex p. MORIER (1879), 12 Ch. 3632. Creditor of bankrupt as executor—Debtor to bankrupt—Funds transferred to executorship account — Beneficial interest in creditor.] — A banking firm became bkpt. At the time of the stoppage deft. had an account which was overdrawn. Deft. was the sole exor. of A. who had left a balance of about £600 in the hands of the bank. That balance was at once transferred by the bank from the account of A. to the account of deft., "exor. of the late A." Before the bkpcy. deft. had drawn out & paid in various sums, leaving a balance in deft.'s favour. Deft. was sole residuary legatee by A.'s will. There were pecuniary legacies which deft. had paid at the date of the bkpcy., but there was a sum of £800 to be invested for the benefit of certain persons, & an annuity of £100, charged on the real & personal estate ; & at the date of the bkpcy. deft. had not specifically provided for those bequests, but had in his hands, besides the balance in the bank, other personal assets of testatrix & after providing for those bequests, there would have been a surplus of £1,900, to which deft. was entitled as residuary legatee. Pltf., the trustee in the bkpcy., having brought an action against deft. to recover the amount of his overdrawn account, deft. sought to set off the balance in his favour on the exorship.

Sect. 1.—Application of the doctrine: Sub-sect. 2, B. (c); sub-sect. 3.]

account:—Held: (1) the transfer of the balance of deceased's account to the account of deft., as exor., was equivalent to deft. drawing out the whole amount & paying the same amount into a fresh account, & created a personal debt for money lent between deft. & the bank; & (2) the effect of it being opened as an exorship. account was to affect the bank with notice if there were any equities attaching to the fund, but in the circumstances there were no such equities as to prevent deft. treating the balance as a fund to which he was beneficially as well as legally entitled, & he was entitled to set it against pltf.'s claim.—BAILEY v. FINCH (1871), L. The bank knew the circumstances, & also that an appeal against the adjudication was pending. The bank afterwards became bkpt., & subsequently the adjudication against deft. was annulled on the ground that no act of bkpcy. had been committed. 3636. —— —— ——.]—A. co. contracted to construct a railway in one of the Philippine Islands. The construction was carried on by L. their manager there. By the law of the Philippine Islands a public co. was not recognisable, & an account was opened on behalf of the co. in the name of L. for the purposes of the co. & contained entries relating to the co.'s business only, & all the money paid into it was that of the co. In pursuance of a verbal arrangement made in 1888 between one of the directors of the co. & the bank, it was agreed that the bank should give credit to the co. in Manila (not at any one time to exceed £15,000), & that the advances under the credits should be made as follows:—viz., that drafts drawn in the name of the co. by their agent in Manila upon the co. in London should be purchased by the branch bank at Manila at the current rate of exchange & the proceeds be credited to the co. L. also had a private account of his own at the bank. A petition for the winding up of the co. was presented & a compulsory order made. At the date of the commencement of the liquidation there was standing to the credit of the Manila account some $53,420 but that was subsequently reduced to some $31,450, L. having drawn cheques to meet certain existing liabilities of the co., which cheques were duly honoured by the bank, notwithstanding notice of the liquidation, & L. instructed the bank to hold the balance at the disposal of the liquidator. The bank had considerable claims against the co., for which they had proved in the winding up, claiming to set off as against the amount due to them the $31,450 forming the balance of the account. An application by the official liquidator of the co. for an order for payment to him of such balance was resisted by the bank on the ground that the balance, although standing in the name of L., was really the money of the co.:—Held: the account as between the bank & the co. was in fact the account of the co., & any peculiarity in L.'s position did not affect the relative position of the bank & the co. arising out of the direct bargain or agreement subsisting between them, & the application failed.—Re HETT, MAYLOR & CO., LTD. Payments made by execution creditor to bankrupt's landlord—To relieve goods levied on from distress.]—A. levied an execution against B., & while in possession of the goods, the landlord distrained them for rent, which A. paid, to relieve the goods from the distress. B. became bkpt., having committed an act of bkpcy. before the levy, by which A.'s execution was defeated, & the assignees possessed themselves of the goods:—Held: the rent paid by A. to the landlord was so much money had & received by the assignees to their use, & A. was entitled to set it off in account with the assignees.—Re JERMYN, Ex p. ELLIOTT (1838), 3 Deac. 343, Ct. of R.

3644. Value of annuity.]—In 1827 petitioner purchased an annuity from bkpt. secured by bond. In 1846, a fiat issued against bkpt., & his assignees commenced an action against petitioner on a bill of exchange accepted by petitioner. Petitioner pleaded a set-off for the value of the annuity:—Held: the comr. should value the annuity & take all accounts between the parties & ascertain whether petitioner had any & what right of proof, or whether anything & what was due from him to the estate, & admit proof or let petitioner pay accordingly.—Re KENNEDY, Ex p. LAW (1846), De G. 378; 8 L. T. O. S. 236; 11 Jur. 112, Ct. of R.

3645. Statute-barred debt.]—A sum of money was deposited with a banker by a customer in the ordinary way. No payment of principal or interest

d. General rule.]—"Mutual debts" mean practically debts due from either party to the other for liquidated sums, or money demands which can be ascertained with certainty at the time of pleading.—ROYAL TRUST Co. v. HOLDEN (1915), 8 W. L. R. 500; 21 B. C. R. 185; 22 D. L. R. 660.—CAN.

3638 i. Obligation to pay after death.]—In an antenuptial contract, a husband bound himself & his heirs to pay the wife, in case of survivance, "£1,000 sterling for mournings, & for aliment to the first term of Whitsunday or Martinmas after his death" when the conventional stipulations in her favour, including a locality out of his estate became prestable, "& £500 more for furniture" & those sums were declared to be payable "at the first term of Whitsunday or Martinmas after his decease." As a counterpart of the husband's obligation, the wife conveyed to him the whole of her fortune including the fee of a sum liferented by her mother, & held in trust for the wife till the termination of the liferent. The husband's stipulations in the contract were not fulfilled, in consequence of his having died insolvent, & a creditor having expeded confirmation to his movable estate, including the sum in question:—Held: neither the trustee nor the wife could plead retention of the sum against the creditor, on the ground of non-implement of the husband's obligation, in respect it was merely an obligation undertaken by him to pay, but without binding him to invest, or to lay out the stipulated sums in security for behoof of his wife.—BOSWELL v. MILLER & OGILVY (1846), 18 Sc. Jur. 210.—SCOT.

3642 i. Payments improperly made for signing composition deed.]—A person, who was not, at the time, himself a creditor, at the instance of debtor, signed a composition deed on behalf of a creditor, but without his privity, on the allegation to the other creditors that he was authorised to do so, & advanced money of his own to pay that creditor in full, which money, so advanced, was after repaid by debtor:—Held: the assignee of debtor, who became bkpt., was entitled to set off the amount of such repayment by debtor against a claim of a distinct debt made under the commission by the person who had so advanced the money.—Re CURWEN, Ex p. FOWLER (1836), 4 Ir. L. Rec. N. S. 254.—IR.

e. Arrears of annuity charged on property—Against sums spent on improvements on such property.]—J., by his will, gave his wife, E., an annuity, & charged it on his estate. After his death E., C. & M. two daughters, & W. & G., two sons, entered into an agreement, whereby the annuity was charged on property, & the sons covenanted to pay it, & the exors. of J. transferred all their interest as exors. in all the estate of J. to the sons, subject to the charge. Subsequently all parties joined in borrowing $16,000 on mtge. of part of the property for the purpose of reconstructing the buildings, the annuity being postponed to the mtges. W. & G. afterwards became insolvent, & B. became assignee in insolvency. The annuity fell into arrear for several years, & E. died having made a will by which she devised all her estate to C. & M., who brought an action against B. to have a lien declared on the property for the amount of the arrears of the annuity:—Held: a large set-off claimed by deft. over & above the $16,000 for sums expended by the sons in reconstructing the buildings was property disallowed.—SNARR v. BADENACH (1885), 10 O. R. 131.—CAN.

f. Sums due to insured—Against premiums due to underwriter.]—Premiums due to an underwriter, who has become bkpt., may be retained in compensation of debts due by him to the insured, notwithstanding the transaction had been managed in the ordinary way, by the intervention of a broker.—KIRK & GRIEVE v. BENNET (1812), 17 Fac. 3646. Arrears of rent—Against value of improvements.]—An agreement for a lease of a mill provided that the machinery on the mill at the commencement & expiration of the tenancy should be valued, & the increase or diminution in value paid by the lessor or lessee, as the case might be. The lessee became bkpt., having improved the machinery. The assignees elected not to continue the tenancy, & the value of the improvements was ascertained:—Held: against such amount the landlord might set off the rent & also a demand for goods sold & delivered.—Re HANSON, Ex p. HOPE (1858), 3 De G. & J. 92; 27 L. J. Bcy. 40; 31 L. T. O. S. 323; 4 Jur. N. S. 1164; 6 W. R. 789; 44 E. R. 1203, L. JJ.

3647. Sums due to landlord—Against outgoing valuation.]—Brewers let a public-house on lease, one of the terms of which was that all debts due by the tenant to the landlord should be deducted out of the valuation to be paid by any incoming tenant, & the landlords were by the lease obliged to pay the amount of the valuation at the determination of the tenancy in default of finding another tenant able & willing to do so. At the date of the tenant's act of bkpcy. he was indebted to the landlords to an amount of about £500, & the amount of the valuation as subsequently ascertained was about the same sum:—Held: the landlords were entitled to set off the amount owing by the tenant against the sum due under the valuation.—Re RUSHFORTH, Ex p. HOLMES & SONS (1906), 95 L. 3649. —— ——.]—A contributory of a co. in course of winding-up executed an inspectorship deed, the effect of which was to import the mutual credit clause of 1849 Act. At the date of the deed the contributory was the holder of three bills accepted by the co., which were shortly afterwards indorsed to an agent for collection. After the execution of the deed a call was made on the contributory to an amount exceeding that of the bills, & a few days later the bills matured:—Held: the bills must be set off against the call.—Re ANGLO-GREEK STEAM NAVIGATION & TRADING CO., CARRALLI & HAGGARD'S CLAIM (1869), 4 Ch. 3651. Unsecured debt—Against balance of partly secured debt.]—A. executed a mtge. to his bankers to secure any balance which might at any time be due upon his banking account. Afterwards the banking business, with all debts & securities due to or held by the firm, was assigned to pltfs. Pltf. subsequently employed A., & became indebted to him for work & materials. A. became bkpt., & the property comprised in the mtge. was not sufficient to pay the balance due from A., after paying off several prior incumbrances:—Held: pltfs. were entitled to set off the debt due from them to A., against the balance due from A. to the banking firm.—CLARK v. CORT (1840), Cr. & Ph. 154; 10 L. 3652 i. Unsecured debt—Secured debt.]—A. passed a mtge. bond to B., who pledged it as a security to a bank. B. then became indebted to A., & subsequently surrendered his estate. The bank handed the bond to the trustee of B.'s estate, on his undertaking to pay the bank first out of the proceeds. The trustee sued A. for provisional sentence on the bond without referring in the summons to the pledge. The ct. refused to grant provisional sentence as deft. had a right to set-off against pltf.—VOS' TRUSTEE v. VOS (1885), 3 S. C. 320. —S. AF.

3653. Valuation of policy with company ordered to be wound up.]—A holder of a policy on his own life borrowed from the assurance society on its security. The society was wound up, & the policy was valued in the winding up. The policy holder filed a petition, & his creditors agreed to accept a composition. Soon afterwards he died, & his estate was sufficient to pay 10*s.* in the pound. The amount which the estate would be able to pay on the sum advanced by the society was larger than that which the society would be able to pay in respect of the policy:—Held: the sum at which the policy had been valued in the winding up was not a debt due within 1869 Act, s. 39, & could not be set off against the loan made by the society on the security of the policy.—Re LANKESTER, Ex p. PRICE (1875), 10 Ch. 3655. Sum claimed in respect of voluntary settlement.]—A payment of £250 by bkpt. to his wife before bkpcy. was declared void against the trustee in bkpcy. as a voluntary settlement. At the date of the bkpcy. a debt of £250 was due from bkpt. to his wife. In an action by the trustee to recover the sum of £250 from the wife, she claimed to set off the debt of £250 due to her from bkpt.:—Held: the £250 claimed in respect of the voluntary settlement was not a debt due to bkpt. from his wife, & there was no right of set-off under 1883 Act, s. 38.—LISTER v. Hooson, [1908] 1 K. 3656 ii. —— Action for deceit.]—Pltf. sued for damages for deceit upon the sale by deft. to him of a business fraudulently represented to be of much greater value than it was. Deft. counterclaimed for the balance of the purchase-money. After the trial, but before judgment, pltf. made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors under Assignments Act, R. S. M., 1902, c. 8, & the assignee was added as a co-pltf. In giving judgment the trial judge ordered a set-off, & that judgment be entered for deft. for the balance:—Held: deft. entitled to maintain his counterclaim & to have pltf.'s damages paid by deducting them from it, as both claim & counterclaim arose out of the same transaction.—MCGREGOR v CAMPBELL (1909), 19 Man. 3656 iii. —— Non-performance of building contract.]—A builder contracted to perform work & began the work. On his bkpcy. & abandonment of the contract, the building materials & tools he had brought upon the premises were retained by his employers. In an action by the trustee of the sequestrated estate for the value of the work done, & for the value of the materials & tools, the employers averred that they had a claim for damage in respect of bkpt.'s failure to complete the contract, & in respect of that claim pleaded compensation:—Held: no objection being taken to the competency of the plea of compensation as founded on an illiquid claim, the employers were entitled to set off their claim for damages against the claims for the work done under the contract, for the value of the materials & for the use of the tools, but not against pursuer's right to damage for the illegal detention of tools after the work was completed.—KERR v. DUNDEE GAS CO. j. Advances by auctioneer—Against proceeds of sale.]—The tenant of a farm arranged with auctioneers to conduct a displenishing sale of the stock & cropping of the farm on Oct. 26, 1900. The tenant, who had been insolvent for some time prior to the date of the sale, was made notour bkpt. on Nov. 29, & was sequestrated on Jan. 11, 1901. At the date of the sale, the tenant owed the auctioneers £244, part of which was alleged to be an advance of £200 made on Sept. 26, 1900. On Oct. 19, a receipt, which was antedated Sept. 26, had been granted by the tenant to the auctioneers in these terms: "Received from M., F., & Co. the sum of £200 to account of my displenishing sale." In a question with the tenants' trustee, the auctioneers claimed to retain the £244, being part of the proceeds of the displenishing sale, in payment of the debt due to them by the tenant:—Held: the auctioneers having no right to retain for a general balance, were not entitled to retain the proceeds of the sale in order to repay in full unsecured advances made by them to the tenant.—CRAIG'S TRUSTEE v. MACDONALD, FRASER & CO. 3663. —— ——.]—A sale of goods upon credit was induced by the fraud of the purchaser, who upon obtaining them pledged them with a pawnbroker. After the purchaser had paid part of the price a receiving order in bkpcy. was made against him. The vendor then discovered the fraud & disaffirmed the contract, retaking possession of the goods upon payment to the pawnbroker of the sum advanced upon them. The purchaser having been adjudicated bkpt., his trustee in bkpcy. brought an action against the vendor, claiming (1) to recover the goods or their value, after giving credit for the sum paid to the pawnbroker to redeem them, or (2) in the alternative to recover the amount paid to the vendor on account of the purchase price:—Held: the vendor was entitled under 1883 Act, s. 38, to set off the damages caused by the fraud of bkpt., i.e., the sum paid to the pawnbroker to redeem the goods, against the amount paid on account of the purchase price.—TILLEY v. BOWMAN, LTD., [1910] 1 K. 3670. Goods deposited to have work done on them—Sum due by bankrupt on other account.]—A packer may retain goods till he is paid the price of packing, & if he has another debt due to him from the same person, the goods shall not be taken from him till he has paid the whole, notwithstanding his debtor has become bkpt.

The clause in 5 Geo. 2, c. 30, relating to mutual credit, has received a very liberal construction. Mutual credit is not confined to pecuniary demands, & if a man has goods in his hands, belonging to a debtor of his, which cannot be got from him without an action at law, or bill in equity, it is considered as mutual credit. Here, though if there had been no bkpcy., in an action for the goods, the debt could not have been set off, yet as the clause of mutual credit has been extended, it may come within that rule, especially as there is an account between them, on the one side £19 due for packing, etc., on the other side much about the same sum due to bkpt.'s estate for wine (LORD HARDWICKE, C.).—Ex p. DEEZE (1748), 1 Atk. 228; 26 E. 3673. Loss on policy accruing before bankruptcy—General balance due by bankrupt.]—Bkpt. directed an insurance on three-fourths of a ship, which insurance was duly effected & notice of it given to bkpt. On Dec. 31, 1892, D. sold his business to M. under an agreement which fixed as the price a portion of the profits expected to be earned for three years from the business sold. M. took possession of & carried on the business. On Jan. 17, 1893, a receiving order was made against D., but no profits had then been earned from the business. At the end of the three years a sum of £300 was found to be due from M. to D. under the agreement as the price of the business, & that sum M. paid to D.'s trustee in bkpcy. after deducting the £86. The trustee having objected that M. could not set off the £86 against the £300, but that he must pay the £300 in full & be satisfied with a dividend on the debt of £86 :—Held : (1) the dealings were "mutual dealings" within 1883 Act, s. 38, & M. was entitled to set off the £86 due to him from D. against the £300 due from him to D.—Re DAINTREY, Ex p. MANT, [1900] 1 Q. 3679. —— Possession wrongfully obtained from auctioneer without payment.]—P. sent an auctioneer goods for sale for ready money, not to be removed until payment. The auctioneer sold them on those terms, stated in the conditions of sale, & received part of the price from some of the purchasers, but H., who had purchased part, took them away without payment, & without the consent of the auctioneer or of P. H. refused to pay, offering to set off a debt due to him from P., but that offer was declined. H. having obtained judgment against P., obtained an order to attach the price of the goods remaining in the auctioneer's hands under C. L. P. Act, 1854 (c. 125), s. 61, which was served on the garnishee. On the same day, but after the service, P. became bkpt. His assignees claimed the money from the garnishee, & also demanded payment from H. of the price of the goods taken away by him :—Held : (1) if the auctioneer should sue H. in his own name ex contractu for the goods sold, H. would have a defence by a plea in the nature of set-off, or at least by way of equitable defence, or, if the assignees sued on the contract, he would have a defence by way of mutual credit ; (2) the assignees might recover in trover, to which H. would have no defence.—HOLMES v. TUTTON (1855), 5 E. & B. 65 ; 24 L. Agreement to set off debt of vendor against purchase-money—Purchaser without knowledge of act of bankruptcy—Specific performance.]—By two contracts dated June 18 & July 2, debtor agreed to sell for £880 four houses which were subject to a mtge. for £600. Debtor was indebted to the purchaser in the sum of £257 for work done by the purchaser to the houses agreed to be sold, & there was a collateral verbal agreement that the debt should be set off against the purchase-money. On July 11, the purchaser heard for the first time that debtor had committed an act of bkpcy. on the previous June 30. Afterwards debtor was adjudicated bkpt. The purchaser, having accepted the title & entered into possession, applied against the trustee in bkpcy. for specific performance of the two contracts & for a declaration that he was entitled to set off the £257 against the balance of the purchase-money after deducting the amount due on the mtge. :—Held : there had been mutual dealings between debtor & the purchaser within 1883 Act, s. 38, & the purchaser was entitled to specific performance upon the terms that the £257 due to him from debtor should be set off against the balance of the purchase-money.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. NORVELL, [1910] 1 K. 3688. —— Bill paid by way of composition—Set-off of full amount.]—Deft., in an action by assignees, before the bkpcy., had accepted bills drawn upon him by bkpt. Those bills had been paid away to bkpt.'s creditors. At the time of his accepting the bills deft., as bkpt.'s agent, had in his hands money of bkpt. to the full amount of the sum for which the bills were drawn, & those funds had not been withdrawn at the time of the bkpcy. After the bills became due respectively, & before the act of bkpcy., the holders of the bills, in order to relieve deft. from his responsibility to them, took from deft. a composition upon the acceptances, & delivered up the bills to deft., but bkpt. was not a party to such arrangement. In taking the accounts between the parties, the arbitrator, to whom the matter had been referred, did not allow the amount of the sums for which the bills were drawn to be set off by deft., but only the amount of the composition:—Held: deft. was entitled to have the full amount of the bills allowed him in account.—STONEHOUSE v. READ (1825), 3 B. & C. 669; 5 Dow. & Ry. Plea, set-off for a debt due from R. before bkpcy:—Held: the case appearing on the declaration was one of mutual credit, within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 50, & a set-off might be pleaded.—GROOM v. WEST (1838), 8 Ad. & El. 758; 1 Per. & Dav. 19; 1 Will. He gave the bill, but would not indorse it. On assumpsit for breach of contract, brought by the assignees of A., who had become bkpt., & whose acceptance was dishonoured:—Held: the contract to indorse was not a subject of "mutual credit" within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 50, & could not have been set off by the assignees against the £20 due from A. to deft.—ROSE v. SIMS (1830), 1 B. & Ad. 521; 9 L. 3692. Bill indorsed for bankrupt's accommodation.]—The giving of credit to bkpt., by indorsing a bill of exchange for his accommodation, is such a giving of credit to bkpt. within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 50, as might be the subject of set-off in an action brought by his assignees.—HULME v. MUGGLESTON (1837), 3 M. & W. 30; 6 Dowl. 112; Murp. & H. 344; 7 L. 3694. Bill discounted for bankrupt.]—A. before his bkpcy., discounted bills of exchange with B. & Co., his bankers. They gave him immediate credit for the value of the bills in his account, minus the discount. A balance was likewise struck, before the bkpcy., &, whilst the bills were yet running, in favour of A., when the bankers admitted that they had in their hands £934 8*s.* 8*d.* due to A., giving him credit for the bills then running. A. became bkpt., & the bills were dishonoured. In an action against the bankers for the balance admitted to be due to A. before his bkpcy.:—

3694 i. Bill discounted for bankrupt.]—Z. consigned goods to England, drawing bills of lading in respect thereof & four bills of exchange against the goods upon the consignees for the value thereof. Those bills Z. indorsed over to deft. bank together with the shipping documents relating to the goods against which the bills were drawn, & the amount of the bills was placed to the credit of Z.'s floating current account. Thereafter, on Oct. 14, Z. became bkpt. on which day his effects vested in the official assignee & a large sum stood to his credit in the bank books. The four bills were dishonoured & protested after the vesting order. Under an hypothecation given by Z. to the bank, the bank subsequently to the vesting order caused the goods against which the bills had been drawn to be sold. The amount realised from the sale was less than the amount due on the bills, leaving thereby a balance due to the bank. Thereupon they retained, after giving credit to Z. for the net proceeds of the sales, out of the sum standing to the credit of the firm at the date of the vesting order a sum equivalent to the amount due on the bills & paid over the remaining balance of the current account to the official assignee. The official receiver claimed to be entitled to the whole of the balance of the current account as it existed at the date of the vesting order:—Held: until dishonour of the bills there was no debt & there could be no "mutual credit" entitling the bank to a set-off.—MILLER v. NATIONAL BANK OF INDIA (1891), I. L. R. 19 Calc. 146.—IND.

Pltfs., a firm of merchants in London, employed defts. to collect the payment of their drafts upon their customers at Bombay. Before the bills were paid to defts., pltfs. executed a deed of inspectorship under 1861 Act, to which defts. were parties in respect of a large sum due from pltfs. to defts.:—Held: notwithstanding the power of pltfs. to have revoked their authority to defts. before payment took place, the circumstances created a mutual credit between the parties, & defts. had a right to set off the amount of the sums paid to them on pltfs.' drafts against the debt of pltfs. to them.—NAOROJI v. CHARTERED BANK OF INDIA (1868), L. A commission of bkpcy. issued against R. on Dec. 23, & the bill became due on the 24th, when it was presented & dishonoured. On the 26th H. received the amount from deft., & returned the bill to him:—Held: he had a right to set off the bill against the demand of the assignees on the promissory note.—COLLINS v. JONES (1830), 10 B. & C. 777; 109 E. Surplus proceeds of collateral security—Authority to sell given before bankruptcy.]—On Mar. 30, J. & Co. indorsed & deposited with defts. bills of lading for cotton & coffee valued at £7,048, as collateral security for defts.' acceptance at three months for £5,000, which became due on June 23, J. & Co. undertaking "to provide funds one day before maturity of the bill." On Apr. 5, J. & Co. indorsed & deposited with defts. bills of lading for other cotton valued at £4,280, & four bills of exchange amounting to £2,400, as collateral security for a further acceptance of defts. for £5,000 due June 30, J. & Co. undertaking "to provide funds before maturity to keep defts. out of cash advance." J. & Co. were at that time already indebted to defts. upon bills which defts. had discounted for them, & which were subsequently dishonoured, & on May 19, J. & Co. became bkpt. Before their bkpcy., J. & Co. gave their assent that defts. should sell the cotton & coffee & receive the proceeds. The cotton was sold & the proceeds received by defts. before the bkpcy. of J. & Co. The coffee did not arrive until after the bkpcy. It was then sold by defts. The four bills deposited with defts. were duly paid. The securities deposited on Mar. 30 & Apr. 5 respectively, realised £11,816 12*s.* 3*d.*, thus leaving, after payment of defts.' acceptances for £10,000, a balance of £1816 12*s.* 3*d.*, against which defts. claimed to set off the debt due to them from J. & Co.:—Held: there was a mutual credit as to the proceeds of the sale & the debt could be set off.—ASTLEY v. GURNEY (1869), L. Bank, deposited the co.'s paper with the bank to a greater amount, as a collateral security, accompanied with a written agreement, authorising the bank in default of repayment of the loan by a given day, "to sell the co.'s paper for the reimbursement of the bank, rendering to P. & Co. any surplus." Before default was made in repayment of the loan, P. & Co. were declared insolvent. At the time of the adjudication of insolvency, the bank were also holders of two promissory notes of P. & Co., which they had discounted for them before the transaction of the loan, & the agreement as to the deposit of the co.'s paper. The time for repayment of the loan having expired, the bank sold the co.'s paper, the proceeds of which, after satisfying the principal & interest due on the loan, produced a considerable surplus. In an action by the assignees of P. & Co., against the bank, to recover the amount of such surplus:—Held: the bank could not set off the amount of the two promissory notes, & the case did not come within the clause of mutual credit in Indian Insolvent Act, 1828 (c. 73).—YOUNG v. BANK OF BENGAL (1836), 1 Moo. He died insolvent. The widow did not prove the will. A judgment was given for the administration of his real & personal estate. 3703 i. Surplus proceeds of mortgage.]—A trader carrying on business in two establishments mortgaged both stocks-in-trade to B. as security for instalments on a composition with his creditors & for advances in cash & goods to a fixed amount. The composition notes were made & indorsed by B., who made advances to an amount considerably over that stated in the mtge. Afterwards the mtgor. was in default for the advances & a portion of overdue notes, & there were some notes not matured, & B. consented to the sale of one of the mortgaged stocks, taking the purchaser's notes in payment, applying the amount generally in payment of his overdue debt, part of which was unsecured. A few days afterwards B. seized the other stock of goods covered by his mtgee., & about the same time the sheriff seized that stock under execution, & shortly afterwards the mtgor. assigned for benefit of creditors. An interpleader issue between B. & the execution creditor resulted in favour of B., who received, out of the proceeds of the sale of the goods under an order of the ct., the balance remaining due on his mtge. The assignee of the mtgor. having brought an action against B. to recover the amount representing the unsecured part of his debt, which was paid by the purchase of the first stock, which payment was alleged to be a preference to B. over the other creditors:—Held: B.'s position was the same as if his whole debt, secured & unsecured, had been overdue, & there had been one sale of both stocks of goods realising an amount equal to such debt, in which case he could have appropriated a portion of the proceeds to payment of his secured debt, & would have had the benefit of the law of set-off as to the unsecured debt.—STEPHENS v. BOISSEAU (1896), 26 S. Immediately before receipt of the above amount C. had advised, & charged H. for advising him, that he must not give any creditor a preference. Both C. & H. knew the latter's position to be hopelessly insolvent. The net amount left in C.'s hands, after deducting therefrom all payments made by him direct to H. amounted to the sum of £101 18*s.* 4*d.* C. had prior to Sept. 10, rendered H. some professional services, in connection with the sale of his furniture, etc., & had a few further charges against him, which were incurred between that date & Oct. 10. C.'s charges amounted to £43 for his services in connection with those proceedings, & he claimed a lien upon, or right of set-off against, the money in his hands belonging to bkpt. in respect of same:—Held: out of the £101 18*s.* 4*d.* left in C.'s hands by H., C. could retain (a) his taxed costs in connection with the sale of the furniture, & (b) the costs incurred between Sept. 10, the date of his receiving the money, & Oct. 10, the date he received notice of the act of bkpcy.—Re HARDY (1901), 19 N. The firm was sequestrated, & soon thereafter the traveller having also been declared bkpt., his official assignee claimed on the sequestrated estate of the firm for the balance due to the traveller, crediting, however, the estate of the principals with the debts so uplifted:—Held: the traveller was not entitled, in the knowledge of his master's insolvency, to collect & retain the funds for payment of his own debt, & the claim of his official assignee must be rejected.—DICKSON v. NICHOLSON (1855), 17 Dunl. PART X. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 5.

3721 i. At time of act of bankruptcy—Bill transferred afterwards—To provide set-off for transferee.]—C. having proved on the insolvent estate of A., A. tendered to him his own overdue promissory notes & claimed to set off those notes, together with the interest accrued thereon, against his debt to C. The notes had been acquired when overdue & after C.'s proof had been allowed, by a relative of A. & then given by him to A. for the purpose of making the tender :—Held : C.'s claim being against A.'s estate, there could be no set-off save between C. & A.'s trustee.—ANDERSON v. KENNEDY (1885), 3 H. C. 251. —S. AF.

3721 ii. —— Purchase of debt—To provide set-off for transferee—Aware of vendor's insolvency.]—Before an assignment for the benefit of creditors, a person indebted to the assignor, & who was aware of his insolvency, purchased from a creditor of the insolvent a debt due to the former by the latter, which the purchaser claimed to set off against his debt to the insolvent : —Held : under R. S. O., 1887, c. 124, s. 23, in connection with the general law of set-off, he was entitled to do so. —THIBAUDEAU v. GARLAND (1896), 27 O. R. 391.—CAN.

3721 iii. —— —— —— —— Evidence.]—Where a claim against insolvent is purchased by a debtor for the purpose of set-off, it is his knowledge of insolvent's being unable to meet his engagements, & his intention in purchasing, not that of the seller, which prevents the set-off from being available.

In an action brought by the assignee of the insolvent, where defts. sought to set off a note purchased by them prior to the assignment, a demand of assignment made on the insolvent by the holder of the note prior to the transfer :—Held : properly admitted to show the insolvency of debtor at the time.—MCLEOD v. DOMVILLE (1874), 2 Pug. 422.—CAN.

3721 iv. —— —— What debts included.]—Held : 1869 Act, s. 91, applied to the transfer of any debt sought to be set off, whether actually payable or not at the time of the assignment.—MCLEOD v. DOMVILLE (1874), 2 Pug. 422.—CAN.

3721 v. —— Debt transferred afterwards—To give fraudulent preference.]—The transferee of a debt due from a person, who makes an assignment for the general benefit of his creditors is not entitled to set off the debt, where such transfer is a colourable contrivance to enable the transferee to obtain a preference. The allowance of a set-off of a debt due from a person who has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, & after such an assignment, would be contrary to the spirit & intention of Assignments Act.—MACKINNON v. HORN, [1917] 1 W. 3722 i. —— No notice of act of bankruptcy.]—B. accepted a bill to accommodate brewers, who undertook to deliver him ale to an amount sufficient to put him in funds to meet the bill. Before it became due they presented their petition, & an order vested their estate in official assignees, who were permitted to carry on the trade, & supply B. with ale as usual. The case was then adjourned into bkpcy., & the trading continued until the appointment of a creditor's assignee. Though B. paid the bill, he was not allowed to set off the amount against any portion of the debt contracted after the vesting order under the arrangement, although he had no notice of it until the bkpcy.—Re REIDS, Ex p. LEVY (1861), 13 Ir. 3726. ——.]—Pltfs. & defts. being, by agreement between them, jointly entitled to the benefits of a charterparty, pltfs. assigned their interest in it, by indorsement, to D., their creditor, at the same time giving defts. notice of such assignment, & afterwards became bkpts. The assignees of the charterparty having sued upon it in the names of pltfs., defts. pleaded the bkpcy. of pltfs., by which the right to their choses in action vested in their assignees. Replication, setting forth the assignment by pltfs. of their interest in the charterparty to D., & notice to defts. of that assignment given by them before the bkpcy. of pltfs., & that pltfs. sued on account of D. Rejoinder setting up the previous agreement between pltfs. & defts., that they should share the benefits of the charterparty, by way of a mutual credit between the parties, on which an account should be stated, & one demand set against the other, under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 50 :—Held : bad, for at the time of the bkpcy. no mutual credit existed between pltfs. & defts.

The contingency on which mutual accounts were to be taken between the parties does not happen. The equity is not that the debt shall not be transferred, but that on that contingency happening mutual account shall be taken. Here the defts. do not show themselves entitled to mutual credit. As the assignment was before the bkpcy., there is an end of mutual credit. That equity can only exist in the event of the occurrence of bkpcy. of one of two parties during the existence of a mutual credit between them. The defts. cannot say there was any agreement, express or implied, that the defts. should pay themselves out of the freight. The guarantee was not complied with, so no equity arises. Had the bkpcy. occurred at the time both debts were due, there would have been a set-off; but here there was no bkpcy. before the assignment (PARKE, B.). —BOYD v. MANGLES (1847), 16 M. & W. 337; 8 L. T. O. S. 392; 153 E. R. 1218.

3727. —— Subsequent transfer under arrangement made previously.]—Though in general after a bkpcy. an assignment cannot be taken of a debt of bkpt., in order to set it off against a debt due to bkpt., yet if such assignment is taken in consequence of any arrangement, for that purpose made before the bkptcy. or by reason of any equity to have such assignment arising from matters which have occurred before the bkpcy., then a set-off will be allowed in respect of the debt so assigned. So a surety, before bkpcy., paying off the debt of the principal, after a bkpcy., & taking assignment of securities, among which is a security of bkpt., is entitled to set it off against a debt due from him to bkpt.—Re MOSELEY GREEN COAL & COKE CO., BARRETT'S CASE (1865), 5 New Rep. 496; 34 L. Where the liquidator of a limited co. in liquidation under a supervision order has obtained judgment in an action against a shareholder for unpaid calls, the judgment debtor cannot, upon an application by him to set aside a bkpcy. notice for payment of the judgment debt, claim to set off a debt alleged to have become due to him from the co. prior to the liquidation, for, until after a receiving order has been made against him, he cannot set off against his unpaid calls the debt due to him from the co.—Re G. 3741. Different rule in winding up.]—Though a set-off of mutual debts within three months of the bkpcy. of an individual is not a fraudulent preference, such a set-off within three months of the presentation of a petition to wind up a co. is a fraudulent preference, inasmuch as the right of set-off continues in bkpcy., but not in winding up.

U., a director of a co., held shares not fully paid up, & his director's fees were unpaid. The co. was admittedly in embarrassed circumstances. On July 21, 1891, on which day the co.'s balance at its bankers was £2 0*s* 11*d.*, U. gave to the co. a cheque for £70, the amount remaining unpaid on his shares, & received at the same time from the co. a cheque for a like amount on account of his fees, signed by himself & M., another director. Within three months a winding-up petition was presented, on which a winding-up order was made:—Held: if the co. had been an ordinary bkpt. trader, to whom the mutual credit clause (1883 Act, s. 38) had been applicable, the preferential payments to M. & U. could not have been avoided by the trustee in bkpcy., because they would have injured no one, & the two debts could have been set one against the other after the bkpcy. just as effectually as before, & whether the debts had been both paid or had been set off against each other before the bkpcy. or after would have been perfectly immaterial.—Re WASHINGTON DIAMOND MINING CO., [1893] 3 Ch. 95; 62 L. At the date of the deed & of its registration, R. held a bill of exchange accepted by debtor, which had not matured. After the execution of the deed, but before its registration, R. accepted a bill of exchange drawn upon him by debtor:—Held: R. had no right to set off the two bills against each other, for the date of the deed, & not the time of registration, was to be looked to, & at the former time there was no mutual credit.—Re DOUGLAS, Ex p. RYDER (1871), 6 Ch. N. & F. were tenants of the residuary estate in equal shares. In Jan., 1873, C. was residing abroad & N., being about also to go abroad gave to P., the solr. of the exors. & trustees, an authority on behalf of both trustees to receive the rents of the real estate & pay the outgoings. Under that authority P. received the rents, & at his death a considerable sum was due from him in respect thereof. P.'s estate proved insolvent, & the usual creditor's decree was made for administration. Subsequently to the decree F. assigned to N. all F.'s interest in the sum due from P. N. was indebted to A. & B., as trustees for P., in a sum the repayment of which was secured by a mtge. of real estate belonging to N., & that sum was paid into ct. in the suit to a separate account, under an order made without prejudice to any question as to set-off. N. afterwards presented a petition claiming to be entitled to set off the debt due from P. against the mtge. debt, & seeking to have the amount of the debt due from P. paid out of the fund standing to the separate account:—Held: with regard to F.'s interest there could be no set-off, inasmuch as it was not assigned to N. until after the decree:—MIDDLETON v. POLLOCK, Ex p. NUGEE (1875), L. suspension deft. was a creditor for over £2,000. Immediately after the suspension, A. & Sons opened what was known in Belfast as a No. 2 account with their bankers & customers, & deft. subsequently sold goods to A. & Sons, for which he was paid in cash, & by cheques drawn on the No. 2 account, from which it appeared that deft. was acquainted with the fact of the No. 2 account having been opened, & that he was dealing on that account. In June, 1884, deft. purchased £1,189 8*s.* 4*d.* worth of goods from A. & Sons, to be paid for in cash upon delivery. He did not pay for the goods, & A. & Sons were adjudicated bkpts. on Dec. 23, 1885. In the proceedings in bkpcy. deft. claimed to set off, under 1857 Act, s. 251, against the debt of £1,189 8*s.* 4*d.* due by him, so much of the debt due to him before the stoppage as would be sufficient to meet it. Evidence was given in an action by the assignees, that the effect of opening a No. 2 account in Belfast was perfectly well understood by all the merchants & traders there, & that the effect was to exclude all right of set-off between transactions before & after the opening of the No. 2 account, whether bkpcy. ensued or not :—Held : it was competent for deft., by such agreement, to waive the statutory right of set-off conferred by the above sect.—DEERING v. HYNDMAN (1886), 18 L. Deft. applied that pltfs. might be restrained by injunction from further proceeding in it, upon the ground that the comrs. in the bkpcy. had found a balance of account due from bkpt. to deft.:—Held: the set-off ought to be allowed, & the injunction should issue.—Re HAMILTON, Ex p. MENNETT (1812), 1 Rose, 395.

SECT. 4.—LOSS OF RIGHT.

3757. Payment of debt in ignorance of right—Withdrawal of proof.]—A. borrowed money of B. & Co., country bankers, on his promissory note, which they deposited indorsed, along with other bills & notes, with W. & Co., their London agents, to secure the payment of advances. B. & Co. became bkpt., when A. held notes issued by their bank more than sufficient to discharge the amount of his promissory note, & W. & Co. also held bills & notes of B. & Co. to a greater amount than the balance due to them from B. & Co. W. & Co. compelled A. to pay to them the amount of his promissory note, & refused to allow him to set off the notes he held of B. & Co., & A., not knowing that W. & Co. held sufficient securities to discharge the balance due to them from B. & Co., proved under the fiat for the amount of the notes which he held of B. & Co. The assignees of B. & Co. then paid W. & Co. the amount of the balance due to them, after receiving credit for the sum paid by A. in discharge of his promissory note, & took out of W. & Co.'s hands all the remaining securities:—Held: as A. would have had a right of set-off against bkpts., if they had continued in possession of his promissory note, he was not to be deprived of that right by his ignorance of the state of the account between W. & Co. & bkpts., & the assignees were bound, on the withdrawal of his proof, to repay him the amount of his promissory note, on his giving up bkpt.'s notes to the same amount.—Re WISE, Ex p. STADDON (1843), 3 Mont. There had been a valuation of the improvements at the end of the term in 1877, at $275, in which deft. did not take part, & the assignee sued deft. for that sum on his covenant:—Held: (1) the note formed an equitable, if not a legal, set-off against the claim; (2) deft. was not precluded by having proved his claim. —MASON v. MACDONALD (1880), 45 U. No interest was ever paid by R. By his will, made in Mar., 1908, testator settled a sum of £20,000 & one-fourth of his residue upon each of the wives of R. & M., another son-in-law, & their children, & he directed that the debt of R. should not be called in for five years if interest was paid, but if not, or in the event of the bkpcy. of R., the whole principal & interest should immediately become payable, & he declared that any loss sustained in respect of any indebtedness of R. should be credited as a loss to the trust legacy of £20,000 to the wife of debtor, & not as a loss to his residuary estate :—Held : the whole of the indebtedness of R. must be treated by the exors. as a loss, & deducted from the settled legacy to his wife.—Re PINK, PINK v. PINK, [1912] 1 Ch. 498 ; 81 L. 3766. —— Bankrupt's life interest in trust fund—Against balance of bond debt outstanding.]—Testator gave £4,000 in trust for his married daughter for life, then to her husband for life, & then for the children. The husband owed testator £6,000 on bond, & testator directed that, if not paid off in his lifetime, it would be taken in satisfaction of the £4,000. £950 was paid on the bond, & invested in stock ; the husband became bkpt., & the exor. proved the remaining bond debt, & invested the dividends in stock. The wife having died :—Held : the interest of the stocks was to accumulate till the £4,000 was made good, & then the assignees should be entitled to the interest during the husband's life.—Re PRIOR, Ex p. YOUNG (1835), 2 Mont. & A. 228 ; 4 Deac. & Ch. 645 ; 4 L. About two years subsequent thereto the sons made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors under R. S. 3770. —— Share of residuary legatee—Against trust money lent him by executors.]—Exors. sold out a sum of stock, part of the residue of testator's estate, & advanced the proceeds to one of several residuary legatees with the concurrence of the others, taking as a security for its replacement a warrant of attorney & a deposit of title-deeds. The purpose of the deposit was stated in the defeasance to the warrant of attorney, which, however, did not expressly give a lien on the legatee's share of the residue. 3772. —— —— Against debt never proved by testator or executors.]—A week before the death of testatrix, a debtor to her, who was one of the residuary legatees under her will, dated several years previously, became bkpt. The debt was never proved by testatrix in her lifetime, or by her exors. after her death, nor had any dividend been declared in the bkpcy.:—Held: the exors. of testatrix were not entitled to set off or retain the amount of the debt due to testatrix against the share of bkpt., nor, in the circumstances, any amount in respect of dividend on such debt.—Re HODGSON, HODGSON v. FOX (1878), 9 Ch. 3773. —— —— Against sum due under bond—Against damages from disclaimer of contract by trustee in bankruptcy of legatee.]—Where a residuary legatee is indebted to the estate in a bond, & has contracted to purchase part of the estate, & on his bkpcy. the contract is disclaimed by his trustee & no claim is proved by the exors., the latter are entitled to set off against his interest under the will the sum due under the bond, but have no claim which they can set off in respect of the contract.—Re PALMER, PALMER v. CLARKE (1894), 13 R. 220.

3774. —— —— Against liability of estate on guarantee given by testator.]—A father deposited with a bank £2,400 (money of his own) as a continuing security for any amount which might from time to time be owing to the bank by a firm, in which two of his sons were the only partners. Interest on the deposit was from time to time paid by the bank to the father. By his will the father gave legacies, & shares of residue to the two sons. At the date of his death the sons owed £8,858 to the bank, & were afterwards adjudicated bkpts. The bank proved in the bkpcy. for the whole £8,858. No dividend had been paid in the bkpcy., & it was admitted to be improbable that the estate would realise enough to pay the bank in full, & that the bank would ultimately appropriate the deposit of £2,400 towards the payment of the firm's debt:—Held: the trustees of the father's will were not entitled as against the trustee in bkpcy. to retain the legacies & shares thereby bequeathed to the sons against the liability of the father's estate as surety to the bank.—Re BINNS, LEE v. BINNS, [1896] 2 Ch. 584; 65 L. After the death of testator mtgor. became bkpt. He never obtained a discharge, & the bkpcy. was never closed. Neither mtgees. nor testator's exors. proved in the bkpcy. After the bkpcy. the exors. made some payments to mtgees. in pursuance of testator's liability under his contract of suretyship:—Held: on the death of the tenant for life, the exors. were entitled, notwithstanding the bkpcy., to retain out of mtgor.'s share of the residue the amount of the payments which they had made to mtgees., with interest thereon at 4 per cent.—Re WATSON, TURNER v. WATSON, [1896] 1 Ch. 925; 65 L. 3776. —— —— ——.]—After testator's death, a legatee of a one-fourth reversionary share in a residuary fund, on whose behalf testator had given a continuing guarantee fully securing his banking account, but limiting testator's liability to a specified amount, mortgaged his reversionary share to the bank to secure his account & subsequently became bkpt. The bank as principal creditors valued their security & proved for the whole balance of their overdraft, on which they received under 10*s.* in the pound, & had no chance of obtaining full payment. The exors. as sureties were then compelled to pay the sum of £313, the full amount for which they were liable under the guarantee. The bank, with the concurrence of the legatee's trustee in bkpcy., subsequently sold the reversionary share to an assignee. On the reversion falling in & the estate becoming divisible :—Held : the £313 must be brought into hotchpot by the assignee, on the ground that it did not form part of the assignor's estate at the time of his bkpcy.—Re MELTON, MILK v. TOWERS, [1918] 1 Ch. 37 ; 87 L. B. proved for a debt, but did not receive any dividend. In Dec., 1886, the liquidation was closed, but no discharge was granted to A. In Jan., 1888, B. died, leaving A. a legacy :—Held : as there was no debt, which could be enforced until the expiration of three years from the close of the liquidation, the exors. of B. could not retain or set off the debt as against the legacy.—Re REES, REES v. REES (1889), 60 L. 3781. —— Bankrupt's right to property conveyed by him to trustees to secure annuity—Against arrears of annuity payable by bankrupt.]—By a separation deed, after reciting that the husband & wife had agreed to live apart, the husband assigned leaseholds to trustees, in trust to pay the rents to the wife for life, & then to sell & hold the proceeds, in the events which happened, in trust for himself, & he covenanted to make up the wife's income to £300 a year. The deed contained a proviso for determination in the event of the wife seeking to resume cohabitation, but it contained no covenant by the wife to live apart. The husband paid nothing under the covenant, & was adjudicated bkpt. The trustees proved for arrears due down to the date of the bkpcy., but there were further arrears due to them since that date. On the death of the wife the husband's assignee in bkpcy. claimed the leaseholds :—Held : a covenant by the wife to live apart ought to be implied from the recital, & there was valuable consideration for the husband's covenant, & the trustees were entitled to retain the leaseholds until the arrears were satisfied.—Re WESTON, DAVIES v. TAGART, [1900] 2 Ch. 164 ; 69 L. The son was afterwards adjudicated bkpt., & the statutory majority of creditors resolved to accept a composition of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, & the bkpcy. was annulled. The father, never having proved in the bkpcy., nor having been paid the composition, died, leaving by his will a share in his estate to the son :—Held : the amount of the second composition had become substituted for all debts provable in the bkpcy., & the father's exors. were entitled to retain out of the son's share in the estate only the amount of the composition upon the whole debt, & upon the amount of six years' interest due at the time of the bkpcy. under the promissory note, & the whole interest due at that time under the bill of sale.—Re ORPEN, BESWICK v. ORPEN (1880), 16 Ch. 3787. —— Bankrupt executor's beneficial share—Against debt found due to estate in administration action.]—In an action to administer testator's estate, £11,000 was found due from the two trustees of the will. One of the trustees having been adjudicated a bkpt., his co-trustee sought to prove for £6,400, part of the £11,000; & the receiver in the administration action sought to prove for £4,600, the balance of the £11,000. Bkpt.'s beneficial share in testator's estate was £1,600:—Held: the receiver was only entitled to prove for the £4,600, less the £1,600, bkpt.'s beneficial share.—Re CHAPMAN, Ex p. PARKER (1887), 35 W. 3798. To have inspector appointed to protect interests—Joint creditors appointed assignees under separate commission.]—Under 1861 Act a separate adjudication was made against a partner, no joint adjudication being made. The separate debts were about £8,000, the joint debts about £90,000. The separate estate realised about £4,000. There was no partnership estate. Two joint creditors were appointed assignees. On the application of the principal separate creditor :—Held : an inspector might be appointed to protect the interests of the separate creditors, but he must take no step in the matter without the approval of the registrar.—Re MELBOURN, Ex p. MELBOURN (1871), 6 Ch. 3809. —— Only after joint creditors have received interest—Creditor & debtor firms with common partners.]—When there is a surplus upon the estate of three, which is indebted to a firm, consisting of two of the three, the creditors of the three are entitled to interest before the surplus is carried to the estate of the two.—Re HURST, Ex p. OGLE (1831), Mont. 350.

3810. Whether separate creditors have lien—Separate estate diminished by joint creditors resorting thereto.]—A joint commission issued against A. & B. A. being a dormant partner, the joint creditors resorted to the separate estate of B., thereby diminishing that separate estate, & exonerating the joint estate of A. & B., so as to produce a surplus of it:—Held: the separate creditors of B. had a lien upon such surplus, to the extent to which their funds had been diminished by the resort of the joint creditors.—Re BLAND, Ex p. REID (1814), 2 Rose, 84.

3811. Surplus of both estates insufficient to pay interest to both joint & separate creditors.]—Prior to 1856 A. carried on a banking business in partnership with B. On Mar. 13, 1856, A. died. On Aug. 4, 1856, the bank stopped payment, & on the 27th B. was adjudicated bkpt. Several actions were commenced for the administration of the estate of A. By an order made in 1861 in one of those actions, it was declared that the separate creditors of A. were entitled to be paid out of his estate in priority to the joint creditors, & also that the separate creditors of A., whose debts did not by law or special contract carry interest, were not entitled to interest in priority to the joint creditors in respect of the principal due to the joint creditors. B. died in 1863. The joint estate of the banking firm down to A.'s death, & the assets of the bank as carried on by B. down to his bkpcy., & the separate estate of B., were administered in bkpcy. The result of the actions to administer the estate of A., & of the administration in bkpcy., was to pay dividends amounting to 20*s.* in the pound to both the joint & separate creditors of the partners. It was then found that some surplus assets would remain, but not enough to satisfy all the interest on the joint as well as on the separate debts. A question having arisen between the creditors of the joint estate & those of the separate estate of A., whose debts did not by law carry interest, whether such creditors of the separate estate of A. were entitled to take the interest on their debts out of the surplus in priority to the joint creditors, or whether the surplus should be distributed between the joint & separate creditors pari passu:—Held: the question of interest should be decided in accordance with the established rule as to the principal, & the separate creditors were entitled to take their interest in priority to the joint creditors.—WHITTINGSTALL v. GROVER (1886), 55 L. T. 213; 35 W. R. 4.

3817. In respect of what debts—Sums borrowed applied to partnership purposes—Bond by one partner—Copartner acting as witness.]—Two partners agreed to borrow a sum of money for the use of the partnership, but one of them only gave a bond for securing the payment, the other being a witness to it. The money was afterwards entered in the cash book of the partnership. A joint commission having been taken out against them:—Held: the obligee ought to be admitted a creditor.—Ex p. BROWN (1725), cited 1 Atk. at p. 225; 26 E. R. 144.

3818. —— —— —— Copartner acting as surety.]—The directors of a co. applied to prove for money advanced to B. & R., bkpts., for partnership purposes. The debt was the subject of a deed under seal, in which B. was described as the borrower, & R. as a surety. It was contended that the debt must be treated as the separate debt of B.:—Held: where two partners agreed to borrow money for the purpose of the partnership, & one was described in a bond as the principal, & the other as a surety, the lender might treat it as a joint debt, & the proof should be admitted.—ANON. (1847), 10 L. T. O. S. 191.

3819. —— —— Loan to one partner on his security—Money lent by partner to firm.]—A. lent money to one partner on his own security, & the partner lent it to the partnership trade. A joint commission having been taken out:—Held: A. should not come in as a creditor upon the joint estate of bkpts. immediately & directly, with the rest of the partnership creditors, but by way of circuity he was entitled, as standing in the place of that partner who had paid the money to the use of the partnership trade.—Re HUNTER, Ex p. HUNTER (1742), 1 Atk. 223; 26 E. A. drew bills, sometimes in the firm's name, sometimes in his own name, on the clerk managing the partnership business in London, & discounted them, & applied the proceeds to partnership purposes:—Semble: the bills drawn in bkpt.'s own name were not a partnership debt.—Re LYE, Ex p. EMLY (1811), 1 Rose, 61, L. C.

3821. —— —— Loan to one partner with sureties—Sureties paying & seeking to prove against firm.]—A. & B. were partners. B., to obtain capital for the business, borrowed money, & for security entered into a bond, in which C. & D. became his sureties for the repayment of the money & interest, & also effected & deposited with the lenders a policy of assurance on his life. One of the conditions of the bond was, that the money should be repayable on either B., C., or D. becoming bkpt. The two partners entered into a deed of covenant to indemnify C. & D., as sureties, from all loss by reason of their entering into the bond. A. & B. became bkpt., & C. & D. were called on for payment of the whole money, which C. paid, together with interest & expenses:—Held: C. was not entitled to prove for the money as a creditor on the joint estate.—Re MEYER, Ex p. MEYER (1848), 6 De G. 3819 i. In respect of what debts—Sums borrowed applied to partnership purposes—Loan to one partner—Adoption of debt.]—In order to entitle a creditor to prove on the joint estate of a partnership firm, for a debt which was originally the separate debt of one of the partners, there must be proved a positive agreement to adopt the debt as that of the firm, or facts from which the ct. will be justified in deducing an agreement or consent to the adoption. It is not sufficient that the money lent to one partner has been ultimately applied to the purposes of the firm.—Re FERRAR, Ex p. DAVIS (1859), 9 I. Ch. R. 554; 12 Ir. Jur. 40.—IR.

m. —— Money applied to partnership purposes—Obtained on notes forged by partner in separate business.]—One of two partners carried on the business of bill broker on his own account, & in that capacity received from pltf. money by cheques & proceeds of drafts on pltf., as the price of certain promissory notes, & the money was by the broker paid into & used with the partnership funds. It was afterwards discovered that they had been all forged by the broker, who absconded, & the remaining partner assigned all the joint effects to trustees for the benefit of all the creditors; but on a bill filed for that purpose:—Held: pltf. had a right to be paid his claim out of the partnership assets.—WALLACE v. JAMES (1854), 5 Gr. 163.—CAN.

3823 i. —— Debt incurred in separate business of one partner—After assignment for creditors.]—A. & B. being bankers, on Dec. 16, 1815, stopped payment, & upon the 24th, there was a meeting of their creditors, when it was agreed that the property & effects of the partners, as well as their separate properties, should be vested in trustees, & a deed was executed in Jan., 1816, limiting the trusts according to 33 Geo. 2, c. 14. In May, 1822, A. being dead, a commission of bkpcy. issued against B. at the suit of creditors, with whom he contracted debts as a corn factor, subsequent to the execution of the trust deed. In June, C., a creditor of B.'s, by judgment acknowledged in Trinity Term, 1815, filed a bill against the trustees in the deed of 1816, & against the assignees of B. & charged that the trustees had permitted the partners to call in several sums of money, & to remain in possession of their private properties, & also allowed B. to continue carrying on trade & business as a corn factor. Upon such bill the ct. decreed an account of the real & personal estate of B. on Dec. 16 1815, an account of the debts then due & how circumstanced, & what sums were due at that time, & also that the creditors of A. & B. were entitled to be paid their demands out of the real & personal estate of A. & B. To the latter part of such decree the assignee of B. objected, & on petition for rehearing, the bill was dismissed with costs.—VINCENT v. HACKETT (1829), 2 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 258, 265, 295, 451. —IR.

grocer separately, & also that of an ironfounder in partnership with B. After thus trading for four years, he sold off the stock of the grocery business, & retired wholly from that trade, investing the proceeds in the iron-foundry business, which, with the exception of a small sum brought in by B. constituted the whole capital of the partnership. A joint fiat was issued against A. & B. sixteen months after A. had retired from his separate grocery trade:—Held: the creditors of A. in the grocery trade could not prove against the joint estate of A. & B.—Re TURNER, Ex p. GRAHAM (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 781.

3824. —— —— Funds deposited with firm.]—N., a member of the firm of N., J. & Co., was employed by T. & Co., manufacturers of cotton goods, to sell cotton for them. For such goods of T. & Co. as N. sold, he accounted to them monthly, & paid at the end of another month a price fixed between himself & T. & Co. The money which N. received from customers he used, by an arrangement between himself & his own firm, to carry to an account opened between himself & the firm, & the payments which he made to T. & Co. were in many cases made by means of cheques drawn in the name of N., J. & Co. N., J. & Co. became embarrassed, & executed a deed of arrangement with their creditors. When the deed was executed, a balance stood to the credit of N. in the account with N., J. & Co., & for such balance T. & Co. sought to prove against the joint estate in the hands of the trustees of N., J. & Co., on the ground that the money was trust money in the hands of N., J. & Co., with knowledge of the trust:—Held: the relation of principal & agent did not subsist between T. & Co. & N., & as the proceeds of the sales received by N. were his own, the claim of T. & Co. failed.—TOWLE (J.) & Co. v. WHITE (1873), 29 L. T. 78; 21 W. R. 465 H. L.

3825. —— Money in hands of one partner as co-assignee in another bankruptcy.]—One of two assignees in bkpcy. having money in his hands belonging to the estate, used it for the purposes of a firm in which he was a partner. On a commission of bkpcy. issuing against the firm, the other assignee claimed to prove against the firm estate for the money so misapplied:—Held: he could not prove.—Re ALLEN, Ex p. APSEY (1791), 3 Bro. C. C. 265; 29 E. R. 528, L. C.

3826. —— Debt incurred before partnership—Whether partnership adopted as debtor—By receipt of interest from firm.]—A sole trader, indebted by bond, took in a nominal partner, but without fraud. Two years afterwards the partnership failed:—Held: the separate debt could not be proved under the joint commission, unless there were something (& very little would be sufficient), as payment of interest by both, to make the partnership liable.—Ex p. JACKSON (1790), 1 Ves. 131; 30 E. R. 265.

3827. —— —— —— By inclusion of creditor in schedule to partnership deed.]—A., a trader being indebted to several persons, entered into partnership with B., & brought his stock-in-trade into the partnership. By the partnership articles it was agreed that the joint trade should pay the creditors of A. named in a schedule:—Held: a separate creditor of A. named in the schedule did not by the articles become a joint creditor of A. & B.—Re JOSEPH & HUGHES, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1817), Buck, 13.

3828. —— —— —— By not answering letters asking for time.]—A. being indebted to C., B. guaranteed payment of bills of exchange. A. & B. subsequently entered into partnership. When the first bill became due, A. & B. remitted a portion & asked C.'s indulgence for the remainder. When another bill became due, A. & B. wrote to C. that they were arranging to pay all their liabilities in full, including their debt to C. C. had not answered these letters, but took no proceedings against A. or B., who became bkpt.:—Held: C. was not entitled to prove against the joint estate, for although very little was required to affect partnership property with the liability of one of the firm, that little was wanting, the creditor not having consented to the conversion of the debt, except such consent as was to be implied by his not answering bkpt.'s letters.—Re WORTH, Ex p. HITCHCOCK (1839), 3 Deac. 507; Mont. & Ch. 60, Ct. of R.

3829. —— —— —— By accepting statements of account rendered in firm name.]—A trader being indebted to a lunatic in the amount of the purchase-money of a business, & the machinery & stock-in-trade, after carrying on the business alone for some time, entered into partnership, under an agreement by which the stock-in-trade & property of the sole business were to belong to the firm, which was to take upon itself the liabilities of the sole business. The firm rendered an annual account, in its own name, in respect of the debt to the committee of the lunatic, who made no objection to the form of the account. On the firm becoming bkpt.:—Held: the committee was not entitled to prove against the joint estate.—Re STOCKS, Ex p. PARKER (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 511; 11 L. J. Bcy. 26; 6 Jur. 541, Ct. of R.

3830. —— —— —— By parol agreement.]—A father took his son into partnership. A creditor of the father was told by one of the partners that the firm was liable for the debt, & the creditor assented. The subsequent transactions proceeded on that footing:—Held: the parol agreement was valid, & was not affected by Stat. Frauds, & proof could be made against the joint estate.—Re LENDON, Ex p. LANE (1846), De G. 300; 16 L. J. Bcy. 4; 7 L. T. O. S. 118; 10 Jur. 382, Ct. of R.

3831. —— Debt incurred by one partner while trading with substituted partner.]—A. & B. were in partnership. A. retired, & B. & C. entered into partnership. D., a creditor of the firm of A. & B., continued for many years to deal with B. & C. without any settlement of the accounts taking place. On the bkpcy. of B. & C., D. was a creditor to a considerable amount, part of which was owing to him from A. & B.:—Held: he could not, unless he had assented to take B. & C. as his debtors, prove for the whole amount against B. & C.—Re ROSS, Ex p. CROWN (1835), 4 L. J. Bcy. 88, Ct. of R.

o. Right not lost through advance made to firm—Security given by one partner—Over separate property.]—Where a mtge. bond has been passed by one member of a firm in his own name, specially hypothecating property registered in his name, though the consideration given for the bond had been advanced to the firm, & the estate of the firm & the separate estate of the partner were both placed under sequestration, the holder of the mtge. bond was held entitled to prove the bond on the separate estate of the partner, in competition with the private creditors.—BENJAMIN v. BENJAMIN (1881), 1 E. B. Against separate Estate.

3832. Whether right lost by dealings with firm formed after debt—Improper pledge of deposited securities by sole debtor & thereafter by firm.]—H. deposited with W., his agent, bonds for $50,000, which W. in July, 1836, pledged with a third party, as security for his own debt. In Sept., 1836, H. applied to W. to grant him a credit for £10,000 on the security of the bonds, which W. agreed to do, but said nothing about having previously pledged them for his own purposes. On Oct. 1, 1836, H. drew bills on W. to the amount of £10,000, which were accepted by W. & C., W. having taken C. into partnership on the very day the bills were drawn. The bills were duly paid by W. & C. at maturity, H., at the request of W. & Co., remitting £7,000 towards payment of them. Subsequent dealings took place between H. & W. & C., until the latter stopped payment, when they made a balance to be due to them from H., but took no notice of the bonds, the chief part of which had been already redeemed by W. & C. & pledged again with another person for a partnership debt from W. & C. :—Held : the subsequent dealings of H. with the partnership of W. & C. did not deprive him of his right to prove the amount of the bonds against the separate estate of W., & the proof should stand against the separate estate of W., but without prejudice to the reduction of it by set-off or otherwise.—Re WARWICK, Ex p. MEINERTZHAGEN (1838), 3 Deac. 101.

3834. Partnership effects remaining in specie—No equity to.]—A fair dissolution of partnership between two, one retiring, & assigning the partnership property to the other, & taking a bond for the value & a covenant of indemnity against the debts. The other continued the trade separately a year & a half, & then became bkpt. :—Held : the joint creditors had no equity attaching upon partnership effects remaining in specie.—Ex p. RUFFIN (1801), 6 Ves. 119 ; 31 E. 3834 iii. —— Assignment for creditors by continuing partners—To pay creditors ratably without priority.]—On the dissolution of a partnership between L. & W., the latter transferred all his interest in the partnership to L., who subsequently became insolvent & assigned all his estate, including that part of it which had formerly been assets of the partnership, to deft., in trust to pay " the claims of his creditors ratably & proportionately, & without preference or priority, recognising such liens, claims, charges, & priorities as the law directs " :—Held : under the terms of the deed there was no priority between the separate creditors of L. & the joint creditors of L. & W., all being creditors of L., & both classes of creditors were entitled to be paid pari passu.—MOOREHOUSE v. BOSTWICK (1885), 11 A. 3836. —— ——.]—The question of the validity or otherwise of a transaction, whereby one partner conveys to his copartners his whole interest in the partnership property, thereby converting the joint assets of the firm into the separate estate of the assignee partners, must depend in every case upon the bona fides of the transaction.

A partner made an assignment to his copartner of all his interest in the joint estate, at a time when the partnership itself, & each of the partners separately, were in a state of insolvency:—Held: the deed of assignment was fraudulent & void, & the property purported to be assigned remained the property of the joint creditors.—Re EDWARDS-WOOD, Ex p. MAYOU (1865), 4 De G. 3837. —— Dissolution not completed.]—At the death of one of two partners, a considerable balance belonging to the partnership was in the hands of their bankers, a specific portion of which the surviving partner drew out & handed over to sureties for the completion of a previous arrangement for the purposes of the partnership, upon the understanding that if the arrangement was not carried into effect, the money should be returned. The arrangement was not completed, & the surviving partner became bkpt., the money still remaining in the hands of the trustees:—Held: the money belonged to the joint estate of the two partners, & not to the separate estate of the surviving partner.—Re SIMPSON & WINDROSS, Ex p. LEAF (1840), 4 Deac. 287; Mont. & Ch. 662; 9 L. Separate fiats having afterwards issued against A. & B.:—Held: certain debts owing to A. & B., when in partnership, & which were outstanding at the time the fiats were issued, were the joint estate of the partnership, & as such distributable amongst their joint creditors.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. HAWTREY (1842), 7 Jur. 71.

3839. —— Transfer of share to surviving partner set aside.]—A. authorised the sale of his share in a brewery to B., his surviving partner, whom he appointed one of his exors. B. conceiving he had duly become the purchaser, carried on the business until his death, & it was subsequently carried on by C. his exor. Afterwards the sale was set aside, & the estate of A. became entitled to share in the profits made subsequent to A.'s death. C. afterwards became bkpt., having the whole trade property in his possession:—Held: the trade creditors during the time the business was carried on by C. had no lien for their debts on A.'s share.—STOCKEN v. DAWSON (1845), 9 Beav. 239; 50 E. R. 335; affd. (1848), 17 L. J. Ch. 282, L. C.

3840. —— Assignment to continuing partner to make good misappropriations by assigning partners.]—Soon after the commencement of a partnership between H. & W. it was discovered that H. had drawn a large sum from the account of the partnership at the bankers' & applied the money to his own purposes. Thereupon the partnership was dissolved, & H. assigned his share of the assets to W., in order that the money misappropriated might in the first place be restored, & the assets realised for the benefit of the two according to their respective interests. After the dissolution both W. & H. became bkpt., & the comrs. decided that the whole assets were subject to a trust for the payment of the joint debts of W. & H.:—Held: the assignment by H. converted his former joint estate into the separate estate of W.—Re WALKER, Re HARDY, Ex p. WALKER (1862), 4 De G. 3841. —— Effect of provision in partnership deed—Restricting transfer of property on death to surviving partner.]—A partnership deed provided that A. & B. should be partners in the profits of the business, the capital of which belonged to A., & that on his death the partnership should be dissolved, & B.'s share of profits should thenceforth belong to A.'s representatives, who should carry on the business, paying B. his share of the profits up to A.'s death. A. died, having appointed B. his exor. B. carried on the trade for several months, & filed a petition for liquidation. Part of the stock-in-trade which existed at A.'s death still remained in specie, but the greater part had been disposed of by B. in the course of the business, & fresh stock-in-trade bought by him:—Held: the partnership deed had not the effect of converting the stock-in-trade into separate estate of A., but so much of the present assets as had been in existence at A.'s death was applicable as joint estate to pay the joint creditors of the firm, & so much as had been bought since A.'s death was applicable as separate estate of B.—Re WHITE, Ex p. MORLEY (1873), 8 Ch. After allowing interest at 5 per cent. on the capital, which belonged solely to W., the net profits were to be divided half-yearly in certain shares. At the expiration of the term D.'s interest in the concern was to cease. If D. died during the term, his representatives were to receive nothing more than a proportionate part of his share of the profits of the current half-year for the period up to his decease, such proportionate part to be ascertained, not by a fresh stock-taking, but according to the average of the last two preceding half-yearly stock-takings. D. died. Afterwards W. died, & the business was carried on by Y., who was also exor. of W., & who afterwards went into liquidation. There were at that time assets existing in specie which belonged to the business during the partnership between the three:—Held: the assets remaining in specie were primarily applicable to payment of the joint debts of D., W., & Y., & those joint creditors could not come against the

Two of the partners died, & afterwards the survivors became bkpt. No steps had then been taken to ascertain the shares of the deceased partners:—Held: the creditors of the four partners had no right to have the joint assets of the four which remained in specie applied first in payment of their debts.—Re SIMPSON (1874), 9 Ch. The father died, having by his will appointed his wife, his son, & his son-in-law trustees. He authorised them to continue the business, either alone or in conjunction with other persons, & to employ in it any money, part of his general estate. The widow & the son continued to carry on the business until they became bkpt. The son-in-law took no part in the business, though he knew that it was being continued:—Held: as the carrying on of the business by two trustees was not authorised by the will, the machinery was not converted into assets of the new firm, & the unpaid creditors of the old firm were entitled to such of the machinery as remained in specie at the date of the bkpcy. of the new firm.—Re MELLOR, Ex p. BUTCHER (1880), 13 Ch. 3846. Agreement for dissolution executory at date of bankruptcy.]—On Nov. 2, 1815, A. & B. agreed to dissolve partnership. A., the continuing partner, was to pay B. an annuity to be secured by a surety, but the surety refused to guarantee the annuity. On Dec. 1 a separate commission of bkpcy. was issued against A. & on Dec. 14 a joint commission issued against A. & B. The assignee under the joint commission contended that the assignees under the separate commission had obtained property belonging to the joint estate, & prayed that the separate commission should be superseded & the property of A. & B. should be declared joint property:—Held: (1) the agreement was executory, as the assent of the proposed surety was necessary to complete the agreement; (2) the partnership property was not transferred to the continuing partner but remained partnership property.—Re MALLAM, Ex p. WHEELER (1817), Buck, 25.

3847. ——.]—Two partners in pursuance of a prior agreement dissolved partnership, & notice of the dissolution was published in the Gazette, stating that the debts due to & by the firm would be received by the continuing partner, who continued to trade under the original firm name, but no assignment of the property was made to him. Both partners became bkpt.:—Held: the agreement was executory, & so remained at the time of the bkpcy., & the partnership property not having been converted into the separate property of the continuing partner, that which remained in his possession at the time of the bkpcy. was joint estate, & must be applied in payment of the joint creditors of bkpts.—Re JOHNSTON & DANSON, Ex p. COOPER (1840), 1 Mont. 3848. ——.]—A partnership deed between father & son provided that, on the father's death, his capital should remain in the business for a year, & then should belong to the son on payment of its value as at the date of the death. It was further provided that the surviving partner should by bond indemnify the estate of the deceased partner against the partnership debts, & release them, if called on to do so by the personal representatives of the deceased partner. The father died, & the son became bkpt.:—Held: there had been no conversion of the joint estate into separate estate, the agreement being an executory rather than an executed one, & the intention being that the father's lien should remain until the assets had been paid for.—Re HEAD, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1893), 9 T. 3849. Agreement for dissolution executed at date of bankruptcy.]—A partnership of three was dissolved under an agreement, by which the continuing partners were to pay the outgoing partner £550 in discharge of his share in the stock & profits. £50 was paid on the execution of the agreement, & the remainder by bills of varying dates. The continuing partners agreed to pay the firm debts. Notice of the dissolution was inserted in the Gazette. The continuing partners became bkpt. before all the bills became due, & subsequently the retired partner also became bkpt. The creditors of the three claimed to have the property which once belonged to the three distributed among them:—Held: the agreement was not executory, but executed, & the creditors had no lien on the partnership property.—Re COWARD, Ex p. GIBSON, Re FEAR & COWARD, Ex p. CLARKSON (1834), 2 Mont. & A. 4; 4 Deac. & Ch. 56, Ct. of R.

3850. ——.]—A firm consigned goods to another firm through a third, who made an advance to the consignors, on an agreement for a lien upon the return proceeds which were remitted to them. Before their arrival the consignors had dissolved partnership, & separate fiats had issued against each member. By the dissolution deed, a portion of the partnership credits belonged to one of the partners, who was to pay a portion of the partnership debts. In pursuance the assignee of the other partner transferred all his interest in the return proceeds:—Held: this interest constituted separate, & not joint estate.—Re KRAUSS, Ex p. BIRLEY (1841), 2 Mont. 3874. Ship registered in name of firm & individual partners of another firm—Not joint property of both firms.]—W. & Co. being indebted to D. & Co., it was agreed that as security for the debt D. & Co. should be interested in a moiety of ships, of which W. & Co. were the owners, & the names of the partners in D. & Co. were inserted in the registers with those of W. & Co. Debts were incurred for goods supplied to the ships on W. & Co.'s orders, & without knowledge of any interest of D. & Co. The ships were sold & the proceeds divided before the bkpcy. of the two firms. There were no joint effects of W. & Co. & D. & Co.:—Held: primâ facie the individuals, whose names appeared on the registers, were liable, & as there were no joint effects of the two houses, proof might be made against the respective estates, first against W. & Co. in order to exonerate the firm of D. & Co. as much as possible.—Re DAWES, Ex p. MACHEL (1813), 1 Rose, 447.

3877. Shares standing in names of individual partners—Bought with firm's funds.]—C. & M., who carried on business as ship chandlers, each applied in his own name for certain shares in a shipowners' co. Each paid the application & allotment money on the shares allotted to him, & the shares were registered in the names of the partners severally. Each partner drew upon the partnership funds for the payment of calls upon the shares, & the amounts so drawn were debited in the books of the firm to the individual partners, & opposite to the entries in the books of the firm each partner signed his initials in red ink. The dividends on the shares were carried to the profit & loss account of the firm. The holding of ships or shares in shipowning cos. formed no part of the business of the firm, but it appeared that the partners had purchased the shares under the impression that the possession of them would be the means of introducing custom & business to the partnership. C. became bkpt., & M. claimed the shares standing in C.'s name, as joint estate of the firm:—Held: the entries in the books of the firm amounted to a statement in writing, signed by the partners, that the shares were to be separate & not joint estate, & the mode of dealing with the dividends was not contradictory of that statement, as the effect of it was the same as if the partners, who each held an equal number of the shares, had been separately credited with the dividends.—Re CLINT, Ex p. BOLLAND (1873), 29 L. B. was subsequently admitted as a partner, & had a share of the profits but not of the capital. A joint commission issued against the partners. The separate creditors of P., on the ground that B. had no interest in the capital, claimed a declaration that there was no joint property of P., G. & B., but only of P. & G., that the joint creditors of P., G. & B. had no right to the property of P. & G., & that as there were no joint creditors of P. & G., their joint property was divisible amongst their separate creditors:—Held: upon bkpcy. of

The business house was leased to the father, the ground floor being used for the purposes of the business, & the other parts let as lodgings, the rents of which were placed to the father's private account, & all taxes & other outgoings were also placed to his debit. The son was permitted to occupy apartments in the house, but the father had the control over the entire property:—Held: this property was not distributable among the joint creditors, but belonged to the separate estate of the father.—Re ASHLEY, Ex p. MURTON (1840), 1 Mont. 3882. —— Intention to become partners—Party held out as partner—Firm assets joint estate.]—On the dissolution of a partnership between H., C. & P. notice was given to the creditors that the business would thenceforth be carried on by P. alone, under the firm of P. Son & Co. The business was carried on under that firm, & a banking account was opened in that name. P.'s son constantly signed cheques upon that account in the name of the firm. He also accepted bills in the name of the firm, negotiated loans to the firm, & sometimes ordered goods in the name of the firm. The name P. alone appeared on the outside of the business premises. P. & his son were, on the petition of a creditor, jointly adjudicated bkpts., as having traded as partners. They did not resist the adjudication. H. with whom, on the dissolution of the old partnership, P. had covenanted for the payment of part of the capital of H. in that partnership, applied for a declaration that the assets of the business were separate estate of the father. Both father & son deposed that no actual partnership had subsisted between them, but that it was intended from the first that the son should be a partner, if the business had turned out profitable. Petitioning creditor deposed that the son had been held out to him as a partner. Evidence tending in the same direction was given on behalf of another creditor. Eight other creditors, the whole number who had proved being eighty-two, deposed that they had always treated the son as being a partner, & constituting with the father the firm of P. Son & Co.:—Held: the assets must be treated as joint estate of father & son.—Re PULSFORD, Ex p. HAYMAN (1878), 8 Ch. D. 11; 47 L. J. Bcy. 54; 38 L. T. 238; 26 W. R. 597, C. A.

PART XI. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—A.

t. Goods supplied to partner—After notice of dissolution of firm.]—After publication of notice of dissolution of the firm, its estate was sequestrated. Customers of the firm claimed to prove debts against the firm's estate for goods supplied to one of the partners after publication of the said notice:—Held: if, notwithstanding the notice, the firm still existed de facto, the customers were entitled to prove as claimed.—SHAPIRO v. SHAPIRO & KETZ'S TRUSTEE (1907), T. S. 472.—S. AF.

u. Debt on promissory note—Given by squatting partner on behalf of firm.]—Proof of debt as a partnership liability, admitted on the promissory note given by one member of a squatting partnership on behalf of the firm.—GLASS v. HIGGINS (1871), 2 V. R. 28.—AUS.

w. Debt on joint promissory note—For accommodation of one partner.]—A debt on a joint promissory note which was really for the accommodation of one partner, was not allowed to be proved against the joint estate.—Re BURNETT & LEVY (1878), 14 N. S. W. S. C. R. 528.—AUS.

3887. —— —— Transaction primâ facie fraudulent—Assent of partners.]—A creditor drew a bill upon a firm for a separate debt due from one partner, & that partner accepted it in the name of the firm:—Held: the transaction was primâ facie fraudulent, on the part of debtor & the creditor, & the creditor could not prove against the joint estate, without showing the assent of the other partners to the firm being liable.—Re WARDLEY & HODSON, Ex p. THORPE (1836), 3 Mont. & A. 716; 2 Deac. 16, Ct. of R.

3888. —— —— Circumstances known to party taking bill—Fraud on part of taker.]—A firm, No. 1, consisted of three partners, A., B. & C. Another firm, No. 2, was composed of the same A., B. & C. together with D. & E. The trade of the former was that of merchants, & the latter were ship-builders & engineers. A. & B. were at the same time partners with several others in another concern, No. 3, called "the tea concern," of whom F. was one, but by agreement between F., G., the father of F., & H., the uncle of F., he became partner on their behalf, & was to account to them for the profits. In May, 1841, firm No. 2 applied to bill-brokers for money, which was advanced on bills drawn by D. in his own name, upon & accepted by firm No. 1, & which money was wholly used by firm No. 2. The bills fell due between Aug. 30 & Oct. 4, but before they became due, firm No. 1 took up money from H. & Co. & retired the bills before they became due. On Aug. 10, without privity of any member of firm No. 2, except such as were members also of firm No. 1, A. applied to part payment of H. & Co. a sum of £8,700 in his hands, for which he was accountable to F. as part of his share of profit in firm No. 3, which A. had been appointed to wind up. The day after that sum had been so applied a new partner, J., joined firm No. 2. The bills were subsequently indorsed by A. in the name of firm No. 2, to a holder for valuable consideration, & they were sought to be admitted to proof against the estate of firm No. 2, to which the assignees objected that the debt, in respect of which they were given, was a debt due from A. to the estate of F. on an account unconnected with firm No. 2:—Held: (1) the case was governed by the rule that where one partner gave the acceptance of the firm in payment of his separate debt, without authority, in fact, from his co-partners, such acceptance did not render the firm liable to the person who took the bill with knowledge that it had been so drawn or accepted; (2) fraud on the part of the taker of the bill was no necessary ingredient to the application of the rule.—Re ACRAMAN (1850), 16 L. T. O. S. 84.

3889. —— —— —— Duty of taker to investigate.]—Although, generally speaking, a partner has full authority to deal with the partnership property for partnership purposes, &, if the business of the partnership is such as ordinarily requires bills of exchange, to draw, accept & indorse bills, in the name of the partnership, yet, if a person discounting bills drawn & indorsed by a partner in the partnership name, has notice that the partner is dealing with the bills for his private purposes, he is bound to ascertain the extent of the authority of the individual partner, & if the dealing be not authorised, he has, upon the bkpcy. of the firm, no right to prove against the joint estate of the partnership, except to the extent to which the partnership may be indebted to the individual partner.—Re RICHES & MARSHALL'S TRUST DEED, Ex p. DARLINGTON, ETC., BANKING CO. (1865), 4 De G. J. & Sm. 581; 5 New Rep. 287; 34 L. J. Bcy. 10; 11 L. T. 651; 11 Jur. N. S. 122; 13 W. R. 353; 46 E. R. 1044, L. C.

Annotation:—Folld. Re Croudace (1866), 15 L. T. 19.

3890. —— Bill drawn by one partner—Indorsed by dormant partner—Money received for partnership purposes.]—If A. & B. are partners in a trade carried on in the name of A. only, & A. draws bills in his own name payable to his order, which he indorses, & afterwards B. also indorses & procures them to be discounted, there is no legal contract for a holder to maintain an action against A. & B. upon the bills, unless it appear that A. drew & indorsed the bills in the character of & as representing A. & B.

A person discounting the bills may have a right of action against A. & B. jointly for money had & received, if he can show that they received the money by means of the bills for partnership purposes.—Re BLACKBURN, Ex p. BOLITHO (1817), Buck, 100, L. C.

3891. —— Bill accepted by solvent partner in firm name—After act of bankruptcy of copartner—Holder without notice.]—An acceptance given by a solvent partner, after an act of bkpcy. committed by his copartner, to a creditor of the firm having notice of that act of bkpcy., is provable by a holder without such notice, under a commission of bkpcy. subsequently issued against both partners.—Re HOUGHTON, Ex p. ROBINSON (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 376; 1 Mont. & A. 18; Coop. temp. Brough. 162, L. 3892. —— Bill signed by agent of one partner—In breach of partnership agreement.]—A. & B., as joint exors., carried on their testator's trade in copartnership, for the benefit of his family, & it was arranged between them that A. should alone draw & accept bills, & manage the cash transactions. A. having refused to accept any more bills drawn by H. & D., B., unknown to A., authorised her son to accept them. A. & B. afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: the holders of the bills could not prove them against the joint estate.—Re ROBINSON, Ex p. HOLDSWORTH (1841), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 475, Ct. of R.

3893. —— Notes signed by servant of firm in favour of some partners—For excess of capital contribution—No fraud on part of indorsee.]—Six partners gave a clerk authority in writing to sign bills & notes on behalf of the firm. Two of the partners, claiming to be creditors for advances made by them to the firm beyond their proper capital, directed the clerk to sign four promissory notes, payable to one or other of the two, & indorsed the notes to a separate creditor of one of them. There was no proof of fraud or collusion in the transaction on the part of the indorsee. The firm became bkpt. :—Held : although the transaction, as between the two & their partners, was an unjustifiable act on the part of the two, the firm were liable, & the holder had a right of proof for the amount of the notes against their joint estate.—Re ACRAMAN, Ex p. BUSHELL (1844), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 615 ; 3 L. T. O. S. 264 ; 8 Jur. 937, Ct. of R.

Annotation :—Distd. Re Riches & Marshall's Assignment (1864), 10 L. T. 662.

3894. —— Payments in respect of note given as surety for firm.]—A trader made a promissory note, as a surety for a debt due to one of the creditors of a firm. The firm & the trader became bkpt., & the creditor proved against the estate of the trader on the note, & against the separate estate of a partner in the firm on the debt. A dividend was declared & paid on the former proof, but not on the latter :—Held : the assignees of the trader were not entitled to an order to prove against the joint estate of the firm, for the amount of the dividend which they had paid on the promissory note.—Re CAMPION, Ex p. BROWN (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 718 ; 11 L. J. Bcy. 43 ; 6 Jur. 1021, Ct. of R.

3896. —— Bills deposited as security by party in partnership with partner of separate business.]—A., being in partnership with B., entered, without the knowledge of B., into partnership with C., an agent of the firm of A. & B., for the sale of timber. The firm of A. & C. employed R., F. & Co. as their bankers, & C. brought cheques & bills to the bank with the names of A. & B. attached to them, which the bank held as collateral security to cover C.'s overdrafts. Upon A.'s death C. failed, & B. became bkpt. :—Held : the bankers were not in a position to prove their collateral security against B.'s partnership estate, as they neglected to ascertain the extent of either A.'s or C.'s authority to pledge B.'s credit, &, no account being produced, it was impossible to distinguish any agency transactions from the general dealings of A. & C. with the bankers, whose title could not be higher than that of the parties with whom they dealt.—Re CROUDACE (1866), 15 L. T. 19.

3897. —— Joint & several note by partners—Separate indebtedness of one partner cancelled by provisions in holder's will.]—Testator by his will bequeathed all debts & sums of money which should at the time of his death be due to him by B., to B., his exors., administrators, & assigns, for his & their own use & benefit, & he directed his trustees to deliver up to B., his exors., administrators, or assigns, all securities which he should at the time of his death hold for such debts & sums of money, & also, when required by B., his exors., administrators, or assigns, to execute to him or them a release from all such debts & sums of money. At the date of the will & of testator's death, B. owed testator a debt of £50, & he & his partner owed testator £2,600, which the latter had lent to the firm, & for which B. & his partner had given testator their joint & several promissory notes. B. & his partner having filed a liquidation petition, testator's exors. claimed to prove in the liquidation for the £2,600 :—Held : as there was a separate debt due from B. to which the release could apply, it could not be extended to the partnership debt, & the exors.' proof must be admitted.—Re BENNETT, Ex p. KIRK (1877), 5 Ch. D. 800 ; 46 L. J. Bcy. 101 ; 36 L. T. 431 ; 25 W. R. 598, C. A.

3898. Transfer of credit in books of firm—By partner to his son.]—A father, member of a bank, transferred a sum of money to the credit of his son with the partnership :—Held : the son was entitled to prove under a commission against the firm for such credit.—Re HEWITT, Ex p. SKERRATT (1816), 2 Rose, 384, L. C.

3899. —— By firm to trustees of partner.]—A partner covenanted to pay £4,000 to the trustees of his marriage settlement, by instalments, & assigned £3,000 of his portion of the partnership capital to them as security, & the firm gave the trustees credit for £3,000 in their books, & wrote to them so stating. The firm became bkpt. before the first instalment was due :—Held : the £3,000 was provable against the firm.—Re BROWN, Ex p. HILL (1837), 2 Deac. 249 ; 3 Mont. & A. 175, Ct. of R.

3900. Debt arising out of breach of trust by one partner—With knowledge of copartners.]—Where some of the members of a firm are trustees of funds which they misapply, by making use of them for partnership purposes, if such misapplication be with the knowledge of the other members of the firm, the cestuis que trust may prove against the joint estate.—Re MOXON, Ex p. HEATON (1819), Buck, 386.

3901. —— Limited to proceeds in hands of firm at time of bankruptcy.]—A trustee under a will permitted the trust fund, as the money was from time to time realised, to be paid into the hands of certain bankers, who had knowledge of the trusts. One of the partners, without the assent of the trustee, dealt with a portion of the fund, by investing it on mtge. :—Held : the bankers were not jointly & separately liable in the character of trustees, but they only incurred a liability as between banker & customer, &, on the bkpcy. of the bankers, the trustee could only prove against their joint estate, for such balance as was in their hands at the time of the bkpcy. Semble : the sum laid out on mtge. must be considered as in their hands at the time of the bkpcy., although the mtge. itself might enure for the benefit of the cestui que trust.—Re BIDDULPH, Ex p. BURTON (1843), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 364, Ct. of R. ; subsequent proceedings, sub nom. Re BIDDULPH, Ex p. BARNEWALL (1855), 6 De G. M. & G. 795, L. JJ.

3902. Debt arising out of fraud of one partner.]—A customer deposited with his bankers a box of securities for safe custody. He afterwards lent the securities to one of the partners in the bank for his own private purposes, upon his depositing in the box shares to secure the replacement of the borrowed securities. The partner for his own purposes, without the knowledge of the customer, subtracted the shares :—Held : the banking firm were not liable for the tortious act of their partner for his own benefit, & the customer had no right of proof against the joint estate.—Re BIDDULPH, Ex p. EYRE (1843), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 12 ; sub nom. Re Wright, Ex p. Eyre, 1 Ph. 227 ; 12 L. J. Ch. 266 ; 7 Jur. 162 ; 41 E. R. 618, L. C.

Annotation :—Refd. Bury v. Allen (1845), 1 Coll. 589.

3903. Joint debt to become separate on demand—No demand before bankruptcy.]—Partners expressly stipulated that until an actual demand was made an existing debt should remain a joint debt. No actual demand was made before their bkpcy. :—Held : the debt was provable against the joint estate, but not against the separate estates.—Re CHRISTIE, Ex p. FAIRLIE (1830), Mont. 17, L. C.

3904. Joint debt secured on separate property of bankrupt — Other partners solvent.]—Petitioners were equitable mtgees. of separate property of bkpt., the mtge. being made to secure a debt due from bkpt. jointly with several solvent partners. The ct. granted an order for sale, proof for the deficiency to be against the joint estate only.—Re WILDERS, Ex p. LEICESTERSHIRE BANKING CO. (1846), 1 De G. 292, Ct. of R.

3905. Joint bond by partners—Securing repayment of loan from trustees of one partner.]—A partner previous to his marriage withdrew £1,000 from the partnership funds, & presented it to his intended wife. He afterwards withdrew £1,500 more to provide for the children of the marriage, the trusts of which were declared by an antenuptial settlement. The trustees, in the exercise of a power given by the settlement, lent the two sums to the partnership, & took the joint bond of the partners to secure repayment : — Held : the trustees might prove against the joint estate for the amount secured by the bond.—Re LAST, Ex p. CROFTS (1837), 2 Deac. 102, Ct. of R.

3906. Judgment against one partner on partnership debt—Other partners solvent & abroad.]—A creditor of a firm of three, two of whom resided in America, recovered judgment against the third alone, who resided in England, & who afterwards became bkpt., his partners remaining solvent :—Held : the creditor might, notwithstanding the separate judgment, prove against the joint estate.—Re MORRISON, Ex p. WATERFALL (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 199 ; 64 E. R. 797 ; sub nom. Re MORRISON, Ex p. JONES, 20 L. J. Bcy. 5 ; 16 L. T. O. S. 346 ; 15 Jur. 214.

3907. —— Debt merged in judgment.]—Two partners, acting by one of them, bought goods. Afterwards the vendor, with notice of the partnership, brought an action & recovered judgment against the one partner alone, & issued execution, which was defeated by an adjudication of bkpcy. against him, followed by an adjudication against his partner :—Held : the original debt was merged in the judgment, & there could be no proof upon it against the joint estate.—Re TYLER, Ex p. HIGGINS (1858), 3 De G. & J. 33 ; 27 L. J. Bcy. 27 ; 31 L. T. O. S. 47 ; 4 Jur. N. S. 595 ; 6 W. R. 406 ; 44 E. R. 1181, L. JJ.

3908. Loss from disclaimer of lease by trustee of bankrupt firm.]—A lease was granted to four partners, who jointly & severally covenanted to pay the rent. On the surviving three becoming bkpt. their trustee disclaimed the lease, & the lessor relet for the residue of the term at a lower rent :—Qu. : whether, at the end of the term, the lessor could prove against the joint estate of bkpts.—Re SHAND, Ex p. CORBETT (1880), 14 Ch. D. 122 ; 49 L. J. Bcy. 74 ; 42 L. T. 164 ; 28 W. R. 569, C. A.

3909. Debt due by old firm—New firm composed of old partners with addition of dormant partner.]—In July, 1820, W. advanced to A. & B., then carrying on business in partnership as brewers, the sum of £24,000, & all three executed a deed, by the express terms whereof a partnership stock was created, in which they had all a joint property, but W. was not to have any definite aliquot proportion of the profits, but was to have an account of the profits as between themselves, so as to get £2,000 to £2,400 a year, as the case might be, out of the clear profits. W.'s name never appeared to the world as a partner :—Held : W. was a partner, & the new firm having become bkpt. in 1826, the creditors of the old firm & the creditors of the new firm were both entitled to prove against the property of the new firm.—Re STARKEY & WHITESIDE, Ex p. CHUCK (1832), 8 Bing. 469 ; Mont. 364 ; 1 Moo. & S. 615 ; 1 L. J. Ch. 197 ; 131 E. R. 473, L. C.

Annotations :—Mentd. Reynolds v. Bowley (1866), 7 B. & S. 67.

3910. —— Not incurred after dissolution—One partner retiring with knowledge of creditors.]—C. & S. carried on business in partnership under the style of C. & Co. C. afterwards retired from the firm with the knowledge of the joint creditors ; the dissolution was advertised, & S. continued the business in his own name. He was afterwards adjudicated bkpt. :—Held : the petition of joint creditors to be at liberty to prove against the partnership property must be dismissed.—Re STEWART, Ex p. FISHER (1855), 2 Bankr. & Ins. R. 67.

3911. Debt incurred before partnership—Partnership adopted as debtor.]—Upon the formation of a partnership between W. & C., W. proposed to J. & Co., to whom he was indebted for previous advances, to "consider all credits, advices, & instructions then in force from him as extending to the new firm, & to transfer any balances, that may be either due to or from him, to the new firm." J. & Co. acceded to the proposal, & drew bills on W. & C., on account of former dealings with W. The bills were not paid when due, &

3911 i. Debt incurred before partnership—Partnership adopted as debtor.]—R., F. & R., partners dealing with F. S. & Co., took T. & S. into partnership. The partnership was constituted by deed, to continue for three years, & a balance-sheet showing the liabilities & assets of the existing firm was drawn up & admitted by all the partners. The new firm continued to trade, up to the period of its insolvency, upon the same footing & with the same books as the old firm, no distinction being made in their payments, or balances, or between the debts or assets of the new or what was the old firm. F. S. & Co. continued to deal with the new as they had done with the old firm. R., F. & R. having become insolvent, F. S. & Co., creditors to a large amount, proved against the estate of the new firm. R. & B., also creditors of the new firm, proved against their estate, & sought to expunge the proof of F. S. & Co., on the ground that their debt having accrued previous to the new partners being taken in, was due from the old, & not from the new firm :—Held : there was sufficient proof in the dealings & transactions of the several parties to show that the new firm on its formation adopted the liabilities of the old firm, & that F. S. & Co. had consented to accept the liability of the new firm, & to discharge the old firm, their original debtors.—ROLFE & BANK OF AUSTRALASIA v. FLOWER (1865), L. R. 1 P. C. 27 ; 35 L. J. P. C. 13 ; 14 L. T. 144 ; 14 W. R. 467 ; 12 Jur. N. S. 345, P. C.—AUS.

3911 ii. —— —— Special provisions in assignment for creditors.]—Two traders, E. & R., having become insolvent, an agreement was entered into between them & their creditors, whereby it was stipulated that R. should retire from the partnership & that E. & G. should form a new copartnership, & that the creditors of E. & R. should accept the notes of the new firm for 15*s.* in the pound of their claims. By the deed of composition it was expressly agreed that in the event of E. & G. becoming insolvent before the notes were paid, the original debts should revive against E., G., & R.,

Sect. 3.—Rights of joint creditors: Sub-sect. 3, A. & B. (a), (b) & (c).]

W. & C. became bkpt. :—Held: J. & Co., after the adoption of W. & C. as their joint debtors, could not prove against the separate estate of W., but only against the joint estate of W. & C.—Re WARWICK, Ex p. WHITMORE (1838), 3 Deac. 365, Ct. of R.

3912. Partner common to creditor & debtor firms—Each firm carrying on distinct trade.]—A. & B. were partners as grocers, & B. & C. as ironmongers. A. & B. made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors, & B. & C. became bkpt. :—Held: the trustee for A. & B.'s creditors could prove in the bkpcy., B. & C. being partners in a distinct trade.—Re WILKS, Ex p. THOMPSON (1834), 3 Deac. & Ch. 612; 1 Mont. & A. 324, Ct. of R.

3920. —— ——.]—Petitioners in Hilary Term obtained a verdict as joint creditors of G., W. & P. A separate commission of bkpcy. had previously issued against G.; in May a separate commission issued against W., & another in July against P., & they were all declared bkpts. The petition prayed liberty to prove under the separate commissions or any of them, & to vote in the choice of assignees under the commission against P., that distinct accounts might be kept of the joint & separate estates, etc., & that petitioners might be at liberty to assent to, or dissent from, the certificates. W. had obtained his certificates & the others were before the Lord Chancellor for allowance:—Held: petitioners, having a joint judgment, though a commission issued before any separate execution, still continued joint creditors, & as such were entitled to an account & application of the joint effects, but only under one of these commissions, & under all the three commissions any surplus would go to the joint creditors.—Ex p. WILSON (1811), 18 Ves. 439; 34 E. 3935. —— Continuing firm adopted as debtor—Evidence of adoption—Failure to claim.]—Where money has been lent originally to a partner in an old firm, & he dies, & the creditor, being also one of the exors. of his original debtor, makes no demand for many years upon the new firm to pay the sum to the original debtor's estate, he will not be allowed, after the bkpcy. of the new firm, to claim it as a debt due to him from his testator's assets.—CAMPBELL v. CAMPBELL (1825), 3 L. J. O. S. Ch. 129.

3936. —— —— —— —— Receipt of interest from firm.]—A firm of bankers, consisting of two partners, A. & B., received money on deposit at interest, for which they gave deposit notes in the usual form to the depositors, who, when the amount on deposit was increased or diminished, gave up their old notes & received fresh ones for the new amount. X. & Y. were admitted into the partnership, & notice of the change in the firm was given to the depositors. A fortnight afterwards A. died, & the business was carried on under the same firm by B., X. & Y. B. then died & the business was carried on by X. & Y. still under the same firm, until they went into liquidation. All the depositors knew of A.'s death, & none of them made any claim against his estate. Some of them had not altered the amount of their deposit, but retained the notes they had received in his lifetime, but they had received interest from X. & Y. Others had increased, & others had diminished, the amount of their deposit, after A.'s death, receiving in each case fresh deposit notes, & they had all proved in the bkpcy. of X. & Y. for the amount due on their notes as money "advanced & lent" to bkpts.:—Held: in each case there had been a complete novation, & none of the depositors were entitled to prove against the estate of A.—BILBOROUGH v. HOLMES (1876), 5 Ch. 3938. Estate of retired partner—For bills indorsed between transfer of shares & making of return—Country Bankers Act, 1826 (c. 46).]—A. appeared, by the return under the above Act, to be a shareholder up to Nov., 1838. He then agreed to assign his shares to B., who was appointed by the co. a director in respect of those shares. In Feb., 1839, the co. indorsed bills to petitioners. No new return was made, & not till Mar. was the deed of transfer executed between A. & B.:—Held: A. continued a partner to the world until Mar., & was liable to payment of the bills, & proof against A.'s estate should be admitted.—Re PHILLIPS, Ex p. PRESCOTT (1839), 4 Deac. 253; Mont. & Ch. 611, Ct. of R.

3939. Estate of original sole partner—Admission of partner advertised by circular—Admission on salary only.]—A wine merchant carrying on business under the firm of J. R. & Co. announced by a circular that he had taken his nephew into partnership. The business was thenceforth carried on under the style of J. R. Sen. & Co. but, as between uncle & nephew, the latter received a salary only & did not participate in the capital, profits or losses of the concern. On both becoming bkpt.:—Held: a creditor who supplied goods to the firm might prove against the separate estate of the uncle.—Re REAY, Ex p. ARBOUIN & ALLNUTT, Re REAY, Ex p. GONNE (1846), De G. 359, Ct. of R.

3941. —— For joint & several notes given by firm & surety—For bills indorsed by partner in name of firm after death of copartner.]—A. & B., partners, & C., as their surety, gave a joint & several promissory note to D., by which they "jointly & severally promised to pay" to D. the amount of a partnership debt, due from A. & B. The note was signed by A. & B., not as individuals, but in their partnership firm, & by C., the surety:—Held: the note could not be treated as the several note of each one of the three, but as the several note only of the surety, & the joint note of A. & B., &, on the bkpcy. of A., who had survived his partner B., the holder of the note could only rank as a creditor against the joint estate.

A. survived B. his partner, & continued the business in the same firm of A. & B. At the time of B.'s death, a large balance was owing by them to their bankers, to whom A., some time after B.'s death, indorsed several bills in the partnership firm of A. & B.:—Held: it could not be inferred from that circumstance alone, that the bills were so indorsed upon a partnership transaction of A. & B., & the bankers might prove the amount of the bills against the separate estate of A.—Re MANLEY, Ex p. WILSON (1842), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 57.

Annotation:—Expld. Re Carwood, Ex p. Bingley (1848), De G. 635.

3942. Estate of continuing partner—Continuing partner not accepted as sole debtor.]—By deed the stock & effects of a partnership were assigned to the continuing partner, who covenanted to pay the joint debts. The partners became bkpts.:—Held: the joint creditors not having, previous to the bkpcy., accepted the continuing partner as their sole debtor, had not an election to prove against the separate estate of the continuing partner.—Re HENDERSON & MORLEY, Ex p. FREEMAN (1819), Buck, 471.

3943. —— —— Whether acceptance by agent after lunacy of principal sufficient.]—A., a creditor of B. & C., gave D. a general power of attorney for the management of his affairs, dated July 4, 1834, under which D. consented to an arrangement between B. & C., on the dissolution of their partnership, that C. should become solely responsible for A.'s debt. That being still unpaid, C. became bkpt., B. remaining solvent, & D. proved the debt against the separate estate of C. After the fiat A. was found to have been lunatic since July 1, 1834. On petition to expunge, on the ground that D.'s adoption of C. as sole debtor was under a void power, & without authority, & that B. remained solvent, & liable:—Held: the proof was properly made.—Re WALDEN, Ex p. BRADBURY (1839), Mont. & Ch. 625; 4 Deac. 202; 9 L. 3944. —— —— Sufficiency of evidence of acceptance.]—A. & B. being jointly indebted to C., B. became bkpt., but the joint effects, not being more than equal to the payment of the partnership debts, were left in the possession of A., who afterwards made an arrangement with C. for the payment of his debts by instalments, &, as a further security, handed over the deeds of certain leasehold pro-

3942 i. Estate of continuing partner—Fraudulent assignment of partnership property—Discretion of court.]—A partnership existing between two persons was, within three months of the issue of a writ of attachment in insolvency, dissolved, & one of the partners transferred his interest in the partnership property to the other, but at the time of such transfer the firm, as well as the partner individually, were to their knowledge insolvent. Afterwards the remaining partner & the firm were placed in insolvency by compulsory liquidation; a different assignee appointed for each, & an order was made transferring the effects of the partnership from the separate assignee to the assignee of the firm on the ground of fraud:—Held: even if the partnership creditors could prove against the effects in the hands of the separate assignee, so that all that was required was a direction to that effect, as the making of the order was purely a matter of discretion, the ct. would not interfere.—Re CATON & COLE (1876), 26 C. At the time of the dissolution A. & B. owed a joint debt of £1,270 to C., who continued to deal with B. without any rest in the account until B.'s bkpcy., when the debt had increased:—Held: the £1,270 could not be proved under the fiat against B., there being no satisfactory evidence that C. had accepted B. as his separate debtor.—Re LIVERSIDGE, Ex p. APPLEBY (1837), 2 Deac. 482, Ct. of R.

3946. Joint estate of continuing partners—Two partners & another forming debtor firm.]—One of three partners assigned his interest in the partnership property to the two continuing partners, who covenanted to pay the debts of the three, & afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: joint creditors of the three were not entitled to prove against the estate of the two.—Re ASPINALL, Ex p. FRY (1821), 1 Gl. & J. 96.

The business of B. & Co. was carried on in the same buildings as that of A. & B., & the rent debited to "A. & B." The bookkeeper kept separate books for each business. "B. & Co." drew certain promissory notes against consignments, the profits arising from which would have been paid into the coffers of the firm "A. & B." & all loss would have been borne by it, had not the firm "A. & B." surrendered. The firm of "B. & Co." was not surrendered or sequestrated:—Held: the two firms constituted one partnership, & the holders of the promissory notes drawn by "B. & Co." could prove them upon the insolvent estate of "A. & B."—BATE v. HUNT (1883), 2 S. (d) In respect of what Debts.

3956. Debt for goods sold—Joint note given for same.]—If a joint note of A. & B. is given for goods sold to A. only, & a receipt given as for money paid, & a joint commission issues against A. & B., the seller may still prove his debt for goods sold against the separate estate of A.—Ex p. SEDDON (1788), 2 Cox, Eq. Cas. 49; 30 E. R. 23.

3957. Debt due by partner carrying on separate business—Partnership bill not signed by partner individually taken for larger sum—Under obligation to repay excess.]—T. was in partnership with M. & F. He also carried on a separate trade, & being indebted in £100 on his separate account to K., he sent him a bill of exchange that wanted two months of becoming due for £300, indorsed by T., M., & F., but not by T. in his individual character, & requested K. to give him credit for £100, & to send him a bill for the remainder of the £300. K. gave him credit for £100, & sent him a banker's cheque for £200, which was duly paid. The bill for £300 was dishonoured, & T., M. & F. became bkpts.:—Held: K. was not entitled to prove for any part of the £300 against the separate estate of T.—Re MOORE, TENNANT & FOSTER, Ex p. KIRBY, Ex p. TODD (1819), Buck, 511.

3959. Bill signed by continuing partners in old firm's name—Without consent of retiring partner.]—A partnership of A., B. & C. was dissolved, A. & B. agreeing to pay all partnership debts. D., a creditor of the old firm ignorant of the terms of dissolution, applied for payment. A. & B. by letter asked for time, & ultimately D. drew a bill on A., B. & C. which A. & B. accepted in the name of A., B. & C. but without C.'s authority. A. & B. also by letter signed by them alone promised payment of the bill. A., B. & C. became bkpt.:—Held: D. might recover the amount of the bill against A. & B.'s estate.—Re COWARD, Ex p. LIDDIARD (1835), 4 Deac. & Ch. 603; 2 Mont. & A. 87; 4 L. J. 3960. Note signed by one partner for himself & copartners.]—M., who carried on business in partnership with C., P. & S. as bankers, signed one of the notes of the bank as follows: "I promise to pay, etc., for C., M., P. & S., M." On the firm becoming bkpt.:—Held: the holders could not prove on such note against the separate estate of M.—Re CLARKE, Ex p. BUCKLEY (1845), 14 M. & W. 469; De G. 153; 14 L. J. 3961. Failure to deliver partnership property—Sold by partner on behalf of firm.]—L., one of three partners, contracted to sell to D. one hundred shares in a joint stock bank, which were standing in the name of J., one of L.'s partners, but which were, in fact, the property of the firm, & agreed in consideration of D. accepting a bill for the amount of the purchase-money, drawn in the name of the firm, to cause the shares to be duly transferred to D. The bill was negotiated by L. & Co., who became bkpt. before application could be made to the bank to transfer the shares to D., when the bank refused to make the transfer claiming a lien on the shares for their own advances:—Held: D. could not prove against the separate estate of L. for money had & received, but only against the joint estate of L. & Co.—Re ROSTRON, Ex p. RALEIGH (1838), 3 Deac. 160; 8 L. were adjudicated insolvents, both in respect of their separate estates & their joint estate, upon their own application, & each entered the debt (which was unconnected with their partnership business) to resp. under the bond in the schedule of his separate estate. Resp. was subsequently admitted to prove the same against the joint estate:—Held: under the bkpcy. law of England as it existed in 1841, which had been introduced into the colony concurrently with Insolvent Act, resp. was properly admitted to prove against the joint estate pari passu with the partnership creditors.

No distinction can be drawn between joint debts so as to exclude from proof against the joint estate any joint debt which is not shown to have been incurred in the strict sense of the term as a partnership transaction, & as arising out of partnership business, either under the said bkpcy. law or under Insolvent Act, ss. 4, 17.—HOARE v. ORIENTAL BANK CORPN. 3956 i. Debt for goods sold—Joint note given for same—By partner & partnership firm.]—A member of a partnership joined with the partnership in making a promissory note for the price of goods supplied to the firm:—Held: the seller was entitled to rank upon the insolvent estate of the partner for the amount of the unpaid note, ratably with the individual creditors of the partner.—GORDON v. MATTHEWS (1909), 14 O. 3962. Joint & several bond by partners & surety—Surety's liability limited to amount due at date of bond.]—A., B. & C., partners in trade, together with D. as their surety, entered into a joint & several bond to their bankers, preparatory to the latter making further advances to the partnership firm. The bond was conditioned for the payment of £10,000 on demand, with interest from its date. At the date of the bond, there was a balance of £2,375 due to the bankers, which was discharged by subsequent payments, but, at the time of the bkpcy. of A., B. & C., a much larger balance was due from them to the bankers, than the sum secured by the bond. D., the surety, died, & in a creditor's suit brought by the bankers against his representatives, to which suit the assignees of A., B. & C. were also parties, it was found, that bkpts. intended that the bond should be held by the bankers, as a security for any general balance that should become due to them, but that the surety intended the bond to be a security only for the particular balance due to them at the date of the bond:—Held: the bond was, in the circumstances, provable by the bankers against the separate estate of A., for the whole amount of the principal & interest secured by it.—Re FIDGEON, Ex p. FIDGEON (1840), 4 Deac. 217, L. C.

3963. Joint & several covenant by two with surety—Joint judgment entered on warrant of attorney given by all—Debt not merged in judgment.]—A. & B., with C. as surety, jointly & severally granted an annuity, & covenanted that they, or one of them, would pay it. A warrant of attorney was given by the three as collateral security, & it was agreed that the judgment to be entered up should be considered as a further security. Judgment was signed jointly against the three. A. & B., who received consideration money for the annuity, became bkpt.:—Held: the grantee could prove against A. & B.

The merger of a debt in a higher security may be prevented by the act & intention of the parties, & a judgment does not necessarily extinguish a prior debt; & it seems repugnant to reason that a future annuity debt should be merged in a bygone judgment (SIR J. CROSS).—Re KEASLEY, Ex p. PENNELL (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 273; 5 Jur. 899; sub nom. Re KEARSLEY, Ex p. PENNELL, 10 L. J. Bcy. 77, Ct. of R.

3964. Joint & several covenant to pay on demand made in particular way—No such demand made before bankruptcy.] — Where parties jointly indebted enter into a covenant, by which they promise on demand, jointly & severally, to pay, but expressly stipulate that the demand shall be in writing, & sent by post to a particular place, & no demand is made previously to the bkpcy., the debt is not provable against the separate estate of the respective parties.—Re RODHAM, Ex p. FLINTOFF (1844), 3 Mont. 3965. Guarantee signed by partners but not in firm name.]—A. & B., partners, trading as C. & Co., signed a guarantee in their private names only. B. became bkpt.:—Held: there was a joint contract which created a joint debt, & proof must be made against the joint estate, if any; in the present case, however, there being no joint assets, proof had been properly received against the separate estate.—Re HAYWARD, Ex p. BURDEKIN (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 704; 6 Jur. 977, Ct. of R.

3966. Guarantee signed by firm & also by individual partners.]—A firm of S. & Co. consisted of three partners, F., R. & N., & carried on business in London. Another firm of N. & Co. consisted of five partners, F., R., N., H. & M., & carried on business in India. In Sept., 1872, N. & Co. applied by letter to a bank for a credit, agreeing to deliver to the bank as security "the personal obligation of this firm & individual partners, & a guarantee by S. & Co." The bank granted the credit, & under it N. & Co. received large advances. In Feb., 1874, a letter was addressed to the bank, signed by S. & Co. & also by F., R. & N., saying, "We hereby guarantee you payment of all sums which are or may at any time become due to you by N. & Co. under the credit applied for in Sept., 1872, & granted by you." That letter & the signature of S. & Co. to it were written by F., & he had negotiated the original transaction with the bank. S. & Co. filed a liquidation petition, & N. & Co. stopped payment, a large sum being due to the bank under the credit:—Held: the letter of Feb., 1874, pledged to the bank the joint liability of the firm of S. & Co., & also the separate liability of each of the three partners who signed it, & the bank were entitled to prove against the separate estate of F. for the amount due to them by N. & Co. under the credit.—Re SMITH, FLEMING & Co., Ex p. HARDING (1879), 12 Ch. 3967. Debt sworn to as joint debt in affidavit to petition for joint adjudication.]—A creditor, who has made an affidavit of debt as due from two bkpts. jointly in support of the petition for adjudication against the firm, is entitled to prove against the separate estate of one of bkpts. in respect of the same debt.—Re WIFFIN & KING, Ex p. CRIPPS (1858), 30 L. 3968. Loss from disclaimer of lease by trustee of bankrupt firm.]—When the trustee in bkpcy. of partners disclaims a lease of premises used by the partners for partnership purposes, but which was granted to the partners as joint tenants, they entering into a joint & several covenant to pay the rent, 1869 Act, s. 23, gives the lessor a right to prove against the separate estate of each partner for the injury caused to him by the disclaimer.—Re SHAND, Ex p. CORBETT (1880), 14 Ch. transactions took place in England between A. & Co. & D. & Co., & on the bkpcy. of both firms a large balance was due to A. & Co. from D. & Co. C. was in fact the agent of A., who was the secret & sole principal of D., but that was unknown to B. & D. until after the bkpcy., & D. had held himself out to A. & Co. & others as a principal. The trustee of A. & Co. tendered a proof against the estate of D. for the balance due from D. & Co. to A. & Co.:—Held: the proof could not be sustained, for, in the circumstances, there was no contract between D. & A. that D. should pay for the goods that had been supplied.—Re WAKEHAM, Ex p. GLIDDON (1884), 13 Q. 3970. Money deposited by treasurer in bank in which he was partner.]—The comrs. under a lighting Act being authorised to appoint a treasurer by writing under their hands & seals, instead of appointing one in the form prescribed by the Act, merely nominated F. as treasurer, who was a partner in a banking-house. F. did not receive or pay any money, as treasurer, but the collector received all the money, & paid the amount into the banking-house by authority of the comrs., who, nevertheless, when making disbursements, drew cheques upon F. individually, as treasurer, which cheques, however, were not presented to or paid by him, but by the banking-house. The account in the pass-book was kept between the banking firm & the comrs., & the account was from time to time signed & allowed by the comrs. The bankers became bkpt., having a large sum in their hands belonging to the comrs.:—Held: the comrs. could not prove for the amount against the separate estate of F., but could only come in as creditors against the joint estate of the firm.—Re FORSTER, Ex p. DOBINSON (1837), 2 Deac. 341, Ct. of R.

3971. Loss from breach of trust—Proof limited to amount actually received by bankrupt trustee.]—By an antenuptial settlement the intended wife assigned a debt due to her from A., & another debt due to her from B., to A. & B. upon trust to invest same & stand possessed thereof upon the trusts of the settlement. Neither of the debts was invested, but B. never had any control over the sum due from A., which never came into his hands. A. & B. continued to pay interest on their respective debts to the cestuis que trust. B. became bkpt. & A. insolvent:—Held: proof could only be made by the cestuis que trust for the amount of the debt due from B.—Re TURNER, Ex p. WOODWARD (1837), 2 Deac. 401; 3 Mont. & A. 232; 6 L. 3972. —— Trustees paying fund into bank in which one trustee was partner.]—A marriage settlement recited that it had been agreed that a debt should be assigned to the trustees, upon trust, after calling it in, to invest the money upon such security as should be approved of by the husband & his father, either on govt., real, or personal security, &, by the witnessing part, the debt was assigned upon trust, on calling in & investing same on govt., real, or personal security, or in the purchase of lands, at the sole order, & by the sole direction, consent, & approbation of the husband & his father, or the survivor, to stand possessed thereof on the trusts therein mentioned. Then followed the trusts, & a power, in the usual form, for the trustees, with the consent of the husband & his father, or the survivor, in writing, to invest the trust money in the funds, or on real security, or in the purchase of freehold or leasehold estates:—Held: a loan of the trust fund to a bank, in which one of the trustees was a partner, on an interest note, without a written consent, was a breach of trust, constituting a provable debt against the separate estate of the trustee.—Re WISE, Ex p. HAKEWILL (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 607; 6 Jur. 787, Ct. of R.

3973. —— ——.]—Trust funds were paid into a bank, in which one of the trustees was a partner. The banking firm became bkpt.:—Held: the administrator of the cestui que trust, who was also a co-trustee of bkpt., could prove against his separate estate, without prejudice to the right of contribution of the trustee in bkpcy. against bkpt.'s co-trustees.—Re RIDGWAY, Ex p. MEIN (1886), 2 T. L. R. 780; 3 Morr. 212.

3974. —— Trustee lending money to firm in which he was partner—Proof against all partners.]—Testatrix bequeathed money to trustees, with power to lend it to H. & Co., "or by whatever other firm name same might be called." H. & Co. then consisted of the two trustees & two other partners. One of the trustees died, & successive changes took place in the firm, which ultimately consisted of the surviving trustee & a new partner, who had notice of the trust. On every change in the firm, a fresh promissory note was given by the firm to the surviving trustee, but no security was given or required. On the bkpcy. of the surviving trustee & his partner:—Held: not only the surviving trustee but also his bkpt. partner had been guilty of a breach of trust, & the amount of the trust fund was not only the joint debt of bkpts., but also the separate debt of each, & the beneficiaries had a right of proof against each separate estate.—Re HARFORD, Ex p. POULSON (1844), De G. 79; 9 Jur. 262, Ct. of R.

3975. —— Bankers investing funds ultra vires—Not constituting themselves trustees.]—Exors. had a balance in that character with bankers, who, with the exors.' consent, invested part of it on securities not of a proper description for an investment by exors. The bankers made no inquiry as to the power of the exors. to make the investment, but if they had made the inquiry, k. For debt of one—Judgment recovered against debtor—Assignment for creditors during partnership—No proof against separate estate.]—S. & M. were partners; S. became indebted to pltf., & S. & M. gave him their joint & several notes, on which judgment had been recovered against S. S. also carried on business alone. S. assigned his property to deft. G., during the continuance of his partnership with M. G. had not sufficient assets in hand to pay S.'s separate creditors in full; the partnership estate was not sufficient to pay its creditors in full. Pltfs. claimed to rank as creditors on S.'s estate in the hands of G.:—Held: pltfs. were not entitled to rank against the separate estate of S. under Assignments Act, s. 7.—FROST & WOOD CO. v. STODDART (1908), 12 O. l. Indorsement of partner—On promissory notes drawn by partnership.]—Deft. & his co-partner became insolvent, & pltfs. filed a claim against the partnership estate for the notes declared on, made by the partnership & indorsed by deft., without disclosing the security of deft. as indorser, or that they had attempted to rank on the individual estate. Deft. obtained the required number of signatures to a deed of composition & discharge, & very shortly before he applied for its confirmation, pltfs. attempted to amend their affidavit of claim against the partnership so as to disclose the security, but the affidavit was not resworn. At the same time a claim was filed against the individual estate. Deft., by his deed, covenanted in consideration of the discharge to pay a composition & give to each of the creditors his promissory notes secured by names approved of by the inspectors, but did not include pltfs.' claim in his schedule, or make or deliver any notes to them:—Held: the claim was a claim "provable" against deft.'s individual estate.—PICTOU BANK v. FRASER (1881), 2 R. & G. 116; 1 C. all the information which they would probably have been able to obtain, would have shown that the exors. were residuary legatees, & that the balance was a part of the clear residue. The fact, however, was that the investment was a breach of trust, there being a codicil which the exors. had kept back, but afterwards proved, constituting them trustees only. On the bankers becoming bkpt. :—Held : they had not so participated in the breach of trust as to entitle the cestuis que trust to prove against their separate estates.—Re BIDDULPH, Ex p. BARNEWALL, DE FRONT'S (COUNTESS) EXECUTORS' CASE (1855), 6 De G. 3976. —— Trustee failing to pay out money deposited ultra vires with bank in which he was partner—Whether proof against separate estates of copartners.]—Trustees of a settlement only authorising investments in govt. or real securities, advanced part of the trust-money to a banking firm, in which one of the trustees was a partner, on the security of a mtge. of bonds in which some of the bankers were obligees. Afterwards another partner in the bank was appointed a new trustee of the settlement. The trust-money was not called in. On the bankers becoming bkpt. :—Held : there was a breach of trust on the part of the new trustee, constituting a provable debt against his separate estate.

Other part of the trust-money was paid with other money indiscrimately into the bank of the firm, to the private account of one of the partners, & an amount equal to the interest on that trust-money was credited regularly by his direction to one of the persons interested under the settlement, but no other circumstance was in evidence to affect the other partners with notice that the money thus paid in was subject to the trusts :—Held : the payment of interest was not sufficient for that purpose, & the money paid in did not constitute a provable debt, against the separate estates of the other partners.—Re STRAHAN, Ex p. GEAVES (1856), 8 De G. 3977. —— Trustee carrying on testator's business ultra vires.]—Testator bequeathed certain sums to each of his children, & directed the trustees of his will to continue his business, & with the consent of his children to employ in the business any part of the general estate, paying interest for it. A bill in equity having been filed against the trustees by parties interested under the will, an arrangement was entered into, by which the sums to be paid to testator's children under the will were fixed at a certain amount, & the times of payment fixed, the trustees undertaking to secure payment by mtges. of testator's estate, & to make such assurances as the ct. should think necessary or proper. That arrangement was sanctioned by the ct., & applts., who were children of testator, assented to it. The mtges. were not executed, nor was the money due to applts. paid. One of the trustees became possessed of the whole property, & carried on the business alone, & afterwards filed a petition for liquidation. An order was made in the Ch. suit, declaring that applts. were entitled to a lien on the property for the money due to them. Applts. claimed to prove against the separate estate of the liquidating debtor :—Held : until the arrangement was carried out the trustees of the will remained trustees for applts. in respect of the money due to them, & were severally as well as jointly liable, & were also severally liable because they had agreed to give mtges., which, if properly drawn, would contain several covenants to pay, & applts. were entitled to prove against debtor's separate estate.—Re INGHAM, Ex p. CRAVEN, Ex p. KING (1885), 52 L. 3978. Misappropriation by partner—Without knowledge of copartners—Whether proof against separate estates of continuing partners after his retirement.]—Money was deposited with a member of a firm of solrs. to invest upon mtge. Without the cognisance of his copartners, he purported to invest the money upon the security of a sum of consols, which he knew at the time had ceased to exist :—Held : the money was not a debt provable as against the separate estates of the continuing partners upon their bkpcy. subsequent to his retirement.—Re PARTRIDGE & EDWARDS, Ex p. BELLAMY (1862), 6 L. T. 696.

3979. Misappropriation by firm—Effect of proof against joint estate on joint judgment.]—Bkpt.'s firm were employed by exors. to sell trust property, & retained part of the proceeds, & the exors. proved on a judgment against the joint estate. Subsequently one of the firm became entitled to a legacy :—Held : where a judgment had been recovered against a firm jointly, & the firm became bkpt., if the partners were also severally liable in respect of the same matter by reason of its arising out of a breach of trust, the several liability of the partners was not, by reason of the creditor having obtained a joint judgment, merged in such judgment, so as to preclude proof by the judgment creditor against their separate estates.—Re DAVISON, Ex p. CHANDLER (1884), 13 Q. 3981. ——.]—A joint creditor, where there is no joint estate & no solvent partner, can prove pari passu with the separate creditors against the separate estates.

1883 Act, s. 40, is in substance the same as Lord Loughborough's Order of 1794, & is to be construed in the same way, & is subject to the same exceptions.—Re BUDGETT, COOPER v. ADAMS, [1894] 2 Ch. 557 ; 63 L. J. Ch. 847 ; 71 L. T. 72 ; 42 W. R. 551 ; 38 Sol. Jo. 530 ; 1 Mans. 230 ; 8 R. 424.

3982. Application of rule—Only where partnership.]—The rule, that proof cannot be made on a joint note, if there be a solvent partner, until proceedings have been taken against such solvent partner, does not apply to a case where the joint makers are not actual partners.—Re COOPER, Ex p. CROSFIELD (1836), 2 Mont. & A. 543 ; 1 Deac. 405 ; 6 L. 3983. —— ——.]—The rule that a joint debt cannot be proved against the separate estate of one debtor, while his co-debtor remains solvent, applies only to cases where a partnership exists between debtors.—Re BENDELL, Ex p. BUCKINGHAM (1840), 1 Mont. 3984. —— To joint contractors.]—A. & B. jointly purchased a quantity of rum, which they pledged with petitioners, who lent their money on it. They had no other dealings together as partners. The rum pledged was sold, & did not produce the amount of the money lent. Petitioners brought a joint action, in which B. let judgment go by default, but a verdict was recovered against A. for £2,287 6*s.* 2*d.*, the amount of the money due after deducting the produce of the rum. A. & B. both became bkpts. under separate commissions. The comrs. under A.'s commission considered the debt as a joint debt, & refused to admit the proof of it except for the purpose of assenting to, or dissenting from the certificate. On a petition that the comrs. might receive the proof of the amount of the debt & costs, when taxed:—Held: the costs could not be proved.

When there are no joint effects, that takes the case out of Ex p. Elton (1796), 3 Ves. Jun. 238. Joint effects means such as are under the administration of assignees to distribute, not as in this case, where the only joint effects were those pledged to petitioners, to more than the amount (LORD ELDON, C.).—Ex p. HILL (1802), 2 Bos. & P. 3987. Partner solvent but abroad & unlikely to return.]—Petition to be at liberty to prove under a separate commission upon a bill of exchange, drawn by two persons, one of whom was solvent, but abroad & not likely to return, & the other was bkpt. They were connected only in the particular transaction. There was no joint property:—Held: petitioner should be admitted to prove his debt.

It seems very singular, that the nature of the debt should turn upon the fact whether there is joint property, or not (LORD ELDON, C.).—Ex p. PINKERTON (1801), 6 Ves. 814, n.; 32 E. R. 1322.

3988. Deceased partner's estate solvent.]—A joint creditor can prove against the separate estate, when there is no solvent partner, notwithstanding that the estate of a deceased partner may be solvent, the distinction between a solvent partner & the estate of a deceased partner being, that judgment can be obtained against a solvent partner, & execution issued, but in the case of a deceased partner the right of action is only against the surviving partners.—Re LOMAX, Ex p. BAUERMAN (1838), 3 Deac. 476; Mont. & Ch. 569, Ct. of R.

3989. Partner insolvent but no commission issued.]—A commission had issued against one of two partners. The other partner was insolvent, but no commission had issued against him:—Held: the joint creditors could not come in competition with the separate creditors & receive a dividend out of the separate estate of bkpt., because it did not follow that a diligent creditor might not get the whole of his debt paid.—Re CORF, Ex p. JANSON (1818), 3 Madd. 229; Buck, 227; 56 E. 3990. Insolvency must be proved.] — Three out of five partners were bkpt. One was abroad, the fifth had applied to take the benefit of Insolvent Act, & had stated in his schedule that he had no assets, but on receiving notice from a creditor that his discharge would be opposed, he had paid that creditor's debt. On an application by a joint creditor to prove a debt against the separate estate of one of bkpt. partners, on the ground that there was no joint estate or solvent partner:—Held: one of the partners having paid the debt of a creditor, there was no proof that he was insolvent. —Re DESORMAUX, Ex p. MORRIS (1831), Mont. 218.

3991. —— Oath of creditor insufficient.]—If testator be indebted on a bond, &, his exors. being sued thereon, a joint judgment is taken out against them, & then one of them becomes bkpt., the creditor cannot prove under the separate commission, though he swears that the other exors. are insolvent.—Re FOXWELL, Ex p. PEARSE (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 451; 1 L. J. Bcy. 109, Ct. of R.

3992. —— Admission by official receiver sufficient.]—One of two partners became bkpt. There was no joint estate, but the other partner had not become bkpt. or been judicially declared insolvent. Proof of a joint debt was allowed against the separate estate of bkpt., on the admission of the official receiver, as trustee of bkpt., that the other partner was insolvent.—Re CARPENTER, Ex p. BESLEY & WILSON (1890), 7 Morr. 270.

3994. Joint estate of trifling value—Criterion of value.]—On an application by joint creditors to prove against the separate estate, there was uncontradicted evidence on affidavit that the joint effects were worth £1 11*s.* 6*d.* :—Held : although it was the established practice not to permit joint creditors to prove against the separate estate, if in fact there was any joint property, however trifling, yet, if the property was of such a nature, or in such a situation that an attempt to bring it within the reach of the joint creditors must be deemed desperate, or in point of expense unwarrantable, that would authorise a departure from the rule, for in truth there would be no joint property.—Re WARBURTON, Ex p. PEAKE (1814), 2 Rose, 54, L. C.

3995. —— Whether rule adhered to.]—A petition to receive dividends equally with the separate creditors was presented on behalf of the joint creditors of certain bkpts., whose copartnership had long since ceased & been wound up, the joint estate having been of trifling value. Petitioners had proved debts under the commission incurred by bkpts. while in copartnership :—Held : petitioners were not entitled to prove as against the separate estates.—Re BRIDGE (1808), 2 De G. M. & G. 233 ; 42 E. R. 860.

See 1914 Act, s. 33.

3996. —— ——.]—Where there was a debt of £1 14*s.* 6*d.* due to a firm before its dissolution :—Held : in the circumstances of the case, there was not joint property for the purpose of preventing a joint creditor from receiving dividends out of the separate estate.—Re KRAUSS, Ex p. BIRLEY (1841), 2 Mont. 3998. Joint estate sold by pledgee—No other joint property.]—A creditor having joint property of bkpts. in pledge, & selling same, after the bkpcy., may notwithstanding prove the remainder of his debt, under the separate estates of bkpts., if there is no other joint property.—Re SILL, Ex p. GELLER (1817), 2 Madd. 262 ; 56 E. 3999. Property remaining in partnership name—Sold to continuing partner under agreement for dissolution.]—On a dissolution of partnership, the retiring partner sold the concern, with the partnership property, to the other, but some of the partnership property remained in the partnership names, & in the order & disposition of both. They afterwards became bkpts., & separate commissions issued against them. There being property outstanding in the partnership names :—Held : the joint creditors could not prove under the separate commission against the retiring partner.—Re CHRISTOPHER, Ex p. HARRIS (1816), 1 Madd. 583 ; 56 E. R. 214.

4000. What evidence sufficient of existence of joint estate.]—The only evidence of the existence of joint estate was a statement that, at the dissolution of a partnership of which bkpt. was a member, three years previously, there were outstanding debts said to amount to £200, of which £10 was said to be good, without specifying from whom :—Held : such evidence was too loose for the ct. to act on.—Re HAYWARD, Ex p. BURDEKIN (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 704 ; 6 Jur. 977, Ct. of R.

4003. —— —— Also trustee for another joint creditor.]—A joint creditor, taking out a separate commission of bkpcy., may prove, & receive dividends with the separate creditors, though, as to part, a trustee for another creditor, who, upon the general rule, could have proved only to affect the certificate, & not to receive dividends.—Re CORSON, Ex p. DE TASTET (1810), 1 Rose, 10 ; 17 Ves. 247 ; 34 E. 4004. —— —— Also separate creditor.]—The rule that a joint creditor suing out a separate fiat should receive dividends on his joint debt out of the separate estate pari passu with the separate creditors applies where, besides the joint debt, there is a separate debt due to the joint creditor from bkpt. sufficient to support a fiat.—Re BLAKE, Ex p. BURNETT (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 357 ; 11 L. J. Ch. 180 ; 6 Jur. 331, L. C.

4005. —— Commission taken out against bankrupt "as surviving partner."]—Where a joint creditor sues out a commission against A. "as surviving partner of B.," he can claim only against the joint estate.—Re TARLTON, Ex p. BARNED (1823), 1 Gl. & J. 309.

C. Procedure and Order.

4006. Service of petition for leave to prove against surplus of separate estate.]—A petition by joint creditors to be allowed to prove on the surplus of the separate estate should be served on bkpt.'s exor.—Re WEBSTER, Ex p. WOOD (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 283, 5 Jur. 115, Ct. of R.

4007. Inquiry ordered by court—As to existence of joint property.]—An inquiry was ordered as to whether there was any joint property, so as to import the rule that a joint creditor cannot prove against the separate estate, if there is joint estate or a solvent partner.—Re WARBURTON, Ex p. PEAKE (1814), 2 Rose, 54, L. Sect. 3.—Rights of joint creditors: Sub-sect. 3, C. Sect. 4: sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

4009. Effect of order allowing proof where joint estate exists—Dividends to be refunded—All joint creditors proving exclusively against separate estate.]—D. & his partner at their bkpcy. were the owners of a ship, not as a chattel of the partnership, but in common. An order had been made for the creditors to prove against the separate estate of D., on the ground that there was no joint property. They received a dividend. The ship was afterwards sold, & a separate creditor of D. claimed to have repaid to D.'s separate estate out of the proceeds, so much as had been paid beyond its liability as proportioned to the estates of the partners. All the joint creditors had proved exclusively against the separate estate of D. :—Held: the creditor was entitled to the order claimed.—Re DAWES, Ex p. WILLOCK (1816), 2 Rose, 392, L. C.

4010. —— Dividends allowed to be received.]—A. & B. dissolved partnership, when B. assigned all the joint property to A., among which were debts due to the firm, to the amount of £60, but no notice of the assignment was given to debtors. A. & B. severally became bkpt. :—Held: a joint creditor, who had proved under the separate fiat against A., was entitled to receive dividends on his proof.—Re MORGAN, Ex p. TAYLOR (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 753.

4011. Order as to costs—No joint effects or solvent partner.]—On a petition by joint creditors to prove against the separate estate, there being no joint effects or solvent partner, no order will be made as to costs.—Re AUBREY, Ex p. BRADSHAW (1821), 1 Gl. & J. 99.

4013. Commission in which proof tendered superseded.]—A joint & separate creditor, who sued out a separate commission & proved under it, was restored to his right of election to prove against the joint estate by the separate commission being superseded.—Re BROWN & SCOTT, Ex p. BROWN (1812), 1 Rose, 433, L. C.

4014. Dormant partner of debtor.]—If there is a dormant partner, the creditor is not obliged to have anything to do with him. In bkpcy. it is unquestionable, if I deal with A., he cannot with reference to that transaction say, there is a contract between him & B., of whom I know nothing, thus compelling me to be a joint creditor of those two, whose joint property may be scarcely anything, & not the sole creditor of the only man I knew. A man, purchasing from, or selling to A., not knowing of any partner, may consider A. as the sole vendor or vendee. He may, finding that B. has taken a share of the profits, elect to go against him also, but he cannot be compelled (LORD ELDON, C.).—Ex p. NORFOLK (1815), 19 Ves. 455; 34 E. R. 585, L. C.

4015. Separate debt—Parol agreement that it should be treated as firm debt.]—The two trustees under the marriage settlement of H., bkpt., advanced him on the security of his bond the amount of the trust fund, which was his wife's fortune, for the purpose of being employed in his business, & one of the trustees afterwards entered into a parol agreement with H. & his partner that the loan should be considered a debt due from the partnership :—Held: such subsequent agreement was in the nature of a collateral security, & the trustees could prove both against the joint estate & the separate estate of H., making their election afterwards from which estate they would receive dividends.—Re HOUGHTON & WATTS, Ex p. KEDIE & HOUGHTON (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 321; 1 L. 4016. Breach of trust—Administratrix carrying on testator's business in partnership.]—Proof in bkpcy., in respect of trust property of infants, continued by the administratrix in the trade in which testator was engaged, carried on by bkpts., constituting a new firm of which the administratrix was a member, & the infants may prove either against the separate estate of the administratrix, or the joint estate, as may be most advantageous for them.—Ex p. WATSON (1814), 2 Ves. & B. 414; 2 Rose, 259; 35 E. R. 378, L. C.

4017. —— Partners having constituted themselves trustees.]—By a marriage settlement a sum of money was to be received by the trustees, & invested in govt. or real securities, & the interest was to be paid to the wife for life for her separate use, without a power of anticipation, with remainder to the children. One of the trustees received the money, & advanced it to a partnership of merchants, without taking any security. He received the interest from the partnership, & paid it over to the wife regularly up to the time of his death; afterwards, the partnership paid the interest to the wife directly, & without the intervention of the surviving trustee. In the partnership books the accounts relating to the whole transaction were entered, as between the wife & the partnership only. Upon the partnership becoming bkpt. :—Held: the partners had constituted themselves directly trustees, & the proof on behalf of the trust estate might be made either against the joint estate, or the separate estates.—Re ACRAMAN, Ex p. WOODIN (1843), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 399, Ct. of R.

4018. Fraud by partner—Proceeds paid into partnership account.]—A. employed B. & C. as his stockbrokers, &, for the purpose of more convenient transfer, allowed certain stock, belonging to him, to stand in the name of B. alone. B., without the consent or knowledge of A., sold the stock, & paid the produce into the partnership funds of B. & C. B. & C. having afterwards become bkpts. :—Held: A. was entitled to prove against the separate estate of B., or against the joint estate, as he should think.—Re TALBOT & FRANCIS, Ex p. TURNER (1829), Mont. & M. 255.

4019. Fraud by partnership.]—Where a partnership debt has been incurred by means of a fraud on the part of the partners, the defrauded creditor has a right to prove at his election against either the joint estate of the firm or the separate estates of the partners, even though no judgment has been recovered by him against the partners.—Re COLLIE, Ex p. ADAMSON (1878), 8 Ch. 4031. Distinct estates to be wound up—Partner carrying on distinct business.]—A., a partner in a cotton factory with B. & C., who carried on a separate business as grocers, in which A. had no concern, drew a bill in favour of B. & C. upon D. in payment for groceries. The holder of the bill was allowed to prove against the joint estate of B. & C. & the separate estate of A.—Ex p. BENSON (1798), 1 Cooke's Bankrupt Laws, 8th ed., p. 278.

4032. —— ——.]—B. being indebted to W., obtained the promissory note payable to himself of P. & B., who were then traders in partnership, for the amount of the debt, & indorsed same to W. B. was at the time also a sole trader, & the note was given to W. in respect of a private debt. Upon the bkpcy. of P. & B. :—Held: W. had a right to prove against the estate of P. & B., & also against the separate estate of B.—Re PETO & BETTS, Ex p. WAGSTAFF (1868), 16 W. R. 915.

4033. —— Agent firm & purchasing firm both bankrupt—One partner common to both firms.]—The firm of J. F. & Sons, as agents of pltfs., supplied goods to the firm of S. & W., upon the footing of the latter becoming debtors to pltfs. They also supplied the same firm with other goods on their own behalf. They made no distinction in their accounts between the goods supplied by them as agents of pltfs., & those which they supplied on their own behalf. E. F. was a partner in both firms. Under a deed of inspection, by which it was agreed that the several estates of the two firms should be administered upon the principles & according to the rules & practice of the bkpcy. law, & as if acts of bkpcy. had been committed by the members of such firms respectively :—Held: pltfs. were entitled to prove for the debts of S. & W. both against that firm & against the firm of J. F. & Sons, & their right was not affected by the circumstance that E. F. had survived the last of his partners in the firm of S. & W. upwards of two months, at the time when the act of bkpcy. was taken to have been committed.—WICKHAM v. WICKHAM (1855), 2 K. & J. 478; 69 E. 4036. —— Creditor ignorant of exact relationship.]—C. & G., in partnership as turpentine manufacturers, applied to petitioner to discount a bill of exchange for them. The bill was signed by C. & G. & addressed to W. & G., soap manufacturers. C. & G. received the value in cash from petitioner, less the legal discount. C. & G. were interested in the business of soap manufacturers, but petitioner did not know of it, & considered the two businesses as distinct & that he had the security of both. A joint commission issued against both concerns :—Held: the comrs. should inquire as to the knowledge or otherwise of petitioner that the different parties were engaged in one undertaking &, if petitioner knew, there was to be liberty to apply to the ct. for further directions, but if not, he was to be allowed to prove against the respective joint estates.—Ex p. LA FOREST (1797), 1 Cooke's Bankrupt Laws, 8th ed., p. 276, L. —W. carried on business separately & as a member of the firm of W. & S. The joint & several notes of W. & S. & W. were given to secure debts due by the firm, & shortly afterwards both W. & S. & W. made assignments in insolvency :—Held: the holder of these notes was entitled to prove against the partnership estate for his claim, less the amount at which he valued the separate liability of W., & (the partnership not having assumed the liability) against W.'s estate for the full amount of the debt.—Re WILSON, CARTER v. WOODRUFF (1877), 3 A. 4040. ——— ——— ———.]—A. & B. were partners in Liverpool, & A., B. & C. were partners in Pernambuco. The two firms had dealings with each other. A., B. & C. drew a bill of exchange on A. & B., & sold it to persons at Pernambuco, who believed that the partnerships were distinct, but that A. & B. were partners in both. On arrival in Liverpool the bill was accepted by A. & B., but before the time for payment both firms became bkpt. Under the law of Brazil, the holders of the bill proved against the estate of A., B. & C. at Pernambuco, & received a dividend, & then claimed to prove under the English commission:—Held: they were not entitled to such double proof.—GOLDSMID v. CAZENOVE (1859), 7 H. n. Joint judgment creditors—Against executors—After assignment of estate for creditors.]—Exors., under a power in a will, continued testator's business, which they subsequently assigned, both that portion remaining left by testator (about one-ninth) & that acquired since his death, to certain trustees for all creditors of the estate, & each exor. severally assigned for the benefit of individual creditors. The trusts declared were for the benefit pari passu of creditors coming in, & who were not bound to release their claims. A judgment having been recovered against the exors. individually, upon a note made by them as exors., the judgment creditors claimed a right to seize the goods in the hands of the trustees, notwithstanding the assignment:—Held: the judgment creditors were entitled, if their judgment & execution were against the exors., to claim as creditors upon the estate assigned by them as such, & if necessary on the separate estate of each, the joint estate being exhausted.—KERR v. HALDAN (1864), 2 E. & A. 382; affg. HALDAN v. KERR (1862), 12 C. 4051. —— Misappropriation by one partner.]—Money was paid by trustees to a firm of solrs. to be invested. One of the firm, who was also one of the trustees, misappropriated the money, & was removed from the trust. The firm having become bkpt., the trustees proved against the joint estate, & claimed also to prove against the estate of the defaulting trustee:—Held: the defaulting trustee was liable in respect of distinct contracts, (a) as member of the firm, (b) as trustee, & the trustees were entitled to prove against his separate estate as well as against the joint estate, under 1883 Act, Sched. 2, r. 18.—Re PARKERS, Ex p. SHEPPARD (1887), 19 Q. 4052. —— Improper investment of trust funds.]—A trustee, a member of a firm of solrs., invested part of the trust funds in a contributory mtge., an unauthorised investment. On the bkpcy. of the firm:—Held: the trustees having by their action in compromising an action to set aside the mtge. estopped themselves from proving against the estate of bkpt. trustee as for a debt, might nevertheless prove for damages sustained by reason of the improper investment, but primâ facie there was no right to prove for damages against the joint estate of the firm unless it should appear that the firm had so acted as to make themselves liable for the breach of trust.—Re LAKE, Ex p HOWE TRUSTEES, [1903] 1 K. They proved against the firm in July, 1869, but afterwards withdrew it, & proved in Jan., 1870, under 1869 Act, s. 6, specifying & putting a value on the separate liability of C.:—Held: aplts., under 1864 Act could not rank both upon the separate estate of C. & on the estate of the firm, but must elect; but they might prove against the joint estate for their whole claim, without deducting from it the value of C.'s separate liability.—Re CHAFFEY, MERCHANTS BANK OF CANADA v. DAVIDSON (1870), 30 U. Two preference shareholders were mere nominees of L. & Co. The liquidator claimed to retain the dividends payable to those nominees & set them off against the amount due from L. & Co., in respect of their secret profits :—Held : there were no distinct contracts between the firm of L. & Co. & the partners in that firm with the co. & there was no right of double proof, & the liquidator, having elected to prove against the estate of one of the partners, had no right to prove against the joint estate of the firm of L. & Co. & there could be no set-off.—Re KENT COUNTY GAS LIGHT & COKE CO., LTD., [1913] 1 Ch. 92 ; 82 L. 4062. Proof under separate commission.]—A. & B., partners, gave a joint & several bond to C., who afterwards became indebted to A. B. became bkpt. & C. proved the bond under the commission, & then brought a joint action against A. & B., to which B. pleaded his certificate :—Held : A. being by such form of action precluded from setting off his separate debt, was entitled to an injunction against C.'s proceeding in the joint action, as C. must proceed against the solvent partner severally.

Though the holder of a joint & several security has it in his option either to proceed jointly or severally yet defts. have, in this case, elected to proceed severally by proving the bond under the commission. s. —— By principal creditor—Effect on right of surety to prove on separate estate.]—M. traded as M. & Co., & also in a separate business as M., with separate banking accounts for each. He obtained an advance from a bank in respect of M. & Co., J. giving the bank a continuing guarantee. By this guarantee it was agreed that, in case of the bkpcy. of M. & Co., all dividends should be received by the bank, & the guarantee should extend to the unpaid balance. M. at the same time gave J. certain mtges. over his private property, & in these mtges. covenanted to hold J. indemnified against all sums payable under the guarantee. Some time afterwards J. agreed to increase the guaranteed amount, & shortly before the bkpcy. of M., J. advanced him money on his separate account, indorsed promissory notes to cover these second advances, & to secure these, took a mtge. deed over other land. The mtge. deed contained a recital of the guarantee, & provided that the mtge. was to be redeemed, if M. should indemnify J. against his liability on the guarantee, M. & Co. became bkpt., as did M. in respect of his separate estate. The bank proved against the estate of M. & Co., received a dividend, & required J. to pay the whole amount secured by the guarantee. J. then put in a proof against M.'s separate estate, including in this proof the amount paid to the bank on M. & Co.'s account, & valuing his securities:—Held: the proof by the bank was not an election which would prevent J. from proving against M.'s private estate.—Re MOELLER, Ex p. JOSEPH (1884), 3 N. 4076. —— In ignorance of true circumstances—Proof transferred.]—A merchant issued a circular announcing that he had taken his nephew into partnership. In fact the nephew was not a partner, but a paid servant. Both became bkpt., & a dividend was declared on the supposed joint estate. A creditor, whose debt had been contracted since the date of the circular, having discovered that no partnership existed, sought to transfer his proof from the joint estate, to the separate estate of the merchant. By consent, the creditor brought an action against the merchant for the debt proved, & the defence was conducted by a separate creditor. SECT. 5.—POSITION OF SECURED CREDITORS.

See, generally, Part IX., ante.

4081. Abandonment of security—By separate creditors — Holding joint security.] — Separate creditors, who had taken a joint security, were permitted on giving it up to resort under a commission of bkpcy. to their original debts.—Ex p. LOBB (1802), 7 Ves. 592; 32 E. R. 238.

4082. Order for sale—Security deposited by bankrupt partner as security for firm debt—Other partner solvent.]—One of two partners deposited the deeds of his own estate, by way of equitable mtge., to secure a partnership debt, & afterwards became bkpt., the other partner being solvent:—Held: an order might be made for the sale of the equitable mtge.—Re IRELAND & HARRISON, Ex p. LLOYD (1838), 3 Deac. 305; 3 Mont. & A. 601, Ct. of R.

4083. —— Security from partner—Bankruptcy of firm—Security deposited before firm formed.]—A trader deposited policies of assurance with his bankers to secure the floating balance due from him, & signed a memorandum of the object of the deposit, of which notice was given to the insurance office. Afterwards he took a partner, & the policies remained & were treated as a security for the floating balance due from the firm, but of the change in the object of the security no memorandum was signed, nor was any notice given to the office. On the firm becoming bkpt.:—Held: the bankers were entitled to the usual order as in the case of an equitable mtge. without a written memorandum.—Re REAY, Ex p. BARNETT (1845), De G. 194, Ct. of R.

Annotations:—Consd. Re Buller, Ex p. Wornald (1860), 2 L. T. 544. Refd. Re Richards, Humber v. Richards (1890), 45 Ch. D. 589. Mentd. Re Goetz, Jonas, Ex p. Trustee (1898), 78 L. T. 399, C. A.

4084. —— Abandonment.]—A creditor, who has obtained the common order for sale of a security on the property of two of three partners, deposited by the three partners, with liberty to prove for the deficiency, cannot afterwards abandon that order, & claim to prove for his whole debt against the three partners retaining his security on the estate of the two, although the order has been acted on, & the creditor was not aware of his rights when it was obtained.—Re BUXTON, Ex p. DAVENPORT (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 313; 10 L. J. Bcy. 1; 4 Jur. 1066, Ct. of R.

4085. Application of security—Whether joint creditors can insist on application in particular way.]—A creditor proved against the joint estate the amount of six several bills of exchange, all jointly accepted by two bkpts., for which he stated in his proof he held no security, except an assignment from one bkpt., to a trustee for the amount of a separate debt owing to such bkpt. After the proof was made, the trustee received the amount of that debt:—Held: the joint creditors had no right to insist on the appropriation of the money received by the trustee, towards the payment of any particular bills, for the purpose of reducing the proof against the joint estate.—Re WYATT & THOMPSON, Ex p. GROOM (1837), 2 Deac. 265; 3 Mont. & A. 157, Ct. of R.

4086. —— Debts due from two firms with common partner.]—One of two bkpts., M., being a partner in another firm of M. & S., gave a security to petitioners for any money that might become due, either from the house of bkpts., or from the firm of M. & S.:—Held: the proceeds of the security might be applied first in discharge of the debt due from the firm of M. & S. Form of order. —Re MEDLEY, Ex p. GLYN (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 25, Ct. of R.

Annotation:—Consd. Re Fox & Jacobs, Ex p. Discount Banking Co. of England & Wales, [1894] 1 Q. B. 438.

4087. —— Debts due from firm & partner separately.]—A creditor of two partners was also a creditor of one of the partners separately, & the title-deeds of separate estate of that partner were deposited with him to secure both the joint & the separate debts. The two partners filed a joint liquidation petition, & the partner, whose separate estate was mortgaged, also filed a separate liquidation petition. The security having been realised:—Held: the creditor was entitled to apportion the produce of the realisation between his joint & separate debts in whatever way was most for his advantage, & to enable him to exercise that option, he was entitled to have a dividend on the joint estate declared before the declaration of a dividend on the separate estate.—Re FOSTER, Ex p. DICKIN (1875), L. R. 20 Eq. 767; 44 L. J. Bcy. 113; 33 L. T. 37; 24 W. R. 221.

4088. —— As to interest.]—Securities by way of equitable mtge. comprised joint property of bkpt. partners, separate property of one partner, & property of a stranger, & the mtgees. being joint & separate creditors elected to prove against the separate estates:—Held: an order made on their petition & directing an account of principal & interest due to them, without express limitation of the calculation of the interest to interest due at the date of the fiat, did not entitle them to a calculation of, or to retain out of the proceeds of the securities, interest subsequent to the date of the fiat.—Re FLOOD & LOTT, Ex p. LUBBOCK (1863), 4 De G. J. & Sm. 516; 2 New Rep. 207; 32 L. J. Bcy. 58; 8 L. T. 474; 9 Jur. N. S. 854; 46 E. R. 1019, L. C.

See 1914 Act, Sched. II., & 1915 Rules, r. 77.

4089. Security not held by creditor proving—Securities marshalled.]—A partnership firm wrongly pledged to their bankers, to secure a debt of the firm, delivery warrants of some brandy which had been left in their custody in the ordinary course of business by the owner. One of the partners in the firm had no knowledge of the fraud. The debt due by the firm to the bankers was also secured by a separate guarantee of the innocent partner. The firm filed a liquidation petition, & the bankers sold the brandy, & applied the proceeds of sale in part payment of their debt. The owner of the brandy knew nothing of the pledge until the stoppage of the firm. The separate estate of the innocent partner was sufficient to pay all his separate creditors in full, including the balance remaining due to the bankers, & to leave a surplus:—Held: the owner of the brandy was entitled to have the bankers' securities marshalled, &, to the extent of the value of the brandy, to have the benefit of the guarantee, & to prove against the separate estate of the innocent partner.—Re STRATTON, Ex p. SALTING (1883), 25 Ch. D. 148; 53 L. J. Ch. 415; 49 L. T. 694; 32 W. R. 450, C. A.

See, also, Part XX., Sect. 5, sub-sect. 3, D., post.

4090. Whether value of security must be deducted—Security of partner for debt of firm.]—Petitioners were holders of bills of exchange drawn by B., H. & Co., which firm consisted of L., A., B. & H., & accepted by L. & A. The acceptors having dishonoured the bills, petitioners resorted to the drawers. It being inconvenient for the drawers to pay, it was agreed between petitioners & B. & H., that they should assign to petitioners a plantation as security for the balance owing on the bills & interest, which was done. Afterwards a joint commission issued against L. & A. Petitioners were allowed to prove the amount of the bills & interest without deducting the value of the security.—Re LEIGH & ARMSTRONG, Ex p. PARR (1811), 1 Rose, 76; 18 Ves. 65; 34 E. R. 242, L. 4093. —— —— Property forming security subsequently devised to bankrupt partners.]—Bkpt. & his partner, K., borrowed money on their joint promissory note, & K. deposited deeds of his separate property. K. died, devising his property to bkpt. subject to his debts:—Held: the creditor

PART XI. SECT. 5.

4090 i. Whether value of security must be deducted—Security of partner for debt of firm—Proof against separate estate.]—A partner who has individually joined as a maker in a promissory note of his firm for their accommodation is primarily liable, & in claiming against his insolvent estate in administration the holder need not value his security in respect of the firm's liability.—BELL v. OTTAWA TRUST & DEPOSIT CO. (1897), 28 O. R. 519.—CAN.

t. —— Lien over partnership assets—Proof against separate estate.]—Each of several exors., carrying on the business of their testator pursuant to the will has a right of indemnity against the assets of testator, including a lien over those assets, for liabilities properly incurred, & any security held by a creditor which interferes with that right is a security, the giving up of which will go to augment the estate of each exor., & the creditor must offer to give up or value that security when petitioning to sequestrate the estate of one of the exors.—SAVAGE v. UNION BANK OF AUSTRALIA, LTD., WHITELAW v. UNION BANK OF AUSTRALIA, LTD. 4094. —— —— —— Order on petition to expunge proof.]—A., B. & C. carried on business in partnership, in premises belonging to A. A. executed a mtge. of the property to a banking co., with a power of sale, for securing £6,000, the amount of advances to the partnership by the bank. A. afterwards died, having devised the property to B. & C., who, becoming insolvent, made an assignment of all their estate & effects, in trust for their creditors, & the trustees, with the sanction of the bank, entered into a contract with a purchaser for the sale to him of the mortgaged property, the purchaser agreeing to pay to the banking co. the £6,000 by yearly instalments. A fiat afterwards issued against B. & C., under which the bank proved for the whole amount of their debt, including the £6,000. On a petition by the assignees to expunge the proof for that sum, the ct. allowed the proof to stand, but directed the dividends to be paid into ct., subject to further order.—Re STEEL, Ex p. SMYTH (1839), 3 Deac. 597, Ct. of R.

4095. —— —— Deposit by firm of title-deeds of two partners.]—Three partners, to secure a joint debt, deposited with their creditor the title-deeds of an estate belonging to two of the partners :—Qu. : whether the creditor could prove for the whole amount of his debt against the joint estate, without first realising his security.—Re BUXTON, Ex p. DAVENPORT (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 313 ; 10 L. J. Bcy. 1 ; 4 Jur. 1066, Ct. of R.

4096. —— —— Security given by one partner after bankruptcy of other partner.]—F. & H. were jointly indebted to a bank. F. became bkpt., but the joint effects, not being more than equal to the payment of the partnership debts, were left in the possession of H., who afterwards made an arrangement with the bank for the payment of the debt due to the bank by instalments, &, as a further security, deposited with the solrs. of the bank the leases of two houses, which were his separate property for the purpose of being assigned to the bank. The bank considered H. as the bank's sole debtor. Afterwards H. addressed to the bank's solrs. the following letter :—" You will please deliver to the bank the deeds of the properties or leases in your possession belonging to me." The deeds were still held by the solr. on behalf of the bank as equitable mtgees. of the property. A separate fiat issued against H., under which the assignees possessed themselves of his separate estate & also of the joint estate of F. & H. which had been left in H.'s possession :—Held : the banking co. were entitled as equitable mtgees. to the proceeds of the leasehold premises, & the money to arise from the sale of the premises should be applied in the usual manner in satisfaction of what should be found due to the banking co., & they should be permitted to prove for the deficiency against the joint estate.—Re HEATLEY, Ex p. SMITH (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 165, Ct. of R.

4097. —— —— Deposit of bond.]—One of three partners deposited with a joint creditor a bond belonging to himself, to secure the partnership debt. On the bkpcy. of the partners :—Held : the creditor could prove the amount of his debt against the joint estate, without giving up the bond.—Re RIDGE, Ex p. HALLIFAX (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 544, Ct. of R.

4098. —— —— Security clearly joint property of firm.]—Creditors of a bkpt. firm holding securities, the separate estate of each partner, are entitled to prove against the joint estate under the bkpcy. for the full amount of their debt, without first realising or giving up their securities, but where such securities are clearly the joint property of the firm, the creditors must realise or give up the securities in the first instance.—Re STREATFIELD, LAWRENCE & Co., Ex p. ASSIGNEES (1860), 3 L. T. 600 ; subsequent proceedings, sub nom. Re STREATFEILD, LAURENCE & Co., Ex p. M'KENNA, Ex p. BANK OF ENGLAND (1861), 30 L. J. Bcy. 24, 25, L. JJ.

4099. —— —— Property forming security becoming joint after debt incurred but without knowledge of creditor.]—Shares in a bank, held by one partner & originally belonging to him, became, unknown to the bank, partnership property, & were such when the firm became bkpt. The firm were then largely indebted to the bank on their account, which debt accrued after the shares became partnership property. The bank had an undisputed charge on the shares under their articles of assocn., which gave a lien for all debts due from the holder alone or jointly with any other person, but they claimed to realise such lien as a separate security, & to prove for the whole debt against the joint estate without deducting the amount so realised :—Held : the ct. must look only at the fact whether the creditors held a security on bkpt.'s property, & could not consider whether the creditors had believed it to be such, & the amount of the security must be deducted from the proof.—Re COLLIE, Ex p. MANCHESTER & COUNTY BANK (1876), 3 Ch. D. 481 ; 45 L. J. Bcy. 149 ; 35 L. T. 23 ; 24 W. R. 1035, C. A.

Annotation :—Folld. Re Cooksey, Ex p. Portal (1900), 83 L. T. 435.

4100. —— —— Security pledged for private & also for partnership debt.]—Property belonging to a member of a firm was charged by him in favour of a bank for securing his own private debts to the bank, & also those of the firm. Each partner in the firm having gone into liquidation, the bank realised the security, deducted the private debt of the owner out of the proceeds of sale, & carried over the residue to a suspense account :—Held : the bank were not prevented from proving for their whole debt against the joint estate.—Re WALKER & Co., Ex p. WATSON (1880), 42 L. T. 516 ; 28 W. R. 632.

4101. —— —— Security realised before bankruptcy—Proceeds held on deposit as security.]—One of the partners in a firm mortgaged property belonging to himself alone to the bankers of the firm as a security for the firm's account. The mortgaged property was afterwards sold by the partner, the bank joining in the sale, & it was agreed between them that the purchase-money should be deposited with the bank in the name of the partner at 5 per cent. interest, as security to the bank for the balance for the time being owing to them by the firm, but that, subject to such security, the purchase-money, & the interest to accrue due thereon, should remain the separate property of the partner. The firm afterwards went into liquidation, owing a large balance to the bank :—Held : the mtge. given by the partner to the bank was a bonâ fide security upon his separate estate, & after the sale the purchase-money did not become a debt due from the bank to the firm, & the bank were entitled to prove in the liquidation of the firm for the whole amount 4102. —— —— Shares forming security unable to be held jointly.]—A. & C., bkpts., kept a partnership account with a banking co., each being proprietors of shares, which stood in the books in their separate names, but which, in the deed of partnership between them, were declared to be joint property. By the deed of the co. it was provided that no shares should be held jointly, or be divided into fractional parts:—Held: the co. could not prove their joint debt against the firm, without first realising the shares which they held as a security, & deducting the amount from the proof.—Re CLARKE, Ex p. CONNELL (1838), 3 Deac. 201; 3 Mont. & A. 581; 7 L. J. Bcy. 44, Ct. of R.

4103. —— Warrant of attorney taken for joint debt—Separate execution thereon—Proof of separate debt without giving up execution.]—On a separate commission against one of a firm, a joint & separate creditor, who in respect of his joint debt had taken a warrant of attorney, & sued out a separate execution against bkpt.:—Held: entitled to prove his separate debt, without giving up his execution.—Ex p. STANBOROUGH (1820), 5 Madd. 89; 56 E. R. 829.

4104. —— Security of partner for debt of other partner.]—An equitable mtgee. of one partner, for a debt due from the other, may prove his whole debt against the separate estate of that other partner & retain his security against the first.—Re PARKIN, Ex p. RODGERS (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 38, Ct. of R.

4105. —— Security by firm—Proof against separate estate.]—A partnership firm mortgaged part of the joint estate to secure a joint debt, & by the mtge. deed covenanted jointly & severally for payment of the debt:—Held: on their bkpcy., the mtgee. might prove the whole debt against each separate estate, without giving up his security.—Re PLUMMER & WILSON, Ex p. SHEPHERD (1841), 1 Ph. 56; 2 Mont. D. & De G. 204; 11 L. J. Ch. 25; 5 Jur. 1147; 41 E. R. 552, L. C.

4106. ———— ————.]—Petitioners, being equitable mtgees. of certain property of bkpts., obtained the usual order for sale of the property, with liberty to bid, & to prove for any deficiency. They also held the joint & several bonds of bkpts. for the payment of the mtge. money. The estate was sold to one of petitioners, for a sum amounting nearly to the whole debt:—Held: petitioners could not prove against the separate estates on the bonds for the full amount of the debt, but only for the deficiency unsatisfied by the proceeds of the sale.—Re GYE, Ex p. REYNAL (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 637, Ct. of R.

4105 ii. ———— ————.]—If, on a petition for the sequestration of the estate of one partner, the act of insolvency alleged is the non-satisfaction by that partner of a judgment obtained against the firm, any security from the firm to debtor need not be set out or valued.—Re STEVENSON (1893), 19 V. L. R. 660.—AUS.

w. —— Joint & several mortgage by tenants in common—Proof against estate of one.]—A debtor, possessed as tenant in common of an undivided share in a piece of land, joined with his co-tenants in mortgaging the land. The mtge. contained a joint & several covenant. Debtor afterwards became bkpt. On summons by the mtgee. to be admitted to prove on the estate for the whole of the private debt:—Held: before being admitted to prove on the estate, the mtgee. must value bkpt.'s undivided share in the land.—Re JACOBS (1890), 9 N. Z. L. R. 293.—N.Z.

a. Whether security must be surrendered—Security of partner for debt of firm.]—In insolvency a joint creditor of a firm who obtains a security upon the property of a member of it may have his payment ratably out of the estate of the firm without being required to surrender his security upon the separate estate of the member of it.—ROBINSON BROOKING & Co. v. MCBRIDE & Co. (1850), 3 Nfld. L. R. 160.—NFLD.

SECT. 6.—RIGHTS OF PARTNERS.

SUB-SECT. 1.—OF SOLVENT PARTNER.

4109. Right to sue—Without joining assignees—Payment out of separate property to defendants' use—Contract made before bankruptcy.]—The payment of money to defts.' use by a solvent partner, out of his separate property, after the bkpcy. of his partner, in pursuance of a contract made before the bkpcy., may be sued for in the name of the solvent partner only, without joining the assignees of bkpt. partner.

Where pltf. & bkpt., before the bkpcy., being insurance brokers, effected an insurance for defts., & the receipt of the premium was acknowledged in the policy at the time of effecting such insurance, but the premium was not in fact paid until after the partner's bkpcy. by pltf., out of his own separate property:—Held: the principal insured was liable to the solvent partner only.—THACKER v. SHEPHERD (1773), 2 Chit. 652.

Annotation:—Consd. Aspinall v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co. (1853), 11 Hare, 325.

4110. Right to sell partnership effects—Whether sale good against assignees under subsequent joint commission.]—If one of two partners become bkpt., the solvent partner may, if for a valuable consideration & without fraud, dispose of the partnership effects; & if he afterwards fail, the assignees, under a joint commission against both, cannot maintain trover against the bonâ fide vendee of such partnership effects.—FOX v. HANBURY (1776), 2 Cowp. 445; 98 E. R. 1179.

4111. —— —— Sale by sheriff under execution against then solvent partner.]—One of two partners became bkpt. Part of the partnership property was subsequently seized by the sheriff, under a fi. fa. obtained against the solvent partner, & sold. The vendee subsequently offered the goods for sale as his property. A joint adjudication was afterwards made against both partners, & the assignee forcibly retained possession of the goods:—Held: the power of the solvent partner, upon the bkpcy. of his copartner, to sell the partnership property was given him in his personal capacity, & could not be transferred either by assignment of "all his share & interest" in the partnership, or by exposing himself, although bonâ fide, to a judgment under which all such share & interest was taken in execution, & the assignee was entitled to an injunction restraining the sale, notwithstanding his misconduct in violently putting deft. out of possession.—FRASER v. KERSHAW (1856), 2 K. & J. 496; 25 L. J. Ch. 445; 2 Jur. N. S. 880; 4 W. R. 431; 69 E. R. 878.

4112. Right to deliver partnership effects for antecedent debt—Creditor tenant in common with assignees.]—After an act of bkpcy. committed by one partner, the other delivered goods of their joint property to a creditor for a joint debt & died. Afterwards a commission issued against the surviving partner:—Held: the creditor, by virtue of such delivery by the solvent partner, became tenant in common of the goods with the assignees of bkpt. by relation from the act of bkpcy. which was in the lifetime of the solvent partner, & the assignees could not maintain trover against such creditor.

If [the solvent partner] delivered the property over to deft. bonâ fide for a debt, which must be taken to be the case here, the latter stands in the same situation as [the former] himself would have done (LORD KENYON, C.J.).—SMITH v. ORIELL (1801), 1 East, 368; 102 E. R. 142.

4113. Right to collect partnership assets—By taking debtor's bill—Payment of partnership debt by indorsing bill to creditor—Good against assignees on subsequent bankruptcy of then solvent partner.]—One of two partners, who were country bankers, became bkpt., & defts., being holders of their notes, obtained payment of part of them from the London banker, at whose house they were payable, out of the funds in their hands belonging to the country bank. The solvent partner, knowing of the bkpcy., procured a debtor to the firm to give his bill in part satisfaction of his debt, & indorsed & delivered same to defts., in payment of the residue of the notes in their hands, & afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: the assignees could not recover from defts. the money so paid to them by the London banker, nor the proceeds of the bill.

For future purposes, the bkpcy. of one partner may operate as a dissolution, so as to prevent the solvent partner from dealing with the partnership property as if the partnership continued, but most certainly he has a lien on the joint funds in his hands, in respect of all claims which were consummate at the time of the bkpcy. 4114. —— Right to give discharge—Use of trustee's name.]—After the bkpcy. of a partner & the appointment of a trustee of his property, his solvent partner has a right to receive, & can give a good discharge for, the partnership assets, & is entitled, for the purpose of collecting or recovering the assets, to use the name of the trustee, upon giving him an indemnity.—Re OWEN, Ex p. OWEN (1884), 13 Q. b. Joint & several security by original firm—Subject of security not transferred to new firm—Rights of secured creditor.]—A creditor lent money to a firm on the security of certain heritable subjects belonging to it—the obligation for repayment being granted by the firm & by its two partners. Three years later the two partners took in a new partner, & a new contract of copartnery was executed for carrying on the business in the same firm name. Under the contract the new firm had no concern with the debts due to or by the old firm, & the right to the security subjects was not transferred to the new firm, which paid a rent to the old firm for the use of the premises occupied by them; the creditor in the bond knew nothing of the change of partnership. 4116. Right to be appointed receiver & manager —On giving security—Duty to furnish trustees with accounts.]—Articles of partnership provided that the partnership should continue for fourteen years, & if any partner should become bkpt., he should cease to be a partner, & his share in the capital should remain as a loan to the continuing partners during the residue of the term, if they should carry on the business, at 5 per cent., & the payment of the loan should be secured by the joint & several bond of the continuing partners. The partnership consisted of a father & his three sons, of whom deft. was the youngest. The whole of the capital was provided by the father. The father & the two elder sons became bkpt., & their trustees claimed a declaration that the articles under which deft. claimed to retain as a loan the shares of bkpts. in the capital of the partnership were void as against the creditors of bkpts., & moved for the appointment of a receiver & manager of the partnership business. Deft. claimed the right, as solvent partner, to be appointed receiver & manager :—Held : deft. was entitled to be appointed receiver & manager, but must give security, pass his accounts, furnish pltfs. with proper accounts, allow them all reasonable access to the books, & pay the balance in his hands, as & when they reached an amount to be agreed upon, into ct. or into a banking account of pltfs. & himself.—COLLINS v. BARKER, [1893] 1 Ch. 578 ; 62 L. 4118. ——.]—L. & P. carrying on business in partnership agreed to dissolve partnership, & on the dissolution P. conveyed to L. his interest in the premises on which the business was carried on, but the consideration was never paid, & L. subsequently deposited the title deeds of the property with P. to secure the debt. At the time of the dissolution the partnership was insolvent. L. became bkpt., & the assignees of his separate estate claiming the property, P. claimed to be entitled to a vendor's lien for unpaid purchase-money :—Held : (1) one partner might agree with a retiring partner to give him a sum for the concern, though they knew the partnership to be insolvent, provided no fraud was intended ; (2) the property was the separate property of L., subject to the equity always attaching upon property bought, to answer for the purchase-money, if it was not paid.—Re LIGHTOLLER, Ex p. PEAKE (1816), 1 Madd. 346 ; 2 Rose, 455 ; 56 E. 4119. ——.]—Upon the death of one of three partners, his exors. carried on the business with the two surviving ones for a twelve-month longer, & then dissolved the partnership, upon which occasion the two continuing partners gave the exors. a bond to secure the balance due to them ; & more than six years afterwards the two became bkbt. :—Held : the exors. had a right to prove the amount of the bond against the joint estate of the two continuing partners.—Re BOOTHBY, Ex p. HALL (1838), 3 Deac. 125, Ct. of R.

4120. ——.]—A. & B. being partners, A. retired, & assigned all the partnership realty & personalty to B., who was to pay the partnership debts, especially a trust debt of £2,000. Afterwards A. assigned to B. other real estates & mtges., his separate property, to insure payment of the £2,000. A. died, & B. filed a bill against A.'s representatives for an account, under which it was arranged that the sum due to B. should be taken at £3,000 & a certain conveyance executed. The £3,000 was paid, & the conveyance executed. B. became bkpt., & the parties entitled to the £2,000 filed a bill against the representatives of A. for the £2,000. The representatives having claimed a lien on the partnership assets & the separate property for £2,000 :—Held : no such lien existed.—Re JAMES, Ex p. RUSSELL (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 192, Ct. of R.

4121. ——.]—By a partnership deed a partner entitled to one-fourth of the capital & profits engaged to furnish more than his proportion of the capital, if required, it being agreed that the excess should at his death be secured to his representatives by a mtge. on the partnership property, he having power to appoint by will one or more of his sons to succeed to his fourth part. By his will he appointed such of his sons to succeed him as should be selected by his widow & one of his partners, whom he appointed his extrix. & exor., but directed that, during the minority of the sons, & after providing for their maintenance, the surplus profits of his share should fall into his residuary estate. At his death, the sons being minors, the business was carried on as before, testator's representatives taking his place, but not taking or calling for any security for the debt due to his estate in respect of the excess of capital advanced by him. d. Claim to shares in ships belonging to partnership—Shares registered in name of bankrupt partner only.]—Three partners, who carried on a joint trade of shipping goods, were registered as part-owners of the vessels belonging to the concern, each in the proportion of a third share of each vessel. One of the partners having become bkpt. & then sequestrated, in a question between his trustee & the other partners :—Held : as the vessels had not been registered in the name of the co. as partnership property, & as the shares of bkpt. stood in the register in his name individually as part-owner, the shares passed absolutely to his trustee, & his co-partners were not entitled to claim them as co. property, to be dealt with according to the provisions of a contract which had been entered into between the partners.—MCARTHURS v. MCBRAIR & JOHNSTONE'S TRUSTEE (1844), 6 Dunl. 4123. ——.]—A trader, by his will, appointed his partner & other parties exors., & authorised his partner to purchase his share of the trade, premises, & stock, & if he declined to do so, the trade was to be carried on for the benefit of testator's wife & family. A valuation was made, & the surviving partner took possession of the whole partnership property in circumstances which induced the ct. to set aside the sale as invalid. The surviving partner, & subsequently his son & legatee, carried on the business for several years, & the son ultimately became bkpt. The partnership property was then sold, & the proceeds paid into ct.:—Held: the representatives of the deceased partner were entitled to a lien on one moiety of the fund in it for sums due to them from the estate of the surviving partner, & their claim ought to be satisfied in preference to the debts of the creditors of bkpt., the case not being affected by the question, whether any of the partnership stock was or was not in the order or disposition of bkpt.—STOCKEN v. DAWSON (1848), 17 L. J. Ch. 282, L. C.

4124. ——.]—One of two partners died, a considerable sum being due from the partners to his estate. The surviving partner continued the trade, with the assent of the exors., & became bkpt.:—Held: the exor. had no lien on the stock-in-trade substituted for the stock which had been sold.—PAYNE v. HORNBY (1858), 25 Beav. 280; 53 E. 4125. Lien on debt due to firm at date of dissolution—Right of re-entry reserved at dissolution.]—A., B. & C. being in partnership, A. retired, a balance being due to him, which B. & C. covenanted to pay by instalments, giving a power of re-entry to A., if any instalment were unpaid, & B. & C. were also to reassign the premises to A. on trusts for sale. B. retired, & C. alone continued the business. Default was made in payment of an instalment, C. became bkpt., & A. re-entered:—Held: a debt originally due to A., B. & C. was not in the reputed ownership of C., & A. had a lien thereon.—Re STOKES, Ex p. PEMBERTON, Re STOKES, Ex p. HANCOX (1836), 1 Deac. 421; 2 Mont. & A. 548, Ct. of R.

4127. —— Whether equitable lien on partnership estate.]—On the dissolution of a partnership, the assets were assigned to the continuing partner, on his indemnity against the firm's debts. The continuing partner became bkpt.:—Held: the retired partner had no equitable lien on the partnership estate he had left behind, to have it applied in satisfaction of the outstanding debts of the firm.—Re HAYWARD, Ex p. BURDEKIN (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 704; 6 Jur. 977, Ct. of R.

4128. —— Partnership assets not vested in continuing partner.]—D. & P. carried on business under articles, which provided for the taking of an account & the payment of the amount due to the outgoing partner as a condition of the continuing partner being entitled to "the whole of the partnership estate, & effects, including good will." The partnership was dissolved by the death of P., & at that time the partnership was insolvent. D., the surviving partner, continued to carry on the business, but no account was taken, nor was any money paid. Shortly afterwards D. became bkpt., P.'s exors. having paid, or become liable for the debts of the partnership:—Held: they were entitled to be indemnified for the partnership debts by the appropriation for that purpose of the partnership assets.—Re DANIEL, Ex p. POWELL (1896), 75 L. S. became bkpt. Deft. having realised the bills, the assignees of S., jointly with B., without having previously done anything to disaffirm the transaction, brought an action against deft. for the wrongful conversion, & for money received to their use:—Held: they were entitled to recover under the counts for money received to their use.—HEILBUT v. NEVILL (1870), L. 4136. Tenant in common with assignees under joint adjudication in Ireland.]—Two partners carried on business in England & Ireland. One executed an assignment in England for the benefit of his creditors, & was afterwards adjudicated a bkpt. in England. Some of the joint estate of the partners came into the hands of the trustees of the deed, & the proceeds of sale were, under the order of the ct., deposited in the bank in the joint names of the trustees of the deed & the trustees in bkpcy. Before that was done, a joint adjudication of bkpcy. had been made against the two partners in Ireland. The Irish assignees of the joint estate having applied to have the proceeds of sale paid over to them:—Held: (1) the trustees under the separate adjudication in England, & the assignees under the joint adjudication in Ireland, were tenants in common of the joint assets, & the latter had no better title to the proceeds of sale than the former; (2) the application must be refused also on the ground of convenience, as the greater number of the joint creditors lived in England & wished the fund in question to remain in England.—Re O'REARDON, Ex p. JAMES (1873), 9 Ch. 4145. —— —— Contribution of further capital by solvent partner.]—A. being entitled, under a parol partnership agreement with B. & C., to three-eighths of the capital & profits of the business, became bkpt., being at the time indebted to the partnership in respect of bills in which the partnership name had been used for his personal accommodation. The assignees claimed a share of profits made subsequently to the bkpcy., while the continuing partners insisted that bkpt.'s interest in the profits ceased at that time. In consequence of such difference, no settlement of accounts between his estate & the partnership took place, & the assignees filed their bill, but B. & C., & afterwards C. alone, pending the litigation with the assignees, carried on the business for many years with the stock & capital which existed at the time of the bkpcy. & stock & capital substituted in the usual course of trade for such former stock & capital, aided by the expenditure of considerable sums by C.:—Held: the assignees of A. were entitled to three-eighths of the profits which had been made or should be made until the concern was finally wound up, & to three-eighths of the money to be produced by the sale of what remained in specie of the capital & stock, & A.'s proportion of the profits was not to be lessened, nor the proportion of C. to be increased, in respect of the debt which A. owed to the partnership, or of the money which C. brought into the business, beyond his share of the original capital.—CRAWSHAY v. COLLINS (1826), 2 Russ. 325; 38 E. that before the bkpcy. they came to the possession of defts., & that defts. knowing the goods to belong to pltfs. as assignees, after the bkpcy. converted them. A separate commission issued against M. alone on Nov. 7; on the 8th, the goods were sold by deft., as sheriff; on the 9th, a joint commission issued against M. & H., under which pltfs. were appointed assignees, & pltfs. afterwards, & after the goods were delivered to the purchasers, demanded them of defts. who refused them :—Held: (1) the sale, & not the demand & refusal constituted the conversion; (2) the allegations of the declaration, that pltfs. were possessors of the goods as assignees of both bkpts., & that defts. converted the goods after the bkpcy., were not supported by the evidence.

The effect of the last commission undoubtedly was to make them assignees of the separate as well as the joint property, but at the time of the conversion they were assignees of the property of one bkpt. only (PARKE, B.).—EDWARDS v. HOOPER (1843), 11 M. & W. 363; 12 L. 4159. —— Out of surplus of joint estate—Proof against separate estate for deficiency—Some partners solvent.]—The usual order having been obtained to take the accounts of the joint & separate estate under a separate commission, the joint estate paid 17*s.*, & was sufficient to pay the remaining 3*s.* in the pound, leaving a surplus in the hands of the assignees. Upon taking the partnership accounts, a balance appeared in favour of the solvent partners. The separate estate had paid 3*s.* in the pound :—Held: the surplus of the joint estate was to be paid to the solvent partners, & if it proved insufficient, they were to be at liberty to prove against the separate estate for the difference.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. TERRELL (1819), Buck, 345.

4160. —— Out of surplus of separate estate—For deficiency of joint estate made good by one partner.]—If a commission issue against three, & the joint estate is insufficient, & one partner pay the deficiency from his private estate, & there is a surplus on the separate estates of each of the others, the partner who paid the deficiency is entitled to such surplus before interest is paid to the separate creditors.—Re RIX, GORHAM, & INKERSOLE, Ex p. RIX (1831), Mont. 237.

4161. —— Realisation of one partner's security paying off more than due proportion of debt.]—A., B. & C., being in partnership, borrowed £10,000 of their bankers. To secure repayment with interest, B. executed a mtge. of a freehold estate, & C. a mtge. of a copyhold estate. B.'s estate was sold, & paid off £8,690 of the mtge. debt, & C.'s estate only paid the residue of the debt & interest amounting to £1,628 :—Held: A.'s estate being wholly insolvent, the estate of B. was entitled to be recouped from the estate of C., the amount of the difference between the £1,628 & the half of the mtge. money & interest.—Re BISHTON, Ex p. PLOWDEN (1837), 2 Deac. 456; 3 Mont. & A. 402, Ct. of R.

e. Right to repayment of advances to firm—& share of profits underdrawn—Out of surplus joint estate.]—On the insolvency of C. & another the requisite proportion of creditors granted C. his discharge, & sold them the insolvent estate at a price, for which he gave his promissory notes payable at intervals. Shortly afterwards he entered into partnership with M., & a memorandum was executed by them, by which they agreed that such estate should form their stock-in-trade, & become their property equally, & they equally assumed the liability for the amount of the composition notes. While the greater part of those notes was still unpaid they made an assignment in insolvency. From their assets sufficient was realised to pay their partnership creditors in full, & leave a surplus. During the partnership of C. & M., M. had advanced $500 to the firm, & C. had drawn out of the business $88.26 in excess of his share. The creditors of C. claimed that the whole of the surplus should be applied toward the payment of the composition notes :—Held: M. was first entitled to be paid the $588.26 with interest upon the $500, as that was a loan to the firm, but no interest upon the overdraft, & C., & through him his creditors, had a right to insist upon the composition notes being paid before any of the residue of the surplus was divided between C. & M.—Re CLEVERDON (1879), 4 A. In 1875, A. retired from the firm, his share being purchased by B. & C., the continuing partners. On his retirement, A. at the request of the continuing partners, paid certain mtge. debts of the business, & took transfers to himself of the mtge. debts with the securities for same. He also at their request lent them money on mtge. of other portions of the partnership property. He died in 1876. B. & C. continued the business until 1883, when they became bkpt. On retiring he was to receive $2,000, for $1,750 of which he took the note of the new firm. Shortly afterwards all four were put into insolvency on debts of the old firm. J. G., although one of the insolvents, proved as a creditor on the note, & acted as a creditor in all the proceedings. A compromise secured by the joint & several notes of the insolvents, & of M. & C. was accepted & a deed of composition was made & confirmed. Subsequently insolvents joined in a request to the assignee to convey the estate to C. "to hold same in trust, to convert same into money to meet the claims of our creditors on promissory notes signed by C. as our surety." In an action on one of the composition notes, made for part of the dividend on the claims of J. G. for $1,750, signed by the other three insolvents M. & C., payable to the order of J. G., & by him indorsed to pltfs. after maturity:—Held: although he might have had a right to rank in respect of the $1,750 against the separate estates of his co-insolvents, he had relinquished such right by consenting to the transfer of the assets to C.—STEPHEN v. GAVAZA (1883), 4 R. & G. 514.—CAN.

The proof was rejected by the trustee, on the ground that to admit it would infringe against the rule forbidding a partner to prove in competition with his own creditors:—Held: as the debts proved by the cash creditors were, as against A.'s estate, statute-barred, the rule did not apply, & the proof must be admitted.—Re HEPBURN, Ex p. SMITH (1884), 14 Q. 4178. —— —— ——.]—A partner in a bkpt. firm, who also carried on a distinct trade on his own account, claimed to prove against the estate of the firm in respect of cash advances:—Held: the exception to the rule, that a partner could not prove in competition with his firm's creditors, which allowed proof in respect of a debt in a distinct trade carried on by one or more partners of the bkpt. firm, was confined to cases where the debt arose in respect of goods supplied, & had no application to a debt for cash advanced.—NARRAWAY v. BEATTIE, CAMA'S ESTATE (1872), 26 L. 4180. Partner after separate discharge paying joint debts to indigent creditors—Under belief that joint estate solvent.]—Bkpt., a banker, after obtaining his certificate, paid the indigent holders of outstanding notes of his firm their full value, in order to assist them, & under the belief that the joint estate would pay 20*s.* in the pound:—Held: he could prove the amount against the joint estate, & having regard to the fact that he was a partner, & unlikely to pay the holders unless they had a valid claim, no inquiry should be directed as to whether the notes were at the time of the bkpcy. provable against the estate.—Re ATKINS, Ex p. ATKINS (1820), Buck, 479.

4181. For annual payments not in nature of rent.]—W. & B. entered into partnership in 1861, as millers, etc., W. being at the time the freeholder of a steam mill & four acres of land in C., subject to a mtge. One of the provisions of the partnership articles was that the business should be carried on upon the mill & premises. The articles also provided that the stock & effects of W. should be taken at a valuation by the partnership, & that the annual sum of £210 should be allowed & paid out of the partnership property to W., his heirs & assigns, in equal half-yearly payments. No formal demise of the mill & land was made to the partnership. In 1870 the partners were adjudicated bkpts., & W. instituted proceedings for liquidation in respect of his separate estate. The trustee of W.'s separate estate claimed £700 as arrears of rent under the partnership articles against the joint estate. The mtgees. also served notices upon the trustee of the joint estate, requiring him to pay to them all rent due & thereafter to become due:—Held: no rent, properly so called, was due under the agreement, the relation of landlord & tenant not having been created.—Re WYCHE & BRYAN, Ex p. APPLEBY & WYCHE (1872), 20 W. R. 411.

4182. For share of capital—Repayable on dissolution.]—Under articles of partnership it was provided that if C., the head of the firm, should retire or die, so much of his share in the capital as should not exceed £100,000 should be continued in, & be considered as part of the partnership effects, & the other partners were to repay the amount to him or his estate by fixed instalments. C. died in 1857, & the accounts having been investigated, the exors. in 1858 assigned all the stock-in-trade, etc., to the surviving partners, who executed a bond to them for the amounts found due to their estate, & to indemnify them against all liabilities. In Aug., 1861, the firm became bkpt., & a sum much exceeding £100,000 was found to be due to C.'s estate, & a proof tendered for the whole amount. As to the right of proof for the excess there was no dispute, but the trade creditors insisted that the exors. could not prove for the £100,000 in competition with the trade creditors:—Held: the bond & the assignment by the exors. in consideration of the settlement had removed any ambiguity which might have existed upon the articles as to the principle upon which C.'s capital was to remain in the business, & had displaced all notion of partnership between the exors. & bkpts., all notion of competition in the proof, of participation of the exors. in the profits of the trade, & of title to the capital of the business, & the proof for the whole amount must be admitted.—Re BEATER, DENNANT & RUSS, Ex p. EDMONDS (1862), 4 De G. 4183. —— ——.]—Five persons carried on a partnership business under articles, whereby it was agreed that, upon the retirement or death of any partner, his share should be taken at a valuation by the surviving partners, who should pay for it by instalments. One partner died, one retired & the remaining three filed a petition in liquidation. There were debts of the partnership contracted during the lifetime of the deceased partner. The separate estate of such partner was alleged to be solvent, both as regarded those debts & the claims of separate creditors. The exors. of the deceased partner claimed to prove for the unpaid instalments of the value of his share, with interest:—Held: it was the settled rule in bkpcy. that a partner could not prove against his firm, in competition with the creditors of the firm, & that rule applied where one partner having died before the bkpcy., his share had been taken by the other partners under the provision of the partnership deed, & the money due in respect of it had not been paid to his exors. at the time of the bkpcy.—NANSON v. GORDON (1876), 1 App. Cas. 195; 45 L. 4186. —— —— For debts of old firm paid after dissolution.]—A., B. & C. carried on the business of bankers in copartnership. A. advanced large sums of money to the concern, which he raised by selling out stock, & he took separate bonds for £18,000 from B. & C., conditioned for the replacing of £9,000 3 per cent. consols by each, being their respective proportions of the stock sold by A. The stock not being replaced, A. brought actions, & recovered judgments on the bonds. A. afterwards retired from the concern, & at that time £20,000 3 per cent. consols was due to him, & by the deed of dissolution B. & C. covenanted to replace it by four instalments, & that if they failed to do so, A. might resort to the judgments recovered on the bonds, & further, that he should have a lien on certain specified securities for that debt, & also, as an indemnity against partnership debts, which they covenanted to pay. One instalment was replaced when due, but B. & C. having failed to replace the second a new arrangement, not under seal, was entered into, whereby it was agreed that the transaction should be considered as a loan of money from the first, & that the sum produced by the sale of the £15,000 3 per cents. which remained due, which was £10,083, should be the debt, & be repaid at a future day with 5 per cent. interest. The value of £15,000 3 per cent. consols at the date of such last agreement was £8,437. Before any part of the £10,083 was paid, B. & C. became bkpts., & at the issuing of the commission, two out of the three remaining days fixed by the deed of dissolution for the retransfer of stock had passed:—Held: the second agreement was void for usury, but the deed of dissolution remained binding, & A. might prove under the commission against B. & C. for the £15,000 3 per cent. consols, the value of the two instalments due before the bkpcy. to be ascertained by the price of consols on the days when those sums respectively became due, the value of the third to be taken at the price of consols on the day when the commission issued, with a rebate for the interval between that day & the day fixed for the retransfer of that instalment.

B. By solvent Partner against separate Estate of Copartner.

4191. No proof until joint creditors paid.]—A partner can neither prove nor enter a claim against the separate estate, before the payment of the joint debts.—Re MINCHIN, Ex p. CARTER (1827), 2 Gl. & J. 233, L. C.

4192. ——.]—A partner of bkpt. sought to prove a debt said to be of a private nature, & due on balance of account. It was alleged that the debt had been rejected, on the ground that the balance had not been ascertained:—Held: (1) no proof could be made as there were partnership debts unpaid; (2) the subsistence of accounts the balance of which was unascertained was no objection to the proof.—Re CASE, Ex p. ROBINSON (1834), 4 Deac. & Ch. 499, Ct. of R.

4193. ——.]—Where A., B. & C. are partners, & B. becomes bkpt., A. cannot prove under the fiat against B. without showing that all the partnership debts have been paid.—Re MALACHY, Ex p. MAY (1838), 3 Deac. 382; Mont. & Ch. 18; 8 L. J. Bcy. 1, Ct. of R.

4194. ——.]—A debt due by one partner to his copartners can properly be proved against the separate estate of debtor as soon as the joint debts of the partnership have been discharged by the solvent partner.—SCOTT v. IZON (1865), 34 Beav. 434; 55 E. R. 703.

4195. —— Even where joint estate shown to be sufficient for joint debts.]—A solvent partner cannot prove in bkpcy. against the estate of his copartner, so long as there are joint creditors unpaid, although evidence be offered that the joint estate is ample to pay the joint creditors.—Re MOTION, Ex p. BASS (1867), 36 L. J. Bcy. 39, L. JJ.

The rule in question enures for the benefit of the separate creditors as well as of the joint creditors.—Re HOLDSWORTH, Ex p. COLLINGE (1863), 4 De G. J. & Sm. 533; 33 L. J. Bcy. 9; 9 L. T. 309; 9 Jur. N. S. 1212; 12 W. R. 30; 46 E. R. 1026, L. C.

4197. —— Unless solvent partner has paid sum to bankrupt to pay joint creditors.]—Money paid by one partner to another before the bkpcy. of the latter, for the purpose of being paid over as his liquidated share of a debt to their joint creditors, if it be not so applied is provable as a debt under the commission of the bkpt. partner, although the solvent partner were not called upon to repay the debt to the joint creditor till after the bkpcy. of the other.—WRIGHT v. HUNTER (1800), 1 East, 20; 102 E. R. 8; subsequent proceedings (1801), 5 Ves. 792.

4198. —— Though carrying on separate business —Both liable for same joint debts.] — Partners, constituting distinct firms, may prove against each other, but in a partnership of two, one carrying on business separately, so they are both liable for the same joint debts, the solvent partner is not entitled to prove, under the bkpcy. of his copartner, a debt for goods sold by his distinct house to the firm, until the joint creditors have been satisfied.—Re STEWART, Ex p. ADAMS (1812), 1 Rose, 305, L. C.

PART XI. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 6.—B.

4191 i. No proof until joint creditors paid.]—A debt due by one partner in a firm to his copartners can properly be proved against the separate estate of debtor as soon as the joint debts of the partnership have been discharged.—MACKINTOSH v. ALMON (1886), 6 R. & G. 498.—CAN.

4191 ii. ——.]—D. contributed a portion of the capital to a partnership, his copartner undertaking to repay that amount should D. within a certain period withdraw from the partnership. D. did so withdraw, & thereafter the estate of the copartner was sequestrated:—Held: D. was not entitled to prove upon his copartner's estate for the amount due to him under the above agreement while any of the joint creditors remained unpaid.—DELL v. RICCI'S ESTATE (1903), 20 S. C. 605; 13 C. T. R. 906.—S. AF.

4191 iii. ——.]—A., a trader, being indebted to B. conveyed to her an undivided fourth of his business premises, & by deed of even date, which recited that B. had purchased as a provision for C. an infant, but retained full control during C.'s minority, & might make other dispositions of it in her discretion, A. covenanted to pay her one quarter of the profits, provided that until C.'s majority B. should not be liable as a partner to any losses & that A. would not hold B. out as a partner, but would indemnify her from losses, & that A. would behave & manage the business as one partner should do to another.

Subsequently A. & B. acted as partners with reference to a proposed sale of another quarter of the business to a stranger. A. became insolvent & B. sought to prove on his estate for other debts due by A. to her:—Held: B. was a partner of A., & could not prove on his estate in competition with the other creditors.—Re RUDDOCK (1879), 5 V. L. R. 51.—AUS.

Sect. 6.—Rights of partners: Sub-sect. 6, B.]

4199. —— Whether giving indemnity sufficient.]—A solvent partner is entitled to prove against the estate of a bkpt. copartner the amount of the balance due to him upon the partnership account, first satisfying the partnership debts, or indemnifying bkpt.'s estate against them.—Re ELGAR, Ex p. TAYLOR (1814), 2 Rose, 175.

Annotations:—Consd. Re Sheath, Ex p. Watson (1819), Buck, 449. Refd. Re Taylor, Ex p. Terrell (1819), Buck, 345.

4200. —— —— Indemnity accepted by joint creditors.]—A partner cannot prove against his copartner upon indemnifying the joint estate.

Until an indemnity is given, which is accepted by every joint creditor as a discharge of the debt, a partner never can be considered as a person liable, paying the debt, or part in discharge of the debt, within 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 8 (LORD ELDON, C.).—Re SHEATH, Ex p. MOORE (1826), 2 Gl. & J. 166, L. C.

Annotations:—Consd. Re Minchin, Ex p. Carter (1827), 2 Gl. & J. 233, L. C. Distd. Re Levey & Robson, Ex p. Topping (1865), 34 L. J. Bcy. 13, L. Bcy. 29, Ct. of R.

4201. —— —— ——.]—A., B., C., D. & E. were in partnership. A. retired, receiving the joint & several bond of the continuing partners for his share in the capital, together with a covenant of indemnity against the firm's debts. C., D. & E. subsequently retired, after which B. possessed himself of the partnership property & carried on the business alone. B., C., D. & E. became bkpt. There were outstanding debts due from B., for which A. was jointly liable:—Held: A. was not entitled to prove the amount of the bond against the separate estate of B., nor to prove such debts as he should indemnify bkpt.'s estate against.

Unless an indemnity be accepted as a discharge by the joint creditors, the partner offering indemnity can never be entitled to prove as a person liable paying the debt after bkpcy., within 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 8 (LORD LYNDHURST, C.).—Re BADNALL, Ex p. ELLIS (1827), 2 Gl. & J. 312; 6 L. 4202. —— Unless cognovit received after dissolution.]—A. being a dormant partner with B. dissolved partnership, & B. was declared indebted to A. on balance. A. sued B. for such balance, & received cognovit for debt & costs. B. became bkpt.:—Held: A. was entitled to prove his debt against the estate, although some partnership debts were unpaid.—Re NAYLOR, Ex p. GRAZEBROOK (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 186, Ct. of R.

4203. —— Unless no chance of separate estate showing surplus for joint creditors—General rule relaxed.]—A firm of two became bkpt., one partner being indebted to the other. The debt arose from a contract apart from the copartnership, & was in existence at the time of the adjudication. It was admitted that there could not be any surplus of the debtor partner's estate for the joint creditors, whether the debt was allowed to be proved against that estate by the creditor partner or not:—Held: a proper case for relaxing the general rule, & the creditor partner might prove against the debtor partner's estate. Form of order.—Re LEVY & ROBSON, Ex p. TOPPING (1865), 4 De G. J. & Sm. 551; 46 E. R. 1033; sub nom. Re LEVEY, Ex p. TOPPING, 5 New Rep. 390; 34 L. J. Bcy. 13; 12 L. T. 3; 11 Jur. N. 4204. —— —— —— Effect of dividends on proof.]—Exors. of a deceased partner, whose separate estate was solvent, though the surplus was insufficient with the joint estate to pay the joint creditors in full, sought to prove against the separate estate of the copartner, for money had & received:—Held: (1) where a partnership was insolvent, a proof by the solvent partner against the separate estate of his insolvent partner did not violate the rule, which forbade joint creditors from proving against the separate estate until the separate creditors had been paid in full, as the dividends on such proof swelled the surplus of the solvent partner's separate estate, & went eventually to pay the joint debts; (2) the proof should be allowed.—Re HEAD, Ex p. HEAD, [1894] 1 Q. B. 638; 63 L. J. Q. B. 206; 70 L. T. 35; 1 Mans. 38; 10 R. 115.

4205. —— Joint creditors allowed proof on separate estate.]—A partnership carried on between A. & B. was dissolved, A. leaving his share on mtge., & B. carrying on the business alone. On B.'s bkpcy. joint creditors of the old firm were admitted to prove against B.'s separate estate. A. claimed to prove for his share:—Held: as the joint creditors had been admitted to prove against B.'s estate, A.'s proof must be rejected, as otherwise A. would be proving in competition with them.—Re HIND, Ex p. HIND (1890), 62 L. T. 327, D. C.

4206. No proof until accounts in partnership taken.]—B., a banker, entered into partnership with M. & P., as merchants, under the firm of M. & Co., & by the partnership deed B. & M. mutually covenanted to bring £6,500 each into the business. There was also a subsidiary agreement that B. should accept bills for the firm at a commission, & that the firm should negotiate them, & keep B. in funds to meet the acceptances. B. became bkpt., & M. & P. executed deeds of arrangement with their creditors. M. claimed to prove in B.'s bkpcy. for a sum of £2,773 due from B. to M. on the covenant in the deed for capital not brought in by B.:—Held: the sum due on the covenant being due on account of the partnership, it could not be proved by one partner against the estate of his copartner without first taking the accounts of the partnership.—Re BRAGINTON, Ex p. MAUDE (1867), 2 Ch. App. 550; 16 L. T. 577; 15 W. R. 856, L. JJ.

Annotation:—Mentd. Narraway v. Beattie, Cama's Estate (1872), 26 L. T. 310.

4207. Proof admitted—Party proving only quasi-partner—No joint creditors.]—An agreement was entered into between A. & B., whereby in effect A. was to carry on a certain business in the name of "A. & Co." for the benefit of himself & any person whom B. might at any time within eight years nominate. B. was to make certain advances to A. for the purpose of the business & become surety for him to a certain co., & A. was to give B. promissory notes for his advances & any sums he might pay as surety, & to carry on the business in partnership with B.'s nominee for twenty-one years on certain specified terms. The profits of the business were to be for the first eight years applied in paying A. £100 a year, & then in paying B. his advances with interest, & the residue was to be divided between A. & B.'s nominee in certain specified proportions, & losses were to be borne in the same proportions. The agreement gave B. a right to see the accounts relating to the business, & contained other special clauses, under which B. might at any time within the eight years have nominated himself as a partner. Before the eight years had elapsed, & before any nomination had been made by B., A. became bkpt., being indebted to B. for advances. There being no person who claimed to be a joint creditor of A. & B. :—Held : B.'s exor. was entitled to prove against A.'s estate for the advances, the agreement not having constituted A. & B. partners as between themselves. —Re HARRIS, Ex p. DAVIS (1863), 4 De G. J. & Sm. 523 ; 32 L. J. Bcy. 68 ; 8 L. T. 745 ; 9 Jur. N. S. 859 ; 46 E. R. 1022, L. C.

4208. —— —— Held out as partner.]—A person, alleged to have held himself out as a partner with a trader to three of his creditors, claimed to prove a debt in the trader's separate liquidation. Two of the three creditors had also proved in that liquidation. The third was fully secured, but had taken no proceedings against the quasi-partner :—Held : the quasi-partner was entitled to prove.

A person who has held himself out as a partner with a trader to a small number of the creditors of the latter, is not thereby precluded from proving in the separate bkpcy. of the trader, his estate being insufficient to leave a surplus, for the debt due to him from the trader (JAMES, L.J.).—Re WRIGHT, Ex p. SHEEN (1877), 6 Ch. D. 235 ; 37 L. T. 451 ; 26 W. R. 195, C. A.

Annotation :—Consd. Re Pulsford, Ex p. Hayman (1878), 8 Ch. D. 11, C. A.

4209. —— In respect of what claims—Claim for return of price of share of business—Partnership induced by fraud.]—A. induced by the fraudulent representations of B. as to the profits of his business, gave him a certain sum of money for a share of it. On discovery of the fraud, A. filed a bill in equity for an account, to have the partnership declared void, & for a receiver, & a receiver was ordered. B. became bkpt. A petition by A. to be admitted to prove under his commission was refused, with liberty to make a claim.—Re HOOPER, Ex p. BROOME (1811), 1 Rose, 69, L. C.

Annotation :—Consd. Bury v. Allen (1845), 1 Coll. 589, in which the ct. sent for the order book in bkpcy. from which it appeared that A. was given liberty to prove such debt under the commission as he should be able to substantiate, & was admitted a creditor for what he should be able to prove, & to be paid a dividend in respect thereof ratably with the rest of the creditors under the commission, but so as not to disturb any dividend already made, but if he should not be able to make a proof, he was to be at liberty to make & enter a claim.

4210. —— —— Claim for return of premium—Compensation in nature of unliquidated damages.]—A. agreed to take B. into partnership with him for fourteen years, in consideration of a premium of £2,500, one half of which was to be paid at the signing of the articles, & the other half at the time of the execution of a deed of partnership to be founded on the articles. The articles were signed, the first instalment of the premium was paid, & the parties entered into partnership. After the lapse of a few months, A., under considerable provocation from B., excluded B. from the partnership. The connection was not renewed, the deed was not executed, nor was the second instalment paid, but there was a formal dissolution of the partnership on a certain day. A. afterwards became bkpt. :—Held : in the accounts to be taken between A.'s assignees & B., the latter was to be credited with the whole amount of premium, & B. was entitled, without prejudice to any question, to enter a claim for the whole premium under the bkpcy., as one of two partners might have a demand against the other for compensation in the nature of unliquidated damages, & enforceable in equity only.—BURY v. ALLEN (1845), 1 Coll. 589 ; 63 E. R. 556.

4211. —— —— Partnership debts paid or payable after dissolution by retiring partner.]—On the dissolution of a partnership between A. & B. the stock, etc., was assigned to B., he covenanting to pay the debts & to indemnify A. On the bkpcy. of B. the joint creditors resorted to A., who paid some claims, other claims were still depending :—Held : A. was entitled to prove in B.'s bkpcy., for what he had paid or might pay, upon indemnifying B.'s estate against the joint debts.—Re WILSON, Ex p. OGILVY (1814), 2 Rose, 177, L. C.

4212. —— —— Proportion of debts of old firm paid by retiring partner.]—On the dissolution of a partnership between H. & D., H. entered into a new partnership, & with his new partners was declared bkpt. D. subsequent to the bkpcy. paid the debts of the old firm :—Held : D. was entitled to prove for a moiety of the sums paid by him on account of the debts of the firm of H. & D. against the separate estate of H.—Re WYAT & THOMPSON, Ex p. SMITH (1850), Fonbl. 179 ; 16 L. T. O. S. 176.

4213. —— —— Sums paid as result of bankrupt improperly using firm name.]—The proof of two solvent partners was admitted under the bkpcy. of the third, for a debt, which by an unauthorised use of the partnership name he had created against the firm, & which, after the bkpcy., they were compelled to discharge, all the debts of the partnership having been discharged.—Re SLANEY, Ex p. YOUNG (1814), 2 Rose, 40, L. C.

q. Proof admitted—Where party proving dormant partner.]—A., a dormant partner with bkpt., retired without any settlement of accounts, & took a bond for £300. One creditor knew of his being a partner, but never received any notice of the dissolution, & supplied goods to the supposed firm on the faith of the partnership continuing :—Held : A. was entitled to prove on the estate of bkpt. for the entire amount.—Re M'MANUS (1858), 7 I. Ch. R. 82.—IR.

r. —— In respect of what claims—Balance due by retiring partner—Unascertained at date of insolvency.]—Upon the dissolution of a partnership between W. & M., it was agreed that all assets should vest in W., who assumed the liabilities of the firm, & that an account should be taken of the copartnership business to ascertain the respective shares or interest of the partners therein, or the amount payable by either to the other. M. then carried on business on his own behalf, & becoming insolvent, made an assignment to pltf. as assignee in insolvency. It was claimed that upon taking accounts between M. & W. a balance would be found due to W., for which he was entitled to rank upon M.'s estate :—Held : W.'s claim was an equitable debt, capable of being ascertained by the ct. for which therefore he was entitled to so rank on M.'s estate.—HALL v. LANNIN (1879), 30 C. P. 204.—CAN.

s. —— —— Claim for return of over-advances.]—After dissolution of a partnership & sequestration of the estates of the firm & of pltf.'s co-partners :—Held : the claim of one of the partners for repayment of over-advances—for which he alleged his co-partners were jointly indebted to him—must be made against his copartners & their separate estates, & not against the co. or its estate.—NORTON'S TRUSTEES v. NORDEN'S TRUSTEES (1848), 3 Men. 330.—S. t. Amount of proof—Deduction of dividend received—From estate of one of several co-debtors.]—A person who has realised a portion of his debt upon the insolvent estate of one of his co-debtors, cannot be allowed to rank upon the estate in liquidation of his other co-debtors jointly & severally liable without first deducting the amount he has previously received from the estate of his co-debtor.—ONTARIO BANK v. CHAPLIN (1891), 20 S. C. By Firm against Partner.

4216. Debt incurred by fraud.]—Bkpt. had taken property from the partnership fund & applied it to his own use without the knowledge of his partners. A separate commission issued against him & a joint commission against all the partners :—Held : the assignees under the joint commission could prove against the separate estate.—FORDYCE'S CASE, Ex p. CUST (1774), 1 Cooke's Bankrupt Laws, 8th ed., p. 531.

4217. ——.]—H., a banker, took into partnership K., who was unacquainted with banking, & took no part in the business of the firm. H., who managed the business, from time to time drew large sums out of the bank, concealing the overdrawings by means of fictitious entries in the books of the bank. On the death of H. it was discovered that by reason of the overdrawings & the employment of the money abstracted in losing speculations on the Stock Exchange, the bank was insolvent, & K. was adjudicated bkpt. An action was instituted for the administration of the separate estate of H., in which the trustee in bkpcy. of the firm claimed to prove in respect of the funds fraudulently drawn out by H. :—Held : the trustee was entitled to prove.

The length of time during which the fraud was carried on cannot affect the rights of the creditors of the firm (LORD BLACKBURN).—READ v. BAILEY (1877), 3 App. Cas. 94 ; 47 L. J. Ch. 161 ; 37 L. 4220. —— ——.]—Two partners traded as merchants at Liverpool & Barbadoes, one residing & transacting the business at each place. The Liverpool partner, without the authority or knowledge of the other, laid out partnership money in the purchase of railway shares in his own name, but on account of the partnership, & in substance declared himself a trustee of the shares for the firm. Afterwards the firm became bkpt. :—Held : the joint estate had no right of proof against the separate estate of the Liverpool partner for the amount laid out upon the shares.—Re HIGGINSON, Ex p. HINDS, Ex p. HIGGINSON (1850), 3 De G. & Sm 613 ; 14 L. PART XI. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 6.—C.

w. General rule.]—For the purpose of proving in insolvency a partnership must be treated as a person distinct from its members. The general rule is that a partnership may not prove upon the insolvent estates of its members.—SILBERT (PHILIP) & Co. v. EVANS (HERBERT) & Co., [1912] T. P. D. 425.—S. AF.

4224. Goods supplied to partner in separate trade.]—Bkpt. had carried on a trade distinct from that of his firm. He was indebted to his firm for goods supplied :—Held : his partners were entitled to prove, it being quite different from the common case of a partner not carrying on a distinct trade borrowing money.—Ex p. HESHAM (1810), 1 Rose, 146, L. 4226. ——What is separate trade.]—B., a banker, entered into partnership with M. & P., as merchants, under the firm of M. & Co. There was a subsidiary agreement that, when purchases were made on behalf of the firm, B. should accept bills for the firm at a commission, & that the firm should negotiate them, & keep B. in funds to meet the acceptances. B. became bkpt., & M. & P. executed deeds of arrangement with their creditors. M., on behalf of the firm of M. & Co., claimed to prove in B.'s bkpcy. for £5,082 due from him to the firm on their current account :—Held : the transactions between B. & M. & Co. were not dealings between trade & trade so as to take the case out of the rule against a firm proving a debt against the estate of one of the partners, but were merely dealings by B. for the convenience of the partnership, & the fact of all the partners being insolvent, & having no personal interest, did not prevent the application of the rule against a partner competing with his own creditors.—Re BRAGINTON, Ex p. MAUDE (1867), 2 Ch. 4228. —— Against shareholder carrying on separate trade.]—Bkpt. was a shareholder in an unincorporated joint stock banking co., not established under Country Bankers Act, 1826 (c. 46), the rules of which provided that it should have a lien on a shareholder's shares for any balance due from the shareholder. Bkpt. carried on a separate banking business, which was indebted to the banking co. The co. claimed a lien on the shares & on deposited securities, & to prove for the residue :—Held : bkpt.'s dealings with the co. were in respect of a separate trade, & the co. had a right of proof.—Re YOUNG, Ex p. COOPER (1842), 2 Mont. 4234. —— For proportion of disbursements.]—A., B. & C. were part-owners of a ship engaged in the whale fishery. The mode of managing the cargo was that, on the arrival of the vessel at her homeward port, the whalebone was taken into the possession of B., & sold by him, & the proceeds were applied towards the discharge of the expenses of the ship. The blubber was deposited in a warehouse by the owners of the ship, & the oil produced was put into casks, each owner's share being weighed out, & placed separately in the warehouse, in casks marked with his initials. After the division, the warehouseman delivered to the order of each part-owner his share of the oil, unless notice was given by the ship's husband that the part-owner's share of the disbursements had not been paid. In that case, the warehouseman used to detain the oil till the ship's husband's demand had been satisfied. The ship having arrived, the above course was followed. The share set apart for A. was twenty-nine tons, which was stowed in the warehouse in casks, which had A.'s initials on them. A. became bkpt. Twenty tons of the oil had been delivered to A. before his bkpcy., the remaining nine tons remained in the warehouse. The warehouseman having had orders from the ship's husband not to deliver the remaining oil, as A.'s share of the disbursements had not been paid, & an action of trover having been brought by the assignees against the warehouseman for the residue of A.'s oil :—Held : the other part-owners had originally a lien on it for his share of the disbursements of the ship, & such right was not devested by the separation of A.'s share from the residue, & placing it in casks marked with his name.—HOLDERNESS v. SHACKELS (1828), 8 B. & C. 612 ; Dan. & Ll. 203 ; 3 Man. & Ry. Bills & goods were remitted from India to China, where they were realised by the agents of A. & Co., & the proceeds invested by them in the purchase of other goods, one portion of which was consigned to A. & Co., & the other to B. & Co. in England. B. & Co. became bkpt. before their portion of the return proceeds arrived, & A. & Co. were obliged to pay the bill drawn by them for B. & Co.'s moiety of the £10,000 :—Held : there was not such a joint adventure, as to give A. & Co. a lien on B. & Co.'s portion of the return proceeds, for the amount of the bill.—Re BOGGS, Ex p. GEMMEL (1843), 3 Mont. 4254. "By virtue of his office"—Application of 33 Geo. 3, c. 54, s. 10.]—Held: the above sect. only applied to cases where the officer of the friendly society had, by virtue of his office, been entrusted with the money & effects of the society.—Re THICK, Ex p. BUCKLAND (1818), Buck, 214.

Annotation:—Consd. Re Batson, Ex p. Riddell (1842), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 80.

4255. —— Necessity for strict proof.]—In order to entitle a benefit society to prove against the estate of bkpt. for money received by him as treasurer of the society, & claim its repayment in full under 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 40, s. 12, it is necessary strictly to prove that bkpt. received the same by virtue of an office to which he has been legally appointed.—Re BRODIE (1848), 10 L. T. O. S. 422.

4256. —— Debts due individually.]—Held: 33 Geo. 3, c. 54, giving preference to friendly societies, having money due to them from their officers, dying or becoming bkpt. or insolvent, did not extend to debts from them individually, & not in their official characters.—Ex p. AMICABLE SOCIETY OF LANCASTER (1801), 6 Ves. 98; 31 E. 4258. —— ——.]—Bkpt. had in his hands, at the time of his bkpcy., money belonging to a friendly society, not by virtue of his office as treasurer, but alieno jure as by way of loan from the society for which they held his promissory note:—Held: it was not a case within 1849 Act, s. 167, whereby they would be entitled to be repaid in full out of bkpt.'s estate in priority over the other creditors.—Re SHATTOCK, Ex p. LONG ASHTON JUNIOR FRIENDLY SOCIETY (1861), 5 L. 4259. —— Money paid on notes carrying interest.]—Money paid by order of a friendly society from time to time upon notes carrying interest, there being no treasurer appointed, is not money in the hands of the party by virtue of any office within 33 Geo. 3, c. 54, s. 10, entitling the society to a preference in case of bkpcy.—Ex p. ROSS (1802), 6 Ves. 802; 31 E. 4260. —— Money held at interest but not on loan.]—Money belonging to a friendly society was entrusted to its treasurer, for which he was to pay interest. He also had in his hands another sum, for which he was not to pay interest. He entered into the statutory bond, as treasurer for the whole sum, & afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: no part of the money was to be treated as a loan to the treasurer in his private character, & the society was entitled to payment in full.—Re WOODLIFFE, Ex p. RAY (1839), 3 Deac. 537; Mont. & Ch. 5, Ct. of R.

4261. —— Money received for transmission to London agents.]—The trustees of a friendly society were in the habit of paying money into a bank, in order that it might be transmitted to their London bankers to be paid by them into the Bank of England. A sum was paid into the bank for the above purpose, but before it was transmitted to London, the bankers became bkpt.:—Held: the bankers had not money in their hands by virtue of their office or employment.—Re WISE, Ex p. WHIPHAM (1844), 3 Mont. Annotation:—Distd. Re Clarke, Ex p. Harris (1845), De G. 162, Ct. of R.

4263. —— Money received by secretary outside ordinary function.]—Under the rules of a friendly society a treasurer was appointed, whose duty was to render an account of all money received & paid by him, to take charge of the funds, & pay all demands, & also a secretary, whose duty was to keep the accounts & perform the usual secretarial duties. The secretary, with the knowledge & consent of the trustees of the society & the treasurer, received money of the society & misapplied it:—Held: though an officer of the society, the secretary had not received the money so misapplied by virtue of his office, so as to give the trustees a priority.—Re ABERDEIN (1896), 13 T. L. R. 7; 41 Sol. Jo. 12.

4264. "Any money belonging to the society"—Though unidentifiable.] — Debts due to a friendly society by its insolvent treasurer, in his capacity as officer, must be paid out of his general estate in preference to any other claims against the estate, although the trustee has not received, & has no chance of receiving, any money which could be identified as the money of the society, & the estate consists only of stock-in-trade, furniture & book-debts.—Re ATKINS, Ex p. EDMONDS (1882), 51 L. 4265. —— ——.]—The trustees of a friendly society have a preferential claim on the assets of a bkpt. treasurer of the society for the balance due from him to the society at the commencement of the bkpcy., even where the money is not in his possession in specie & cannot be traced.—Re MILLER, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1893] 1 Q. 4266. "The society"—Benefit building society—1849 Act, s. 167.]—A benefit building society is not entitled, on the bkpcy. of its treasurer, to priority over the other creditors.—Re BARRELL, Ex p. BAILEY (1854), 5 De G. M. & G. 380; 23 L. J. Bcy. 36; 2 W. R. 401; 18 Jur. 988; 19 J. P. 327; 43 E. R. 917, L. JJ.

4267. Loss of right of priority—Failure to set aside ultra vires transaction—Failure to call in money.]—The treasurer of a friendly society, having a debt due to him from a person who offered a security, took the security in the name of the society, & retained the amount of his debt out of the society's money in his hands. Some time afterwards he became a bkpt., having in the meanwhile debited himself annually in his accounts with the society, with the interest on the amount for which the security was taken. The security proved insufficient, & was not of the description, or taken in the manner, required by stat.:—Held: the omission on the part of the society to take steps for setting aside the transaction & calling in the money before the bkpcy., did not deprive them of their statutory right to be paid in full, before the other creditors.—Re BAKER, Ex p. BURGE (1841), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 540; 10 L. J. Bcy. 30; 5 Jur. 346, Ct. of R.

4268. —— Failure to take security.]—The trustees of a friendly society claimed, under Friendly Societies Act, 1875 (c. 60), s. 15, payment of a sum alleged to have been received by bkpt. in his capacity of treasurer to the society in priority to the other creditors of bkpt.:—Held: as the trustees of the society had not taken sufficient security from their treasurer, he & his securities not having sealed or delivered the requisite bond, the condition precedent to a preferential recovery against the trustees of a bkpt. treasurer of a friendly society had not been fulfilled.—JOHN O'GAUNT LODGE OF ODDFELLOWS v. BELL (1883), Diprose & Gammon, 67.

4269. —— —— Neglect to audit accounts.]—The priority over other creditors, which is given to friendly societies for debts due to them from their treasurer, etc., is not lost by their neglecting for some time to make him give the security required by their rules & by statute, nor by their neglect to audit his accounts.—ABSOLOM v. GETHING (1863), 32 Beav. 322; 32 L. J. Ch. 786; 9 Jur. N. S. 1263; 55 E. R. 126; sub nom. ABSALUM v. GETHIN, 8 L. T. 132; 11 W. R. 332.

4270. —— —— ——.]—The rules of a benefit society provided that the secretary's accounts should be regularly presented & audited. The secretary misappropriated the money of the society & died leaving his estate insolvent:—Held: the society was entitled to be paid out of the estate the amount of the defalcations in priority to other creditors, & the want of due diligence on the part of the society in examining the accounts was no bar to the claim.—MOORS v. MARRIOTT (1878), 7 Ch. D. 543; 26 W. R. 626; 42 J. P. 452; sub nom. Re MARRIOTT, MOORS v. MARRIOTT, 47 L. J. Ch. 331.

See 1914 Act, s. 33 (9), Trustee Savings Bank Act, 1863 (c. 87), s. 14, Savings Banks Act, 1891 (c. 21), s. 13, &, generally, BANKERS & BANKING, Vol. III., pp. 134 et seq.

4272. Against what estate—Separate estate—Joint fiat against treasurer & partner.]—A joint fiat issued against the treasurer of a savings bank & his partner in trade:—Held: the trustees could only claim priority of payment for any debt owing by him out of the separate estate.—Re ASHLEY, Ex p. APPACH (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 83, Ct. of R.

4273. In what proceedings—Administration action in Chancery Division—Not in bankruptcy.]—The actuary of a savings bank died insolvent, owing the bank money received in his capacity of actuary. In an action in the Ch. Division for the administration of the actuary's estate:—Held: the bank would be entitled to priority by virtue of Savings Banks Act, 1863 (c. 87), s. 14, but 1883 Act, s. 40, took away the right to such priority in bkpcy. proceedings.—Re WILLIAMS, JONES v. WILLIAMS (1887), 36 Ch. D. 573; 57 L. J. Ch. 264; 57 L. T. 756; 36 W. R. 34; 3 T. L. R. 805.

See, now, Savings Banks Act, 1891 (c. 21), s. 13.

4274. "By virtue of his office"—Money paid direct to bank but acknowledged by treasurer—Treasurer partner in bank.]—The treasurer of a savings bank, on his appointment entered into the usual bond for performance of his duties, but did not receive any money, the deposits being paid by the managers directly to a banking firm, of which the treasurer was a partner, to the credit of the trustees of the savings bank, who were allowed interest upon it. The treasurer nevertheless signed the returns required by 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, s. 46, to the comrs. for the reduction of the National Debt, & thereby acknowledged the amount of the balance standing to the credit of the trustees to be money in his hands as treasurer, thus;—"Remaining in my hands £ , T. L., Treasurer." The firm became bkpt. On a petition by the trustees of the savings bank seeking payment in full out of the separate estate of the bkpt. treasurer:—Held: the balance was in the hands of the treasurer as treasurer at his bkpcy. & might be recovered in full by the savings bank.—Re BATSON, Ex p. RIDDELL (1842), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 80; 12 L. J. Bcy. 19; 7 Jur. 21, Ct. of R.

4275. —— Deposits received by cashier for committee.]—A linen draper was appointed actuary & cashier of a savings bank, the rules of which provided that one or more members of the committee should attend at the cashier's shop to receive the deposits. The committee failed to attend, & permitted the deposits to be received by the cashier. Upon his bkpcy.:—Held: the deposits were not money in his hands by virtue of his office, & could not be claimed in full by the savings bank.—Re JARDINE, Ex p. FLEET (1850), 4 De G. & Sm. 52; 19 L. 4277. Against what estate—Banker of commissioners of pavements—Acting as treasurer.]—An Act enacted, that in case any treasurer, collector, officer, or other person appointed by the comrs. having the control of the pavements of any places mentioned in the Act, for the collection & receipt of money to be collected & received by virtue of any rates & assessments, etc., shall happen to become bkpt. before he shall have fully paid & satisfied all money received by him or them, for or in respect of any such rates or assessments, or for or on account of the comrs., etc., the assignees shall pay in full all the money due to such comrs. (if bkpt.'s estate be sufficient), in preference to all debts, except those due to the King:—Held: bankers employed by the comrs., without any actual appointment, were within the words "other persons" used in the sect., as being in the nature of treasurers, & as the Act did not require the appointment of treasurers, collectors, etc., to be in writing, the employment was equivalent to an appointment.—FROST v. BOLLAND (1826), 5 B. & C. 611; 8 Dow. & Ry. 4280. What rates—Arrears of water rate.]—Debtor having been adjudicated a bkpt., his trustee in bkpcy. took possession of his premises & found that the water rate was in arrear. The trustee offered to pay in advance from the date of the adjudication for a supply of water, but the water co. declined to supply it, unless the arrears were paid, & cut off the water. Thereupon the trustee paid the arrears under protest:—Held: the trustee, being in the position of an "incoming tenant" under Metropolis Water Act, 1871, s. 48, was not liable for the arrears, & was entitled to recover from the water co. the amount paid under protest.—Re FLACK, Ex p. BERRY, [1900] 2 Q. 4281. —— Arrears of gas rent.]—Arrears of gas rent paid by the official receiver under protest to a gas co., to prevent the supply of gas being cut off debtor's premises in the occupation of the official receiver, are not preferential payments which the trustee in bkpcy. can recover back.—Re SMITH, Ex p. MASON, [1893] 1 Q. 4282. For what amount—Whole assessment where payable in advance.]—On Jan. 17, 1887, when a receiving order was made & adjudication took place, bkpt. was tenant of a house & shop which he held under a lease for twenty-one years. The trustee in the bkpcy. did not disclaim the lease, but on Feb. 1, he sold his interest in it, bkpt. remaining in occupation as tenant under the purchaser. At the date of the receiving order there was due from bkpt. a Local Board rate, made on Oct. 8, 1886, for the half-year from Sept. 30, 1886, to Mar. 25, 1887, & payable in advance:—Held: the estate of bkpt. was liable to pay the rate for the whole half-year, & not merely an apportioned part of it up to the date of the order of adjudication.—Re THOMAS, Ex p. YSTRADYFODWG LOCAL BOARD (1887), 57 L. 4283. —— All money recovered "for & on behalf of commissioners" of pavements.]—Bankers employed by comrs. of pavements received on account of the comrs. Exchequer bills, which they afterwards sold, & received the proceeds. Before that money was paid to the comrs., the bankers became bkpts.:—Held: the comrs. were entitled, under the sect. set out in No. 4277, ante, to recover in full from the assignees the balance due to them, as that sect. was not confined to money received by virtue of rates or assessments, but included all money received "for & on account of the comrs.," & when the bankers sold the Exchequer bills, they received the proceeds to the use of the owners of the bills.—DOUGAN v. BOLLAND (1826), 5 B. & C.

4285. "Wages or salary"—Sums deducted from wages for doctor's fund—Not paid over at date of bankruptcy.]—Employers & their workmen arranged, but not by any agreement in writing signed by the latter, that deductions should be made from the wages towards a "doctor's fund" established to pay a doctor, who attended & supplied with medicines the workmen & their families. The sums deducted were from time to time handed by the employers to the doctor. There was no evidence that the doctor had accepted the liability of the employers. In the liquidation of the employers :—Held : the fund, so far as it had not been paid to the doctor, must be repaid in full to the workmen, as it was wages not validly paid within Truck Act, 1831 (c. 36), & to preferential payment of which the workmen were entitled under 1869 Act, s. 32.—Re MORRIS, Ex p. COOPER (1884), 26 Ch. 4332. —— Delay of general creditors in setting aside proceedings.]—Two creditors had entered up judgment against a trader on a warrant of attorney, but had not registered it according to Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110). They attended a meeting for investigating the affairs of debtor, & were there informed by a solr., who attended on behalf of the general creditors, that he had in his pocket the means of preventing them from obtaining any preference. The solr. had with him at the time a declaration of insolvency which he had previously obtained from the trader. Having made the above statement, he inquired, as he deposed, of the judgment creditors whether they intended to seek any preference by means of their judgment, & received an answer from them in the negative, but he purposely abstained from mentioning registration. On the investigation taking place it had appeared that the trader had freehold property of considerable value, & the further investigation was adjourned to an appointed day. The solr. forbore to file the declaration of insolvency, but the judgment creditors registered their judgment a few days after that of the meeting. PART XII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 1.

4335 i. Right of proof—Loan before Married Women's Property Act, 1890.]—A wife, who lent her husband separate property before the above Act, is not to be postponed in the proof of her debt in the estate of her husband, who has become insolvent since that Act, until the other creditors are satisfied.—Re BROOMFIELD (1895), 6 Q. L. J. 176.—AUS.

4335 ii. —— Loan to husband for business purposes.]—The wife of insolvent was entitled to property in her own right, the rents from which were received by her husband from time to time, & for some years previous to his insolvency appropriated to his business, with the wife's knowledge. The wife claimed to rank for money so appropriated:—Held: when husband & wife lived together, the wife could not charge the husband's estate as her debtor for her separate income which she had permitted him to receive.—Re HARVEY (1890), 7 Nfld. L. R. 442.—NFLD.

4335 vi. ——.]—A wife entrusted her property to her husband for the purpose of his business as a cab-driver. While conducting this business G. recovered judgment against him for a tort. The husband was subsequently adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: the wife's claim as a creditor on the estate was not deferred until the claim of G. had been satisfied, inasmuch as G.'s claim was not "for valuable consideration for money or money's worth" within Married Women's Property Act, 1908, s. 8, but that she was entitled to receive dividends pari passu with G.—O'HALLORAN'S OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE v. O'HALLORAN (1909), 29 N. Both husband & the partnership became bkpt.:—Held: the wife could prove against her husband's estate in priority to the joint creditors of the firm. S. 1 of the above Act postponing a wife's claim, where the loan was for the purpose of her husband's business, until his other creditors have been satisfied, does not include creditors of a firm of which he is a member.—REEVES v. REEVES' OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, [1919] N. District Bank of London*, was this: When any one claims to prove in bkpcy. he must of course show a primâ facie case, &, having regard to the facts of that case, the primâ facie inference was that the money lent by the wife to the husband was lent to him for the purpose of his business; but the learned judge had no intention of saying that, according to the true construction of Married Women's Property Act, 1882 (c. 75), s. 3, it threw on the wife in every case the obligation of proving that the money was not lent to the husband for the purpose of his business (VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, L.J.).

4341. —— ——.]—A wife deposited the title deeds of her separate real estate with bankers & signed a memorandum of deposit as security for advances made by the bank to her husband for the purposes of his business. She afterwards paid off the amount advanced. On the husband's death an order was made for the administration of his estate in bkpcy. The wife claimed to prove for the amount of the advances paid off & for a further sum lent to her husband, but did not in her affidavit say the money was not lent for the purposes of his business. The trustee produced no evidence that it was lent for that purpose & did not cross-examine the wife:—Held: the wife was entitled to prove against her husband's estate for the amount she had paid the bank, & for the further sum.—Re CRONMIRE, Ex p. CRONMIRE, [1901] 1 K. 4342. Right to repayment—Insurance premiums paid before & after bankruptcy of husband.]—Bkpt. having assigned a policy on his own life by way of mtge. to his bankers, requested his wife on the eve of his bkpcy. to pay the premiums & interest for him, & she, after paying one premium before the commencement of the bkpcy., paid the premiums & interest during his bkpcy. until his death, when the policy money was received by the mtgees., who retained thereout the amount due to them on their mtge. & paid the balance to the official receiver. The wife claimed to be repaid out of the balance the sums she had paid for premiums & interest. The official receiver had no previous knowledge that the wife had been making the payments, but it subsequently appeared that that fact had been disclosed by bkpt. in his preliminary examination taken before a former official receiver. The official receiver moved for a declaration that he was entitled to retain the balance of the policy money as part of bkpt.'s estate:—Held: even assuming that all the payments were made during the bkpcy., the ct. ought not to allow the official receiver, having regard to the knowledge of his predecessor, to retain the policy money without repaying to the wife the sums she had paid for premiums & interest.—Re TYLER, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1907] 1 K. 4345. On what contracts—Interest at fixed rate—Subject to deduction if profits deficient.]—A loan was made to a trader under a contract in writing, which provided that he should pay as interest a fixed sum half-yearly, & in case he should be unable to pay any portion of the interest "by reason of deficiency of profits, a due allowance" should be made by the lender in a fair & reasonable manner. The trader became bkpt.:—Held: the above stipulation was too vague to be capable of receiving any certain construction, & as it could not be separated from the rest of the agreement, it could not be treated as a contract for the lender to receive "a rate of interest varying with the profits," & the lender was not postponed.—Re VINCE, Ex p. BAXTER, [1892] 2 Q. Subsequently the original agreement was cancelled, & debtor agreed to pay a higher rate of interest in lieu of the share of profits:—Held: the advance having been made upon condition of receiving a share of the profits, the debt was postponed to those of the other creditors, & the fact that the original arrangement was altered, made no difference, it not being clearly shown that what took place amounted to an entirely new loan.—Re STONE (1886), 33 Ch. 4350. —— —— Further loan at interest.]—In 1893 A. & B. entered into partnership, & C. agreed to lend them capital for the business, receiving a share of the profits in lieu of interest. In June, 1895, A. & B. by deed, to which C. was a party, dissolved partnership, B. continuing the business & taking over & becoming solely responsible for the debt due to C., & a further sum advanced without any express stipulation as to interest. In Aug. B. & C. entered into a deed by which it was agreed that C. should continue to receive a share of profits in lieu of interest in respect of the original advance, but that the further advance & any future advances should carry a fixed rate of interest. B. became bkpt.:—Held: C. must be postponed in respect of all her advances prior to Aug., 1895.

Where a loan, made in consideration of a share in the profits of a business, is increased without any agreement as to the interest, the inference is that it was lent on the same terms as the first advance.—Re MASON, Ex p. BING, [1899] 1 Q. 4351. —— Option of lender to take share of profits instead of interest—Release of original debtor firm—Liability of members substituted.]—A firm borrowed money for a commercial adventure, on the terms that it was to be repaid with interest, or, at the option of the lender, by a share of the profits. The lender subsequently agreed to receive in lieu of interest shares in a proposed co. The co. was not formed, & the original agreement was varied, by the firm agreeing to pay interest, & to give the lender a share of the profits of the venture. No profits were made, & the firm was released 4354. —— Price of trade name & goodwill in form of annuity—Sale by widow of deceased husband's business.]—A widow sold the trade name & goodwill of the business carried on by her late husband. Part of the consideration was the payment to her of an annuity, which was not expressed to be payable out of the profits of the business.

In the purchaser's bkpcy. she proved for the capitalised value of the annuity:—Held: the annuity was not a share of the profits of the business, & her proof was not postponed until the claims of the other creditors had been paid in full.—Re GIEVE, Ex p. SHAW (1899), 80 L. While the agreement was in force M., in conjunction with H., lent T. other sums of money on a vested agreement, for which interest at 10 per cent. was to be paid. M. determined the agreement, & T. gave M. bills of exchange for the money advanced under it, except certain profits which were carried over to the 10 per cent. account; but M. & H. went on advancing to T. other sums on the 10 per cent. account. 4357. —— —— ——.]—A lender of money to a trader, on the terms of receiving a share of the profits of his business, cannot prove for the loan in the bkpcy. of the borrower in competition with any of his creditors, not merely those creditors whose debts were contracted in relation to the business in respect of which the loan was made, or while that business was being carried on, but any of the creditors who are entitled to prove in the bkpcy. Till all the other creditors have been paid in full, such a lender is not entitled to prove for any purpose whatever.

A loan was made to a trader, on the terms of the lender receiving half the profits of the business. Subsequently the trader, being insolvent, assigned all his property to a trustee, on trust for sale, & out of the proceeds of sale to pay the lender a small sum, then to pay his creditors (other than the lender) in full, & afterwards to pay the lender the balance of his loan, with interest at 10 per cent. The lender was a party to the deed. The trustee realised the property & paid the creditors (other than the lender) a dividend of 6*s.* in the pound. That exhausted the proceeds of sale, & the lender received nothing beyond the small payment made to him in the first instance. All the creditors released the trustee, but they expressly reserved their rights against the trader. The trader afterwards filed a liquidation petition:—Held: the arrangement did not amount to a repayment of the loan & a relending of the money on new terms, &, the lender could not prove in competition with the other creditors.—Re GRASON, Ex p. TAYLOR (1879), 12 Ch. 4352 i. On what contracts—Share of profits.]—If A. supplies B. with money & credit to carry on trade upon the condition of receiving a proportion of the profit of such trade, A. cannot, upon the bkpcy. of B., participate in a dividend of his effects until all other creditors have been paid in full.—REDDY v. HACKETT'S TRUSTEES (1825), 1 Nfld. L. R. 446.—NFLD.

4352 ii. —— —— Security taken—Advance by clerk.]—K., a clerk employed by bkpt., advanced £800 for use in his business, K. to be paid interest & half the profits in lieu of extra salary, & to have a lien on goods purchased with the £800, bkpt. to take all risk:—Held: K. was not a partner, & his debt should not be postponed to debts of the other creditors.—Re BORTHWICK, Ex p. KIRKPATRICK (1875), 9 I. SUB-SECT. 3.—OTHER CASES.

4358. Creditor under voluntary bond or covenant.]—The old rule of the Ct. of Bkpcy. that creditors under voluntary bonds or covenants must be postponed in the receipt of dividends to creditors for valuable consideration, was abolished by 1869 Act; & a creditor under a voluntary covenant, whose proof has been admitted, is entitled to be paid pari passu with all other creditors, except those to whom priority is specifically given.—Re STEWART, Ex p. POTTINGER (1878), 8 Ch. 4360. Creditor holding cognovit allowing debtor to trade unmolested.]—M. was made bkpt. in 1840, & did not obtain a certificate of conformity. S. was a creditor, but did not prove for the whole of his debt. In 1841 S. sued M. for the balance, & he executed a cognovit. In 1842 M. began to trade again, & carried on business until 1852, when he executed an assignment to his creditors. S. had knowledge of the trading for some time previous to the second stoppage. An adjudication of bkpcy. having followed the assignment, S. entered up judgment on the cognovit, & proved under the second bkpcy. as a judgment creditor:—Held: S. having suffered M. to trade again unmolested, was postponed, & could not participate in bkpt.'s subsequently acquired estate until the second creditors were fully paid.—Re M'LINTOCK, Ex p. SCOTT (1854), 23 L. See, now, 1914 Act, s. 62.

4361. Jurisdiction of court—As regards distribution of estate.]—A person, who had taken the benefit of Insolvent Debtors Act, first in 1814, & a second time in 1820, died in 1826, leaving assets more than sufficient for the payment of all the debts which he had contracted subsequently to his second insolvency:—Held: a ct. of equity had jurisdiction to apply the assets in payment (1) of the subsequent debts, (2) of the debts scheduled under the second insolvency, & (3) of the debts scheduled under the first insolvency.—BARTON v. TATTERSALL (1830), 1 Russ. & M. 237; 1 Taml. 378; 39 E. 4363. —— —— Lex fori applicable.]—Bkpt., on his marriage in England, executed a settlement, by which he covenanted to pay an annuity for the benefit of his wife. Both bkpt. & his wife were domiciled in England, & the settlement was made in accordance with English law. The bkpcy. took place in the Cape of Good Hope, & by the law of that colony claims of wives under marriage settlements were postponed to the claims of other creditors:—Held: the law of the Cape of Good Hope governing the distribution of the assets prevailed.

The proper order & priority of distribution of assets is always a matter for the lex fori, & the country where the distribution takes place always claims to itself the right to regulate the course of distribution (LORD CAIRNS).—THURBURN v. STEWARD (1871), L. r. Surety with insolvent.]—A surety, jointly & severally obliged with insolvent, cannot rank concurrently with other creditors for the amount he has had to pay, but only after the others have been paid in full.—PAQUET v. CANADA GUARANTEE CO. (1881), 4 L. N. 229.—CAN.

PART XIII. SECT. 1.

4361 i. Jurisdiction of court—As regards distribution of estate.]—At a meeting of creditors it was agreed between debtor's mother & the creditors present that debtor should be granted an extension of time, provided that the mother allowed a claim she had as extrix. of his father to stand over till the other creditors were paid. On the subsequent bkpcy., the official assignee rejected the extrix.'s proof, but his decision was reversed, & the proof admitted. On appeal it was contended that the proof, if admitted at all, should have been admitted only on condition that all dividends paid upon it be devoted to the payment in full of the claims of the other creditors who had given debtor time as above:—Held: the question as to the application of the dividends, being one between some of the creditors only & the creditor proving, could not have been entertained by the assignee when considering the admission or rejection of the proof, & could not be entertained on the application to reverse the assignee's decision.—Re FAIRBROTHER, Ex p. FAIRBROTHER (1897), 16 N. 4365. —— To order some of many fictitious creditors to make good dividends paid to others.]—A petitioning creditor fraudulently sued out a commission & prevailed upon twelve persons to make proofs on fictitious debts, for the purpose of carrying the choice of assignees. On the fraud being discovered the assignees were removed, & the proofs expunged. One of the assignees had absconded with part of the assets, & two of the fictitious creditors had become insolvent & were unable to repay the dividends received:—Held: the ct. had no jurisdiction to order the persons who had proved the fictitious debts to make good the dividends, which the two fictitious creditors were unable to repay.—Re SMITH, Ex p. BRAND (1836), 1 Deac. 308; 2 Mont. & A. 707; 5 L. 4366. What property distributable—Property in regard to which claim of third party notified.]—Where notice is given to the assignees that property in their hands is not the property of bkpt., though the party claiming it takes no steps to establish his claim for some years, they will not be justified in distributing it amongst the creditors, & if claimant succeed in his claim, the ct. has jurisdiction to order the assignees to restore it.—Re STOKES, Ex p. PEMBERTON (1837), 6 L. 4369. Notice to declare dividend—Whether bar to creditor claiming subsequently.]—Notice to declare a dividend had been inserted in the Gazette, by which July 28 was specified as the last day for claims to be sent in. On July 30 a claim was made & rejected on the ground (inter alia) that it was made too late:—Held: the notice did not preclude the creditor from making the claim.—Re SHEPHERD & LEECH, Ex p. WHITEHAVEN MUTUAL INSURANCE SOCIETY (1887), 4 Morr. 130, D. 4371. Effect of payment & receipt of dividend—Primâ facie evidence of debt—Sufficiency of evidence in rebuttal.]—The receipt of dividends under a bkpcy. will, after a great lapse of time & loss of the securities, be accepted as primâ facie proof of the existence of the debt, & any objection to it must rest on evidence showing some probable reason for supposing, not that it may be, but that it is bad.—Re GRANT, Ex p. GRAHAM (1863), 33 L. a. From what funds payable—Amendment of proof after dividend declared & partly paid.]—A creditor having proved against the joint estate of a firm, amended his proof & proved for part of the amount against the joint estate & for the remainder against the separate estate of one of the partners. A dividend on the separate estate had then been declared & partly paid:—Held: he was entitled as against the separate estate to a dividend only out of the funds remaining after payment of the dividend already declared.—Re ROBINS & DAY, Ex p. GALLAGHER (1884), 3 N. Z. L. R. 93.—N.Z.

4368 i. Whether debt liable to attachment.]—A dividend payable to a creditor, who has proved in the bkpcy. matter, cannot be attached under C. L. P. Act, 1856, by a judgment creditor of the person to whom such dividend is payable.—BOYSE v. SIMPSON (1859), 8 I. C. L. R. 523.—IR.

b. Plan of distribution—Who may object to—Creditor who has proved.]—Where a person appears as a creditor on a plan of distribution he is, whether he has or not properly proved his own debt, entitled to object to any changes or to any other creditor included in that plan.—Re RUTLEDGE, Ex p. BANK OF AUSTRALASIA (1863), 2 W. & W. 6, 41.—AUS.

c. —— —— Unpaid creditor.]—An unpaid creditor has, at all times, an interest in preventing his debtor's assets from being diverted to pay illegitimate or unlawful claims.

When in the distribution of money of debtor by the prothonotary, a party making an unlawful claim is collocated, a creditor to whom an amount is allotted in the same report as if such a claim had not been made, has nevertheless the right to contest the latter, as a reduction in the dividend allotted to the other creditors must have the effect of impairing the contestant's chances of payment out of other or future assets of debtor.—CHEVALIER v. BESSETTE (1906), Q. R. 15 K. B. 206.—CAN.

d. —— —— Insolvent himself.]—An insolvent has a locus standi to object to a plan of distribution filed in his estate.—Re ROBERTS (1892), 9 S. C. 188.—S. AF.

e. —— How objection should be taken to.]—Where a creditor objects to a plan of distribution, he should move under 1887 Act, s. 70, & not file objections to the account & plan being confirmed.—Re GARLING, Ex p. BRAY (1893), 14 N. S. W. B. 7.—AUS.

f. —— Amendment of.]—A claim for £7,000 & interest put in by M., a secured creditor, without valuing her security was admitted as a claim only standing for further proof. The official assignee subsequently filed a plan of distribution, in which he inserted M. as a creditor for £7,500 & entitled to a dividend of £968 15*s.*, but in a subsequent part of the plan under the head of "Unrealised Assets" inserted the following item:—"Dividend set aside for M.'s claim, for which it is supposed security is held equal in value to the amount £968":—Held: the plan of distribution ought to be amended by describing the dividend payable to M. not as payable absolutely, but only upon the contingency of her valuing her security & proving for the balance.—Re RUTLEDGE, Ex p. BANK OF AUSTRALASIA (1863), 2 W. & W. 6, 41.—AUS.

g. —— Order to vary—Appeal from.]—Held: an order of a county ct. judge dismissing an application by a claimant, under Assignments Act, R. S. O., 1897 (c. 147), s. 30, to vary the scheme of distribution made by the assignee of debtor, was made by him as persona designata, & there was no appeal therefrom.—Re SIMPSON & CLAFFERTY (1899), 18 P. R. 402.—CAN.

h. Distribution account — Whether confirmation an estoppel—Amendment.]—The confirmation of a distribution account does not estop a creditor from disputing his liability to pay a contribution specified in such account; but, in other respects, the account constitutes a judgment of the ct. until proper steps have been taken to amend it.—HORWITZ v. SHEFFREN'S ESTATE (1910), 20 C. SECT. 2.—POSITION OF TRUSTEE.

4373. Duty to distribute—Periodically as money available.]—It is the main duty of a trustee to distribute any assets which may from time to time come into his hands, &, even if he had to make a new sum in arithmetic & to send out fresh letters & fresh cheques every quarter or every month, it does not seem to be an inconvenience to be put into competition with the inconvenience which would be suffered by a creditor who is deprived of a sum of money to which he is legally, equitably & morally entitled (JAMES & BAGGALLAY, L.JJ.).—Re COLLIE, Ex p. ADAMSON (1878), 8 Ch. sequestrated estate of his debtor upon the sum total of a debt payable by four instalments of which the two last were not yet due:—Held: the dividend was not imputable towards the total extinction of the first & second instalments, but was to be considered as a payment of so much on each pound of the whole debt.—BALMANNO v. M'NEE, M'NEE v. BALMANNO (1826), 2 Wils. & S. 7.—SCOT.

n. Agreement to postpone claim—To enable debtor's business to be carried on—Effect of agreement on creditor's right to rank in distribution.]—A merchant assigned for the benefit of creditors. Appct. having filed the particulars of her claim with the assignee, offered to stand aside for a year, in order that the other creditors might have an opportunity to realise their claims out of the business, upon condition that the creditors in the estate agreed to assign to her or to her nominee the business, stock-in-trade, book debts, or any other assets of the estate which might be in the assignee's possession, & that if any extension of a year should be necessary to pay the trade creditors in full, she was to have the option of extending the agreement or ranking with other creditors, as she might see fit. The offer was accepted, the assignee was discharged & one of pltfs. was appointed receiver & to carry on the business under an order, which directed that the receiver was, after deducting such sums as were necessary to carry on the business, to apply the remainder in payment of costs of action, claims for wages & other liabilities of insolvent payable out of the estate ratably & proportionately without preference or priority. The receiver carried on business for a year, & he paid the creditors, other than appct., a dividend of 25 per cent. upon their claims. It appearing that the carrying on of the business would not result in payment of creditors in full, the receiver sold out the stock-in-trade & held the proceeds for distribution. The receiver would only allow appct. to rank with other creditors with respect to the proceeds then in his hands & refused to allow her the dividend of 25 per cent. already paid to the other creditors:—Held: appct. was entitled under her agreement to rank pro ratâ with the other creditors, not only with respect to the proceeds of the sale, but also with respect to that portion realised by the receiver while carrying on that business.—FOWLER v. BARNARD, Re BARNARD (1908), 7 W. L. R. 624.—CAN.

o. Position of indemnifying creditors.]—"Others" in 1898 Act, s. 77, refers to all creditors who have not given an indemnity, & does not refer to those creditors only who have had a proper opportunity of joining in the indemnity & have refused to do so.

The ct. cannot under s. 77 give any advantage to creditors who have not given an indemnity, even though such creditors had no notice of proceedings to recover assets being contemplated or taken or of an indemnity having been given by certain creditors.—Re LANCE, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1900), 21 N. 4373 i. Duty to distribute.]—The disposal of bkpt.'s effects belongs to his assignee.—Re BAILY (1809), 2 Mol. 444.—IR.

4373 ii. —— Periodically as money available.]—Held: it was not the meaning of 1869 Act, s. 55, that no dividend could be declared until after the expiration of three months from the appointment of an assignee, but that a dividend might be declared at the end of one month, if the assignee had funds.—Re TUCKER (1871), 8 N. S. R. 300.—CAN.

4373 iii. —— As regards preferential claims.]—The funds of a bkpt. estate in the hands of the official assignee must be first applied in payment of preferential claims, & cannot be controlled by the general body of creditors for the purposes of litigation or otherwise.—Re HAYDON, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1884), 2 N. Z. L. R. 372.—N.Z.

4373 iv. —— Proof wrongly admitted.]—Where a proof was wrongly allowed as preferent, but the trustee in his distribution account only awarded the creditor a dividend as a concurrent creditor:—Held: the trustee had acted rightly in so proving the account, without first applying to the ct. to amend the proof.—DREYFUS & CO. v. ESTATE NAPIER (1907), 24 S. C. 224; 17 C. T. R. 325.—S. AF.

4373 v. —— Right to reserve for expenses.]—A special case was presented to determine the rights of creditors under a trust deed. The trust estate consisted mainly of heritage including pictures which sold for a considerable sum. Preference on the price was claimed by the heritable creditors:—Held: the proceedings in the special case did not constitute a contract binding the trustee on the trust estate to distribute the whole price of the pictures immediately among the creditors, but he was entitled to retain a portion to meet general expenses.—TRAILL v. MOUNSEY (TRAILL'S TRUSTEE) (1919), 2 S. 4374 iii. —— No notice of sitting for proof of debts or that debt was disputed—Laches of creditor.]—Where a creditor, whose debt has been returned on bkpt.'s schedule of affairs, seeks to render the official assignee personally responsible for payment of a dividend due on foot of the debt, upon the grounds (1) no notice that the debt was disputed, or of any sitting for proof of debts was given by the official assignee, (2) the debt was not returned by him to the registrar as an undisputed debt, & (3) he did not, in distributing bkpt.'s estate, allocate or pay any portion thereof in respect of such debt, the creditor will be disentitled to such relief, if he has been guilty of laches while he has had, by himself or by his agents, actual knowledge of proceedings in the bkpcy. matter, as contributing to the circumstances which have occasioned the mistake or miscarriage of which he complains.—Re WOODS, Ex p. BRAIDWATER SPINNING CO. (1876), 10 I. L. T. 24.—IR.

4374 iv. —— For dividend awarded—No estate assets in hand.]—A trustee realised certain securities held by a secured creditor, & out of the proceeds paid the costs of certain unsuccessful legal proceedings brought by the estate, & thereafter framed a distribution & contribution account. When sued by the secured creditor for the balance of dividend awarded in the plan of distribution, which had been confirmed, the trustee pleaded that he had no estate assets in hand & had so far been unable to recover the contributions owing by the unsecured creditors:—Held: he was liable to pay the dividend awarded in the plan

See 1914 Act, ss. 65, 68.

4383. —— —— Some creditors paid additional sums.]—After a dividend, creditors proving debts are ordinarily to take only future dividends pari passu, but if the assignees have paid other creditors, equal to those who have afterwards proved, they ought to do the same with those who apply.—Ex p. LONG (1786), 2 Bro. C. C. 50; 29 E. R. 26, L. C.

See 1914 Act, s. 65.

4384. When order for payment granted—Petition of one creditor—Effects allowed to accumulate thirteen years.]—Assignees of bkpt. made no dividend, but thirteen years after the bkpcy. had from the produce of the property accumulated enough to pay 15*s.* in the pound. A sale & distribution were ordered on petition of one creditor. —Ex p. GORING (1790), 1 Ves. 168; 30 E. R. 284.

4380 i. What dividends—Dividend declared between time for delivery of proof & time for rejection, expunging, or reduction thereof.]—If a proof has not been rejected, expunged or reduced, the creditor is entitled to share in all dividends declared after his proof was delivered or sent in, as required by Insolvency Act, 1890, s. 106.—Re BENNESS (1890), 16 V. L. R. 691.—AUS.

entitled in respect of a proof requested the assignees, by letter, to send him the amount of his dividend in a post office order, promising to send a receipt by return of post. The assignees sent no answer:—Held: there was such refusal to pay the dividend, as entitled the creditor to an order upon petition at the costs of the assignees personally.—Re MOODY, Ex p. JACKSON (1842), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 1, L. C.

See 1914 Act, s. 68, & 1915 Rules, r. 270.

4387. Grounds for refusal of order for payment—Debt usurious.]—A. gave a note for £100 payable, two months from date, to B., who gave no consideration. B. indorsed over to C., but allowed a discount of 9 per cent. & when the note became due C. took a joint bond from A. & B. for £100. On the bkpcy. of A., C. proved for £100 but, on finding out that he had paid only £98 8*s.* 6*d.* for the note, the comrs. stopped his dividend. On petition by C. Lord Hardwicke, C., declined to direct payment of the dividend, but ordered an issue to try whether the bond was usurious.—Ex p. THOMPSON (1746), 1 Atk. 125; 26 E. R. 82, L. C.

4388. —— Debt wrongly admitted—Necessity for expunging proof.]—An application by a creditor to be paid his dividends, which had been ordered under the commission, was resisted by the assignees, on the ground that the debt ought not to have been admitted on the proceedings:—Held: the assignees could not refuse to pay the dividends, & if they objected to the debt, they ought to have presented a petition to expunge it.—Ex p. WHITESIDE (1813), 1 Rose, 319, L. C.

See 1914 Act, Sched. II., r. 24.

4389. —— Proof neither admitted nor rejected for two years.]—P., a creditor, proved under proceedings for the liquidation by arrangement of the affairs of R., the proof being made prior to the appointment of the trustee. Subsequently to the proof being made the trustee caused P. to be summoned for examination. The course of the examination was such as to show that the trustee was not satisfied with the proof. After a lapse of two years, the trustee having taken no further step with respect to P.'s proof, declared a dividend, which he paid to all the creditors except P. A registrar ordered the trustee to pay the dividend to P. On appeal against such order:—Held: two years having elapsed without notice of rejection having been given, the trustee must be taken to have admitted the proof, & the order of registrar should be affirmed.—Re RUSSELL, Ex p. KEMP (1873), 42 L. J. Bcy. 26; 28 L. T. 487; 21 W. R. 450, L. J.

4390. —— Application too late—Estate fully administered — Trustee released.] — Semble: a creditor, who, with full knowledge of his rights, neglects to assert them until after the estate has been fully administered & the trustee released, comes too late to prove for unliquidated damages & claim a dividend thereon.—Re GILL, Ex p. BARNARD (1882), 46 L. T. 824.

See 1914 Act, s. 67.

4391. Security proved on lost—Payment to donee of power of attorney—Form of order—Costs.]—A creditor lost a bill of exchange, which he had proved, & in respect of which he had given a power of attorney authorising the assignees to pay the dividends to the donee of the power:—Held: (1) assignees could not pay dividends without the production of the securities mentioned in the proof, & as they had been lost by the creditor's negligence he must pay the costs of the application; (2) the order should provide that the dividends should be paid under a proper indemnity from the donee of the power, & on an affidavit that the creditor was still alive, the costs to be deducted from the dividend.—Re HARTSINCK, Ex p. TRUST (1834), 3 Deac. & Ch. 750, Ct. of R.

See 1915 Rules, rr. 252, 269, 271.

4392. —— Special directions to official receiver.]—Where a bill of exchange exhibited by a creditor at the time of his proof is lost before a dividend is declared, the comr. should, on the application of the creditor, give special directions to the official assignee to pay the dividend, without requiring the production of the bill.—Re HAMBLY, Ex p. WALLIS (1836), 1 Deac. 496; 2 Mont. & A. 586, Ct. of R.

See 1915 Rules, r. 269.

4393. Application to vary order for payment—Debt alleged usurious.]—N. proved a debt, & dividends were declared upon the proof. The assignees refused to pay the dividends, believing the debt to be usurious. N. petitioned to have the dividends paid, & an order was made for payment thereof, not precluding the assignees from presenting a petition to expunge the proof. The assignees did not present such petition, & N. proceeded to enforce the order for payment by attachment. The assignees applied to restrain N. & to have the order varied, by inserting a direction that the dividends might be paid out of the first assets which should come into their hands:—Held: the application must be dismissed, & the assignees must pay the money.—Re MACKENZIE, Ex p. GRAHAM (1813), 1 Rose, 456, L. C.

4394. Suspended order for payment—Time allowed for trustee to have proof expunged.] — Where the trustee was dissatisfied with a proof but had taken no steps for two years to reject same, an order of the registrar for payment of the dividend was affirmed, but suspended for fourteen days to enable the trustee to apply to expunge.—Re RUSSELL, Ex p. KEMP (1873), 42 L. J. Bcy. 26; 28 L. T. 487; 21 W. R. 450, L. J.

Accountant in bankruptcy—Dividends on sums claimed by cestui que trust—Action of account against bankrupt pending.]—Where bkpt. & his co-trustees had been guilty of a breach of trust, & a bill in Ch. had been filed against them by the cestuis que trust for an account, which suit was pending at the time of the bkpcy., the cestuis que trust were permitted to enter a claim for the amount due to them, without prejudice to the Ch. suit, & all dividends in respect of the claim were ordered to be transferred by the accountant in bkpcy. to the credit of the bkpcy. & of the suit.—Re M'NEILL, Ex p. STUTELY (1841), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 643, Ct. of R.

4401. Executor—Proof by residuary legatee—On refusal of executor to prove.]—Where the exor. under the will of a creditor of bkpt. firm declines to make proof against the estate of bkpts., on the ground that he is ignorant of the circumstances in which the debt accrued, the ct. will allow proof by the residuary legatees under the will, subject to a direction for payment of the dividend to the exor.—Re STRAHAN, PAUL & BATES, Ex p. CALDWELL (1865), 13 W. R. 952.

4402. Parties presumed to be entitled—Marriage settlement lost.]—A marriage settlement having been lost, which declared the trusts of a fund belonging to the wife, & there being every probability that petitioners were entitled to the fund under the provisions of the settlement, they were, after being admitted to prove for the amount, allowed to receive the dividends, without a reference, as the fund was too small to bear that expense.—Re DORNFORD, Ex p. HARRISON (1837), 3 Deac. 25, Ct. of R.

4403. Crown—Creditor proving ceasing to exist—Creditor company wound up.]—A firm became bkpt. in 1847, & a corpn. created by statute proved in the bkpcy., with other creditors. In 1887 the corpn. was dissolved by an order of the ct. under Cos. Act. Afterwards it was discovered that bkpts. had been entitled to certain shares, & the official receiver recovered the value of the shares, & held the proceeds as trustee in the bkpcy. A creditor, moved to expunge the proof of the dissolved corpn., claiming that the money to which the corpn. had been entitled as a creditor, & which was then in the hands of the official receiver as trustee, was divisible among the still existing creditors :—Held: on the dissolution of the corpn. the dividends due to it were not divisible among the other creditors, but passed to the Crown as bona vacantia.—Re HIGGINSON & DEAN, Ex p. A.-G., [1899] 1 Q. 4413. Proof in respect of bankrupt husband's marriage settlement obligations.] — Bkpt. had covenanted to pay a sum, to be invested on the trusts of his marriage settlement, for the benefit of his wife & the issue of the marriage. He became bkpt. without having done so. Proof was ordered in the usual way, the dividends to be paid into the bank, & the interest thereof to be paid to the parties entitled under the settlement.—Re MAY, Ex p. MAY (1833), 2 L. J. Bcy. 72.

4414. ———.]—A partner previous to his marriage withdrew £1,000 from the partnership funds & presented it to his intended wife. He afterwards withdrew £1,500 more to provide for the children of the marriage, the trusts of which were declared by an antenuptial settlement. The trustees in exercise of a power given by the settlement, lent the two sums to the partnership, & took the joint bond of the partners to secure repayment:—Held: the joint creditors of the firm were not entitled to the dividends on the proof of the trustees during the life of bkpt. partner, until the whole £2,500 was made up to satisfy the trusts of the settlement.—Re LAST & CASEY, Ex p. CROFTS (1837), 2 Deac. 102, Ct. of R.

4415. ———.]—A wife's money was settled upon her marriage in trust after her decease for her husband for life, with remainder to the children of the marriage at twenty-one or marriage. The trustees advanced the fund to the husband, under a power to that effect. On his subsequent bkpcy.:—Held: the dividends accruing under the proof of the trustees should be invested & allowed to accumulate during the life of the husband, for the benefit of the children who were beneficially entitled to the fund.—Re WALTER, Ex p. WALTER'S ASSIGNEES (1859), 32 L. 4431. Must not exceed amount actually advanced for premiums—Proof on capitalised value of covenant to pay premiums—Death of insured after declaration but before payment of dividend.]—By a marriage settlement a fund was impressed with a trust to pay such premiums upon policies of assurance on the husband's life, assigned by the husband to the trustees, as he should fail to pay, & the husband covenanted with the trustees to pay the premiums. In 1871 the husband filed a liquidation petition, after which the trustees paid the premiums out of the wife's life estate. The husband's covenant was valued at £2,053 8*s.* & a claim for that amount was admitted as a proof. A dividend of 10*s.* was declared, but before the amount reached the hands of the trustees the husband died. At that time the sums which had been disbursed by the trustees amounted to £766 5*s.* :—Held : the trustees were not entitled to receive the whole dividend which had been declared, but only the amount of their payments for premiums with such interest as the dividend had been actually making.—Re MILLER, Ex p. WARDLEY (1877), 6 Ch. 4449. Against debt due by creditor—To assignee personally.]—A person became bkpt. & a commission issued against him & assignees were duly appointed, & a dividend of 6*s.* 1*d.* in the pound was ordered amongst the creditors. One of the creditors, who was entitled to £61 as his proportion of the dividend, was an insolvent person & he was indebted to the assignee on account of being a co-surety with him in some bonds which the assignee had paid off with his proper money. The assignee claimed to retain the £61:—Held:

4463. Debt of which trustee had notice.]—G. & Co., who were entered upon debtor's statement of affairs as fully secured creditors, in Apr., 1873, commenced negotiations with the trustees in the liquidation for a joint sale of the property comprised in their securities, & a memorandum of the terms was drawn up. In Aug., 1874, the negotiations ended in a definite agreement being concluded in the terms of the memorandum. One of the terms of the agreement was to the effect that, if the securities held by G. & Co. did not realise sufficient to pay their debt & expenses, they should be entitled to prove for the balance. In May, 1874, a dividend of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound was paid to all the creditors who had proved their debts, but no notice of the declaration of the dividend or payment was given to G. & Co. Some of the securities having been realised, & the rest being regarded as of no value, G. & Co. in Sept., 1878, sent in a proof for £1,017 2*s.* 9*d.*, the balance of the amount due to them, & claimed to be paid a dividend of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound thereon :—Held : the trustees having had plain notice of the claim of G. & Co., ought to have set aside a reserve under 1870 Rules, r. 312, & the dividend claimed must be paid.—Re COLE, Ex p. SNELL (1880), 42 L. 4466. Jurisdiction of Chancery Court—As regards distribution of estate.]—Pltfs. in equity claiming to be admitted as creditors under a fiat in bkpcy., in respect of a breach of trust by bkpts., which was the subject of the suit in equity, applied, on a dividend of bkpt.'s estate being about to be declared, to be allowed to enter a claim upon the proceedings, & to have a fund reserved. The application having been refused by the Ct. of Review, a supplemental bill was filed, praying an injunction to restrain the assignees from paying any dividend which might be declared until the cause in equity was heard, or without reserving a sufficient fund to answer pltf.'s demand :—Held : if the Ct. of Ch. had jurisdiction to interfere in the distribution of the estate of bkpt. the ct. ought, upon general principles, after an adjudication in bkpcy. on the subject of the distribution, to refrain from exercising such jurisdiction. Semble : the ct. had no jurisdiction to interfere in the mere distribution of the estate of bkpt. either on the ground of trust or otherwise.—THOMPSON v. DERHAM, THOMPSON v. GOODMAN (1842), 1 Hare, 358 ; 66 E. SECT. 6.—REFUND OR DISTURBANCE OF DIVIDENDS PAID.

4475. Refund—Claim by Crown against estate arising after final distribution.]—In 1710 A. for himself & others imported some wine, & by a mistake of a clerk in the custom house the Crown was defrauded in its duties of £535. On discovery of the mistake in 1715 an information was brought, & a decree was subsequently made that, though the importation & entry was only by A., yet all the partners who were so at the time of importation were liable in the whole to the Crown. A. became a bkpt. in 1715, & B., the assignee, contended, in his answer to an English information brought by the A.-G. in 1721, that he had long since made a distribution of all the effects of A. to the creditors, so that he had nothing left in his hands :—Qu. : whether the £535 was a debt so vested in the Crown that the assignee could come upon the effects so distributed.—A.-G. v. STRANYFORTH (1721), Bunb. 97 ; 145 E. On petition by B. & Co.'s assignees to expunge the proof & for G. to refund the six dividends:—Held: as the first three dividends were paid in error & were a legal debt against G. & might have been proved under his bkpcy. the claim as to them was barred by G.'s certificate, but the other three received since his bkpcy. should be refunded.—Re BAILLIE, Ex p. BOLTON (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 556; 1 Mont. & A. 60; 3 L. 4479. —— —— ——.]—Bkpts. kept a banking account, & in the course of their dealings bkpts. indorsed & paid into the bank certain bills of exchange. The bills when paid in were carried to the credit of bkpts., & cheques were drawn by them & payments made on their account from time to time. On the bills arriving at maturity bkpts. were debited with the amount of those dishonoured. The bank proved upon twenty-eight bills of exchange & promissory notes specified in a schedule to the depositions made on the proof, all of which were then in the hands of the bank & unpaid, some of them being overdue & dishonoured. Some of the bills of exchange paid in were paid in full by other parties liable, some before & some after the declaration of dividend:—Held: the proof ought to be reduced by the amount of the paid bills, & the dividends refunded, & the bank had no right to receive more than 20*s.* in the pound.—Re PRITCHARD, Ex p. HORNBY (1844), De G. 69, Ct. of R.

4480. —— —— In belief that estate would pay all creditors in full.]—An assignee, thinking the estate would pay all the creditors in full, paid one creditor at that rate. The assignee became bkpt., & the creditor became his assignee:—Held: he must refund the excess.—Re HARVEY, Ex p. GRIMWOOD (1836), 1 Deac. 394; 3 Mont. & A. 685, Ct. of R.

4481. —— —— Lapse of time—Belief that security for whole amount—Evidence only of contract for limited security.]—Where all parties acted under an impression that a security was for the whole amount of a debt & twenty-one years had elapsed since the security was given, but no evidence could be produced of any contract except one for security to a limited amount, which was exceeded by the amount received by the creditor upon his security:—Held: the creditor ought not to be called upon to refund.—Re CUTHBERT & CLARKE, Ex p. FOLLETT (1845), De G. 212, Ct. of R.

A creditor proved against the estate of A. in India, & received dividends on the whole debt. He also received the proceeds of sale of an estate of the insolvent in Java, which did not pass to the insolvent's assignees:—Held: he was not bound to refund the dividends.—COCKERELL v. DICKENS (1840), 3 Moo. 4486. —— —— Dividend in foreign bankruptcy subsequently received.]—A firm of two persons, D. & Y., carrying on business as D., Y. & Co. at Liverpool, & of three persons, D., Y. & Y., carrying on business in Pernambuco, were adjudicated bkpts. in 1854 at Liverpool. The holder of a bill of exchange drawn by the Pernambuco firm on the Liverpool firm proved under the bkpcy., & received a dividend, after which receipt the Pernambuco firm also became bkpt., & the creditor proved the same debt against the estate there, & received a dividend in respect of it. In 1861 an order was made by the comr. in England that the proof in England should be expunged, unless the creditor paid to the assignees the dividend received by him at Pernambuco. That order was varied by the Lords Justices, who declared that the creditor was not entitled to any dividend in England, except the first which he had received, but without prejudice to any question as to that dividend, or as to any question under the foreign bkpcy. The assignees presented a petition praying that the creditor might be ordered to refund such first dividend:—Held: in the absence of all evidence to show that the law of Brazil would not have given the creditor the right to receive the dividend there, he was under no obligation as to that which he received in England, but, as he had rightfully received it, he was entitled to retain it.—Re DEANE & YOULE, Ex p. MELLOR, Ex p. SMITH (1862), 3 De G. 4487. —— Dividends received on capitalised value of annuity—Death of annuitant before instalments accruing equalled dividends.]—Bkpt. had covenanted to pay a life annuity to trustees for the benefit of his wife. The annuity was valued, & proof was made by the trustees for the amount thus ascertained, & a dividend was paid to them. The wife died, & the dividend which the trustees had received exceeded the amount of the payments of the annuity which bkpt. would have had to make, if he had remained solvent:—Held: the trustees could not be called upon to refund the excess of the dividend above the payments of the annuity which accrued due during the wife's life.—Re PANNELL, Ex p. BATES (1879), 11 Ch. D. 914 ; 48 L. J. Bcy. 113 ; 41 L. T. 263 ; 27 W. R. 927, C. A.

4493. —— After previous order expunging proof.]—A. on his marriage gave to trustees a bond conditioned for payment of £1,000 with interest. By a settlement of even date it was declared that the trustees should, during his life or until he should become bkpt. or insolvent, allow him to retain in his hands the £1,000 or such parts of it as he should think fit. In 1826 A. became bkpt. The trustees in 1827 proved for the whole £1,000, but the comrs. expunged the proof, & the trustees did not take any steps to have a value set upon the bond as for a sum payable on bkpt.'s death, & to be allowed to prove for the amount of the valuation. In 1860, bkpt. being dead, & fresh assets having come in, the trustees applied again to prove for the whole amount :—Held : (1) although the provision for calling in the money on bkpcy. was void, the debt was valid as a debt payable upon the death of bkpt., & proof of it ought to be allowed, not disturbing former dividends ; (2) the decision in 1827 was not a judgment against the claim, the debt not being then payable, & no attempt having been made to prove for it on the footing of its being payable in futuro.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. BODDAM (1860), 2 De G. In 1866 the personal representative of the trustee under the deed had in his hands a fund representing unclaimed dividends. The representative of a creditor, who had assented to the deed, & had executed a release to the trustee in respect of the dividends paid by him, & who had authorised the trustee to retain a balance to meet unclaimed dividends, claimed an inquiry as to the persons who had a right to the fund :—Held : he was entitled to the inquiry, &, in the absence of any stipulation to the contrary, those creditors who had received dividends out of the assigned property were entitled to the unclaimed dividends in preference to the trustee, &, semble : to the original debtor.—WILD v. BANNING (1866), L. debts proved against bkpt.'s estate, & a release of the surplus of his estate was made to bkpt. The dividends payable to creditors were carried to an account kept by the assignees, called "the separate account," out of which the creditors were paid. SECT. 8.—DISPOSAL OF SURPLUS.

4500. Jurisdiction of court—To order payment to debtor.]—Where a trustee has been appointed under 1870 Rules, r. 279, for receipt & distribution of a composition, & after all the creditors have been paid a balance remains in the trustee's hands, the Ct. of Bkpcy. has jurisdiction to order the surplus after it is ascertained to be paid over to debtor.—Re CAREW, Ex p. CAREW (1875), 10 Ch. 4501. Nature of debtor's right to—Whether debt due by official receiver subject to attachment.]—The surplus due to bkpt. out of his estate, after payment of 20*s.* in the pound to the creditors under the bkpcy., is not a "debt" due to bkpt. from the official assignee, though bkpt.'s estate remains vested in him, which can be attached under the garnishee clauses of C. Div., & had incurred costs. On the same day resps., who claimed to be creditors of the estate of deceased in respect of goods supplied by them after his death for the purpose of his business, which was being carried on by his extrix., presented a petition under 1883 Act, s. 125, praying for the administration of the estate of deceased in bkpcy. An order for administration in bkpcy. having been made :—Held : resps. were not creditors "of a deceased debtor" within s. 125, & there was no jurisdiction to make an order for administration in bkpcy. on their petition.—Re KITSON, Ex p. SUGDEN (THOMAS) & SON, LTD., [1911] 2 K. B. 109 ; 80 L. J. K. B. 1147 ; 55 Sol. Jo. 443 ; 18 Mans. 224, D. C.

4512. Service of petition—Before grant of probate or letters of administration—Personal representative before court at time of order.]—An order for the administration in bkpcy. of the estate of a deceased debtor may be made upon a petition served before the grant of probate of letters of administration, if at the time of the making of the order there is a duly constituted legal personal representative of deceased before the ct.—Re SLEET, Ex p. SLEET, [1894] 2 Q. 4513. Grounds for refusing—Judgment recovered against surviving partners—Debt insufficient to support bankruptcy petition.]—Where a creditor of a partnership firm sues the surviving partners & recovers judgment against them, he is not thereby precluded from obtaining an order for the administration of the estate of the deceased partner, on the ground that the debt would not have been sufficient to support a bkpcy. petition against the deceased partner had he been alive.—Re OUTRAM, Ex p. ASHWORTH & OUTRAM (1893), 63 L. 4514. —— Apparent absence of assets.]—The apparent absence of any available assets is not of necessity a ground for refusing administration in bkpcy. under 1883 Act, s. 125.—Re HOSKING, Ex p. HOSKING v. DAVIES (1912), 106 L. T. 640, D. C.

4507 ii. —— How enforced—By petition.]—After payment by an insolvent's estate of 100 cents in the dollar the creditors claimed interest on their claims out of a surplus in the hands of the assignee :—Held : a claim to interest is properly brought before the ct. on petition filed by the inspectors, who, under a resolution of creditors, had requested the assignee to pay such interest.—Re MCDOUGALL (1883), 8 A. R. 309.—CAN.

4507 iii. —— For what period.]—Where a debt carries interest at the date of the sequestration of a bkpt.'s estate, interest must be paid on the debt for the period between the sequestration & the payment of the debt, before any surplus assets can be paid to bkpt. —In the estate of LOW, Ex p. LOW (1899), 20 N. 4507 v. —— Interest payable by contract—Whether payable as damages.]—After payment in full of all claims the creditors claimed interest thereon out of a surplus in the hands of the assignee :—Held : interest was payable on all debts, originally bearing interest by contract or otherwise, but not where it was claimable by law as damages only.—Re MCDOUGALL (1883), 8 A. R. 309.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.

4511 i. Presentation of petition—By whom—Official manager of company in liquidation.]—Deceased owed money as a contributory to a co. which some years after his death was wound up. The official manager under Winding-Up Acts petitioned for sequestration of deceased's estate under 2 & 3 Vict. c. 41 :—Held : the petition must be refused, the relation of creditor & debtor not subsisting between deceased & the official manager as required by the above Act.—WRYGHT v. LINDSAY (1860), 3 Macq. 772.—SCOT.

SUB-SECT. 2.—BY TRANSFER OF ADMINISTRATION ACTION.

See, now, 1914 Act, s. 130 (3).

4515. Jurisdiction of court—Debtor dying in asylum in Scotland—Having traded within jurisdiction.]—Testator, having previously carried on business in England, was for more than six months previous to his death an inmate of a lunatic asylum in Scotland, & died insolvent. An administration action having been commenced by a creditor, & an administration order made:—Held: the ct. had jurisdiction to make an order transferring the proceedings to the county ct., within the jurisdiction of which testator formerly carried on his business.—SENHOUSE v. MAWSON (1885), 52 L. T. 745.

Annotation:—Apld. Re York, Atkinson v. Powell (1887), 36 Ch. D. 233.

4516. —— When exercisable—After judgment.]—The ct. has jurisdiction to order that the proceedings in an action for the administration of a deceased debtor's estate be transferred to the ct. exercising jurisdiction in bkpcy., notwithstanding that judgment has been given in the action.—Re YORK, ATKINSON v. POWELL (1887), 36 Ch. 4519. Who may apply—Creditor who has proved debt.]—Semble: an application for transfer can only be made by a creditor, who has absolutely proved his debt.—Re WEAVER, HIGGS v. WEAVER (1885), 29 Ch. D. 236; 54 L. J. Ch. 749; 52 L. T. 512; 33 W. R. 874.

4520. —— Procedure where doubt as to qualification.]—In a case where it was uncertain whether appcts. had fulfilled the conditions required by 1883 Act, s. 125 (4):—Held: they should have an opportunity of supplying the deficiency, & the order of transfer would be drawn up, if it were ascertained in chambers that appcts. were creditors for the statutable amount.—Re YORK, ATKINSON v. POWELL (1887), 36 Ch. 4521. At what time—Not until two months after grant of probate or letters of administration—Ex parte application.]—An application to the "ct. having jurisdiction in bkpcy.," to which a creditor's administration suit in the Ch. Div. has been transferred, under 1883 Act, s. 125 (4), for an order for the administration of the estate of deceased debtor according to the law of bkpcy., may be made ex p., but not until the expiration of two months from the date of the grant of probate or letters of administration.—Re MAY, Ex p. MAY (1884), 13 Q. 4523. Discretion of court—Court not bound to grant application.]—The power to transfer the administration of an insolvent estate from the Ch. Div. to the Ct. of Bkpcy. is a discretionary power, & not a power which the judge is bound to exercise whenever the estate is shown to be insolvent.—Re BAKER, NICHOLS v. BAKER (1890), 44 Ch. D. 262; 59 L. J. Ch. 661; 62 L. T. 817; 38 W. R. 417; 6 T. L. R. 237, C. A.

4524. —— General principles governing exercise—Convenience, delay & expense—Wishes of creditor applying.]—The exercise of the jurisdiction to transfer is discretionary, & the predominating considerations are convenience, delay & expense. The ct. should have regard to the convenience of the creditors at large, & too great weight ought not to be attached to steps taken by the particular creditor who applies for the transfer.—Re YORK, ATKINSON v. POWELL (1887), 36 Ch. D. 233; 56 L. J. Ch. 552; 56 L. T. 704; 35 W. R. 609; sub nom. Re NEAL, ATKINSON v. POWELL, 3 T. L. R. 548.

4525. —— —— No ground to the contrary—Wishes of creditor commencing proceedings.]—As a general rule an action for the administration of the estate of a debtor, who has died insolvent, will be transferred to the Bkpcy. Ct., unless there is a good reason to the contrary. The wishes of the creditor, who commenced the proceedings, are immaterial.—Re KENWARD, HAMMOND v. EADE (1906), 94 L. T. 277; sub nom. Re EADE, 22 T. L. R. 239.

Annotation:—Distd. Re Hay, Gibbons v. Hay, [1915] 2 Ch. 198.

4526. —— Grounds for exercising—Situation of assets & residence of creditors.]—The fact that the greater part of the assets are situated within the jurisdiction of the local bkpcy. ct., & that the majority of the creditors are local people, is a good reason for making an order of transfer to such local bkpcy. ct.—Re KENWARD, HAMMOND v. EADE (1906), 94 L. T. 277; sub nom. Re EADE, 22 T. L. R. 239.

Annotation:—Distd. Re Hay, Gibbons v. Hay, [1915] 2 Ch. 198.

4527. —— —— Principal question outside administration.]—An order for transfer will be made where the principal question arising will be outside the administration action.—Re TARR, DARLEY & CUMBERLAND v. TARR (1912), 134 L. T. Jo. 6; 57 Sol. Jo. 60.

4528. —— —— Existence of right of retainer.]—The existence of a right of retainer of the legal personal representative ought not to be made a ground for ordering a transfer.—Re YORK, ATKINSON v. POWELL (1887), 36 Ch. D. 233; 56 L. J. Ch. 552; 56 L. T. 704; 35 W. R. 609; sub nom. Re NEAL, ATKINSON v. POWELL, 3 T. L. R. 548.

4529. —— —— —— Liberty not to plead Statute of Limitations.]—The circumstance that the exor. has a right of retainer & a liberty not to plead Stat. Limitations to a debt, which rights would be recognised in the Ch. Div. but might be taken away by a transfer to the Ct. of Bkpcy., is not a ground for transfer.—Re BAKER, NICHOLS v. BAKER (1890), 44 Ch. D. 262; 59 L. J. Ch. 661; 62 L. T. 817; 38 W. R. 417; 6 T. L. R. 237, C. A.

Annotations:—Folld. Re Briggs, Earp v. Briggs (1891), 7 T. L. R. 494. Mentd. Re Evans, Ex p. Evans, [1891] 1 Q. B. 143, C. T. 342; R. v. Mitchell, Ex p. Livesey, [1913] 1 K. B. 561.

4530. —— Grounds for refusing to exercise—Right of retainer—Transfer for benefit of creditors.]—If the transfer appears to be for the benefit of the general body of creditors, the existence of a right of retainer of the legal personal representative ought not to stand in the way of the transfer.—Re YORK, ATKINSON v. POWELL (1887), 36 Ch. D. 233; 56 L. J. Ch. 552; 56 L. T. 704; 35 W. R. 609; sub nom. Re NEAL, ATKINSON v. POWELL, 3 T. L. R. 548.

4531. —— —— —— Application made for purpose of avoiding.]—The transfer of an administration action to the Bkpcy. Ct. was refused, on the ground that the application was made for the purpose of preventing an exor. from exercising his right of retainer.—Re BRIGGS, EARP v. BRIGGS (1891), 7 T. L. R. 572, C. A.

4532. —— —— Estate small—Considerable expense already incurred.]—The power to transfer the proceedings in an action brought for the administration of an insolvent estate to the Ct. of Bkpcy., is discretionary, & it will not be exercised where the estate is small, the number of creditors is small, & considerable expense has been already incurred in chambers in the proceedings under an administration judgment.—Re WEAVER, HIGGS v. WEAVER (1885), 29 Ch. D. 236; 54 L. J. Ch. 749; 52 L. T. 512; 33 W. R. 874.

4533. —— —— Considerations of convenience & expense.]—B. died in Apr., 1904, & his estate, which was insolvent, was being administered in the Ch. Div. under an administration decree made in Nov., 1904. Progress had been made with the administration, & the chief things remaining to be done related to the bill of costs presented by the solr. of deceased, which extended over many years, & in regard to some of the items in which Stat. Limitations would probably be set up. A creditor moved for an order transferring the administration proceedings to the county ct. in bkpcy. of the provincial district in which deceased had resided. A large number of creditors & one exor. supported the application, the other exor. opposing it:—Held: in the circumstances of the case, considerations of convenience & expense rendered it desirable to continue the administration proceedings in London, & the transfer ought to be refused.—Re BOSWELL (1905), 118 L. T. Jo. 478.

4534. —— —— Difficult questions arising—Proceedings far advanced.]—In cases where questions of difficulty will arise necessitating a reference to the judge from time to time, or where the proceedings are far advanced, the ct. will consider it better to retain the case & not to transfer it.—Re KENWARD, HAMMOND v. EADE (1906), 94 L. T. 277; sub nom. Re EADE, 22 T. L. R. 239.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Hay, Gibbons v. Hay, [1915] 2 Ch. 198.

4535. —— —— No strict proof that estate insolvent—Expense of appointing trustee.]—Where it was not strictly proved that an estate was insolvent, & the parties applying for a transfer had procured the appointment of a receiver immediately after debtor's death:—Held: the proceedings should not be transferred into bkpcy., as the transfer would cause the expense of appointing a trustee.—Re GOLDBERG (1911), 132 L. T. Jo. 60.

4536. —— —— —— No justification for removal.]—In an action in the Ch. Div. for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, an order for administration was made on Feb. 22, 1915, the summons to proceed on accounts & inquiries was issued on May 5, & the advertisements for creditors required their claims to be sent in by July 19 & fixed July 23 as the date for adjudicating on them. An applicant asking that the proceedings might be ordered to be transferred to the Ct. of Bkpcy. produced correspondence from the extrix.'s solrs., stating that so many claims had reached them that they did not know whether there would be sufficient to pay the creditors in full:—Held: there was not evidence sufficient to satisfy the ct. that the estate was insufficient to pay its debts, &, however that might be, there was no such circumstance of convenience, delay, or expense as justified the ct. in making the order for transfer.—Re HAY, GIBBONS, LTD. v. HAY, [1915] 2 Ch. 198; 84 L. J. Ch. 821; 113 L. T. 923; 59 Sol. Jo. 680; [1915] H. B. R. 165.

4538. —— Court must follow Chancery practice.]—Unless there is some provision to the contrary the ct. in acting under 1883 Act, s. 125, must follow the practice of the Ch. Div. of the High Ct. of Justice with regard to the administration of the estates of deceased persons.—Re CROWTHER, 4539. —— Jurisdiction to direct consolidation.]—When a member of a partnership dies insolvent & an order is made under 1883 Act, s. 125, for the administration of his estate in bkpcy., & afterwards the surviving partner becomes bkpt., the ct. has jurisdiction to direct the proceedings in the two estates to be consolidated.—Re GREAVES, Re GREAVES, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1904] 2 K. 4542. Position of creditors—Under garnishee order.]—A county ct. judge sitting in bkpcy. has no jurisdiction, unless by consent, to order payment to the official receiver of money received under a garnishee order attaching a debt due to the estate of a deceased debtor, which is being administered according to the law of bkpcy. under 1883 Act, s. 125.—Re CROWTHER, Ex p. ELLIS (1887), 20 Q. 4543. —— Under distress—Not equivalent to order of adjudication.]—An order obtained in the Ch. Div. by a creditor for administration of a deceased debtor's estate, not followed by any proceedings in bkpcy., is not equivalent to or included in the term "order of adjudication," so as to limit the power of the landlord, or other person to whom rent is due from the deceased person's estate, to recover by distress.—Re FRYMAN'S ESTATE, FRYMAN v. FRYMAN (1888), 38 Ch. 4546. —— —— —— After death.] — The goods of a judgment debtor were seized under a fi. fa. While the sheriff was in possession, the judgment debtor, without the knowledge of the sheriff, placed a sum of money in a drawer. He died, & his widow having found the money, deposited it with her solrs., the sheriff remaining in ignorance of its existence. Subsequently an order was made for the administration of the judgment debtor's estate in bkpcy. The sheriff, having learned of the existence of the money, claimed it from the solrs. :—Held : as there was no seizure before the death of the judgment debtor, after his death the sheriff could not seize the money, & it belonged to the trustee as against the execution creditor.—JOHNSON v. PICKERING, [1908] 1 K. B. 1 ; 77 L. J. K. B. 13 ; 98 L. T. 68 ; 24 T. L. R. 1 ; 51 Sol. Jo. 810 ; 14 Mans. 263, C. A.

PART XIV. SECT. 2.

4544 i. Position of creditors—Under execution or attachment—Seizure & sale before administration order.]—Where an execution is issued & the goods sold before presentation of a petition under Administration Act, 1879, Amendment Act, 1888, the execution is not void against the official assignee, nor do the proceeds of the sale form part of the estate vested in the assignee. —Re HUTCHINSON (1890), 9 N. Z. L. R. 301.—N.Z.

4544 ii. —— —— Seizure before but sale after administration order.]—Where a creditor has attached property in execution of a decree, but an administration order is made before the property is sold, the property vests in the official assignee, & the attaching creditor is relegated to the same position as the other creditors & the sale-proceeds are distributable ratably.—Re PREMLAL DHAR, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1917), I. 4549. —— —— Assets paid away by mistake recoverable.]—When an order has been made for the administration of the estate of an insolvent testator, thus vesting the estate in the official receiver, such order does not deprive an exor. creditor of right to retainer out of the assets which he has got in, even though by mistake & in ignorance of his rights he has paid over the assets to the official receiver under the administration order, nor is he deprived of that right by proving for his debts in the bkpcy., if on discovering his error he withdraws his proof. In that case he is entitled to be repaid the sum he would have been entitled to retain had the assets been still in his possession.—Re RHOADES, Ex p. RHOADES, [1899] 2 Q. B. 347; 68 L. J. Q. 4550. —— —— What right includes—Only funds actually or constructively in possession.]—The insolvent estate of a deceased person, the subject of an old administration suit, became entitled to a fund in ct., to the credit of another suit. The fund was transferred to the credit of the administration suit, & outstanding costs paid out of it :—Held : the administrator of deceased, a creditor, had no right of retainer against the balance in ct.—PULMAN v. MEADOWS, [1901] 1 Ch. 233; 70 L. J. Ch. 97; 84 L. T. 26; 45 Sol. Jo. 151.

4551. —— —— How right exercised—Whether bound to convert into money.]—When the debt due to the exor. of an insolvent testator exceeds the value of testator's assets, the exor. is not bound to realise the assets, i.e. convert them into money, before exercising his right of retainer, but is entitled to retain the assets in specie other than outstanding book debts, in satisfaction of his debt. —Re GILBERT, Ex p. GILBERT, [1898] 1 Q. 4553. —— Executor carrying on business—Whether entitled to indemnity.]—A sole extrix. of a testator, who was also sole legatee, carried on his business. No authority to carry on the business was contained in the will, but the creditors assented. An order was made that the estate should be administered in bkpcy. :—Held : the extrix. was not entitled to an indemnity for debts incurred by her in carrying on the business, as the business was carried on, not for the purpose of winding up the estate, but for her own benefit, & there was no evidence of such a consent by the creditors of testator as would make her their agent in carrying on the business.—Re MILLARD, Ex p. YATES (1895), 72 L. 4557. —— Right of set-off.]—Where there have been mutual dealings between a creditor & a debtor, the creditor is entitled, in the administration of an insolvent debtor's estate, to set off a debt due to him from the insolvent, although it has only ripened into a debt after the insolvent's death.—WATKINS v. LINDSAY & CO. (1898), 67 L. J. Q. B. 362; 42 Sol. Jo. 319; 5 Mans. 25.

4558. —— —— Estate must be insolvent.]—The mutual credit clause (1869 Act, s. 29) will not be applied in the administration of the estate of a deceased person, until it is shown that the estate is insolvent, but the ct. may direct that a debt claimed on behalf of the estate from a creditor shall be paid into ct. to a separate account, with liberty to the creditor to apply, in case the estate shall prove to be insolvent.—Re SMITH, GREEN v. SMITH (1883), 22 Ch. SECT. 3.—APPEALS.

4560. Who may appeal—"Person aggrieved"—Parties losing advantages of action.]—Applts., creditors of a deceased person, took out an originating summons for the administration of his estate in the Ch. Div., & had incurred costs. On the same day resps., who claimed to be creditors of the estate of deceased in respect of goods supplied by them after his death for the purpose of his business, which was being carried on by his extrix., presented a petition under 1883 Act, s. 125, praying for the administration of the estate of deceased in bkpcy. An order for administration in bkpcy. having been made:—Held: applts. were persons "aggrieved" by the order, because they would lose the advantages of their action & would be put to proof, & were entitled to appeal against it.—Re KITSON, Ex p. SUGDEN (THOMAS) & SON, LTD., [1911] 2 K. y. Necessity for notice—Of application to vary report of chief registrar.]—Objections to the report of the chief registrar should be made by motion on notice to vary the report.—Re NOLAN (1874), 8 I. L. T. Jo. 472.—IR.

a. Service of notice—Application to antedate commencement of bankruptcy—On bankrupt.]—Notice of an application to antedate the commencement of the bkpcy. should be served on bkpt.—Re KIDD, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1903), 3 S. R. N. S. W. 363.—AUS.

b. Service of petition—On Attorney-General.]—The service of a petition by bkpt., on the A.-G., at his house, is irregular ; the proper service on the A.-G. is through the Crown Solr. —Re MULLAY, Ex p. MULLAY (1829), 3 Mol. 70.—IR.

Sect. 1.—Notice of motion, application, etc. Sects. 2 & 3: sub-sect. 1.]

on a person not party to the proceedings:—Held: though the service was sufficient, where possible, notice should be served personally.—Re BATES, Ex p. HOBBS (1891), 8 T. L. R. 44.

4583. —— —— Length of notice.]—A notice dated Jan. 3, of a motion for Jan. 12 was, in default of personal service, sent by registered letter on Jan. 8:—Held: the service was bad, & the notice must be served again.—Re ALDERSON, Ex p. KIRBY (1891), 8 Morr. 93.

Annotation:—Distd. Re Rathbone, Ex p. Paterson (1887), 56 L. J. Q. B. 504.

4585. —— ——.]—A notice of motion cannot be served out of the jurisdiction on a person, against whom relief is sought.—Re ALDERSON, Ex p. KIRBY (1891), 8 Morr. 95.

4586. —— —— No proceedings against person served.]—Where a notice is simply one by which certain information is given to persons interested, & is not intended to be the foundation of any proceedings against such persons, leave to serve the notice out of the jurisdiction may be given; but if the notice is a notice leading to proceedings against the person whom it is desired to serve, & bringing him into the position of deft. before the ct., service of such notice out of the jurisdiction will not be allowed.—Re RATHBONE, Ex p. PATERSON (1887), 56 L. J. Q. B. 504; 57 L. T. 420; 35 W. R. 735; 4 Morr. 270.

Annotation:—Distd. Re Alderson, Ex p. Kirby (1891), 8 Morr. 95.

—— On sheriff — Within what hours.]—See Part XX., Sect. 10, post.

4587. —— At last known address—Knowledge that party had departed.]—Notice sent to the last known address, with the knowledge that the addressee has departed therefrom, is a good notice.—Re FOLLICK, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1907), 97 L. T. 645; 52 Sol. Jo. 13.

4588. Irregularity of notice—Waiver.]—Held: a formal objection to a notice of motion was waived by the party appearing & requesting further time to answer it.—Re MORLAND, Ex p. MORLAND (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 248, Ct. of R.

4589. Effect of notice of motion to vary minutes of order—On drawing up of order.]—A notice of motion to vary the minutes does not stop the drawing up of the order.—Re BROWN, Ex p. BELL (1836), 1 Deac. 690, Ct. of R.

4590. Attestation of petition—By solicitor—Parties very numerous.]—Where the parties concerned were very numerous, attestation by the solr. for one of the parties was allowed, a party who should be responsible for the costs being thereby provided.—Re HOOPER, Ex p. VINES (1832), 1 L. J. Bcy. 44, Ct. of R.

4591. —— How authenticated.]—Held: the General Order of Aug. 12, 1809, was not complied with by the solr. authenticating the signature of petitioner without attesting it.—Re MATHER, Ex p. BURY (1819), Buck, 393.

See 1915 Rules, r. 148.

SECT. 2.—RIGHT OF AUDIENCE HEARING OF APPLICATIONS ETC., TRIAL BY JURY.

4592. Private hearing.]—The Ct. of Review can hear causes in private, if the nature of the case require secrecy.—Re CHAMBERS, Ex p. CHAMBERS (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 395; 1 L. J. Bcy. 96, Ct. of R.

4593. Right of audience—Solicitor not directly retained by party.]—Comrs. in bkpcy. cannot recognise in the advocacy or proceedings before them the professional interference of any legal practitioners, not being members of the Bar, except solrs. directly retained by the parties themselves.—Re BULL (1852), 20 L. T. O. S. 24.

4594. —— Solicitor's clerk—Duly qualified.]—A comr. in bkpcy. is not bound to hear a person who, although a duly admitted solr., does not appear as the solr. of the party for whom he appears, but only as the clerk of such solr.—Re BROADHOUSE, Ex p. BROADHOUSE (1867), 2 Ch. App. 655; 36 L. J. Bcy. 29; 17 L. T. 126; 15 W. R. 1154, L. JJ.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Oxfordshire County Court Judge, [1894] 2 Q. B. 440. The test put by LORD CAIRNS was, Is the person who claims audience the solr. of a particular client? (COLLINS, J.).

See, further, Part XVII., Sect. 8, post, &, generally, SOLICITORS.

4595. —— Whether counsel have exclusive right—Insolvent court.]—Held: the rule in the Insolvent Ct., giving to counsel the privilege of sole audience, extended to all cases under 5 & 6 Vict. c. 116, & Execution Act, 1844 (c. 96), transferred to that ct.—Re NEWBURN (1847), 10 L. T. O. S. 68.

4596. —— —— Bankruptcy court—Right of precedence.]—The Bar is not entitled to exclusive audience in any proceedings in the Cts. of Bkpcy., but only to precedence.—ANON. (1852), 20 L. T. O. S. 55; 1 W. R. 12.

See, further, BARRISTERS, Vol. III., p. 319.

4597. Grounds for refusing hearing—Bankrupt systematically disobeying orders of court.]—The ct. refused to hear an application by bkpt. who had systematically disobeyed the order of the ct., until he had complied with those orders.—Re M'HENRY, Ex p. BROWN & WHIFFEN (TRUSTEES) (1887), 3 T. L. R. 701, C. A.

Annotations:—Mentd. Morgan v. Knight (1864), 15 C. B. N. S. 669; Engelback v. Nixon (1875), L. R. 10 C. P. 645.

4599. Who entitled to conduct—Proceedings up to choice of assignees.]—Held: the conduct of proceedings in bkpcy. up to the choice of assignees, would be given to the solr. for the opposing creditor in preference to bkpt's. solr., who had acted as his solr. under a petition for arrangement,

PART XVI. SECT. 2.

4594 i. Right of audience—Solicitor's clerk—Duly qualified.]—Attorney's apprentices & conducting clerks, even if the latter are themselves attorneys, cannot act as advocates in the Ct. of Bkpcy.—Re A. B. (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 460.—IR.

c. —— Creditor — Majority of creditors represented by trustee.]—A creditor will be heard by the ct., though the general body of creditors is represented by the assignee.—Re MOELLER, Ex p. JOSEPH (1884), 3 N. Z. L. R. 164.—N.Z.

4598 i. Who entitled to begin—Motion.]—On motions in bkpcy. the party moving has the right to begin.—Re KINLEY, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1886), 4 N. Z. L. R. 385.—N.Z

from which the bkpcy. proceeded.—Re SMITH (1858), 31 L. T. O. S. 15.

4600. Attendance of bankrupt—When in custody.]—Upon the application of deft., who was a bkpt., & who had been committed to the custody of the Warden of the Fleet for a contempt incurred in the suit:—Held: he should be taken to the Ct. of Review to be present at the hearing of a petition in the bkpcy.—LANGSTONE v. COOKE, Ex p. COOKE (1842), 6 Jur. 544, Ct. of R.

4601. Trial by jury—In what cases.]—It is the practice of the ct. to take the assistance of a jury, when there is so much of doubt that such assistance is felt to be necessary to the right determination of the case. But it is not the practice for the ct. to put the parties to the expense of trial by jury, without first hearing all the evidence read & the case fully argued, unless counsel on both sides agree in stating that such must necessarily be the result, if the matter were gone into.—Re HUMBLE, Ex p. HEYGATE (1819), Buck, 442, L. C.

See 1915 Rules, rr. 92–95.

4602. —— Discretion to grant—Waiver of irregular order for trial.]—Under 1869 Act, s. 72, one party cannot demand a jury as a matter of right. The judge is bound to exercise a judicial discretion whether the case ought to be tried by a jury. But if an irregular order for trial by jury is made, the irregularity is one which may be waived by the parties, & appearance at the trial without objection will amount to a waiver.—Re SIMPSON, Ex p. MORGAN (1876), 2 Ch. D. 72; 45 L. J. Ch. 36; 34 L. T. 329; 24 W. R. 414, C. A.

Annotations:—Mentd. Sugden v. St. Leonards (1876), 34 L. T. 369, C. A.; Brandon Hill v. Lane, [1915] 1 K. B. 250, D. C.

4603. —— Discretion to disregard findings of jury—Without directing new trial.]—The ct. may disregard the finding of a jury, if it sees that it is inconsistent with the evidence, & need not direct a new trial to take place.—Re GOLDEN, Ex p. NORTON (1873), L. R. 16 Eq. 397; 21 W. R. 402.

Annotation:—Dbtd. Re Simpson, Ex p. Morgan (1876), 2 Ch. D. 72, C. A. I cannot but think that the case of Ex p. Norton is in conflict with decisions in the House of Lords, & that it cannot be supported (BRETT, J.).

4604. —— —— ——.]—In the Ct. of Bkpcy. the verdict of a jury on a question of fact will not be set aside, merely on the ground that it was against the weight of the evidence. In such a case a new trial should be ordered. The verdict may, however, be disregarded, if there was no evidence to be left to the jury, or if the finding has become immaterial to the decision of the case by reason of some principle of law or of some new facts.—Re SIMPSON, Ex p. MORGAN (1876), 2 Ch. D. 72; 45 L. J. Ch. 36; 34 L. T. 329; 24 W. R. 414, C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. Sugden v. St. Leonards (1876), 34 L. T. 369, C. A. Mentd. Brandon Hill v. Lane, [1915] 1 K. B. 250, D. C.

4605. Master requiring to examine witnesses—Certificate to court—Order.]—If a matter in bkpcy. is referred to a master, & he finds it necessary to examine witnesses, a certificate to the ct. must be made by him of the necessity of such examination, & the ct. will thereupon make an order accordingly. —ANON. (1819), 4 Madd. 379; 56 E. R. 744.

SECT. 3.—EVIDENCE.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

4606. Part of examination.]—Part of an examination cannot be received in evidence in support of a petition, unless the whole is produced.—Re CLARKE, Ex p. SMITH (1841), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 113, Ct. of R.

See, further, Part XIX., post.

4607. Fresh evidence in matter remitted back to district court—Witnesses residing in London.]—When fresh evidence in a matter sent back to a district ct. for further consideration has been permitted, & it appears that the witnesses reside in London, the Ct. of Appeal will order such fresh evidence to be taken before one of the comrs. in London.—Re CARDIFF PRESERVED COAL & COKE CO., LTD., Ex p. HILL (1863), 7 L. T. 659, L. JJ.

See, now, 1914 Act, s. 122.

4608. Evidence of fact of bankruptcy—London Gazette—On indictment for offences under bankruptcy laws.]—On an indictment against bkpt & other persons for an offence under the bkpcy. laws, the Gazette is evidence of the bkpcy. & fiat only as against bkpt. himself, & not as against the persons indicted with him.—R. v. HARRIS (1849), 4 Cox, C. C. 140, N. P.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Levi (1865), 6 New Rep. 131, C. C. R.

4609. —— —— ——.]—In order to prove an adjudication of bkpcy. under 1849 Act, s. 240, on an indictment for offences under the bkpcy. laws, it is enough to produce a copy of the London Gazette purporting to be printed by authority, & containing an announcement of the list of bkpts.—R. v. RAUDNITZ (1869), 21 L. T. 621; 34 J. P. 86; 11 Cox, C. C. 360, C. C. R.

4610. —— —— —— Where bankrupt has not appealed.]—Where bkpt. has not disputed or sought to annul the petition for adjudication, & is subsequently indicted for an offence under the bkpcy. laws, the Gazette is, as against him, conclusive evidence of the bkpcy., etc.—R. v. LEVI (1865), Le. & Ca. 597; 6 New Rep. 131; 34 L. J. M. C. 174; 12 L. T. 502; 29 J. P. 420; 11 Jur. N. S. 450; 13 W. R. 724; 10 Cox, C. C. 110, C. C. R.

4611. —— —— Cutting not sufficient.]—A petition in bkpcy. was presented against prisoner in the cty. ct., & an order made that the publication of a notice of the petition in the London Gazette should be deemed service of the petition on prisoner. Prisoner was adjudicated bkpt. in his absence, & was subsequently indicted under Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), s. 11. At the trial there was produced the file of bkpcy. proceedings under the seal of the cty. ct., & on such file was an entire page of a printed document, headed London Gazette, in which an advertisement occurred addressed to prisoner, giving him notice of the petition:—Held: such cutting from the London Gazette was not properly receivable as evidence of the publication of the notice in the London Gazette.—R. v. LOWE (1883), 52 L. J. M. C. 122; 48 L. T. 768; 47 J. P. 535; 15 Cox, C. C. 286, C. C. R.

4602 i. Trial by jury—Discretion to grant.]—Held: 1883 Act, s. 11, did not make it obligatory on the ct., or a registrar acting for a judge, to order a trial by jury when either party desired it.—Re BLOOMFIELD (1885), 3 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 177.—N.Z.

PART XVI. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 1.

d. Witnesses—Attendance of.]—The Insolvent Debtors Ct. at Bombay can order the examination of a witness at Shanghai, but cannot direct a witness to come to Bombay to be examined, there being no machinery for that purpose.—Re NAOROJI SORABJI TALATI (1908), I. L. R. 33 Bom. 462.—IND.

e. —— ——.]—The Ct. of Bkpcy. has no jurisdiction to compel the attendance at a trial before it of a material witness who is in gaol under a sentence of imprisonment.—Re SMITH (1874), 8 I. L. T. Jo. 564.—IR.

f. —— Expenses of.]—When a witness examined in the Bkpcy. Ct. had anything to do with the removal of the goods of bkpt., the ct. will not give him his expenses.—Re HEALLY (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 505.—IR.

Sect. 3.—Evidence: Sub-sects. 1, 2 & 3.]

4612. —— Adjudication under seal of court—In proceedings under Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), s. 11 (15).]—On a prosecution under Debtors Act, 1869, s. 11 (15), the production of the adjudication under the seal of the ct. is sufficient evidence of prisoner's bkpcy.—R. v. THOMAS (1870), 22 L. T. 138; 11 Cox, C. C. 535.

SUB-SECT. 2.—VIVÂ VOCE EVIDENCE.

4613. When leave necessary—Agreement of parties—Notice to clerk of court.]—Where parties agree to take the evidence on a motion vivâ voce, they need not obtain the leave of the judge, but must give written notice to the clerk of the ct., who will enter the motion on a special list, & an application can then be made to the ct. to fix a day for the hearing. Otherwise a motion for that purpose must be made in the usual way.—Re UNDERHILL (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 115; 35 W. R. 336; 3 Morr. 282.

See, also, No 3157, ante.

4614. To whom application made—Judge.]—Where in a case to be heard before the Judge in Bkpcy. it is desired to use vivâ voce evidence, the application for leave to give such vivâ voce evidence must be made beforehand to the judge, & not to the registrar.—Re HAGAN & Co., Ex p. ADAMSON (1886), 3 Morr. 117.

4615. When application made—Whether beforehand or at hearing.]—Leave to use vivâ voce evidence upon the hearing of a motion before the ct. should be asked for beforehand, & not at the hearing of the motion.—Re GENESE, Ex p. KEARSLEY (1886), 17 Q. B. D. 1; 55 L. J. Q. B. 325; 34 W. R. 474; 3 Morr. 57.

Annotations:—Expld. Re Wilson, Ex p. Watkinson (1887), 35 W. R. 668, D. C. Mentd. Re Malden, Gibson, Ex p. James (1886), 3 Morr. 185; The Lord of the Isles, [1894] P. 342.

4616. —— —— In county court.]—The rule laid down in Re Genese, Ex p. Kearsley, No. 4615, supra, does not apply to county cts.—Re WILSON, Ex p. WATKINS (1887), 57 L. T. 201; 35 W. R. 668; 4 Morr. 238, D. C.

4617. When granted—Whether case must first be heard on affidavits.]—On a motion that process might issue, to compel the attendance of parties, for the purpose of examining them vivâ voce:—Held: the ct. would hear the petition first on the affidavits, in order to decide whether a vivâ voce examination was necessary for the purpose of forming the judgment of the ct.—Re LORD, Ex p. ARMSLEY (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 119; 2 L. J. Bcy. 17, Ct. of R.

Annotation:—Consd. Re Smith, Ex p. Baldwin (1834), 3 L. J. Bcy. 80, Ct. of R.

4618. —— ——.]—Semble: the ct. will not consider itself bound in all cases, to hear a case on the affidavits, before it goes to a vivâ voce examination.

Although, in general, the ct. will wish to satisfy itself from the affidavits, of the necessity for granting a vivâ voce examination, it would not consider itself bound so strictly as the short note of the report in Ex p. Armsby, Re Lord, No. 4617, supra, would imply (ERSKINE, C.J.).—Re SMITH, Ex p. BALDWIN (1834), 3 L. J. Bcy. 80, Ct. of R.

4619. —— Preliminary question likely to render evidence immaterial.]—Where, upon an application on the part of resps., assignees, for an examination of witnesses vivâ voce, petitioners objected that there was a preliminary question, which might render the matter of fact in dispute immaterial:—Held: in all the circumstances of the case, resps. ought to be at liberty to examine their own witnesses vivâ voce, undertaking to abide personally, & otherwise, by the order of the ct. as to costs, petitioners being at liberty to produce evidence, either by affidavit or vivâ voce.—Re HUTTON, Ex p. MELVILLE (1843), 3 Mont. D. & De G. 474, Ct. of R.

Evidence in actions by trustee.]—See Part XXI., Sect. 2, sub-sect. 5, post.

See, also, No. 4924, post.

SUB-SECT. 3.—ADMISSIBILITY IN OTHER PROCEEDINGS OF BANKRUPT'S ADMISSIONS ETC.

4620. Declaration of bankrupt—As to acts of bankruptcy.]—The declarations of bkpt. as to any particular matter or deed which may constitute an act of bkpcy., if made after the deed done, are not evidence.—ROBSON v. KEMP (1803), 4 Esp. 233, N. P.

Annotation:—Consd. Smallcombe v. Bruges (1824), M'Cle. 45.

4621. Declaration of insolvent—To show knowledge of insolvency—Insolvency proved aliunde.]—Declarations of a person in insolvent circumstances, tending to show that he knew of his insolvency, are admissible in evidence to prove such knowledge, provided the fact of his insolvency be proved aliunde. Semble: the fact of insolvency should be proved before the declarations are offered in evidence.—THOMAS v. CONNELL (1838), 4 M. & W. 267; 1 Horn & H. 189; 7 L. J. Ex. 306; 150 E. R. 1429.

4622. Admission of debt due to testator—In balance sheet & examination of bankrupt legatee—To show whether advances, loans or gifts.]—It being admitted, or proved, that advances had been made by testator to the legatee:—Held: an admission of a debt to testator, made by the legatee, in his balance sheet, & examination under his bkpcy., though it did not charge him so as to take the debt out of Stat. Limitations, was evidence of the character of the advances which had been made, on the question whether such advances were loans or gifts.—COURTENAY v. WILLIAMS (1844), 3 Hare, 539; 13 L. J. 4627. ——— ——— Under Factors Act, 1842 (c. 39).]—Defts. were charged before a magistrate with an offence, for which they were afterwards tried under s. 6 of the above Act. By the depositions of witnesses on oath the charge was then proved against them, & all the circumstances fully explained. They had previously been adjudged bkpts., & subsequently, while the prosecution was pending against them, being examined in the Bkpcy. Ct. at the instance of a creditor, they made a statement to the same effect as the depositions before the magistrate, & amounting to a confession of their guilt. Soon afterwards an indictment for the offence was preferred & found against them, upon which they were tried & convicted on exactly the same evidence which had been given before the magistrate. They had pleaded not guilty:—Held: (1) the depositions in the Bkpcy. 4691. Of appearance—Of office copy affidavits.]—Though the appearance of a party is wholly unnecessary, yet if he is served with notice of an intended application to the ct., he is entitled to his costs of appearance. But if he makes affidavits which are unnecessary (but the other side could not know whether they were material or not, without taking office copies of them), he must pay the costs occasioned thereby.—Re MILLS, Ex p. REID (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 322, Ct. of R.

4692. Of affidavits in answer — Petitioner declining to open.]—After a petition is ordered to be dismissed with costs, because petitioner declines to open it, the ct. will not, on a subsequent day, entertain an application from him to exclude from the allowance of costs certain affidavits of resp., on the ground that they were filed too late to be read. If the affidavits are not filed in time, petitioner should open his petition, in order to take the objection as to their disallowance.—Re CLARKE, Ex p. SIDEBOTHAM (1838), 3 Deac. 221, Ct. of R.

4693. Of parties served unnecessarily.]—On a petition to declare bkpt. a trustee & for conveyance of mortgaged premises, neither the assignees, bkpt., nor heir of mtgor. need be served. Being served petitioner must pay their costs.—Re PARKER, Ex p. SMITH (1839), 1 Mont. & Ch. 598, Ct. of R.

4694. Of assignee—On failure to disclaim.]—A married woman filed a bill against her husband, who had become bkpt., & his assignee, alleging that a sum of stock, which had fallen into possession after the bkpcy., was subject, in the circumstances stated in the bill, to the trusts of the settlement, & did not belong to the assignee. The assignee submitted the question to the ct. The ct., having decided that the fund was subject to the trusts of the settlement, refused to give the assignee his costs, as he ought to have disclaimed.—BLYTHE v. GRANVILLE (1842), 13 Sim. 190; 12 L. 4697. Right of trader debtor defendant to costs—Under 1849 Act, s. 86—Not affected by agreement to submit to arbitration.]—The creditor of a trader having in pursuance of 1849 Act, filed an affidavit of debt, & the amount having been disputed, an order was made that deft. should enter into a bond with two sureties. An action was then brought to recover the amount claimed. An agreement was entered into between pltf., deft., & K., in pursuance of which the order for the bond was discharged, & the bkpcy. proceedings were terminated, K. depositing cheques for the debts & costs, if any recovered in the action, in case of a verdict for deft. the cheques to be returned to K., upon his paying £6 for the costs of the debtor's summons, & also the costs of any issue found for pltf. At the trial of the cause it was agreed that a verdict should be entered for pltf., subject to the award of an arbitrator, the costs of the cause to abide the event of the award, & the costs of the reference to be in the discretion of the arbitrator. The arbitrator awarded that the verdict should be reduced, so that the creditor recovered a sum less than that sworn to:—Held: deft.'s right to costs under s. 86 was not affected by the agreement or termination of the bkpcy. proceedings in pursuance of it.—FOSTER v. HANSON (1856), 1 H. & N. 755.

4698. Of shorthand notes—Discretion of judge.]—The costs of the transcript of a shorthand writer's notes of evidence are, like other costs, in the discretion of the judge within 1870 Rules, r. 188, notwithstanding the provisions with reference to those costs made by r. 207.—Re ALBEZETTE, Ex p.

4702. Order for payment of costs of various parties in succession.]—A. filed a petition for the liquidation of his affairs, but the creditors at the first meeting failed to pass the necessary resolution. Shortly afterwards two of the creditors filed a petition in bkpcy. against A., the act of bkpcy. being the above petition. Afterwards A.'s father-in-law filed a petition, upon which petition by his own consent A. was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: the costs of the parties to the liquidation & bkpcy. should be paid in the following order: (1) receiver in liquidation; (2) receiver in bkpcy.; (3) the trustee & his solr.; (4) the two creditors on their petition; (5) the father-in-law on his petition. The decision was affirmed.—Re SPRINGALL, Ex p. PAGE (1871), 25 L. T. 716.

4703. Rights of bankrupt's solicitor—In regard to costs of liquidation petition—Of one of two partners.]—One of two partners filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement, which was duly resolved on, & a trustee appointed. At the time of filing the petition the stock-in-trade & effects of the firm had been seized under a writ of fi. fa., & were about to be sold. There was no separate estate, & an order was afterwards made with the consent of the solr. of the other partner, who was an infant, for administering the joint assets, & for payment amongst other things of the costs & expenses of the trustee:—Held: the costs of the solr. of petitioning debtor down to the appointment of the trustee ought to be paid out of the joint assets.—Re MEW, Ex p. PEARCE (1876), 2 Ch. 4705. Charging order—Over "property recovered or preserved"—Damages recovered by undischarged bankrupt—In respect of what costs.]—An undischarged bkpt. brought an action for services rendered as an architect since his bkpcy., & for damages for wrongful dismissal. Deft. paid money into ct. with a denial of liability. Pltf. having taken out a summons that the fund in ct. might be paid out to him, his trustee intervened & claimed the fund, & was made co-pltf. in the action. Bkpt.'s solr. then took out a summons for a charging order on the fund in ct., under Solrs. 1860 Act (c. 127), s. 26, for all his costs in the action:—Held: the fund in ct. was property "recovered or preserved" through the instrumentality of the solr., & he was entitled to a charge thereon for his costs of the action properly incurred down to the time when the trustee intervened.—EMDEN v. CARTE (1881), 19 Ch. 4706. —— —— Funds collected by receiver in partnership action—Subsequently transferred to Bankruptcy Court.]—Where in a partnership action in the Ch. Div. a receiver has been properly appointed, but a receiving order having been subsequently made against the partners, the proceedings are transferred to the Bkpcy. Ct., the ct. acting on the principles of the Ct. of Ch., will give a charge on the funds collected by the receiver in favour of the solr. of pltf. in the action. But if it appears that at the time of instituting the action the solr. was well aware that the partnership was insolvent, & nevertheless brings the action & obtains the order for the appointment of a receiver when proceedings might be taken in bkpcy. for the purpose of making costs, the ct. will hold that such costs were not bonâ fide incurred in preserving the assets of the partnership, & will in such case refuse to make a charging order.—Re NICHOLAS & PAINE, Ex p. LOVETT (1889), 61 L. 4707. —— —— Must be in proceeding in court of justice—Money found on bankrupt on arrest—Handed over on power of attorney drawn by solicitors to trustee.]—To bring a case within Solrs. Act, 1860, s. 28, property must be recovered or preserved in a proceeding in a ct. of justice.

Applts. were the solrs. to the trustee of bkpt.'s estate. Bkpt. had sold his stock-in-trade, & gone with the proceeds of the sale to Australia. He was arrested there, & brought back to England on a charge of offences against Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), preferred by order of a ct. of bkpcy. made under s. 16 of that Act upon the application of applts. on behalf of the trustee. On bkpt.'s arrest a sum of money, the proceeds of the above sale, was found upon him, & taken possession of by the Australian police. Under a power of attorney prepared by applts., as solrs. to the trustee, that money was handed over by the police 4713. Four day order for costs—Made on old affidavit—Evidence should be brought down to date.]—In process for contempt, it is a wholesome practice to bring the evidence of disobedience down to the latest period before the application is made ; but the circumstance that a four day order for payment of costs was made upon an affidavit of non-payment some days old, does not render the order so far irregular as to entitle a party to his discharge, after he has remained in confinement under process founded upon it, for seven years, without disputing its validity.—Re ELGIE, Ex p. GREEN (1841), 1 Mont. 4719. —— —— Third party taxation provided by Solicitors Act, 1843 (c. 73), s. 38.]—The grantor of a bill of sale became bkpt. & the grantee, having sold the chattels therein comprised realised a sum more than sufficient to discharge the amount secured. By an antecedent agreement the grantor was liable to pay all the expenses of the bill of sale, & the grantee claimed to deduct out of the fund in his hands his solr.'s costs in connection with the preparation & redemption of the bill. The official receiver, as trustee, having paid the costs under protest, moved in the bkpcy. for a declaration that certain heads of such costs could not be charged. The county ct. judge held that he had no jurisdiction :—Held : the ct. having jurisdiction in the bkpcy. had a discretionary power under 1883 Act, s. 102, to tax the costs of the grantee's solr., & the taxation provided by the above sect. did not exclude such discretionary jurisdiction.—Re FORD, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1901), 84 L. 4735. Effect of order—On hearing of subsequent petition for costs of taxation.]—Where an order has been made for the taxation of the solr.'s bill of costs :—Semble : a subsequent petition for the costs of the taxation cannot be heard, until the master has made his certificate, nor unless the original petition is also set down in the paper.—Re JOYNER, Ex p. ELSEE (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 332, Ct. of R.

4736. Modification or discharge of order—Application to court necessary.]—If a solr. wishes to modify or discharge an order for taxation, he must apply to the ct. for that purpose.—Re MORRIS, Ex p. HEWITT (1819), Buck, 388.

4737. Costs of unsuccessful application by trustee—Personal liability.]—An application to a county ct. judge for an order for taxation was refused, on the ground that it was an invitation to him to declare that his unreversed decision was wrong. On appeal by the trustee :—Held : the costs of the application must be paid by the trustee personally.—Re GREEN, Ex p. EDMUNDS (1885), 53 L. T. 967 ; 2 Morr. 294, D. C.

4738. Petition to tax scandalous—Reference allowed.]—If a petition to tax a solr.'s bill contains allegations reflecting on the conduct of the solr., which allegations are improper, they may be referred for scandal.—Re WELLS, Ex p. WELLS (1835), 1 Deac. 69, Ct. of R.

Annotation:—Consd. Re Carill-Worsley, [1915] 2 K. B. 534.

4754. —— ——.]—On any motion where notice is given to use in evidence against resp. on the hearing of the motion the deposition on the file of a person examined under 1914 Act, s. 25, resp., if he applies for it, is entitled to be supplied with a copy of the deposition on paying the usual charges. Afterwards it will be for the taxing master, on taxing the costs of the motion, to decide whether the costs of such a copy shall be allowed to the successful party, having special regard to the question of whether or not he could have otherwise obtained inspection of the deposition.—Re CARILL-WORSLEY, [1915] 2 K. B. 534; 84 L. J. K. B. 1414; 59 Sol. Jo. 428; [1915] H. B. R. 190.

4755. —— Costs of evidence.]—Evidence being entered in an order does not preclude the taxing-master from exercising his discretion as to whether the costs of such evidence are proper to be allowed or not.—Re ABRAHAMS, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1895), 2 Mans. 369; 15 R. 521.

4756. Form of allocatur—Whether necessary to decide out of what funds costs payable.]—It is no part of the duty of the taxing master in bkpcy. when taxing a solr.'s bill of costs in respect of conveyancing business under the General Regulations, r. 2, in the Appendix to 1886 Rules to consider or decide out of what funds the bill when taxed is to be paid. His duty is merely to tax the bill in accordance with the general order under Solrs.' Remuneration Act, 1881 (c. 44); but his allocatur should state that the amount of the bill as taxed & allowed is to be paid in accordance with r. 2 of the above General Regulations, leaving it to the parties to apply to the ct., if necessary, to determine the fund (if any) out of which the taxed bill is to be paid.—Re GARNER, Ex p. PEDLEY, [1906] 2 K. 4758. —— Appeal from master—Question one of principle not of amount.]—Semble: an appeal to the judge in bkpcy. lies from a decision of the taxing master on a question as to the fees to which the sheriff is entitled, where the question is one of principle & not of amount.—Re BEESTON, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1899), 68 L. J. Q. B. 344; 79 L. T. 561; 6 Mans. 27; affd. without touching this point, [1899] 1 Q. B. 626, C. A.

4759. —— To order reopening of taxation.]—A receiving order was made on Oct. 17, 1910, & adjudication followed on Dec. 8, 1910. In the administration of bkpt.'s estate the official receiver, exercising the functions of a committee of inspection, sanctioned the employment by the trustee of a solr. to transact several separate & distinct matters of business, in each case limiting the amount of costs to be incurred. The solr. brought in his costs for taxation & lodged one general bill, not distinguishing the separate matters in respect of which his employment was authorised. In some instances the amount limited for costs was exceeded & in others not reached, but the total amount allowed on taxation did not exceed the aggregate amount authorised in respect of the whole of the matters for which the employment of the solr., was sanctioned. The taxing master

s. What costs allowed — Instructions by creditors to obtain adjudication —Filing of debtor's petition after instructions.]—The principal creditors of a tradesman instructed their solrs. to take the necessary steps to have their debtor adjudicated a bkpt., but before an act of bkpcy. was obtained upon which to found a creditors' petition debtor himself filed:—Held: the costs incurred by the creditors incidental to the instructions they had given to their solrs. were properly disallowed on taxation, though such costs would have been allowed if actual proceedings in bkpcy. had been taken.—Re EARLE (1892), 11 N. issued his allocatur, & in 1913 the taxed costs were paid by the Board of Trade. In 1915, bkpt. having provided for the payment of all his debts in full, the adjudication was, on his application, annulled. He then moved to reopen the taxation, on the ground that it had not been properly carried out, & that if each matter of business had been dealt with separately the total amount allowed on taxation would have been decreased:—Held: there was jurisdiction at the instance of the former bkpt. to order the reopening of the taxation, & it was a proper case for such an order.—Re YEATMAN, Ex p. YEATMAN, [1916] 1 K. B. 780; 85 L. J. K. B. 789; 114 L. T. 575; 32 T. L. R. 309; [1916] H. B. R. 30, C. A.

4760. In what cases—Order by Vice-Chancellor to tax bills & pay same.]—The Vice-Chancellor having directed the comrs. to tax certain bills, & having ordered them to be paid:—Held: the Ct. of Review would not order retaxation.—Re BARROW & GEDDES, Ex p. CHRISTY, Ex p. HADFIELD (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 88; 6 L. J. Bcy. 68, Ct. of R.

4761. —— Application by Board of Trade—For benefit of estate.]—An application by the Board of Trade for a review of taxation of the costs of a solr. under 1883 Rules, r. 104, can only be made for the benefit of the estate, & where there is no estate & no trustee, such rule will not apply.—Re RODWAY, Ex p. PHILLIPS (1884), 28 Sol. Jo. 721; 1 Morr. 228.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Dale, Ex p. Dale (1885), 33 W. R. 476.

4762. —— —— Limited to persons named in 1886 & 1890 Rules, r. 124.]—The above rule does not apply to persons litigating with the trustee outside the bkpcy., but is confined to the class of persons enumerated in the rule & employed by the trustee in the bkpcy.—Re HUNT, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE, [1898] 1 Q. B. 287; 67 L. J. Q. B. 247; 46 W. R. 384; 4 Mans. 315.

4763. —— Change of trustee—Notice of appointment to tax not served on new trustee.]—"The trustee" who is entitled to not less than seven days' notice of the appointment to tax the solr.'s bill of costs, is the trustee at the time when the taxation takes place, so that where a new trustee had been appointed, & the solr. to the original trustee did not give him notice of the appointment to tax the solr.'s bill of costs, & the taxation proceeded in his absence & the allocatur was signed, a retaxation was ordered, on the application of the trustee, & in the meantime the allocatur was suspended.—Re SMITH, Ex p. WILSON, [1910] 2 K. B. 346; 80 L. J. K. B. 16; 102 L. T. 861; 26 T. L. R. 492; 17 Mans. 290.

4769. —— —— Action brought for taxed costs without deducting costs of taxation.]—An order was made in bkpcy., referring a solr.'s bill to a master for taxation, reserving the costs of taxation. The bill was taxed, & more than one-sixth was taken off. The solr. brought an action for the taxed costs, without deducting the costs of taxation. On petition, the action was stayed, & a reference made to the master to tax the costs of the taxation of costs, & after deducting the amount thereof from the taxed costs, same were ordered to be paid to the solr.—Re LINGARD, Ex p. BELLOTT (1819), 4 Madd. 379; 56 E. R. 745.

Annotation:—Folld. Walton v. Johnson, Heselton v. Johnson (1828), 2 Sim. 456.

4770. —— —— Disallowance of extra travelling expenses of commissioners.]—Held: a solr. must pay the costs of the taxation of his bill reduced by the taxation more than one-sixth of the amount, which reduction arose from the master disallowing extra fees paid to the comrs. for travelling expenses.—Re INMAN, Ex p. INMAN, Ex p. WOOD (1817), Buck, 129, L. C.

4771. —— —— Application to confirm report—costs of appearance.]—Where one-sixth of a solr.'s bill has been taxed off upon a reference, & he applies to confirm the report, giving notice to petitioner, he must pay the costs of the appearance on such application, & of the petition & taxation.—Re SHEPHERD, Ex p. NUTTING (1832), 1 Mont. & B. 267, Ct. of R.

4772. —— —— Action commenced before application for taxation.]—Notwithstanding an action is commenced by the solr. before an application for taxation is made, still if more than one-sixth is taken of the bill, the solr. pays the costs of the taxation.—Re SCHELINGSER, Ex p. WATTS (1836), 1 Deac. 588, Ct. of R.

4775. —— Liability of assignees of bankrupt solicitor.]—Assignees of a bkpt. solr. are personally liable for the costs of taxation of a bill of costs delivered by them, where more than one-sixth is taken off.—Re PEERS (1856), 21 Beav. 520; 52 E. R. 961.

4776. —— How one-sixth calculated—Several bills.]—Various solr.'s bills were referred to taxation, under which more than a sixth part was taken off in the gross though not of every one of the bills:—Held: as more than a sixth part had been taken off the whole amount, the solr. must pay the costs of the taxation.—Re BARRETT, Ex p. BARRETT (1834), 3 Deac. & Ch. 731; 1 Mont. & A. 447, Ct. of R.

Annotation:—Refd. Barton v. Pyne (1842), 1 Hare, 493.

4777. —— —— Withdrawal of erroneous entries after reference for taxation.]—After a bill has been referred for taxation, erroneous overcharges inserted by mistake cannot be withdrawn by the parties, so as to be excluded from the calculation of the one-sixth, as between the solr. & the estate.—Re BARROW & GEDDES, Ex p. CHRISTY, Ex p. HADFIELD (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 88; 6 L. J. Bcy. 68, Ct. of R.

4778. —— —— Inclusion of entries disallowed by commissioner.]—On taxation of a bill, items disallowed by the comr., & again taxed off, are included in the one-sixth.—Re BARROW & GEDDES, Ex p. CHRISTY, Ex p. HADFIELD (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 88; 6 L. J. Bcy. 68, Ct. of R.

4779. —— Consideration by court of particulars of items—On application for order against solicitor.]—Upon an application that the solr. may be directed to pay the costs of taxation, more than a sixth part having been taken off his bill, the ct. will not enter into the particulars of the items of the bill.—Re HUDSON, Ex p. MILLINGTON (1835), 1 Deac. 114, Ct. of R.

4780. —— Trustee of absconding solicitor delivering grossly unreasonable bills—Ordered to pay costs personally.]—The trustee of an absconding solr. prepared & delivered three bills of costs amounting to £482 6*s.* 9*d.* On an originating summons they were taxed at £124 4*s.* 4*d.*, & the taxing-master certified that on the general account between the solr. & applct. there was an overpayment by the latter of £105. The question being whether, in the circumstances, the trustee should be ordered personally to pay the costs of the summons & taxation for proceeding with bills, which were made up of items grossly unreasonable:—Held: the ct. had a discretion, & the taxing master having reported strongly against the bills, the trustee must pay the costs personally.—Re T. (A SOLICITOR) (1901), 45 Sol. Jo. 363.

SUB-SECT. 3.—SOLICITOR AND CLIENT COSTS.

4781. Jurisdiction of court.]—The ct. has power to tax a bill of costs, as between solr. & client, independently of the character of solr. to any particular bkpcy.—Re SHERRY, Ex p. DAVIS (1838), 3 Mont. & A. 624, Ct. of R.

4782. In what cases—Application of assignee opposed by other assignees & solicitor—Bill reduced by more than one-sixth.]—An assignee presented a petition for the taxation of the bill of the solr. to the fiat, but the prayer was opposed by the other assignees & the solr. The usual order for taxation having been made, & the bill being reduced by more than one-sixth, the solr. paid petitioner the costs of taxation. Petitioner then applied to the comrs. to be allowed out of the estate his extra costs incurred in the proceedings, but the comrs. refused to allow him any further costs, although they allowed out of the estate the costs of the other assignees, as between solr. & client:—Held: petitioner was entitled to have his costs taxed, as between solr. & client.—Re FISHER, Ex p. FOSBROOKE (1841), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 533; 5 Jur. 370, Ct. of R.

4783. Time for making order.]—1883 Rules, r. 98, only empowers the ct. to direct that costs shall be taxed & paid as between solr. & client at the time when the order is made awarding the costs. If such a direction is not given at that time, the ct. has no power to give it subsequently.—Re ANGELL, Ex p. SHOOLBRED (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 298; 54 L. J. Q. B. 87; 51 L. T. 678; 33 W. See 1915 Rules, r. 115.

SUB-SECT. 4.—SET-OFF OF COSTS.

4784. Costs awarded against creditor—But not taxed—Against creditor's debt.]—Costs ordered to be paid, but not taxed until after the bkpcy. of the person to receive them, cannot be set off by the party from whom they were due, proving a debt under the commission.—Ex p. RHODES (1809), 15 Ves. 539; 33 E. R. 858.

4785. Costs payable by creditor—Against costs made part of petitioning creditor's debt.]—There can be no set-off of costs in bkpcy. proceedings between a creditor & his debtor, where the creditor makes costs payable to him part of the debt on which he bases his bkpcy. petition against his debtor, although, if such costs had not been made part of petitioning creditor's debt, a set-off of costs would have been allowed.—Re A DEBTOR, Ex p. PETITIONING CREDITORS, [1907] 2 K. 4787. —— —— Against creditor's judgment debt.]—A creditor of a married woman, having obtained judgment against her separate estate for a debt of over £50 incurred by her whilst trading, presented a petition against her, which was dismissed with costs. She then obtained an order in the Bkpcy. Ct. for payment of her costs, & took out a judgment summons against the creditor, who had not complied with the order:—Held: the ct. had no jurisdiction to set off the judgment debt against the costs of the petition.—Re DRUMMOND, Ex p. ASHMORE, [1909] 2 K. B. 622; 78 L. J. K. B. 935; 25 T. L. R. 706; 53 Sol. Jo. 651; 16 Mans. 200.

4788. —— On rescission of receiving order—Against creditor's judgment debt—In proceedings on fresh petition.]—A receiving order had been made against A. on the petition of a co., the alleged act of bkpcy. being non-compliance with a bkpcy. notice served in respect of a judgment debt. A. appealed on the ground that the bkpcy. notice was issued for too large an amount, & the Ct. of Appeal allowed the appeal, rescinding the receiving order. Before the allocatur for the costs was issued, the co. presented a second petition in bkpcy. against A. When the allocatur was issued, A., as judgment creditor for the amount, commenced garnishee proceedings for the purpose of attaching the co.'s bank account, & by an order of the master the proposed garnishees were directed to pay a sum less their costs into ct., while A. & the co. were directed to proceed to the trial of an issue before a judge as to whether the co. were indebted to A. at the time when the order nisi was served on the garnishees. On appeal by A.:—Held: the appeal must be dismissed, as there were two judgment debtors & primâ facie in bkpcy. in such a case there was a right to set off one against the other, & the garnishee order nisi must be discharged.—SCOTT v. PEAK HILL GOLDFIELDS, LTD. SECT. 1.—TO WHAT COURT.

4791. From registrar—Sitting as judge—To Chief Judge in Bankruptcy—Or Court of Appeal.]—An appeal from a registrar sitting as judge cannot be heard by a county ct. judge, but must be to the Chief Judge in Bkpcy. or the Lords Justices of Appeal, as the case may be.—Re MARSDEN, Ex p. NICHOLSON (1876), 34 L. T. 592; 24 W. R. 714.

See, now, 1914 Act, s. 108 (2) (a).

4792. From registrar of county court—Sitting as registrar—To judge of his court.]—An appeal from the registrar of a county ct., sitting as registrar, must be before the judge of his ct. in the first instance.—Re SIDEY, Ex p. SIDEY (1871), 24 L. T. 143.

See, now, 1914 Act, ss. 102 (1), 108 (2) (a).

4793. From High Court—To Court of Appeal—Not to Divisional Court.]—All appeals from decisions of the High Ct. of Justice in bkpcy. matters, whether given in ct. or in chambers, lie to the Ct. of Appeal, & not to a Divisional Ct. of the High Ct.—Re FRIEDLANDER, Ex p. OASTLER (1884), 51 L. 4793 i. From High Court—To Court of Appeal.]—Certain members of the United Irish League took part in an organised attempt to prevent the purchaser of premises ordered to be sold by the ct. in a bkpcy. matter from completing his contract with the ct. Four of the principal actors in the agitation were summoned under Irish 1857 Act, s. 308, to give evidence in the matter before the judge in bkpcy. Upon the evidence given by themselves in obedience to the summons the judge in bkpcy. committed them for contempt of ct.:—Held: a person committed for contempt of ct. under the bkpcy. code was entitled to appeal to the Ct. of Appeal.—Re SHANAHAN (1912), 46 I. SECT. 2.—IN REGARD TO WHAT ORDERS.

4798. Order of county court judge—For trial of facts.]—No appeal lies from an order made by a county ct. for the trial of issues of fact with a jury.—Re ANDERSON, Ex p. ANDERSON (1870), 39 L. J. Bcy. 32; affd. without touching this point, 23 L. T. 274, L. J.

4799. —— Imposing new terms on resolution of creditors.]—Any person, affected by an order of a county ct. judge made in bkpcy. imposing new terms on a resolution of creditors, e.g. the solr. of the trustee, may appeal therefrom to the chief judge.—Re WINN, Ex p. HUNT (1871), 19 W. R. 714.

4800. Order in regard to costs.]—The ct. will not allow an appeal for costs under 1861 Act.—Re PILLING, Ex p. OGLE, Ex p. SMITH (1873), 8 Ch. App. 711; 42 L. J. Bcy. 99, L. JJ.

4801. —— In exceptional circumstances.]—The creditors of a liquidating debtor in 1877 passed a special resolution authorising the sale of his estate to the trustee at such a price as would pay a dividend of 5*s.* in the pound to the creditors, & also the costs of the liquidation. The resolution was sanctioned by the ct., & was carried out by the trustee. Debtor was not a party to the arrangement, & did not know of it for some time afterwards. The creditors did not pass any formal resolution fixing the close of the liquidation, or granting debtor a discharge, but he commenced another business. In 1881 this came to the knowledge of the trustee, & he thereupon took possession of debtor's stock-in-trade, claiming it on behalf of the creditors under the liquidation:—Held: in the circumstances, the costs might properly be the subject of appeal.—Re WAINWRIGHT, Ex p. WAINWRIGHT (1881), 19 Ch. D. 140; 51 L. J. Ch. 67; 45 L. T. 562; 30 W. R. 125, C. A.

4802. —— Order declaring agreement as to costs void.]—A county ct. judge sitting in bkpcy. declared an agreement by a solr., to conduct bkpcy. proceedings on the terms that his costs should not exceed £10, to be void. On the hearing of an appeal against such declaration, a preliminary objection was taken to the jurisdiction of the Divisional Ct., on the ground that the appeal did not relate to a bkpcy. matter:—Held: by virtue of 1884 Act, the ct. had jurisdiction to hear the appeal.—Re OWEN, Ex p. PAYTON (1885), 52 L. T. 628; 2 Morr. 87, D. C.

4803. —— Costs not only subject matter of order appealed from.]—On appeal from an order of a county ct. registrar dismissing a bkpcy. petition presented by applt. against debtor, the preliminary objection was taken that since the order appealed from was made the debt of petitioning creditor had been paid, & the appeal was an appeal as to costs only:—Held: as the ground of the appeal was that the order of the registrar dismissing the petition was wrong, the appeal was not one as to costs only, & applt. was entitled to proceed.—Re SARTORIS, Ex p. ROSS (1891), 8 Morr. 25, D. 4796 i. From commissioners—To Court of Sessions.]—An appeal from a decision of comrs. refusing to discharge an insolvent debtor was taken to the Ct. of Sessions on the ground that there was no county ct. judge in the county where debtor was confined:—Held: the appeal was properly taken.—ARMSTRONG v. TREFNEY (1886), 7 R. & G. 19.—CAN.

4796 ii. —— To Supreme Court in banco.]—Deft. was imprisoned under process issued out of the county ct. & detained under an order of comrs. for the relief of insolvent debtors. An application was made to the Supreme Ct. in banco for a summons to have prisoner brought up by way of appeal:—Held: the ct. had no jurisdiction to hear the case, not having met within ten days from the date of the order from which the appeal was sought.—BROOKFIELD v. SYMES (1881), 3 R. & G. 17; 2 C. L. T. 601.—CAN.

c. From Court of Insolvency—To full court.]—An appeal lies to the full ct. from an order of the primary judge, made upon an appeal to him from the decision of a judge of the Ct. of Insolvency.—Re AARONS (1880), 6 V. L. R. 56.—AUS.

d. From Court of Appeal—To Privy Council.]—40 Vict. c. 41, s. 38, providing that the judgment of the Ct. of Appeal in matters of insolvency should be final, i.e., not subject to the appeal as of right to Her Majesty in Council, allowed by the Lower Canada Civil Procedure Code, Art. 1178, is within the competence of the Canadian Parliament & does not infringe the Queen's prerogative, for it only limits the right of appeal as given by the Code. The sect., according to the true construction of the word "final" therein, excludes appeals to Her Majesty, but contains no words which purport to derogate from the prerogative of the Queen to allow such appeals as an act of grace.—CUSHING v. DUPUY (1880), 5 App. Cas. 409; 1 Cart. 252, P. PART XVII. SECT. 2.

4798 i. Order of county court judge—Refusal of discharge from imprisonment.]—The decision of a county ct. judge on an application by an insolvent for his discharge from imprisonment, is appealable.—HOOD v. DODDS (1873), 19 Gr. 639.—CAN.

4800 i. Order in regard to costs.]—An appeal will not be allowed on a question of costs.—TAIT v. DOWLING (1880), 20 N. B. R. 265.—CAN.

on the ground that he had no jurisdiction :—Held : an appeal could be made, as the order was one declining jurisdiction, & not an order relating to property.—Re GALEY, Ex p. CUNDY (1890), 7 Morr. 253, D. C.

4806. Order made on rehearing—Original order not varied.]—On Jan. 9, 1891, an order was made in the county ct. declaring that two sums of money had been received by applt. from debtor by way of fraudulent preference, & directing him to repay such sums to the trustee in the bkpcy. with costs. There was no appeal from that order, & on Apr. 10, on application by the trustee, an order was made by the county ct. judge committing applt. to prison for non-payment of the amount received by him & the costs. That order was also not appealed from, & on June 18 applt. was arrested, but on June 26 an application was made for his discharge when the county ct. judge varied his former order by directing the discharge on payment by applt. of the sums in question without costs :—Held : although there was no appeal from the original order of Jan. 9, or from the order of committal of Apr. 10, yet the county ct. judge having subsequently varied his order, & the appeal being brought from the decision then given by him, the ct. had jurisdiction to hear the appeal.—Re BISHOP, Ex p. OLAXTON (1891), 7 T. L. R. 610 ; 8 Morr. 221, D. C.

4807. —— ——.]—An appeal will lie from an order made on the rehearing of a matter in the county ct., although the order originally made by the ct. has not been varied on such rehearing.—Re ASHWORTH & OUTRAM (1893), 69 L. T. 259 ; 10 Morr. 175 ; 5 R. 496, D. C.

4808. Order extending time for appeal.]—Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894 (c. 16), s. 1 (1) (a), which provides that no appeal shall lie from an order allowing an extension of time for appealing from a judgment or order, applies to an order of a Divisional Ct. in bkpcy. extending the time for appealing from an order of the county ct.—Re A DEBTOR (No. 20 OF 1910), [1911] 1 K. B. 841 ; 80 L. J. K. B. 508 ; 104 L. T. 233 ; 18 Mans. 107, C. A.

SECT. 3.—LEAVE TO APPEAL.

4809. When leave necessary—Small bankruptcy —Validity of 1883 Rules, r. 199.]—Upon an appeal from a county ct. in the case of a small bkpcy. under 1883 Act, s. 121, it was argued, against the preliminary objection taken that the necessary leave to appeal had not been obtained, that 1883 Rules, r. 199 (5), by which such leave was made requisite was ultra vires :—Held : as the right of appeal given by the Act was a statutory right, the same Act which gave the right could delegate to a prescribed authority the power to modify that right in the prescribed manner, & the necessary leave not having been obtained, the appeal could not be heard.—Re DALE, Ex p. DALE (1885), 52 L. 4810. —— Money involved not exceeding £50— Validity of 1886 Rules, r. 129.]—By the combined effect of 1883 Act, s. 104 (2) (d), providing that no appeal shall be entertained except in conformity with the rules, & of s. 127, allowing rules to be made for carrying into effect the objects of the Act, there is power to make rules restricting the right of appeal ; & 1886 Rules, r. 129, forbidding, except with leave, an appeal when the money or money's worth involved does not exceed £50, is intra vires, so that no such appeal can be brought without leave.—Re HANN, Ex p. FOREMAN (1887), 18 Q. 4812. —— —— What is "involved."]—Held : the word "involved" in 1886 Rules, r. 129 (1) meant "involved in the appeal," but in considering what was the money or money's worth involved, the ct. ought to have regard to all the proceedings

Upon an application by the trustee in bkpcy. for an order that applt. should pay to the trustee a sum of £126, the proceeds of the sale of certain goods which had been paid to applt., upon the ground that the goods were in the possession, order, & disposition of bkpt. at the commencement of the bkpcy., or that the payment of a part of that sum to applt. was a fraudulent preference, the county ct. judge only made an order declaring that the payment of £13, part of the sum of £126, was a fraudulent preference :—Held : it was apparent from the proceedings that the money or money's worth involved did not exceed £50 within the above rules, & applt. could not appeal without leave.—Re ARNOLD, Ex p. HEXT, [1914] 3 K. 4819. Jurisdiction of Divisional Court—Principles governing exercise of discretion.]—The jurisdiction which the judges of the Divisional Ct. have to give or to refuse leave to appeal from their own decision is a very delicate one. Merely to say that they are satisfied their decision is right is not a sufficient reason for refusing leave to appeal, when the question involved is one of principle & they have decided it for the first time.—Re ARMSTRONG, Ex p. GILCHRIST (1886), 17 Q. 4821. Form of order granting leave—Should not be qualified.]—In granting leave to appeal a county ct. judge ought not to limit or qualify his leave to appeal.—Re SANDARS, Ex p. SERJEANT (1885), 52 L. T. 516, D. C.

4822. Effect of order granting leave—Right to registrar to refuse to pay money out of court until after expiry of period.]—Upon appeal from a county ct. in a bkpcy. proceeding the Divisional Ct. allowed the appeal, & ordered money, which had been paid into the county ct., to be paid out to applt. The Divisional Ct. also gave leave to appeal to the Ct. of Appeal, but made no order for a stay of proceedings. The registrar of the county ct. having refused to pay out the money until the time for appealing to the Ct. of Appeal had elapsed:—Held: the refusal was unjustifiable.—Re WISE, Ex p. CROYDON COUNTY COURT REGISTRAR (1886), 17 Q. 4851. —— From date of order on rehearing.]—On Feb. 17, 1873, an order was made in the county ct. that a charge on certain property given by a bkpt. to his bankers on Feb. 24, 1872, was void as against the trustee, & that a prior charge given on Jan. 6, 1872, was valid to the extent of £2,500. Liberty was reserved to either party to apply to rescind or vary the order on or before Mar. 31, 1873. On Mar. 31, on the application of the trustee, the order was varied by declaring that the bank's charge extended only to a part of the property comprised in the two documents in question. The substituted order did not expressly declare the charge of Feb. 24 to be void. On May 5, 1873, the order of Mar. 31 was again varied on the application of the bank, & an order was made declaring the charge of Feb. 24 void as against the trustee :—Held : as the county ct. judge had 4859. —— To allow appellant to get leave to appeal—No one prejudiced thereby.]—On Aug. 12, 1885, the Divisional Ct., upon an appeal from a county ct. ordered a settlement made by bkpt. to be set aside. On Sept. 5 notice of appeal was served. No leave to appeal had then been obtained either from the Divisional Ct. or the Ct. of Appeal. The Divisional Ct. did not sit in bkpcy. after Aug. 12 until Nov. 16. On Nov. 3 applt. served resp. with notice of an application to the Ct. of Appeal for leave to appeal. The appeal came into the paper of the Ct. of Appeal on Nov. 13 & was then ordered to stand over to enable applt. to apply to the Divisional Ct. for leave to appeal, & that application was made on Nov. 16, but was refused. The case having come into the appeal paper again on the first day since Nov. 13 on which the Ct. of Appeal had taken bkpcy. appeals:—Held: leave to appeal should be granted, as no harm would be done to any one by relieving applt. from the effect of the blunder which had been made.—Re PLAYER, Ex p. PLAYER, [1885] W. 4881. How served—Substituted service—Jurisdiction of court to order.]—In a proper case the Ct. of Appeal has jurisdiction to make an order for substituted service of a notice of appeal, though no express provision to that effect is contained in R. S. C.—Re WHALLEY, Ex p. WARBURG (1883), 24 Ch. D. 364 ; 53 L. J. Ch. 336 ; 49 L. T. 243, C. A.

4882. Form of notice—In whose names.]—After the presentation of a bkpcy. petition & the appointment of a receiver, but before the appointment of a trustee, an order was made that the receiver should deliver up to appcts. some bills of exchange which had come into his hands, on the ground that they did not form part of debtor's estate. Notice of the application had been addressed to the receiver, debtors, & petitioning creditor. Notice of appeal was given in the name of the receiver alone :—Held : the notice must be amended by naming debtors & petitioning creditor also as applts.—Re SAWERS, Ex p. CHALMERS (1879), 11 Ch. D. 911 ; 41 L. T. 263, C. A.

4883. —— Contents—Grounds of appeal.]—A notice of appeal from a county ct. must state the grounds of appeal, but the omission to do so will not involve the dismissal of the appeal.—Re SMITH, Ex p. DENBIGH (EARL) (1892), 9 T. L. R. 72 ; 9 Morr. 316, D. C.

4884. Appeal by one of two bill of sale holders—Notice of appeal given to trustee & other grantee—Trustee's cross-notice.]—On the application of a trustee in bkpcy., the registrar of a county ct. declared two bills of sale which bkpt. had executed void against the trustee. On appeals by the two grantees, the Chief Judge affirmed the decision as to the first bill of sale, but held that the second bill of sale was valid as against the trustee. The first grantee gave notice of appeal, addressed to the trustee & to the second grantee. The trustee gave no original notice of appeal, but served notice on both the grantees that, on the hearing of the first grantee's appeal, he should contend that the decision of the Chief Judge as to the second bill of sale ought to be varied in his favour :—Held : this was a good notice under R. S. C., 1875, Order 58, r. 6.—Re CROSS, Ex p. PAYNE (1879), 11 Ch. D. 539 ; 40 L. T. 563 ; 27 W. R. 808, C. A.

4907. —— —— —— ——.]—Both appct. & debtor were working colliers, the wages of each averaging about 30*s.* a week, & in Oct., 1890, judgment for £50 & costs was given in favour of appct. in an action brought by him against debtor for the loss of his eye, which had been injured by a stone thrown by debtor. Debtor thereupon presented his petition, upon which he was adjudicated bkpt., & a subsequent application for an order under 1883 Act, s. 53 (2), directing debtor to set aside a portion of his wages towards payment of his debts was refused by the county ct. judge. On an application to dispense with the deposit of £20 on an appeal from that decision :—Held : in the special circumstances, the case was one in which the ct. would dispense with the usual deposit.—Re JONES, Ex p. LLOYD (1891), 64 L. 4914. —— Objection not taken in lower court.]—The trustee in a bkpcy., applied to a county ct. to set aside as fraudulent a mtge. executed by bkpt. The ct. having directed the trial of issues by a jury, & the deed having been found fraudulent, an order was made setting it aside, & a new trial refused. The mtgee. appealed against the setting aside, but not against the refusal of a new trial. The objection was then taken that the case was not one where the Ct. of Bkpcy. ought to exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction under 1869 Act, s. 72:—Held: the objection was raised too late after the mtgee. had taken his chance of a decision on the merits before the jury, &, as there had been no appeal from the refusal of a new trial, the finding of the jury was conclusive, & the order setting aside the deed a necessary consequence.—Re HARRISON, Ex p. BUTTERS (1880), 14 Ch. 4916. Judge's note—To what court application must be made.]—A party who requires a copy of the notes of the judge of a county ct. must apply to him for it.—Re LOCK, Ex p. POPPLETON (1891), 8 Morr. 44, D. C.

4917. Admissibility of evidence—Evidence not called in lower court—Owing to party's default.]—On the hearing of an appeal in bkpcy., leave ought not to be given to use evidence, which was not used upon the hearing in the ct. below, where it was the fault of the person desiring to use the new evidence that it was not used on the original hearing.

Where applt. on the original hearing accepted an order in his favour, without insisting upon an application which he had made to have the matter ordered to stand over, in order that an affidavit

k. Form of petition.]—A petition of appeal from the decision of a county ct. judge, acting in insolvency, need not set out all the evidence, documents, & materials used before the judge. What is needed is, that either the petition, or the notice accompanying it, should show to the opposite party the objection which is taken to the proceeding appealed from, & the materials to be used on the argument of the appeal.—HOOD v. DODDS (1873), 19 Gr. 639.—CAN.

l. ——.]—The petition in appeal under 1864 & 1865 Acts need not be signed by the insolvent or his assignee, but must be addressed to the ct., not to the chief justice but, semble, such irregularity may be corrected.—Re PARR (1867), 17 C. P. 621.—CAN.

m. ——.]—On an application to a judge in chambers for the allowance of an appeal from the decision of the judge in insolvency, an order was made referring the matter to the appellate ct., without directing a special case to be settled between the parties, but no objection was made on that ground:—Held: only an irregularity which might be waived, & if not waived ought to have been objected to by a rule to set aside the proceedings on that ground, & as the petition of appeal had been filed by permission of the ct., & applt. authorised to serve notice of hearing of appeal for a day named, the case was properly before the ct. for adjudication.—Re SHARPE (1869), 20 C. P. 82.—CAN.

n. Requisites of jurisdiction.]—Applt. from the decision of a judge of the county ct., under 1869 Act, s. 83, is bound to show that all the necessary preliminary steps have been taken. Without proof of the necessary preliminary steps being taken the ct. has no jurisdiction over the case, & no power to make any order with reference to it (WELDON, J.).—HAMILTON v. BOURGEOIS (1875), 3 Pug. 232.—CAN.

o. Principle on which court acts.]—The appellate ct. will, on appeals from the judge's ruling in insolvency, as on appeals from other cts., in cases where the evidence is contradictory, be governed in a great measure by the opinion of the judge who has seen the witnesses give their testimony; yet where giving full credence to all the witnesses relied on by the judge, the ct. differed in opinion from him as to the effect of that evidence, the ct. reversed the finding of the judge.—Re WEEKS (1876), 23 Gr. 252.—CAN.

4912 i. What matters may be considered—So much only of case as is appealed against.]—Under 1892 Act, & the rules of Mar. 21, 1893, thereunder, an appeal is an appeal within the strict meaning of that word, & not a rehearing. If resp. wishes to go into any part of the case not included in the notice of appeal he must give notice of cross-appeal.—Re REIMER (1897), 15 N. Z. L. R. 198.—N.Z.

4912 ii. —— ——.]—The Ct. of Appeal ought to be careful not to allow questions to be raised upon appeal which are clearly not within the notice of motion in the Supreme Ct.—Re MORRISON, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1905), 25 N. Z. L. R. 513.—N.Z.

4914 i. —— Point not raised in court below.]—Where the point on which an appeal is taken was not raised in the ct. below, the ct. will order the registrar to attend in the Ct. of Appeal, but will not annex a statement to that effect to the sched. of evidence.—Re CRAIG, Ex p. MORETON (1858), 8 I. Ch. R. 214.—IR.

4914 ii. S. P. Re PARR (1867), 17 C. P. 621.—CAN.

p. —— Specifying errors in decision appealed from.]—Where there was an appeal from the judgment of the comrs., the ct. did not require specific errors to be pointed out.—Re FRENCH & Co., Ex p. TOWNSEND (1828), 2 Mol. 242.—IR.

q. Judge's reasons for order appealed against—Duty to forward.]—The provision in 1890 Act, s. 11, directing a judge of the Insolvency Ct. to forward to the Supreme Ct. a statement of his reasons for making an order appealed against should be strictly complied with.—Re DAVIES (1896), 22 V. L. R. 40.—AUS.

4917 i. Admissibility of evidence—Evidence not admitted in lower court.]—In an appeal from the Ct. of Insolvency where there is no note in the appeal book of the refusal by the judge below to admit a particular deposition, the ct. will not act either on the statement of counsel or on an affidavit that it was tendered & refused, but will hear the appeal only on the materials before the judge below.—Re MCINTYRE (1885), 11 V. L. R. 312.—AUS.

4918. —— —— Special reasons—What is not sufficient reason.]—Debtor, in an affidavit filed in a county ct., stated that a debtor's summons had been served upon him on or about July 2, 1870. In an affidavit subsequent to the hearing in the county ct., & while the case was under appeal, he stated that he had been mistaken as to the date, which he remembered to have been June 30. He was sure of it, as it was on a market-day, & June 30 was a market-day:—Held: no special reasons existed for the admission of such evidence, but, on the contrary, the above rule would be worse than useless if such evidence could be admitted.—Re BROADBENT, BLACKBURN v. HOMAN (1871), 19 W. R. 1078.

4919. —— —— To explain delay in serving notice of appeal.]—The ct. will not admit evidence not before the ct. below, in order to explain delay in serving notice of appeal.—Re GREEN, Ex p. DONNITHORNE (1879), 40 L. T. 660; 27 W. R. 824.

4920. —— Evidence taken but not used in original hearing.]—Evidence taken before, but not used upon the original hearing, was not admitted upon the hearing of an appeal.—Re JAMES, Ex p. HARRIS (1874), L. R. 19 Eq. 253.

4921. —— Shorthand writer's notes—Judge's notes before court.]—Where an issue of fact has been tried before a judge under 1869 Act, s. 72, & the Ct. of Appeal is furnished with the judge's notes of the trial, they are conclusive as to the evidence adduced before him, & the ct. will not receive the notes of a shorthand writer except by consent of both parties.—Re SIDEBOTHAM, Ex p. GILLEBRAND (1874), 10 Ch. App. 52; 31 L. T. 715; 39 J. P. 165; 23 W. R. 194, L. C. & L. JJ.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Simpson, Ex p. Morgan (1876), 2 Ch. D. 72, C. A.

4923. —— Notes of proceedings verified by affidavit—Judge having failed to take notes.]—It is the duty of a county ct. judge sitting in bkpcy. to take a note of the oral evidence given before him, but where such judge has neglected his duty to take a note, the ct. will not readily decline to entertain an appeal from his decision on the ground of the absence of evidence, if a note of the proceedings, which should be verified by affidavit, can be obtained from other sources.—Re SHARP, Ex p. SHARP (1893), 10 Morr. 114, D. C.

4924. —— Vivâ voce evidence—Further evidence necessary.]—Where additional evidence was necessary to enable the Ct. of Appeal to dispose of a case satisfactorily, such evidence was taken vivâ voce on the hearing of the appeal.—Re WIKE, Ex p. KEIGHLEY (1874), 9 Ch. App. 667; 44 L. J. Bcy. 13, L. JJ.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Ashworth & Outram (1893), 69 L. T. 259.

4925. Sufficiency of evidence—Findings of trial judge not conclusive.]—The Ct. of Appeal is not bound to accept as conclusive the finding of a judge on the trial of an issue of fact under 1869 Act, s. 72.—Re SIDEBOTHAM, Ex p. GILLEBRAND (1874), 10 Ch. App. 52; 31 L. T. 715; 39 J. P. 165; 23 W. R. 194, L. C. & L. JJ.

4926. Dismissal of appeal—Appellant failing to appear—Respondent not proving receipt of notice of appeal.]—When a bkpcy. appeal has been set down in the ordinary course & is in the day's paper for hearing, if applt. does not appear, resp. is entitled to have the appeal dismissed with costs without giving any proof that he has been served with a notice of appeal.—Re LOWS, Ex p. LOWS (1877), 7 Ch. SECT. 9.—COSTS OF APPEAL.

4928. General rule.]—The Ct. of Bkpcy. will follow the rule laid down by the Ct. of Appeal, & in general a successful applt. will, in bkpcy., be entitled to his costs of appeal.—Re WINSON, Ex p. MASTERS (1875), 1 Ch. D. 113; 45 L. J. Bcy. 18; 33 L. T. 613; 24 W. R. 113.

4929. Costs not allowed—Appeal successful.]—A successful applt. from the county ct. was not allowed costs of appeal.—Re CHERRY, Ex p. MATHEWS (1871), L. R. 12 Eq. 596; 40 L. J. Bcy. 90; 19 W. R. 1005.

4930. —— —— On point not raised in lower court.]—Where an appeal was successful, on the ground of an objection to the jurisdiction which had not been taken in the ct. below, the appeal was allowed, but without costs.—Re CLIFFE, Ex p. EATOUGH & CO., LTD. (1880), 42 L. T. 95; 28 W. R. 433.

4932. —— Appeal dismissed on preliminary objection — Respondent having failed to give notice.]—When resp. to an appeal intends to take a preliminary objection he should give notice to 4948 i. In what cases, [rehearing proper course to adopt.]—On a petition by two creditors, who had proved claims under a decree for the administration of their debtor's estate in accordance with the trusts of an assignment for the benefit of creditors, seeking to have the priority of their claims determined :—Held : the proper procedure was not to seek to have the existing decree varied, but to rehear the cause, & they were entitled to do so, though not parties, the decree affecting their interest.—MULHOLLAND v. HAMILTON (1866), 12 Gr. 413.—CAN.

Ct. of Appeal in Bkpcy. has jurisdiction, under 1869 Act, s. 71, to rehear upon fresh evidence, & to alter, vary or rescind its orders; but it will not rehear an order under appeal to the House of Lords, merely to insert in the order, for the purposes of such appeal, evidence that was not before it.—Re HOOPER, Ex p. BANCO DE PORTUGAL (1880), 14 Ch. D. 1; 49 L. J. Bcy. 21; 42 L. T. 210; 28 W. R. 433, C. A.

4965. When granted—Application for rehearing before whole court—Certificate of Lord Justices as to fitness of case.]—Application that a petition of appeal, which had been heard before the Lords Justices, might be reheard before the full ct. An order had been made by the District Ct. of Bkpcy. at Liverpool, which had been reversed by the Lords Justices, who had refused a case to enable appct. to appeal to the House of Lords. The point was one of great nicety, & involved property to a very large amount:—Held: if the Lords Justices would certify that they thought the case a fit one to be heard before the full ct., the application should be granted.—TURNER v. CROSTHWAITE (1852), 20 L. T. O. S. 58, L. C.

4966. Grounds for granting—Applicant not properly represented.]—On an application for an interpleader order in the Ct. of Bkpcy. the execution creditor was represented only by a solr.'s clerk. The registrar declined to hear him &, later, refused an application for rehearing:—Held: appct. was entitled to a rehearing.—Re MORRIS, Ex p. STREETER (1881), 19 Ch. D. 216; 45 L. T. 634; 30 W. 4968. Grounds for refusing—No new facts.]—A petition for rehearing was dismissed, as (1) petitioner did not state "any new fact, or if anything had been discovered since the former hearing," (2) nothing was alleged "which might not equally have been alleged at the former hearing," (3) there had been no application then to adjourn the hearing, & (4) the sole ground of the petition to rehear was, that "petitioner was furnished with an affidavit of some party stating that the deeds, which were established in evidence on the former hearing, & on which the order of the ct. was founded, were fraudulent & void."—Re HARRIOTT, Ex p. MOULD (1842), 2 Mont. 4969. —— Order not made under bankruptcy jurisdiction—Charging order.]—In an action in the Ch. Div., by one partner against another, for a dissolution of the partnership, judgment was given for a dissolution, & the appointment of a receiver of the assets of the partnership. Both the partners were afterwards adjudged bkpt.; the action was transferred to the Q.B. Div. in bkpcy., & the judge having jurisdiction in bkpcy. made an order under Solrs. Act, 1860 (c. 127), s. 28, charging the costs of pltf.'s solr. on the funds in the hands of the receiver. Before the order was made, the landlord of the premises, in which bkpts. had carried on their business, had given notice to the receiver of a claim for rent due to him, but had not attempted to distrain. The judge was not informed of such claim before he made the order, & he subsequently made a further order, by which he directed the receiver to pay the rent due to the landlord, & to pay the balance in his hands to the solr.:—Held: the charging order was not made by the judge in the exercise of his bkpcy. jurisdiction, & he had no power to rescind or vary it under 1883 Act, s. 104.—Re SUFFIELD & WATTS, Ex p. BROWN (1888), 20 Q. 4972. —— Liquidation under 1869 Act—Application under Discharge & Closure Act, 1887 (c. 66), s. 2.]—In 1884 at a meeting of the creditors of debtor, whose affairs were being liquidated by arrangement under 1869 Act, resolutions were passed releasing the trustee & closing the liquidation, & it was also resolved that the discharge of debtor should be granted. At a subsequent meeting held in 1889 a resolution was obtained, whereby the discharge of debtor was granted. On an application under 1869 Act, s. 125 (10), for a certificate to that effect, the county ct. registrar refused to certify, on the ground that the resolution 4973. —— Bankrupt undischarged under previous bankruptcy.]—When an undischarged bkpt. makes an application for his discharge under a second bkpcy., the ct. will not entertain the application, until he has purged himself of his former bkpcy.

On the application of bkpt. for his discharge the official receiver reported that bkpt. had previously filed a petition for liquidation of his affairs, under which his discharge had not been granted:—Held: it appearing that bkpt. had not obtained his discharge under the liquidation petition, the application would be adjourned sine die with liberty to apply.—Re BINKO (1885), 1 T. 5000. —— —— At instance of creditor—After meeting fixed & advertised.]—Where a meeting has been fixed, & duly advertised, for showing cause against a bkpt.'s certificate, the ct. will, in certain circumstances, upon the application of a creditor, without hearing bkpt., adjourn the meeting.

A meeting was appointed & advertised in the usual way, & everything required by bkpt. to be done previous to the meeting was done regularly. The hour appointed for the meeting was one o'clock. At twelve o'clock of the day appointed for the meeting, a solr., who had opposed the passing of bkpt.'s last examination on behalf of several creditors, applied to the ct. to adjourn the meeting, on the ground that the solr. for the assignees, in writing to him at his request to apprize him of the meeting, had stated that the meeting was to be held at eleven instead of one o'clock, which was the proper hour, & that he had attended accordingly, & his other arrangements prevented his being present at one o'clock:—Held: the meeting should be adjourned to a future day.—Re MAY (1845), 5 L. 5002. —— —— Answer filed to pending bill likely to disclose further assets.]—Bkpt. applied for an order of discharge, but the comr. adjourned the meeting for bkpt. to put in his answer to a bill in Ch., on the ground that the answer might show that he had not made a full discharge of his property. On appeal the order was reversed, &, there being nothing on the bkpcy. proceedings to raise a suspicion that a full disclosure had not been made, the order of discharge was granted.—Re LEE, Ex p. LEE (1867), 3 Ch. 5003. —— —— Bankrupt unable to pay rent— & refusing to give up possession.]—Where bkpt. is unable to pay the rent due in respect of premises occupied by him, & refuses to give up possession to his landlord, the ct. will order him to give up the premises, & adjourn the consideration of the order of discharge until that is done.—Re M'CARTHY (1863), 7 L. 5004. Transfer of proceedings—From registrar to judge in bankruptcy—Issues of importance.]—Where an application by bkpt. for his discharge raises a number of issues of great importance & magnitude & of great difficulty in their determination, the judge in bkpcy. will direct a transfer to himself of the application from the registrar. The mere fact that the registrar has granted leave for a public prosecution of bkpt. is not a sufficient ground for transferring the hearing of the application for discharge from the registrar.—Re HOOLEY, Ex p. DEBTOR (1899), 80 L. 5005. Notes of oral evidence—Duty of county court judge to take.]—It is the duty of a county ct. judge, on the hearing of an application for discharge, to take a note of the oral evidence.—Re SHARP, Ex p. SHARP (1893), 10 Morr. 114, D. C.

5006. Reopening—On what grounds—Insufficient examination.]—The examination of bkpt. was stopped by a county ct. judge, & he was declared entitled to his order of discharge. Upon an affidavit filed, under direction of the ct., by the solr. of applts. the opposing creditors, stating his belief that if he had been permitted to continue the examination, he would have been enabled to prove that bkpt., a commission agent, had been in the habit of receiving money due from customers of applts., not for the purpose of paying them over to them, but for payments in respect of gambling & betting transactions, the ct. ordered applts. to be at liberty to continue bkpt.'s examination on any matters which would be a statutory ground of objection to his receiving an order of discharge, & that their solr. was to lay before the judge a clear & definite statement of the nature of the charges to which the examination was to be directed.—Re THURSTAN, Ex p. URWICK (1864), 10 L. T. 81, L. C.

5007. Appeal from refusal to hear—Hearing by Court of Appeal.]—Upon an appeal by bkpt. from the registrar's refusal to hear his application for discharge, the Ct. of Appeal will, in a proper case, itself hear the application instead of remitting it to the registrar.—Re SOLOMONS, [1904] 1 K. 5008. Rehearing—On what grounds—Power of county court judge.]—On Mar. 18, 1886, an order was made in the county ct. that the discharge of bkpt. be suspended for three years, & that it be then granted, subject to the condition that he should consent to judgment being entered against him for the balance of the provable debts under 1883 Act, s. 28 (6). On June 20, 1889, application was made by bkpt. to the county ct. to review, rescind, or vary its former order by expunging the conditions on which it had been granted, on the ground that the ct. had no power under s. 28 to make a conditional order of discharge & also suspend the order. The county ct. judge refused the application, being doubtful whether under s. 104 (1), he had authority to deal with it:—Held: the county ct. judge had power to rehear the case, & it must be remitted back to him for that purpose, & to make such order as he might think fit in all the circumstances.—Re TREGASKIS, Ex p. TREGASKIS (1889), 6 Morr. 309, D. 5009. —— —— Object to obtain another opportunity for appealing—Previous delay in appealing.]—The general though not the invariable rule is, that the ct. should not grant a rehearing under 1883 Act, s. 104, where the only object of appct. is to obtain another opportunity for appealing, when he has let the time for appealing from the original decision go by.—Re TOBIAS & CO., Ex p. TOBIAS, [1891] 1 Q. 5010. In awarding punishment—Powers not cumulative—1861 Act, s. 159.]—Under 1861 Act, s. 159, the powers given to the comr. either to refuse or suspend the order of discharge, or to imprison, are alternative, not cumulative.—Re MARKS (1866), 1 Ch. 5011. —— Intention of legislature.]—By conferring on the ct. absolute discretion as to the manner & quantum of punishment, Parliament assumes that each of the offences may be committed in such circumstances as would justify the ct. in absolutely refusing the order of discharge, or, on the other hand in circumstances which would justify the ct. in suspending the order for the smallest conceivable fraction of time. —Re SCHARRER (1888), 4 T. L. R. 627.

5012. —— Duty to view offences seriously.]—A suspension of an order of discharge for three months or six months is not as a general rule such a punishment as the ct. ought to impose, & although it cannot be said that there are no cases in which a suspension for those periods may not be justifiable, it is the duty of the ct. to take a sufficiently serious view of the offences which bkpts. from time to time commit, & to show by the punishment awarded that such offences cannot be committed with impunity.—Re FREEMAN, Ex p. FREEMAN (1890), 62 L. 5016. —— Offences under 1849 Act, s. 201—In applications after repeal of that Act.]—The ct. will not lay down any general rule as to the granting of an order of discharge under 1861 Act, but each case must depend upon its own individual circumstances. In the inquiry into the circumstances, acts which, under 1849 Act, s. 201, would constitute offences disentitling bkpt. to any certificate, are not to be taken into the consideration of the ct., that sect. having been repealed. —Re MATHESON (1862), 31 L. 5017. —— Additional facts in official receiver's report.]—The official receiver reported that bkpt. had committed certain offences under 1883 Act, s. 28 (3); he also reported certain additional facts:—Held: such additional facts reported by the official receiver ought to be taken into consideration by the ct., when deciding whether or not bkpt.'s discharge should be granted.—Re COOK, Ex p. COOK (1889), 61 L. 5021. —— —— Bankrupt with only one creditor filing own petition.]—Debtor, who had only one creditor, filed his own petition. The petition & the adjudication were both unchallenged, but on application by bkpt. for his discharge it was alleged against him that, by reason of the fact that he had only one unsecured creditor, the filing of the petition was an act of misconduct on his part, which the ct. was bound to take into consideration :—Held : the petition & adjudication having been both unchallenged the registrar was right in refusing to consider the alleged matter on application for discharge.—Re BULLEN, Ex p. ARNAUD (1888), 36 W. 5022. —— —— Only as stated in 1883 Act, ss. 24, 28.]—Bkpt.'s principal asset was a contingent reversionary interest in a sum of £2,000 to which he would be entitled, if he survived his mother. This was practically unsaleable, unless his life could be insured. The trustee required him to submit to a medical examination with a view to effecting an insurance upon his life. He refused to do so without offering any reason or excuse. The official receiver reported that fact to the ct. :—Held : (1) the conduct of bkpt., which the ct. must take into consideration on an application for discharge, must be, either one of the matters specifically mentioned in 1883 Act, s. 28, or a refusal to perform the duties imposed upon him by s. 24 ; (2) bkpt. was not by s. 24 bound to submit to a medical examination.—BOARD OF TRADE v. BLOCK (1888), 13 App. Cas. 570 ; 58 L. 5023. —— —— —— Only relevant matters.]—Upon an application by bkpt. for an order of discharge, the ct., in deciding whether it should grant an absolute or a conditional order, is not entitled, under 1883 Act, s. 28 (2), to take into consideration " conduct & affairs " of bkpt. which could have had nothing to do with producing the bkpcy., but it may consider any conduct which might have had some effect upon the bkpcy.

The bkpcy. of a debtor was brought about by a verdict against him for damages in an action for breach of promise of marriage :—Held : such action was a proper subject for the consideration of the ct. in determining whether a condition should be imposed upon his discharge.—Re BARKER, Ex p. CONSTABLE, Re JONES, Ex p. JONES (1890), 25 Q. 5024. —— Amount of bankrupt's assets.]—In granting an order of discharge the ct. exercises discretion, & amongst the facts which the ct. takes into consideration is the fact that bkpt.'s assets are not of a value equal to 10*s.* in the pound on the amount of his unsecured liabilities. The fact that the debts of bkpt. amounted to nearly £10,000, & the assets were sufficient to pay a dividend of 2*d.* in the pound only, would be a very serious fact, which would have to be taken into consideration on an application by bkpt. for an order of discharge.—Re KEET, [1905] 2 K. 5025. —— Professional position of bankrupt.]—On a question of discharge where bkpt. is a solr. the ct. ought to be very careful as to releasing him, by granting the discharge from a position in which the Law Society may think it its duty to say, that bkpt.'s certificate to practice as a solr. ought to be refused.—Re DALZELL (1908), 25 T. 5026 i. —— Facts other than those in official receiver's report.]—In dealing with an application for a certificate the ct. is not restricted to the specific charges made in the official assignee's report. If upon the examination of bkpt. there is evidence that he has been guilty of any offence, it is the duty of the ct. to investigate the facts. But before doing so bkpt. should be clearly informed of the charge made against him which it is proposed to investigate, & should be given a fair opportunity of answering it.—SCOTT FELL v. LLOYD (1911), 13 C. SUB-SECT. 2.—INTERFERENCE WITH DISCRETION BY APPELLATE COURT.

5030. Leniency of court below.]—Where all the facts have been brought to the notice of the registrar, & he has exercised his discretion as to the terms on which bkpt. should obtain his discharge, the Ct. of Appeal will not interfere with such decision, on an allegation that the punishment imposed was too lenient, & unless it is perfectly clear that the decision was wrong.—Re CHASE, Ex p. COOPER (1886), 3 Morr. 228, C. On a petition to the Ct. of Appeal to suspend the granting of their certificates:—Held: when applt. in bkpcy. relied on facts & figures which might have been brought before the ct. below, at the final examination, or which, if brought forward below, were disregarded by the judge, the Ct. of Appeal in Ch. would require a very strong case to induce them to remit the case.—Re SCOTT & SCOTT (1859), 12 Ir. The money was paid to defts., & they did not appear at the public examination of bkpt. Before any application by bkpt. for an order of discharge, pltf. demanded the return of the money paid :—Held : pltf. was not entitled to recover the money back, because the contract was an illegal contract, &, where there had been a partial carrying into effect of an illegal purpose in a substantial manner, & something still remained to be performed, the money paid under the illegal contract could not be recovered.—KEARLEY v. THOMSON (1890), 24 Q. 5046. Resolution by creditors that bankrupt not to blame—For failure to pay 10s. in the pound.]—Where a special resolution of creditors under 1869 Act, s. 48, has been properly passed, stating that in their opinion bkpt. cannot justly be held liable for his failure to pay 10*s.* in the pound, & desiring his discharge, & the terms of the sect. are in other respects strictly complied with, the ct. has no discretionary power to refuse bkpt.'s application for discharge.—Re HAMILTON, Ex p. HAMILTON (1878), 9 Ch. 5047. No offence under 1861 Act, s. 159.]—W., a bkpt., proposed to set aside £200 a year for the payment of his debts, & upon condition of his so doing his order of discharge was granted. W. again became bkpt., & at the time of his second bkpcy. arrears of payments to the amount of £200 were due to the assignees under the first bkpcy.:—Held: the ct. would not annex conditions to the second order of discharge to provide for future payments under the first, no offence under s. 159 having been proved.—Re WILSON (1869), 20 L. T. 119; 17 W. R. 493.

5048. No offence under Debtors Act, 1869, (c. 62).]—Except in cases of offences under the above Act, the ct. has conferred upon it unlimited discretion as to granting, refusing or suspending the order, or as to imposing conditions. Such discretion must be exercised judicially.—Re WING (1888), 4 T. L. R. 619.

5049. —— Power to take bankrupt's conduct into consideration.]—Except in cases of offences under the above Act, the ct. has conferred upon it unlimited discretion as to granting, refusing or suspending the order as to imposing conditions, & it has full power to take bkpt.'s conduct into consideration.—Re GREPE (1889), 6 T. 5050. No offence under 1883 Act, s. 28.]—Under the above sect. the ct. has an unlimited discretion to grant or refuse bkpt. his discharge, or to suspend his discharge, or to grant a conditional discharge, except in the cases in which that discretion is expressly limited by the proviso to the sect.—Re BARKER. Ex p. CONSTABLE, Re

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1. —A.

r. No general misconduct.]—B. in 1861 voluntarily sequestrated his estate, having debts £300, assets practically nil. At the first & only meeting, neither insolvent nor any creditor attended, & no creditor was proved in the estate. In 1867 insolvent's father died in Tasmania, having devised & bequeathed to him property of the value of £6,000 & appointed him exor. He then, without the knowledge of his assignee or creditors, went to Tasmania, & subsequently returned to Victoria with money, & without the intervention of his assignee, advertised for his former creditors, & paid all such as he was able to find. Having done this, he informed his official assignee thereof, who then required him to account to him for all the after acquired property, & pay a commission upon it, which he refused to do. On application for his certificate, which was opposed by the official assignee:—Held: insolvent was not liable to a refusal or suspension of his certificate for non-attendance at his first & only meeting, or for leaving the country without the consent of his creditors, or for refusing to assist the assignee in realising his after acquired estate, & he had not been guilty of general misconduct, within 7 Vict. No. 19, s. 17, by having taken upon himself the administration of his own estate.—Re BABTIE (1868), 5 W. W. & A'B. 13.—AUS.

s. Charge of misconduct disposed of in criminal proceedings.]—Where insolvent, who had been acquitted on a charge of not keeping proper books applied for his rehabilitation:—Held: as the facts disclosed were the same as those investigated at the criminal trial, the application should be granted.—Ex p. SUSSER (1907), T. t. ——.]—Insolvent sued an insurance co. to recover the amount for which his store had been insured. The claim was dismissed with costs as being fraudulent. He was thereupon prosecuted criminally on a charge of fraud, but was found not guilty. In an application for rehabilitation:—Held: as the ground of objection had been disposed of in the criminal proceedings, the rehabilitation should be granted.—Ex p. SHEEN (1914), T. P. x. Failure of objections made to discharge—Objections merely of preliminary character.]—T., an insolvent, made a voluntary assignment, which he delivered to the interim assignee on Mar. 1, who called a meeting of creditors for Mar. 15, at which he was appointed assignee of the estate. On Mar. 29 insolvent filed with the assignee a deed of composition & discharge, & an advertisement was thereupon published & continued for one month, giving notice of application for confirmation of the discharge. The application was made on May 18, & objections were made on the grounds, (1) insolvent had not deposited the deed with the assignee for the purpose contemplated, nor had the assignee pursued the course prescribed by Insolvent Act, 1869, s. 97; (2) one month's notice has not expired, from the first meeting of creditors of insolvent before the filing of & acting upon the deed of composition & discharge, as required by s. 36; (3) no dividend could be declared until three months after notice of the appointment of the assignee:—Held: the objections taken being merely of a preliminary character, on failure of the objections, insolvent was not entitled to his discharge without further inquiry.—Re TUCKER (AN INSOLVENT) (1871), 8 N. z. Consent of creditors—Although no assets.]—The fact that insolvent has no assets will not prevent a consent to his discharge, executed by the statutory majority of his creditors, from operating as an absolute discharge from his liabilities, which should be confirmed by the county ct. judge.—Re HANINGTON, Ex p. CLEMENTSON (1880), 20 N. B. R. 413.—CAN.

a. —— —— & no assignment executed.]—Under 1864 Act, s. 9, a consent to a discharge is operative even without an assignment, provided insolvent files an affidavit that he has no estate or effects to assign.—Re PERRY, 2 C. L. J. N. S. 75.—CAN.

b. Estate paying no dividend.]—The ct. may grant a certificate to an arranging debtor although his estate did not pay any dividend to the creditors.—Re ARRANGING DEBTOR (1876), 10 I. L. T. Jo. 91.—IR.

c. Opposition only from creditor charging exorbitant rate of interest.]—Insolvent discharged, when the only creditor opposing his discharge was a money-lender who lent money to him at an exorbitant rate of interest.—Re HOME (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 443.—IR.

d. Bankrupt out of business for more than two years—Notwithstanding reckless trading.]—Although there has been reckless trading, where bkpt. has been upwards of two years out of business, he will get an immediate certificate.—Re ARCHER (1859), 34 L. T. O. S. 48.—IR.

5051. Grounds for granting—No debts proved.]—Upon bkpt. applying for his certificate, it appeared that not a single creditor, not even petitioning creditor, who held security for his debt, had proved a debt. The debts of the unsecured creditors were only £13 11*s.* 2*d.* & of those holding security £102 10*s.* The assets were about £40:—Held: an immediate certificate of the first class should be granted.—Re BAKER (1857), 29 L. T. O. S. 26.

5052. —— Bankruptcy caused by misfortune without misconduct—Damages incurred in action of slander—Onus of proof.]—Applt., who was in the habit of making speeches on social questions, used words at a meeting in a public place, for which an action for slander was brought in which he was ordered to pay damages & costs. As a result of the action, he was made bkpt., & applied for a certificate with his discharge under 1883 Act, s. 32 (2) (b), so that he might become a candidate at the elections. It appeared that he had no personal interest in the matter & what he did was from motives of charity.—Held: applt. had not discharged the onus of showing that "the bkpcy. was caused by misfortune without any misconduct on his part," & the certificate should not be granted.—Re THOMPSON, Ex p. THOMPSON (1919), 88 L. J. K. B. 646; [1918–1919] B. & C. R. 150, D. C.

5053. —— Punishment suffered sufficient—Second application.]—A trader was adjudged bkpt. in 1851, & his certificate was wholly refused, on the ground that bkpt. had engaged in gambling in stock within 1849 Act, s. 201. After a lapse of ten years, during which he had lived abroad, but had there been sued by a creditor holding a security provable under the bkpcy., & was imprisoned at his suit for a period of nine months, he applied for his discharge under 1861 Act, s. 160, but the comr. refused to order same, on the ground of his going & remaining abroad after the refusal of his certificate:—Held: he was entitled to an absolute & unconditional discharge.—Re MATHESON (1862), 31 L. 5054. —— —— ——.]—Bkpt.'s certificate of conformity having been wholly refused in Feb., 1862, application was made at the expiration of three years for the allowance, under 1861 Act, s. 160, of an order of discharge. Opposition was raised by the assignees, on the grounds that bkpt. had contracted debts without having any reasonable expectation of payment, & that he had, to a certain extent, traded upon fictitious capital, being two of the offences specified in s. 159:—Held: bkpt. had been sufficiently punished for any offences mentioned in s. 159, by a suspension of three years without protection, & he was entitled to an order of discharge.—Re FENN (1865), 13 W. 5057. Bankrupt guilty of offence under Debtor's Act, 1869 (c. 62), or Bankruptcy Acts.]—Under 1883 Act, s. 28 (2), the ct. is bound to refuse an order of discharge to a bkpt. who has been convicted of a misdemeanour under Debtors Act, 1869, Part II., even though bkpt. has undergone a sentence of imprisonment imposed upon him for such offence.—Re RICHARDSON & WEBSTER, Ex p. WEBSTER (1887), 3 T. 5053 i. Grounds for granting—Punishment suffered sufficient—Second application.]—The duties of a junior member of a firm of graziers & dealers in stock were entirely distinct from those of keeping books, etc., which were left to a senior partner. On the firm becoming insolvent the certificates of all the partners were refused. After five years the junior partner again applied for his certificate, & it was refused, on the ground that he had not kept reasonable accounts or entries of his receipts & payments:—Held: assuming him to be liable for the acts of his partners, in the circumstances of the case he was sufficiently punished by being kept out of his certificate for five years, & order made for the grant of the certificate.—Re MCINTYRE (1885), 11 V. f. —— Creditors paid in full—Executing legal acquittance of debts.]—Where the creditors have been paid in full or have executed a legal acquittance of their debts wholly outside of the Bkpcy. Ct., bkpt. may, under 1898 Act, s. 35, apply for a release of his estate &, on being satisfied of either of those facts, the ct. may make the order. It is not material whether the creditors have proved or not, or whether they are secured or unsecured.—Re SUTTOR, Ex p. SUTTOR (1901), 1 S. R. N. S. W. 13.—AUS.

g. —— Payment of preferential claims—Notwithstanding balance due to wages creditor.]—Held: bkpt. was entitled to his discharge, notwithstanding there was a balance due to a wages creditor, after payment to such creditor of the amount in respect of which he had a preferential claim under 1883 Act, s. 137.—Re FORD (1889), 8 N. l. —— Omission to state causes of insolvency—Omission not wilful.]—Insolvent swore to an affidavit verifying the statement of liabilities & assets, but inadvertently omitted the statement of the causes to which he attributed his insolvency, but he made the statement verbally at the first meeting of creditors. The defect was not pointed out for more than a year, & after the discharge had been applied for, & insolvent then swore to another affidavit supplying the omission:—Held: the omission would not disentitle insolvent to his discharge, as it was not wilful.—Re MARTIN & ENGLISH (1880), 5 A. R. 647.—CAN.

m. —— Postnuptial settlement made bonâ fide.]—A postnuptial settlement upon his wife was made by insolvent, at a time when he was not aware of his inability to meet his liabilities, & while he had contracts on hand from which he might reasonably have expected to make a profit, though they afterwards proved unsuccessful:—Held: no ground for refusing the insolvent his discharge.—Re RUSSELL (1882), 7 A. PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1. —C. (a).

n. Bankrupt guilty of misdemeanour under 1898 Act—Evidence sufficient to justify criminal conviction.]—An application by bkpt. for a certificate of discharge cannot be refused upon the ground that bkpt. has been guilty of a misdemeanour under 1898 Act, unless the evidence is sufficient to justify a conviction of bkpt. by a jury for the same offence in a criminal ct.—SCOTT FELL v. LLOYD (1911), 13 C. 5058. ——.]—Bkpt. had committed four serious trade offences within 1883 Act, s. 28, & he had also committed two specific offences under Debtors Act, 1869:—Held: the ct. had no discretion, but must altogether refuse to grant bkpt. any order of discharge.—Re ZAPPERT (1888), 4 T. L. R. 264.

5059. —— Onus of proof of offence.]—The jurisdiction of the ct. under 1890 Act, s. 8 (2), to grant or refuse a discharge is absolute, except in so far as it is fettered by the proviso. q. Failure to pay composition.]—The following proposal of an arranging trader was agreed to by his creditors:—Payment of all his debts in two instalments of 10*s.* each, payable in six months & twelve months respectively, to be secured by his promissory notes, his property to vest in the official assignees for realisation in default of payment of the said instalments. The trader did not pay the first set of promissory notes, & the assignees sold & distributed his assets. The trader having applied for his certificate, & his creditors opposing:—Held: he was not entitled to his certificate.—Re ARRANGING TRADER (1871), 5 I. L. T. 125.—IR.

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1.—C. (b) i.

r. General rule.]—In order to obtain a certificate of discharge, insolvent must show that his estate has paid, or will pay, a dividend of not less than 7*s.* in the pound to all creditors. The fact that the creditors have been paid the requisite dividend is not sufficient, unless it is shown that they have been paid out of the insolvent's estate.—Re FLEMING (1886), 12 V. L. s. Circumstances for which bankrupt cannot justly be held responsible.]—Loss on a contract through any weather or a flood, or loss through cattle being poisoned, or through a bank refusing to continue an overdraft, will not satisfy the ct. in dispensing with the payment of 7*s.* in the pound required by Insolvency Stat., 1871 (No. 379) s. 138.—Re MONAGHAN (1884), 10 V. L. R. 312.—AUS.

w. —— Failure of companies in which insolvent held shares.]—In 1888 insolvent owed no debts, & on a fair valuation was worth about £650,000. He was largely interested in shares in cos., & at that time was possessed of assets other than shares sufficient to pay the uncalled capital on all shares then held by him. Subsequently some of the cos. went into liquidation, & nine-tenths of the claims on the insolvent estate were in respect of shares held by insolvent in one of the cos. Real & other securities, in which insolvent was largely interested also fell largely in value between the time of insolvent valuing his property & the date of his insolvency, a period of between five & six years. The value of the assets in the estate was very small:—Held: the failure of insolvent estate to pay 7*s.* in the pound arose from circumstances for which he could not be justly held responsible within Insolvency Act, 1890, s. 139.—Re DAVIES (1894), 20 V. L. R. 499.—AUS.

x. —— ——.]—Insolvent became insolvent owing to depreciation in value of shares held by him in a co. At the time when insolvent first became possessed of the shares the investment was one which a prudent man was justified in making, & which would not be considered rash or speculative:—Held: insolvent's estate was entitled to a dispensation with the condition of paying 7*s.* in the pound.—Re DAVIES (1896), 22 V. L. R. 40.—AUS.

y. —— Costs of election petition successfully brought against bankrupt.]—D. stood as a candidate at a Parliamentary election for North M., & his expenses were provided. On June 28, 1892, he was informed that the Roman Catholic Bishop of M. was about to issue a pastoral, & he requested that it should not be issued till after the election. The pastoral was issued on June 29. On July 7 D. was nominated; the election took place on July 15, & D. was returned. A petition was presented to declare the election void on the grounds of undue influence & intimidation, but before it was heard, a petition against the return of the candidate for South M., on similar grounds, was decided on Nov. 30, & the election was declared void. On Dec. 15, when the petition against D.'s return came to be heard, an application was made by D.'s counsel to stay further proceedings, D. offering to give up the seat, but the judges declined to accede to the application. The case was tried, the trial lasting for eight days, & D. was unseated, & ordered to pay the costs. The costs amounted to over £1,800, & being unable to pay he was adjudicated a bkpt. He had substantially no other creditors, the total liabilities being £2,061, & the assets £227. On an application by D. for his certificate of conformity:—Held: the inability of D. to pay 10*s.* in the pound arose from other circumstances for which he could not be justly held responsible, & he was entitled to his certificate of conformity.—Re DAVITT, [1894] 1 I. ii. Omission to keep proper Books.

See 1914 Act, ss. 26 (3) (b), 158.

5065. What must be considered—Intention to conceal.]—The omission by a trader to keep proper books of account, to constitute an offence against the law of bkpcy. must be wilful & with intent to conceal the true state of his affairs.—Re MCCALLUM (1866), 14 L. T. 172.

5066. —— —— Omission to keep books evidence of.]—An intention to conceal the true state of his affairs will be inferred from a trader's omission to keep proper books of account.—Re WARBURTON (1869), 20 L. T. 235.

5067. —— Time at which omission began—Inspection of books by court.]—In judging of bkpt.'s intention to conceal the true state of his affairs by omitting to keep proper books of account, the ct. will look at the books themselves with reference to the time when these omissions began.—Re HARTMANN, Ex p. HARTMANN (1867), 15 L. 5068. What books must be kept—Cash-book.]—No certificate will be granted immediately where bkpt. has kept no cash-book.—Re SPARROW (1850), 14 L. T. O. S. 450.

5069. What are proper books of account.]—No books are satisfactorily kept or can be called proper books of account, unless the accounts are entered up in consecutive order, each order according to its priority; & unless they are regularly balanced from time to time, so that at any time, the real state of a trader's affairs may at once appear, & so that in the event of bkpcy., he may be in a condition to make a full & true disclosure of his affairs, to the ct. & his creditors, which the law requires at his hands.—Re WARBURTON (1869), 20 L. T. 235.

5070. —— Object of requiring books to be kept.]—One object of requiring bkpt. to keep books, is, that the ct. may be enabled to see, & also the creditors may be enabled to see, in case of bkpcy., what his transactions have been, & to acquire that knowledge of them without a prolonged & expensive examination by accountants. Another object is to force upon bkpt., the trader, the contemplation of his own position, & to deprive him of being able to make the excuse, "True, I carried on my business after I ceased to be solvent, & in fact I was not aware that that was so."—Re HEAP, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 4 Morr. 314, D. C.

5071. What is keeping books properly—Ledger.]—A ledger is not satisfactorily kept, unless the accounts are entered continuously, according to their proper priority & without any intervening blank leaves. There ought also to be a regular index.—Re TRACEY (1849), Fonbl. 13.

5072. —— As trader.]—A solr., who enters into trade, is bound to keep books as a trader. It is not sufficient that he has kept accounts after the manner of solrs.—Re CARTER, Ex p. CARTER (1850), Fonbl. 83; 15 L. T. O. S. 118.

5073. —— So as to show position at once—Without prolonged investigation.]—In order that a trader may fulfil the requirements of 1883 Act, s. 28 (3) (a), his books must be kept in such a way as to show at once, without the necessity of a prolonged investigation by a skilled accountant, the state of his business.—Re REED & BOWEN, Ex p. REED & BOWEN (1886), 17 Q. B. D. 244; 55 L. J. Q. B. 244; 34 W. R. 493; 2 T. L. R. 458; 3 Morr. 90, C. A.

5074. —— Must be posted up to date.]—A trader,

z. —— Intentional ignorance of partner in business affairs of partnership.]—Intentional ignorance of the circumstances of a trading firm, or as to how its affairs were situated, or wilful inaction in relation to the business carried on, furnishes no exculpation for a member of the firm, seeking a certificate of conformity, where a failure to pay a dividend of not less than 10*s.* in the pound has arisen from circumstances for which in other respects bkpt. ought justly to be held responsible.—Re SPOTTEN & CO., Ex p. BARKLIE (1878), 12 I. L. T. 15.—IR.

a. Application made before audit meeting.]—The ct. refused to grant a certificate of conformity to bkpt., who had failed to pay 10*s.* in the pound, before the audit meeting was held, on the ground that sufficiently substantial grounds were not shown.—Re PARKER (1874), 8 I. L. T. Jo. 109.—IR.

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1. —C. (b) ii.

5065 i. What must be considered—Intention to conceal.]—The offence of not keeping reasonable accounts or entries should be gauged, as to the punishment therefor, according to its being a probable concealment of fraud. Where insolvent had not made entries of two amounts, received on the winding up of his business, but there was no evidence of an intention to conceal, his certificate was suspended only & not refused.—Re SCHLIEFF (1880), 6 V. L. R. 51.—AUS.

b. —— Non-injury to creditors.]—The mere fact that insolvent's creditors were not injuriously affected by the non-keeping of accounts does not make it less an offence, but should merely lessen the amount of the punishment.—Re MCNALLY (1886), 12 V. L. R. 254.—AUS.

c. —— Nature of business.]—The judge in insolvency refused insolvent his discharge on the grounds that he had kept no books of account showing receipts & disbursements of cash, & other books suitable for his trade:—Held: as some three months only had intervened between 1864 Act & the application for discharge, & considering the inconsiderable nature of his business, insolvent should not have been so severely dealt with.—Re PARR (1867), 17 C. P. 621.—CAN.

5068 i. What books must be kept—Cash book.]—A trader who does not keep a cash book is not entitled to a discharge under 1875 Act.—GILBERT v. GIROUARD (1878), 2 P. & B. 148.—CAN.

5068 ii. —— —— Account books.]—Under 1875 Act, ss. 56, 57, a judge has no power to grant insolvent his discharge, where he has failed to keep a cash book & account books suitable for his trade, even although such omission may not be due to any fraudulent intention.—Re GOODING (1880), 5 A. R. 643.—CAN.

5069 i. What are proper books of account—Bank account.]—A bank account kept by a bank for a customer is not a sufficient account to comply with Insolvency Stat., 1871 (No. 379), s. 138 (1).—Re MONAGHAN (1884), 10 V. L. R. 9.—AUS.

5072 i. What is keeping books properly—"Reasonable" accounts.]—Certificate suspended, insolvent not having kept reasonable accounts. Reasonable accounts need not be formally correct or technical, but should be such as to enable a trader to understand his own position.—Re BELL (1870), 1 V. R. 2.—AUS.

5072 ii. —— Where no commercial business.]—In order absolutely to disentitle insolvent to his discharge on the ground of failure to keep proper books of account, where the case is not one of a commercial business, the party opposing the discharge must show that there were no books; or, if there were, in what respect they were defective.—Re RUSSELL (1882), 7 A. R. 777.—CAN.

5073 i. —— So as to show position at once.]—Insolvent's books were kept in such a manner that they would not show the true state of his affairs. The cash book had never been balanced, & no balance sheet was ever made out; bills were discounted which did not appear in any of the books, & goods were transferred from his wholesale to his retail place of business without entry in the books that were kept:—Held: it was not essential, on the one hand, that the books should have been kept in the most approved form, nor were they sufficient, on the other, however carefully kept in some respects, if they failed to exhibit insolvent's exact position.—Re HILL (1882), 7 A. R. 694.—CAN.

Sect. 5.—The order: Sub-sect. 1, C. (b) ii., iii., & iv.] neglecting for twelve months to post up his books, & ignorant of the true state of his affairs, with a growing deficiency, incurred losses in a series of improvident adventures:—Held: he was guilty of wilful omission to keep proper accounts.—Re RIEBER (1868), 19 L. T. 24.

5075. —— ——.]—Bkpt. had kept the usual books, but had been guilty of neglect in writing them up, it being impossible to discern the financial position of the firm therefrom. The insolvency of the firm was due in great measure to this omission to keep proper books. The books were written up by the trustee subsequent to the failure. Bkpt. pleaded that superintending his business did not give him time to balance his books, & that the materials for writing them up were ready at hand:—Held: he had omitted to keep proper books of account.—Re BADART FRÈRES (1885), 1 T. L. R. 601.

5076. —— —— & balanced.]—It is not sufficient that there should be books; they must be properly kept, & balanced from time to time, so that at any time the real state of a trader's affairs may at once appear upon them.—Re SMART (1849), 14 L. T. O. S. 137.

5077. —— —— ——.]—Bkpts.' books had been well kept so far as they recorded the business transactions of the firm, but they had not been balanced, & bkpts. kept no capital account & made out no balance sheet:—Held: bkpts. had omitted to keep proper books of account.—Re ESDAILE & PEATY (1887), 3 T. L. R. 823.

5078. —— —— ——.]—Bkpt's. books did not sufficiently disclose his business transactions & financial position. The creditors' & debtors' accounts in the ledger had not been fully written up, & the books had not been properly balanced at any time. Bkpt. alleged that he had no knowledge of book-keeping:—Held: bkpt. had omitted to keep proper books of account, & if not able to keep books himself, he ought to have employed a proper book-keeper for the purpose & to have seen the balance sheets were made out from time to time.—Re HULSEKOPF & MARSDEN (1888), 4 T. L. R. 515.

5079. In regard to what transactions books must be kept—Speculations outside ordinary trade.]—Bkpt., who carried on business as a hatter, bought some houses with the intention of selling them at a profit for building purposes, & also incurred liabilities in promoting a hotel co. He had kept proper books of account in relation to his business as a hatter, but he had kept no books in respect of his purchase of houses or of his transactions in relation to the hotel co.:—Held: (1) bkpt. was not required to keep any books relating to the building speculations; (2) the omission to keep such books could not be taken into account as a reason for refusing or suspending his order of discharge.—Re MUTTON, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 19 Q. B. D. 102; 56 L. J. Q. B. 395; 56 L. T. 802; 35 W. R. 561; 3 T. L. R. 623; 4 Morr. 180, C. A.

Annotation:—Folld. Re Cosedge (1888), 4 T. L. R. 562.

5080. —— Isolated transaction—First transaction.]—If an isolated transaction, which if repeated would be a transaction in a business, is undertaken with the intent that it should be the first of several transactions, it is a first transaction in an existing business, & if the business is one in which it is usual and proper to keep books of account, the omission to keep such books with respect to the transaction is a fact, on proof of which the ct. must either refuse, suspend, or attach conditions to bkpt.'s order of discharge, in accordance with 1883 Act, s. 28 (2), (3) (a).—Re GRIFFIN, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1890), 60 L. J. Q. B. 235; 39 W. R. 156; 7 T. L. R. 146; 8 Morr. 1, C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. A.-G. v. Plymouth Corpn. (1908), 99 L. T. 793.

5081. When excused—Illness.]—Where the not keeping proper books was occasioned by illness of bkpt., which had rendered him incapable of paying proper attention to his accounts, & the creditors did not oppose, & no grounds appeared on the face of the proceedings to warrant the ct. in refusing or suspending the certificate, it was granted as of the first class.—Re FOWLER (1853), 22 L. T. O. S. 67.

5082. Falsification of books.]—Where bkpt. had made misrepresentations & false entries in his books for the purpose of concealment & fraud, his certificate was suspended for twelve months, & protection refused:—Qu.: whether the case fell within the offences enumerated in 1849 Act, s. 256.—Re STEPHANOFF, Ex p. STEPHANOFF (1857), 26 L. J. Bcy. 88; 29 L. T. O. S. 317; 3 Jur. N. S. 967, C. A.

5083. ——.]—Bkpt. was refused a certificate on the ground of falsification of books, but was granted protection, if the unconditional consent of the opposing creditors were given.—Re KNIGHT, Ex p. KNIGHT (1857), 26 L. J. Bcy. 57; 5 W. R. 552, C. A.

5084. ——.]—Bkpt. falsified the books of the firm, not with the view of any pecuniary advantage to himself, but in order to conceal from his partners a state of embarrassment in which the partnership affairs were involved, but which was conceived by him to be temporary only. Bkpt. believed at the time that the concern would ultimately turn out a profitable one, but that his partners, if they had known the true state of its affairs, would have abandoned it:—Held: his certificate had been

5079 i. In regard to what transactions books must be kept—Speculations outside ordinary trade.]—Insolvent, who had carried on a very extensive business as a merchant, kept a bookkeeper, & books well kept as mercantile books, in which there was amongst others a "private account." In that account he mixed money, the separate property of his wife, with money of his own, but there was no account in the books showing the state of accounts between him & his wife. He had large dealings with his brother, & there were complicated transactions of business & accommodation acceptances between them; but the books showed no account of such dealings. He purchased extensively, & afterwards sold, shares in an insurance co., but the books showed no record of such transactions. He also purchased real estate, & paid a deposit on it, of which there was no entry in the books:—Held: (1) he had "not kept reasonable accounts or entries of his receipts & payments"; (2) such omission was not attributable to ignorance or carelessness, so as to be sufficiently punished by suspension of his certificate, & certificate refused.—Re MCDONALD (1880), 6 V. L. R. 45.—AUS.

5081 i. When excused.]—On an application by bkpt., whose estate did not realise 10*s.* in the pound, for a certificate of conformity, the official assignee reported (inter alia) that the books of bkpt. had been imperfectly kept, & that such fact might be attributed to his late irregular habits:—Held: although the irregularity imputed to bkpt. would have been a ground for withholding his certificate, had it been shown that, as a result, property of the creditors entrusted to bkpt. had been improperly dealt with, yet, such not being shown, bkpt. was, upon the facts stated in the report of the official assignee, entitled to an immediate certificate of conformity.—Re HARRIS (1874), 8 I. L. T. 121.—IR.

5082 i. Falsification of books.]—The Ct. of Bkpcy. will grant a certificate to bkpt., although he may have destroyed, mutilated, altered, or falsified his books, prior to the committal of an act of bkpcy., where he subsequently & immediately confesses the fraud, & passes his final examination to the satisfaction of the ct., by making a full disclosure of his affairs, unless such mutilation, etc., be committed in contemplation of bkpcy., or with intent to defeat the object of Bkpt. Acts, & with intent to defraud his creditors.—Re CHAPMAN & BRADFORD (1850), 2 Ir. Jur. 220.—IR.

5085. What constitutes insolvency.]—A man must be taken to be insolvent, who is not able to meet his debts.—Re FOXWELL, Ex p. PEARSE (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 451.

5086. What constitutes trading with knowledge of insolvency—Trader in difficulties—Reasonable expectation to retrieve position.]—A trader is not bound to leave off trading, merely because he is in difficulties. The question in each case is whether he has continued trading after there ceased to be any reasonable prospect of his retrieving himself.—Re JOHNSON, Ex p. JOHNSON (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 25; 20 L. J. Bcy. 6; 15 Jur. 185; 64 E. R. 718.

5087. —— —— ——.]—M., a tanner, employed as his factors S. & Co., a firm in high repute, one of the members of which was his brother, & they were in the habit of accommodating him with money to a large amount. He never took stock & did not accurately know the state of his affairs. In 1857 there was a panic in the leather trade & his stock suffered heavy depreciation, from which it never recovered. M. fully believed himself to be solvent, though he was aware that but for the accommodation afforded him by S. & Co., he must have stopped payment, & he went on trading until July, 1860, when S. & Co. stopped payment. M. then investigated his affairs & found that he had been insolvent ever since the end of 1858. He then at once stopped payment & presented a petition for arrangement with his creditors, under 1849 Act, ss. 211-223:—Held: the trader had not delayed the presentation of his petition "longer than was excusable," inasmuch as he continued to trade in the belief that with the assistance of S. & Co., he would be able to carry it on with ultimate success, though, if he had investigated his affairs, it would have appeared that his debts exceeded his assets for more than two years before his stoppage.—Re MORTIMORE, Ex p. MORTIMORE (1861), 3 De G. F. & J. 599; 30 L. J. Bcy. 17; 3 L. T. 828; 7 Jur. N. S. 320; 9 W. R. 423; 45 E. R. 1011, L. C. & L. JJ.

5088. —— Knowledge that assets insufficient—Credit obtained by exaggeration.]—The facts of a trader having been, for more than three years before his bkpcy., in such a condition that all his assets, if realised, would be less than the amount of his debts, & nevertheless continuing to trade, are not decisive against the allowance of his certificate, but render it incumbent on him to show a justification, or some fair & reasonable excuse for such conduct, at least if any creditor under the bkpcy. has suffered by it.

Where no such explanation was given, &, in addition to the above facts, it appeared that bkpt. had obtained credit from the opposing creditor by exaggerated statements, on which the creditor relied, of the value of wines comprised in a security:—Held: a proper case for suspending the certificate.—Re DORNFORD, Ex p. DORNFORD (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 29; 20 L. 5089. —— —— Banker continuing to take deposits.]—Bankers continued to trade for two years after they were hopelessly insolvent:—Held: their certificates had been properly refused, but by the consent of the assignees & of the creditors opposing the certificate, protection was granted to them.

If bankers continue to receive deposits, knowing that if the business were wound up, they could not pay 5*s.* in the pound, that is a trading which is utterly unjustifiable. Semble: the effects of the misconduct of a banker are such as to distinguish his case from that of other traders upon his application for a certificate.—Re RUFFORD, Ex p. RUFFORD (1852), 2 De G. M. & G. 234; 21 L. J. Bcy. 32; 19 L. T. O. S. 279; 42 E. R. 862, L. JJ.

5090. —— —— Belief that assets sufficient on careful realisation.]—A debtor does not trade after knowing himself to be insolvent, who believes that a careful, prudent, & unhurried realisation of his assets will produce 20*s.* in the pound for his creditors, although he may know that a forced sale at breaking-up prices will not produce that result.—Re BROWN (JOHN) & CO. (1906), 22 T. L. R. 291.

5091. —— —— Intermeddling bonâ fide for benefit of creditors.]—A person, who intermeddles with his estate when to his knowledge he is insolvent, is not thereby guilty of misconduct, if he has acted bonâ fide & with the intention of benefiting his creditors.—Re FREEMAN (1909), 25 T. L. R. 365.

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1. —C. (b) iii.

5086 i. What constitutes trading with knowledge of insolvency—Trader in difficulties—Reasonable expectation to retrieve position]—A trader, after discovering that he could not pay in full, continued his business, in the hope, which was not shown to have been absurd or unreasonable, that he would thereby be able to do so, & in the course of the business so continued contracted some new debts, but was unsuccessful, & found it necessary to assign:—Held: he was not thereby disentitled to his discharge.

In such a case it may or may not be his duty to discontinue his trade, according to circumstances; continuing may be a fraud, but is not necessarily so.—Re HOLT & GRAY (1867), 13 Gr. 568.—CAN.

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1. —C. (b) iv.

5092 i. In general.]—Contracting debts without intending to pay or having at the time any reasonable or probable expectation of being able to pay same is an offence which will be punished under Insolvency Stat., 1871 (No. 379), s. 138 (1), by suspension or refusal of a certificate according to its degree.—Re MONAGHAN (1884), 10 V. L. R. 9.—AUS.

5092 ii. ——.]—The words in 11 & 12 Vict. c. 21, s. 51, relating to debts contracted "without having any reasonable or probable expectation at the time when contracted of paying them" are pointed, not at the case of a man who incurs a debt knowing that he cannot play his debts generally, but at that of a man who incurs a debt knowing that he cannot repay that debt. The words in the same sect., "if it shall appear that insolvent's whole debts so greatly exceeded his means of providing for the payment thereof during the time when same were in course of being contracted, reference being had to his actual & expected property as to show gross reasonable expectation of being able to pay same, it must be shown that there are particular subsisting debts, which at the time when they were contracted he could not reasonably have expected to be able to pay, & it is not enough to show that he contracted in the aggregate a greater amount of debts than he could reasonably expect to pay.—Re CALDWELL, Ex p. BRUNDRIT (1867), 3 Ch. App. 26; 16 W. R. 66, L. J.

5093. —— ——.]—A trader was acquitted of the charge of contracting debts without reasonable expectation of being able to pay them, there being no proof of any specific debt so contracted.—Re RIEBER (1868), 19 L. T. 24.

5094. —— Meaning of "without reasonable probability."]—The words in 1849 Act, s. 223 "without reasonable probability at the time of contract of being able to pay them" mean without a reasonable probability, reasonably supposed by the trader to exist at the time of contract, that he would be able to pay.

Where a merchant, who was habitually accommodated by his factors with money to a large amount, continues to trade, though he is aware that but for the accommodation afforded him by his factors, he must have stopped payment, he is not guilty of contracting debts without a reasonable probability of being able to pay them, since, having regard to his reasonably grounded expectation that the factors would enable him to meet his engagements, he may reasonably believe that he would be able to pay.—Re MORTIMORE, Ex p. MORTIMORE (1861), 3 De G. F. & J. 599; 30 L. J. Bcy. 17; 3 L. T. 828; 7 Jur. N. S. 320; 9 W. R. 423; 45 E. R. 1011, L. C. & L. JJ.

5095. —— Effect of payments.]—A man who, owing £400, has paid off £200 by half-yearly instalments in the two years immediately preceding his bkpcy., cannot be held to have contracted the original debt without reasonable expectation of being able to pay.—Re MCCALLUM (1866), 14 L. T. 172.

5096. —— ——.]—Bkpt. who pays to his relations from time to time a portion of the debts due to them with the interest thereon, & during the same period receives from them in advance more than he pays, whilst his indebtedness to his other creditors is constantly increasing, is not guilty of contracting debts without a reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay them.—Re RYLEY, Ex p. RYLEY (1866), 14 L. T. 707.

5097. —— ——.]—L. had been in business as a merchant for about twenty-seven to twenty-eight years. He had been in the habit of raising money by drawing against consignments & from bankers, but he did not raise money upon accommodation bills. He contracted a debt of £40,000 or the bulk of it, ten months previous to his bkpcy., but afterwards he made payments amounting to £63,298, & his partners abroad made payments of £115,000:—Held: (1) although bkpt. might have stopped payment earlier, yet he could not be charged with contracting debts without reasonable expectation of payment; (2) there might be circumstances proved in aggravation of a statutory offence, but there must be clear proof of the statutory offence before those aggravated circumstances could be brought in adversely to bkpt.—Re LYALL, Ex p. LYALL (1868), 16 W. R. 1222.

5098. Exceeding fixed income.]—The mere fact that a man, who has a fixed income, has exceeded it, & so incurred debts, is not sufficient to show that he could not have had at the time when any of his debts were contracted any reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay same.—Re CALDWELL, Ex p. BRUNDRIT (1867), 3 Ch. App. 26; 16 W. R. 66, L. J.

5100. Increase on debts after omission to keep proper books.]—Bkpt. subsequent to an admitted deficiency omitted to keep proper books of account:—Held: an increase of debts in such circumstances was a contracting of them without reasonable ground of expectation of being able to pay.—Re ATKINSON (1867), 17 L. T. 356.

5101. Damages in action for malicious damage.]—A claim for damages in an action for malicious damage pending at the date of the adjudication, & subsequently converted into a debt by the verdict of the jury, does not constitute a "debt or money due" from bkpt. within 1861 Act, s. 159.—Re BOSWALL, Ex p. GLASS & ELLIOTT (1862), 6 L. T. 28; affd. on another point, 31 L. J. Bcy. 73, L. JJ.

He owed only one other debt of trifling amount for money borrowed some years before :—Held : the damages & costs were not a debt "contracted" by him within 1861 Act, s. 159, & he could not be dealt with as having contracted any of his debts without reasonable expectation of being able to pay them.—Re CLAYTON, Ex p. CLAYTON (1869), 5 Ch. 5110. 5111. Overdrawing current account at bank.]—Overdrawing an account current at a banker's, by a person in insolvent circumstances, does not in itself amount to contracting a debt without reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay same.—Re BAILLIE & HARRISON, Ex p. HARRISON (1866), 2 Ch. Pltf.'s costs were taxed at £303 13*s.* 11*d.* On the petition of F., M. was adjudicated bkpt. The total debts proved (including the debt of £3,803 13*s.* 11*d.*) amounted to £4,167 19*s.* 6*d.*, & the total assets realised amounted (after payment of costs) to £1,470 9*s* 8*d.* This included two endowment policies of insurance effected by M. for the benefit of two members of his family, which had been given up, & had realised £766. The estate had paid a dividend of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound :—Held : bkpt. was not entitled to his certificate.—Re M'HUGH, [1904] 2 I. R. 118.—IR.

5110 i. Costs incurred in bringing action.]—W. brought an action against a co., to recover damages for negligence, in consequence of a bicycle purchased by him from them having broken down, whereby he was injured. He obtained a verdict for £120, which was set aside by the King's Bench, & judgment was entered for defts. W. appealed to the Ct. of Appeal, but his appeal was dismissed with costs. He paid to his solrs. £150 on foot of their costs, leaving £251 due to them, for which they issued a writ, & recovered judgment. The co. taxed their costs in the action at £440. W. was adjudicated bkpt. He had no assets, & was a clerk in Belfast, earning 30*s.* a week. On the application of bkpt. for a certificate of conformity :—Held : the failure to pay a dividend of 10*s.* in the pound did not arise from circumstances for which bkpt. should not be justly held responsible.—Re WILLIAMSON, [1904] 2 I. 5117. —— Onus of justifying on bankrupt.]—Though the Insolvency Ct. will not make the mere fact that there are accommodation bills a reason for refusing a discharge, they are primâ facie debts to be explained, & debtor must show that they are debts which have been contracted without detriment to his other creditors, & that they have not been the cause of his bkpcy. ; otherwise the ct. will refuse the discharge.

Where an insolvent's own debts, for which he has had consideration, remain unpaid, the rendering himself liable for the debts of others, for which debts he has had no consideration, is an offence.—Re AUGARDE (1852), 19 L. T. O. S. 327.

5118. —— ——.]—If bkpt. has dealt in accommodation bills, that is a circumstance requiring a full & satisfactory explanation, & although every transaction must be judged of according to its particular circumstances, the main point for consideration is how far bkpt. had reason to believe he could discharge his liability upon such bills on their becoming due.—Re HAMMOND, Ex p. HAMMOND (1855), 6 De G. 5119. —— Relying on guarantee of bank & drawer.]—Nearly the whole of the existing liabilities of bkpt. were in respect of accommodation bill transactions. Bkpt. had no means of meeting any claim which might arise on the bills, & had relied solely on the guarantee of the bank & the drawers :—Held: the practice of accepting accommodation bills at a commission was an extremely dangerous & hazardous way of doing business, of which the ct. did not approve, & bkpt. had been guilty of contracting debts without a reasonable expectation of payment.—Re HUGHES (1887), 3 T. L. R. 520.

5120. Goods bought on credit—Knowledge of insolvency.]—A trader who, within three months of his bkpcy., being, & of necessity knowing that he is, hopelessly insolvent, obtains goods on credit, is guilty of contracting debts without any reasonable prospect of being able to pay for them, i.e., without the expectation which any reasonable man in such a position would entertain.—Re FRYER, Ex p. FRYER (1864), 10 L. 5122. —— Consigned to creditor for larger amount.]—A trader purchasing goods on credit, & consigning them to a person abroad to whom he is indebted in a much larger amount beyond the security held by the consignee, cannot reasonably expect to realise from the sale of the goods anything towards the liquidation of the debts so contracted, & contracts debts without reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay for them.—Re HARTMANN, Ex p. HARTMANN (1867), 15 L. T. 640.

5123. Expenses connected with justifiable speculation.]—The only transactions of bkpt. during the time within which the debts had been contracted related to the purchase of a colliery & a mine. They were bonâ fide contracts & appeared likely to have afforded to bkpt. a considerable sum of money :—Held: the above transactions not being rash or hazardous transactions, the expenses incurred therewith were not debts contracted without reasonable expectation of being able to pay same.—Re DOWNHAM, Ex p. DOWNHAM (1863), 11 W. R. 577, L. C.

5124. Misappropriation of client's money—By solicitor—Knowledge of insolvency.]—If a solr., who is insolvent, misapplies the money of a client by appropriating it to his own purposes, he contracts a debt without any reasonable prospect of being able to pay it, & the ct. will visit such conduct with its severest censure, & a suspension of his order of discharge.—Re SPARHAM, Ex p. SPARHAM (1863), 9 L. 5125. —— By auctioneer.]—An auctioneer, employed for the purpose of conducting sales by auction, received the money arising from such sales, & appropriated same to his own use. The auctioneer having become bkpt. :—Held: bkpt. was amenable to a charge of contracting debts without reasonable probability of being able to pay same, & his order of discharge should be suspended for two years.—Re ENGLEHEART (1864), 12 W. R. 387.

5126. Liability on guarantees—Insufficient assets.]—Bkpt. attributed his failure to his having been called upon to pay two debts of £3,063 & £1,288 for which he had given his personal guarantees. Bkpt's. assets were not of a value equal to 10*s.* in the pound on the amount of his

k. —— Director of bank.]—The granting of insolvent's certificate was opposed on the ground that he had contracted debts without any probable expectation of being able to pay them. Insolvent was director of a bank established for purposes of discount; he procured discounts from it on his bills recklessly, heedlessly & irregularly & without the concurrence of his fellow directors :—Held: where a man had been engaged in extensive work & was possessed of large property it would be unjust to conclude that he had contracted debts without a reasonable expectation of being able to pay them, when the very debts due to him arising out of his trade more than balanced his liabilities.—Re SPARK (1844), Res. & Eq. unsecured liabilities:—Held: (1) bkpt. must have reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay the debt himself, & it was not enough to show that the security held by the creditor was sufficient; (2) bkpt. came within 1890 Act, s. 8 (3) (d); & his discharge must be suspended for the minimum period of two years.—Re ADAMS (1903), 19 T. L. R. 640.

5127. Debt incurred with knowledge that capital to pay same not easily realisable.]—Qu.: whether a statement by the official receiver in his report, that bkpt. had contracted certain debts, & that such debts were incurred to an extent which could not be justified in the case of a man who knew that his capital was not easily realisable, is sufficient to support the conclusion that such bkpt. has contracted debts without having at the time of contracting them any reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay same.—Re SHARP, Ex p. SHARP (1893), 10 Morr. 114, D. C.

5128. Debts contracted in course of business—Small in amount & necessary for trading purposes.]—Bkpt. contracted a few small debts necessary to carry on his business. What they were, or the circumstances in which they were obtained was not disclosed:—Held: the ct. would attach no importance to the debts.—Re HEAP, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 4 Morr. 314, D. C.

5129. —— Business commenced on capital borrowed on mortgage of whole assets.]—Two partners, who had no capital of their own, commenced business by means of borrowed money, assigning to the lender as security their leasehold premises, the goodwill of their business, & all their existing & after-acquired stock-in-trade, fixtures, furniture, & book-debts, giving him power to take possession at any time. They contracted debts in carrying on the business, & became bkpts. The mtgee. took possession under his deed, & his security was insufficient. The registrar granted bkpts. a discharge, on condition of their consenting to judgment being entered up against them by the trustee for the whole of the debts provable in the bkpcy.:—Held: (1) bkpts. had contracted debts without having at the time of contracting them any reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay them; (2) the registrar's decision was right.—Re WHITE, Ex p. WHITE (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 600; 54 L. J. Q. B. 384; 33 W. R. 670; 2 Morr. 42, C. A.

5130. —— Bankrupt taking over & continuing insolvent business—Increase of indebtedness.]—Two young men took to a family business of calico printing which was at the time insolvent. They carried it on upon a large scale from Nov. 1864, to June, 1867, without taking stock. At the end of that time they took stock, & found that the result of their business was a loss of £10,000 for the whole period. They then called their creditors together & became bkpt. Up to that time they deposed that they had believed they were carrying on business at a profit. One of them admitted that in Jan., 1867, he had believed the firm insolvent. From Jan. to June the excess of liabilities over assets had increased by £4,000, & many debts contracted during that period, chiefly for drugs employed in the printing, remained unpaid:—Held: (ROLT, L.J., dubitante) there was not sufficient ground for holding that bkpts. had contracted debts without reasonable expectation of being able to pay them.—Re AINSWORTH, Ex p. BAYLEY (1867), 3 Ch. App. 244; 16 W. R. 291, L. JJ.

5136. Allegation must be specific.]—In alleging that debtor has brought on his bkpcy. by rash & hazardous speculations, it is necessary to specify such speculations, so that the ct. may apply its mind to all the circumstances surrounding them, & it is not sufficient to allege generally that the whole of debtor's trading was speculative.—Re BROWN (JOHN) & Co. (1906), 22 T. L. R. 291.

5150. —— ——.]—Whenever a solr., who is engaged in practice, enters into another business which involves speculation, he will, in the event of subsequent bkpcy., run great risk of being held to have been rash in so doing.

In 1885 bkpt., who was a solr. in practice & was possessed of about £34,000, agreed with a person, who had purchased the life interest of certain estates in a liquidation, to lend £5,000 for the purpose of developing the estates, & the business was subsequently carried on in partnership, the original purchaser having entire control of the business, & the solr. exercising no supervision & keeping no accounts. The project turned out to be an entire failure & the parties became bkpt.:—Held: bkpt. had entered into hazardous speculations, & he had been most rash in doing so.—Re KEAYS, Ex p. KEAYS (1891), 8 T. 5151. —— —— Incurring large debts with small assets.]—Bkpt., a solr., entered into building speculations with R., bkpt. being then possessed of an estimated surplus of £4,631. Bkpt. attributed his failure to liabilities contracted & heavy payments made on behalf of R., who died suddenly, leaving the houses then being built unfinished, & to losses & expenses in connection with different building agreements, & to loss of his professional business. Bkpt. knew that R. was a man of straw, but thought that in good hands, R., who seemed to have a good character for honesty, might prosper:—Held: bkpt. had been guilty of rash & hazardous speculation, never having had capital enough to justify his entering upon the transactions.—Re COSEDGE (1888), 4 T. 5155. —— Goods purchased on credit—Consignments abroad—Loss falling on creditors.]—A trader, who has no real capital of his own, cannot be allowed to speculate in consignments abroad of goods obtained upon credit, where the chance of gain is entirely his own, & where the adventure, if unsuccessful, must result in a total loss to the creditors supplying the goods.

A trader without adequate capital embarking in speculative consignments abroad of goods purchased upon credit, & obtaining advances thereon with which he paid previous purchases made for the like purpose, will be regarded as guilty of rash & hazardous speculation.—Re FRYER, Ex p. FRYER (1864), 10 L. 5156. —— —— —— ——.]—A merchant, at the end of 1865, held invoices for eight hundred bales of cotton, of the value of £29,000, for which he had accepted bills. At that time he knew himself to be, if not insolvent, at all events in a critical position, having nothing but the cotton to meet the bills. He stopped payment in June, 1866, & became bkpt., having in the meantime given or confirmed orders for one thousand, one hundred more bales of cotton, of the value of £35,000. He had scarcely any assets besides his cotton, which was pledged beyond its value, & his unsecured debts were £58,000 :—Held : although dealing in cotton was within the limits of legitimate commerce, still, as such dealing was notoriously hazardous, bkpt., having regard to the state of his affairs at the end of 1865, was bound to exercise the greatest caution as to extending his liabilities for cotton, & the subsequent orders for the one thousand one hundred bales, which appeared not to have been requisite for keeping his business together, must be considered as having been given in order to take the chance of a rise in price, with a certainty that the loss, in case of a fall, would have to be borne by his creditors, & this was "rash & hazardous speculation."—Re HEYN, Ex p. HEYN (1867), 2 Ch. 5157. No capital—Trading without calculation of profit or loss.]—A trader, without capital, undertook extensive contracts for building ships, & neglected, by his own admission, to make any previous calculation as to the probability of their being profitable or otherwise :—Held : his insolvency, so occasioned, was fairly attributable to rash & hazardous speculation.—Re GARDNER (1867), 16 L. 5158. Bankrupt solvent at time of transactions—Goods bought for home trade—Imprudent sale abroad.]—A trader when undoubtedly solvent, but shortly before bkpcy., bought goods to a very great extent. He alleged that he wanted them for the home trade, but soon afterwards he consigned them to his brother-in-law in America, where they were sold at an enormous loss :—Held : not a rash & hazardous speculation, as that expression did not include a venture which, though imprudent, was made when bkpt. was possessed of property in excess of his liabilities.—Re BARNARD & ROSENTHAL, Ex p. EVANS (1862), 31 L. 5159. Opening business—Knowledge & experience.]—The insolvency of a man embarking in a business which, from experience, he must be supposed to understand, can hardly be said to be attributable to rash & hazardous speculation.—Re MCCALLUM (1866), 14 L. T. 172.

5160. —— ——.]—Bkpt. commenced a stockbroking business with about £4,000, in 1884. She subsequently received about £8,000 from friends, who she stated did not wish to be treated as creditors. The business proving unfortunate was closed in 1885, & bkpt. had since been dependent upon her earnings by teaching. She attributed her failure to the irregularities of her late manager :—Held : having regard to the fact that bkpt. had £4,000 in her hands, at the time she entered into stockbroking business & that £8,000 further was available for the business, it could not be said that she had engaged in rash & hazardous speculation.—Re WALKER (1887), 3 T. 5161. Engaging in several trades.]—A cotton spinner had engaged in several other trades & undertakings of different kinds. It was not shown that he was at the time insolvent :—Held : the number & variety of these undertakings did not constitute a case of reckless trading.—Re WAKEFIELD, Ex p. WAKEFIELD (1850), 4 De G. & Sm. 18 ; 64 E. 5162. Lending without cover—Accepting bills for customer.]—A country banker accepted to a large amount bills, drawn upon him by a person who failed to remit other good bills according to his agreement, without any security whatever. The banker afterwards became bkpt. :—Held : his insolvency was attributable to rash & hazardous speculation.—Re BRAGINTON, Ex p. BRAGINTON (1866), 14 L. T. 277 ; 14 W. R. 593, L. C.

5163. —— Clients' speculation on Stock Exchange.]—The bulk of bkpt.'s business consisted of gambling on the Stock Exchange as a stockbroker on behalf of clients, who were simply speculating for the differences & had no intention of making bonâ fide investments, & the bkpcy. was caused by such clients not paying up their differences at the time, owing to sudden & heavy falls in the markets in which the operations were carried on. Bkpt.'s discharge was absolutely refused by the county ct. judge, on the grounds (1) to buy for a client, who was intending to pay or receive the differences, was a transaction of a more rash & hazardous nature than to buy for one who was intending to take up & pay for the shares ; & (2) contracts for differences were immoral, & it was the duty of the ct. to discourage them :—Held : (1) the risk of a purchase by a stockbroker for a client did not

Ct. to take into consideration the general morality of transactions for differences, &, in the absence of any proof of particular misconduct, to punish debtor with the view of striking a blow at gambling in general; (3) having regard to the fact that the debts due to creditors other than those engaged in Stock Exchange transactions were of very small amount, & that the offence of bkpt. consisted mainly in his not obtaining proper cover & carrying on business in a somewhat careless manner, the case would be sufficiently met by a suspension of the order of discharge for three years.—Re JENKINS, Ex p. JENKINS (1891), 39 W. 5164. —— To mining company with undeveloped mines—Loan of money borrowed by bankrupt director.]—The managing director of a co., who borrows money from a relative & lends it together with his own to the co., whose mines are undeveloped, & which afterwards becomes insolvent, is guilty of rash & hazardous speculation.—Re YOUNG, Ex p. YOUNG (1885), 2 Morr. 37, C. 5165. Allowing debtor to increase indebtedness—After violations of good faith.]—Bkpt. executed orders for coals for W., & W. drew upon him for the amount, but being unable to take up the bills, bkpt. was obliged to provide for them by the payment of cash. Bkpt. also, being insolvent at the time, remitted large cash advances to W. to prevent, as he alleged, his own suspension. About the time that he called his creditors together, he engaged in fresh transactions incurring further indebtedness:—Held: he had engaged in rash & hazardous speculations, & it was rash & hazardous to continue confidence in W. after his repeated violations of good faith.—Re YOUNG (1869), 20 L. T. 235.

5166. —— With knowledge of debtor's pecuniary difficulties.]—A trader, after he knew that one of his debtors, who owed him about £32,000, was in pecuniary difficulties, allowed him, in the course of eighteen months, to increase his debt to £65,000, & to the extent of £11,000 this increase was due to accommodation bills. The trader then stopped payment, & presented a bkpcy. petition. The debt of £65,000 was apparently irrecoverable:—Held: debtor had been guilty of rash & hazardous speculations.—Re ROGERS, Ex p. ROGERS (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 438; 33 W. R. 354; 1 Morr. 159, D. 5169. Keeping up appearances.]—The supposed necessity of keeping up external appearances in certain occupations & professions, in order to command confidence & acquire business, is no justification for unjustifiable extravagance in living, under 1861 Act.—Re STEVENS (1863), 7 L. T. 649.

5170. ——.]—A man has no right, when his business can no longer support it, to go on living in the style usual during the time such business was a profitable one merely for the sake of keeping up appearances, which in such circumstances is only another term for living on his creditors.

A man is bound not to keep up appearances, but to pay his debts, & if his profits will not allow of his living at the particular rate he has been accustomed to live at, then his plain duty is to reduce his scale of living, & not to go on living out of the money of his creditors (CAVE, J.).—Re STAINTON, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 4 Morr. 242, D. 5173. Living beyond income.]—Bkpt.'s income consisted of an annuity to be paid to him & his wife & children, at the uncontrolled discretion of the trustees under his father's will. Bkpt. had anticipated his income by nearly one year's receipts, & at the time that bkpt. had no income to receive, he incurred debts exceeding in amount the realisable value of his property. At the same time, the debts for household expenses all remained unpaid:—Held: bkpt. had been guilty of unjustifiable extravagance in living, & a discharge granted on condition that bkpt. paid an annual sum to the assignee until 10*s.* in the pound had been paid to the creditors.—Re LAMBERT (1868), 20 L. 5174. What rate of expenditure legitimate—Indebtedness increasing from year to year.]—Bkpt., the amount of whose indebtedness for several years prior to his bkpcy. has been constantly increasing, until at the date of the adjudication it reaches the sum of £5,000, is not justified in living at the rate of £500 a year, & so doing, lays himself open to the charge of unjustifiable extravagance in living.—Re SPARHAM, Ex p. SPARHAM (1863), 9 L. 5180. —— Solicitor defendant—Moral justification necessary.]—A solr. who defends an action brought against him by a client, ought to be able to show grounds of defence not merely available at law, but affording a moral justification of the defence.

A solr. removed by certiorari an action for money due brought against him by a client in the county ct. to a Duchy Ct. of Common Pleas, & it appeared that he had no good defence. 5182. —— Result doubtful—Third parties willing to assist.]—A suit was instituted by B. against G. to restrain the latter from infringing B.'s patent, & for an account & other consequential relief. The validity of the patent had been already established at law in an action against another infringer. G. defended the suit, & at the hearing issues were directed to try the validity of the patent. On the trial a verdict was found in favour of G. B. moved for a new trial, & the motion, though resisted by G., was successful. The new trial took place, & a verdict was found in favour of B. G. moved for a new trial, & his motion was refused by the Master of the Rolls & also by the Lord Chancellor on appeal. A decree was then made granting a perpetual injunction against G., & he was ordered to pay the costs of the suit. An inquiry as to damages was also directed. During the proceedings, G. executed an assignment for his creditors, & the defence of the suit was then carried on at the cost of other persons who were interested in contesting the validity of the patent, though it was conducted in the name of G. After the decree was made, G. became a bkpt. The costs of the suit, including those of the trials at law, amounted to more than £12,000. G. had scarcely any other debts, but his assets were only about £50 :—Held : bkpt.'s defence of the suit was not frivolous or vexatious.—Re GOODIER, Ex p. GOODIER (1870), 22 L. T. 426.

5176 i. Unjustifiable action—Debt fraudulently contracted.]—Where a party brings an action that appears of a very frivolous character, & pltf., when the cause is in the list, withdraws the record, & he is afterwards arrested for the costs of the day, for which he seeks to be discharged by the Insolvent Ct., it will not be deemed to be a debt fraudulently contracted.—Re CONROY (1867), 1 I. 5176 iii. —— Mistaken identity—Negligence of debtor.]—Insolvent, who brought an unfounded action, & neglected to accept an interview with deft. with a view to define his identity, & whose costs in the action caused his insolvency, was remanded for twelve months.—Re ARDREY (1867), 1 I. 5176 iv. —— Filing bill to reopen settled account—Approval of master in Chancery.]—Bkpt. stated & settled with his partner an account which the Ct. of Ch. decreed ought not to be re-opened. The master in Ch. had been in opinion that the account should be reopened :—Held : bkpt., who filed a bill for an account, was not guilty of wanton litigation.—Re SIM (1862), 14 Ir. 5177 i. Unjustifiable defences—Creditor failing to recover full amount sued for.]—Where a creditor sued insolvent for a large amount, but failed to recover the entire amount claimed, without any reason being given for that failure :—Held : insolvent could not be found guilty of raising a frivolous or inequitable defence.—Re WRIGHT & HIGGINS (1881), 7 V. viii. Undue Preference.

See 1914 Act, s. 26 (3) (i).

5184. Need not be fraudulent & void under 1883 Act, s. 48.]—Upon an application for an order of discharge, although bkpt. may not have committed any act amounting to a preference which would be deemed fraudulent & void under the above sect., yet, if he has pursued conduct for the purpose of giving an advantage to one creditor over others, such conduct will constitute an "undue preference" within s. 28, (3) (f), which will justify the ct. in suspending the order of discharge.

If a debtor interferes in any way between his creditors, so as to give any one of them a preference over the others, he is guilty of giving that creditor an undue preference (LORD ESHER, M.R.).—Re SKEGG, Ex p. SKEGG (1890), 25 Q. 5185. Reducing overdraft at bank—By deposit of acceptances—& of proceeds of sales.]—Bkpt., a young man, had traded for about four years as a cattle dealer, & had kept no books of account, except pocket memorandum books, the usual method of book-keeping in his business. He had begun business on a small borrowed capital. Being pressed by his bank manager to reduce his overdraft, he got acceptances from his debtor & lodged them with the bank, which received the proceeds. He sold two hundred & fifty sheep to his father & paid in the cheque received to his bank account. A fair price was paid for the sheep:—Held: he had not been guilty of fraudulent preference.—Re SHOTTER (1861), 31 L. J. Bcy. 5, L. JJ.

5186. Service of three writs by mortgagees—Writs of second & third mortgagees handed to solicitor of first mortgagee & appearance entered—Judgment signed by default by first mortgagee.]—Debtor, on whose premises there were three mtges., having been served with three writs in separate actions brought by the three mtgees. to recover their mtge. debts, handed the two writs issued by the second & third mtgees. to the solrs. of the first mtgee., who thereupon entered appearances for him to those two writs, & signed judgment by default in the action by the first mtgee.:—Held: such conduct on the part of debtor was an undue preference within s. 28 (3) (f).—Re SKEGG, Ex p. SKEGG (1890), 25 Q. 5187. Part payment to holder of bill of sale—Conditional agreement by holder to withdraw.]—Petitioner, a commission agent, married a widow, who carried on a business, over the stock-in-trade of which C. held a bill of sale given before the marriage as security for money advanced. C. later required payment of part of the debt, & threatened to put the bill of sale in force, if it were not paid. Petitioner not being able to pay the amount, a bailiff was put into possession. Petitioner, wishing to effect a compromise with his creditors, requested C. to become a guarantee for payment of a composition. C. refused, unless she were paid the sum already asked for, &, in case of non-payment, again threatened to proceed to a sale. Petitioner thereupon borrowed a sum of money & remitted the sum demanded to C., who consented to become such guarantee, & to withdraw her bill of sale, provided the creditors would accept the composition. Before the proposed arrangement could be carried out, a petition was filed against petitioner by other creditors, under which he was declared a bkpt. A certificate having been refused, on the ground that the payment to C. was a fraudulent preference:—Held: (LORD CRANWORTH, L.J.) there did not appear to have been any fraudulent preference in the bill of sale which was given to C., as it was given by the wife before the marriage, & C. had at one time a bailiff actually in possession of the goods.—Re HUNT (1852), 18 L. T. O. S. 230, L. JJ.

5188. Paying separate creditors in full—Within three months of bankruptcy—Estate insufficient to pay other creditors in full.]—Bkpt., who was indebted to the exors. of his partner, & also to joint creditors of the firm, within three months of his bkpcy. paid some of his own separate creditors in full. The estate had paid 15*s.* in the pound, & was expected to pay more:—Held: bkpt. had been guilty of undue preference. Semble: even if the creditors would certainly have been paid in full, it was not the less "undue preference."—Re BRYANT, Ex p. BRYANT, [1895] 1 Q. B. 420; 64 L. J. Q. B. 417; 72 L. T. 133; 59 J. P. 196; 11 T. L. R. 176; 2 Mans. 37; 14 R. 192, C. A.

5189. Distinguished from extravagance, etc.]—On questions of bkpts.' certificates cases tainted with fraud or dishonesty are to be carefully distinguished from those which are affected merely by extravagance, carelessness, or wildness of speculation.

Bkpt. had contracted liabilities when hopelessly insolvent, & had dealt largely in accommodation bills; he had also obtained a bill of exchange in circumstances amounting to an engagement not to negotiate it, which he had nevertheless done, & had moreover, after a meeting of his creditors, at

t. Before 1864 Act.]—The judge in insolvency refused insolvent his discharge on the ground that he had made a preferential assignment in 1857:—Held: not sufficient, for there was no law against it when made. Semble: such assignment, being valid when made, could be impeached, under 1864 Act, s. 9 (6), only upon the grounds that by it insolvent had fraudulently retained & concealed some portion of his estate, or had been guilty of evasion, etc., in his examination as to his effects.—Re PARR (1867), 17 C. P. 621.—CAN.

w. Causing goods to be taken in execution.]—Under Insolvent Act it is fraud for insolvent to cause his goods to be taken in execution to the prejudice of his general creditors, even though the preferred claim be a just one, & is an act of fraud for which some punishment should be awarded, though not necessarily to the extent of a perpetual refusal of insolvent's discharge.—Re JONES (1868), 4 P. R. 317.—CAN.

x. Giving preferential security for advances.]—Insolvent, having entirely disregarded the provisions of Insolvent Act, as to keeping proper books of accounts, had no means of knowing his actual financial condition, & being refused accommodation by parties from whom he had been accustomed to receive it, gave them preferential security for their existing & future advances, the result of which was that the goods purchased from other creditors, & not paid for, were levied on for the exclusive benefit of the creditors so preferred.

The judge in insolvency having granted a discharge suspending its operation for one year, his decision was reversed.—Re HUTCHINSON (1877), 3 R. & C. 40.—CAN.

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1. —C. (b) ix.

5189 i. Distinguished from unfavourable conduct, etc.]—Held: the facts, though unfavourable to insolvent, were distinguishable from acts or other misconduct constituting fraud, & unless the latter were shown, insolvent was entitled to the benefit of Insolvent Acts.—Re SMITH (1867), 4 P. which it was understood that he was not to deal with his estate, given to one of them a security without the privity of the others:—Held: the comr.'s sentence, suspending the certificate for three years without protection, could not be mitigated further than by giving protection after an imprisonment of two months.—Re BROWN, Ex p. BROWN (1858), 3 De G. & J. 369; 44 E. 5190. Misrepresentation—As to being trader—Engaging in trade subsequently.]—A man, not a trader, fraudulently contracted a debt, representing himself to the creditor to be a trader; he subsequently became a trader, & the debt was proved under his bkpcy.:—Held: bkpt. had committed an offence disentitling him to a certificate, &, having represented himself as a trader in the transaction, he could not be heard to say that he was not so for the purpose of protecting himself from the consequences. Semble: the offence need not be committed during the trading to render bkpt. amenable to 1849 Act, s. 256.—Re LESLIE, Ex p. LESLIE (1856), 25 L. J. Bcy. 37; 27 L. T. O. S. 225; 2 Jur. N. S. 822; 4 W. R. 706, L. JJ.

5191. —— As to being owner of business—Liabilities incurred on failure of business.]—W., a chemist, allowed S., an uncertificated bkpt., to carry on business as a jeweller in the name of W., but for his own benefit, W. making himself liable for the debts. Some persons, to whom S. applied for goods, asked W. whose the business was, to which he replied that it was his, & that S. was carrying it on for him. S. absconded, carrying away all the goods belonging to that business, & W. shortly afterwards became bkpt., almost all his debts being debts contracted by S. in the jewellery business:—Held: the representation by W. that the business was his, was not a fraud disentitling him to a certificate.—Re WILDBORE, Ex p. WILDBORE (1860), 2 De G. F. & J. 621; 45 E. R. 761, L. JJ.

5192. —— Obtaining loan on "salted" invoices—Sale of goods below cost price.]—A trader purchased goods of a manufacturer, & after the invoice had been made out, he added to the invoice an amount more than double that of the sum charged by the manufacturer as the cost price of the goods, & upon the invoice so added to, or fabricated, he procured a loan of money to two-thirds of the fabricated price. The custom of the trade was to "salt" invoices to the extent of 5 per cent. on the amount charged as cost price, to meet the incidental expenses of shipment, & the trader represented to the lender that this invoice had only been so "salted." The goods were shipped to Australia, & sold for an amount less than the true cost price. The trader having become bkpt., his certificate was refused for this & other acts of misconduct.—Re JOHNSON, Ex p. JOHNSON (1861), 30 L. J. Bcy. 38; 5 L. T. 228, L. JJ.

5193. —— Buying foreign bills on change—Implied representation to pay cash.]—A trader bought foreign bills on change on Tuesday, & on the Saturday following filed a declaration of insolvency, & became bkpt. on the Monday following, the bills not having been paid for. By the custom of merchants there was an implied representation by the purchaser of foreign bills that he had ready money to pay for them, & that they were to be paid for in cash, three days' grace being allowed. No satisfactory reason having been given for such a representation having been made:—Held: the bills were to be looked upon as procured by misrepresentation, & the transaction furnished a ground for refusal of the certificate.—Re SIMOND, Ex p. SIMOND (1857), 26 L. J. Bcy. 49; 29 L. T. O. S. 19; 3 Jur. N. S. 424, L. JJ.

5194. —— Passing off accommodation bills as trade bills.]—Where a bkpt. has systematically passed off accommodation bills as ordinary trade bills, it will be considered misconduct sufficient to justify a refusal of his certificate.

This ct. when sitting in bkpcy. & dealing with the commercial interests of the country, although it has not generally been severe upon cases of mere imprudence or extravagance, has set its face most resolutely against every description of fraud or false or fraudulent misrepresentation. It has felt it to be its painful duty to deal rigorously with cases involving these latter elements as the public interests require that they should be dealt with (TURNER, L.J.).—Re LAURENCE, Ex p. LAURENCE (1861), 30 L. 5195. —— False statements in prospectus—Knowledge of falsity.]—In June, 1887, from a statement prepared by bkpt.'s brother, with whom he was trading in partnership, it appeared that during the two previous years they had incurred a loss of £1,199, & they were advised by their solr. that the proper course was to call their creditors together. On the suggestion of another solr., however, the books of the firm were handed over to an accountant nominated by him, & the 5190 i. Misrepresentation—Contracting debts by false pretences—What must be proved.]—An objection, that insolvent had contracted debts by means of false pretences & misrepresentations, ought to allege who the creditors were that had been cheated & the nature of the particular false representations by which credit had been fraudulently obtained; & the evidence in support of such an objection ought to be the same as would sustain an information for obtaining goods by false pretences. Mere exaggeration of the value of the property does not amount to proving the offence.—Re WALTERS (1866), 3 W. W. & A'B. 14.—AUS.

5190 ii. —— Discounting forgery.]—Discounting a forgery comes within 5 Vict. No. 17, s. 73, as "contracting a debt fraudulently by means of a false pretence" & is an act of fraudulent insolvency.—Re THOMAS (1864), 1 W. W. & A'B. 40.—AUS.

d. —— Trading on fictitious capital—What must be proved.]—To render insolvent guilty of having traded with "fictitious capital" within Insolvency Stat., 1871 (No. 379), s. 138 (7), insolvent must have made some false statement or acted in some way so as to produce a false opinion about his capital.—Re MONAGHAN (1884), 10 V. L. R. 9.—AUS.

5195 i. —— In statement of affairs—Obtaining forbearance from opposing creditors.]—On Apr. 18, 1891, insolvent called a meeting of creditors & laid a not very candid or truthful statement of his affairs before them. Nothing was then arranged, & the meeting was adjourned for a week, in order that a committee should examine insolvent's position, etc. It was understood & arranged that in the meantime no steps should be taken against insolvent, & that he should keep his affairs in statu quo. Insolvent swore that he understood he was to make no large payments, but that he was to keep the firm going. During that week insolvent paid R3,193 due on a bill to one of the banks & R472 on re-draft account, a few insignificant current expenses & R1,000 to his solrs., who were preparing a trust-deed, accountant drew up a balance sheet showing an average net profit of 12 per cent. for three years, & a prospectus was thereupon issued founded on the accountant's report, the business being converted into a limited liability co. After carrying on business for three months the co. went into liquidation & the brothers were shortly afterwards adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: (1) bkpt. must have known that the prospectus in which he joined was totally false, & by putting forward statements in the prospectus, which he knew to be untrue, he was guilty of fraud, & the county ct. judge was fully justified in absolutely refusing his discharge; (2) (CHARLES, J.) even if bkpt. were not fully aware of the true state of affairs, he had in the circumstances placed himself in the position of a person who was guilty of fraud, in that he had made himself a party to the issuing of a prospectus for the purpose of obtaining money, being utterly regardless whether the statements contained in it were true or not.—Re DUCE & DUCE, Ex p. DUCE (1889), 6 Morr. 290, D. 5196. Fraudulent suppression—Of assets.]—A secreting by bkpt. of his goods, with intent to cheat his creditors, is a concealment sufficient to avoid his certificate within 1842 Act, s. 38, although a full disclosure of the concealment is made to the comrs. before bkpt.'s last examination.—COURTIVRON v. MEUNIER (1851), 6 Exch. 74; 20 L. 5197. —— —— Meaning of "fraud."]—Bkpts., A., B., C. & D., carried on business under the style of A. & Sons, & in June, 1902, A. & Sons transferred a portion of their assets to a co., which was then registered under the name of A. & Sons, Ltd. The consideration for the transfer was a sum payable by a debenture issue to the wife of A., in respect of a debt due to her from the firm, & as to the balance in shares of £10 each. The majority of the shares were transferred to bkpts.' wives, & to their mother. The co. did not take over the liabilities of the firm, but bkpts. contended that these were amply provided for by assets which they retained. Bkpts. had intended to place their assets out of the reach of their creditors, & to benefit themselves:—Held: the word "fraud" in 1890 Act, s. 8 (3) (l) meant common law fraud, & did not refer to certain transactions which were deemed to be fraudulent for the purposes of bkpcy. law, & as the transfer by bkpts. of their business had not been reported as a fraud in the specific language of Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), although it might have been so reported, bkpts. had not been guilty of fraud within 1890 Act, s. 8 (3) (l), but their dealings with their property, & preferring certain creditors over others amounted to gross misconduct on their part, & their discharge must be suspended.—Re ROWLEY (J.) & SONS (1903), 19 T. L. R. 602.

5198. —— Previous debts.]—A trader owing £6,000 removed from a provincial city to London, where he recommenced business, & incurred new debts, & did not inform his new creditors of the state of his pecuniary circumstances. In less than nine months he became bkpt. The comr. having adjourned the grant of certificate for eighteen months, without protection for six months, on appeal, by arrangement, the order was varied by granting the certificate at the end of eighteen months from the adjudication.—Re WOOLDRIDGE, Ex p. WOOLDRIDGE (1855), 24 L. J. Bcy. 17, L. JJ.

5199. —— Change of ownership of property.]—Bkpt. had, a short time before his bkpcy., represented to his bankers that he was the owner of three ships in the course of building abroad. Some time afterwards, his account with them being largely overdrawn, they prepared an agreement for him to sign, whereby he agreed to mortgage the ships to them for the floating balance. He had previously, however, sold the ships to his brother, subject to an agreement for the payment to himself of any profit on a resale. He signed the proposed memorandum without mentioning the fact of the sale:—Held: although the bankers made no further advance on the security of the memorandum, bkpt. had been guilty of a suppression, which could not be overlooked on the question of his certificate, & it had been rightly suspended for three years without protection.—Re HOLDERNESS, Ex p. HOLDERNESS (1859), 1 De G. 5200. Buying goods on credit—Subsequent sale below cost price.]—Bkpt. had systematically bought goods at low prices & on short credit, & immediately sold them at still lower amounts:—Held: bkpt.'s

g. —— As to amount of assets.]—Where a trader, all whose property was heavily mortgaged, & who had large over-due debts which he could not pay, obtained credit from Montreal merchants, concealing his true position, falsely alleging that he was worth $4,000 more than he owed, & that he had no engagements he could not meet:—Held: such fraud as disentitled him to his discharge.—Re OWENS (1866), 12 Gr. 560.—CAN.

5196 i. Fraudulent suppression—Of assets—Unintentional omission from schedule.]—Where insolvent had by oversight omitted an asset from his schedule, & also omitted to inform his trustees of it:—Held: this did not authorise the refusal or suspension of his certificate on the ground that he had not made a full & fair disclosure of his property or that he had, with intent to defraud, made a material omission from his schedule.—Re AARONS (1880), 6 V. He did not inform the creditors of the fact that the bill of sale was in existence. The district ct. judge, being of opinion that debtor had been guilty of deceit, made an order of discharge to take effect only after one year:—Held: as bkpcy. laws did not impose on a trader the duty of making known to creditors the existence of such securities, & as debtor had not been guilty of any active deceit, the order of discharge should have been made to take effect immediately.—Re QUINN, 3 J. 5205. Drawing bills against future consignments—Fall in price of goods—Bankruptcy due to misfortune.]—Bkpt. had given bills in respect of sugar to come forward from planters, to whom he had made advances; sufficient sugar came forward to enable a large number of the bills to be met, &, but for a fall in the price of sugar, there would have been ample means to meet all the bills as they became due:—Held: the bkpcy. was due to misfortune, & there was no evidence of any fraud.—Re DU BOULAY (1885), 2 Morr. 49.

5206. Dealing fraudulently with money of customers—Misappropriation.]—A broker, who was a director of & broker to a co., which had been ordered to be wound up, received at a time when he was insolvent an order from a customer directed to him, & to a partner whom he knew or believed to be dead, to buy a sum of Sardinian stock. The broker contracted with L. for the stock, & received the price from the customer as for himself & his deceased partner. He did not pay L. for the stock, but allowed him interest for three months, & applied the money to his own purposes. Immediately before his adjudication of bkpcy. he sold a debenture of the co. to A. for the amount due upon it, without requiring any money for the four years' interest which was also due, & with the money paid L. part of the money, the price of the stock, & gave him a bill for the remainder, & L. then transferred the stock to the customer. The broker had previously privately appropriated the debenture to the safety of the customer, & when he sold it had no authority from the customer for so doing. The broker having become bkpt. & received a certificate, the Ct. of Appeal, for the above & other misconduct, discharged the order & suspended the certificate for five years.—Re BOYD, Ex p. WRYGHTE (1856), 26 L. 5208. Giving acceptances in firm name—Without knowledge of partners—Misappropriation of proceeds.]—Bkpt., a partner in a firm, had given acceptances of the firm to the amount of £20,000 without the knowledge of his partners, in order to provide funds for his own speculations outside the business:—Held: bkpt. had committed a gross fraud on his partners, had been guilty of a grave offence against good trading, & his discharge must be wholly refused.—Re ELLINGTON (1887), 4 T. L. R. 38.

5209. Assignment of part of estate—Assignee not party to fraud.]—In Nov., 1887, bkpt. effected an arrangement with his creditors for the payment of his debts in full by four equal instalments of 5*s.* in the pound, bkpt. agreeing to pay to trustees the sum of £7 10*s.* a week as a fund, out of which the instalments were to be paid as they became due. The indebtedness of bkpt. was then about £685, on account of which he actually paid about £400, but in Apr., 1889, in consequence of his making default in payment of some of the weekly instalments to the trustees, certain creditors commenced actions against him for the recovery of the balance respectively due to them. About the time such actions were commenced, bkpt. sold his rounds as a travelling draper, which were alleged to be of the value of £800, for the sum of £150, part of which he used to defend the actions, to which he was advised he had a good defence, & the remainder for the support of his family. The county ct. judge having absolutely refused any order of discharge:—Held: the transfer made by bkpt. not being an assignment of the whole of his property or an assignment to a person who was a 5212. —— Undue preference.]—A trader, when involved in difficulties & hopelessly insolvent, deposited the title-deeds of property, of which he was the surviving trustee, with his brother, who was entitled to the property for life under the will of which bkpt. was such trustee, as a security for a debt owing to the brother:—Held: this was a fraudulent preference.—Re BARTON, Ex p. BARTON (1861), 31 L. J. Bcy. 7; 6 L. T. 142, L. JJ.

5213. —— —— Forgery—Professional trustee.]—Bkpt. carried on business as an accountant, & filled various positions of trust, such as trustee in bkpcies., & liquidations, & liquidator in winding up of cos. In 1882 he committed a series of forgeries & was sentenced to penal servitude. The liabilities which he incurred by reason of those forgeries amounted to nearly £20,000, which had been proved against his estate. His aggregate liabilities amounted to £65,000, & the assets were returned in the statement of affairs at £54,000, but £2,500 only had been received:—Held: the Ct. of Bkpcy. ought to punish a man for offences committed which were connected with his bkpcy., notwithstanding he had been punished for the crime by a ct. of criminal justice, & as bkpt., a professional trustee, knowing well that, insolvent as he was, his property should be divided among his creditors rateably, had deliberately destined a very considerable portion of that property for distribution among a particular class of creditors, whom he selected for preferment, an application for an order of discharge must be absolutely refused.—Re WING (1888), 4 T. 5214. —— Ultra vires investment with consent of cestui que trust.]—If a trustee commits a breach of trust involving no dishonourable conduct, as where at the solicitation of his cestui que trust, he invests in a class of security not warranted by the deed of trust, such conduct ought not to be taken into account in considering whether the trustee, if he subsequently becomes bkpt., ought or ought not to have his discharge (CAVE, J.).—Re FREEMAN, Ex p. FREEMAN (1890), 62 L. 5215. —— Misappropriation by solicitor—Acquiescence of client.]—T. & G. were partners as solrs. G. received from H. a sum of £4,000 for the purpose of being invested on good mtge. security. T. was mtgee. of the reversion of a large sum of stock, of which he was one of the trustees, & upon which he had lent £4,000. The £4,000 belonging to H. was lent by the firm to T., upon the security of a transfer of his mtge., & applied to the purposes of the partnership business. With the consent of the tenant for life, the stock was sold upon the death of the reversioner, & the proceeds were applied in payment of the reversioner's debts, & among them the £4,000, & the balance was placed to the credit of T. in the books of the firm. No fresh security was ever given to H. for his £4,000, but for twenty years the firm & T. paid him interest as if on the original security, & representing that it was so. In 1850 H. discovered the fraud, but for four years he continued to receive his interest, when T. became bkpt., & the £4,000 was lost:—Held: the transaction was a gross breach of duty by T. as a solr., towards his client, & one which the interests of society required should be severely visited, & the acquiescence of the client in receiving interest after the discovery of the misconduct, could not be looked upon as a condonation by reason that the interests of society were involved.—Re SELBY, Ex p. SELBY (1855), 6 De G. 5217. —— Solicitor employed to manage affairs generally—Non-payment of balance due.]—Insolvent, an attorney, was employed generally to manage the affairs of an estate, on which he had a large claim for costs, & had recovered & paid several sums of money. Upon a final statement of accounts a sum of £48 was due from him to the client, who opposed the discharge of insolvent, on the ground that the non-payment of such sum was a breach of trust:—Held: the mere non-payment of the balance was not a breach of trust, but if the attorney had been employed to do any specific act, or to receive any certain sum of money, & after the satisfaction of his own costs, had failed to pay over the money to his client, such act would have been a breach of trust.—Re IZOD (1830), Cooke's Insolvent Debtors' Practice, 2nd ed., p. 205.

He must come rather under the character of a trustee than of an agent, & the best test whether he is such a trustee or only an ordinary debtor is to enquire, was it his duty to keep the money so ear-marked that in the event of his death the ct. could say it was D.'s money, or was he warranted by all the previous transactions between D. & himself in receiving the money & treating himself merely as a debtor to D. for that amount.—Re NANTES (1861), 1 W. & W. 1.—AUS.

5218 iv. —— ——.]—P. & Co., an English firm, consigned a ship to insolvent, with instructions to collect the freight & apply it to disbursements & to remit the balance in bank bills or place it against an invoice of coals, should it be divided to purchase them. The ship arrived to insolvent's consignment & he collected the freights & made certain disbursements, & the balance to the credit of P. & Co. was £700 odd. The money received was placed by insolvent in the bank to his own account. On Feb. 24 the insolvent wrote to P. & Co. advising them to send the ship to Adelaide for a cargo adding, "In case you do not, we shall immediately remit the balance in our hands by a bank draft in London." A few days afterwards the ship sailed for Calcutta direct in ballast, & insolvent knew that he would not be authorised to purchase a cargo in Adelaide, & that there were no further disbursements to be made. On May 23 he wrote, "We regret to find that through some neglect in our office the accounts for the [ship] have not been sent forward as they ought to have been with a bank draft for the balance due to you. We beg to enclose the accounts showing the balance in your favour of £702 6*s.* In order to make up in some measure for the delay which has occurred, we shall get one of the banks to telegraph the amount to your credit in London at our expense so that you can receive the cash even before it would have been due if it had gone home by a sixty day's draft." Insolvent never remitted the money, & on Aug. 20 filed a petition for the sequestration of his estate. The insolvent afterwards applied for a certificate of conformity which the chief comr. refused on the ground that insolvent had, by not remitting P. & C.'s money "unlawfully expended for his own benefit or appropriated to his own use trust funds" within 7 Vict. At different times in such period he had borrowed considerable sums of B., a person not conversant with business, the loans having been effected by money, bills, & notes, which had been given by B. to A. in respect of which A. deposited with B. bills of lading & wine warrants. In the course of these transactions A. made misrepresentations to B. as to the state of his affairs & the value of the securities given. 5230. Who may appeal—Creditor who did not oppose order.]—A creditor, who has not opposed bkpt.'s order of discharge before the comr., is not thereby precluded from appealing against it.—Re MONK & BROOKS, Ex p. BURGESS (1864), 4 New Rep. 310; 33 L. J. Bcy. 51; 10 L. T. 634; 10 Jur. N. S. 981; 12 W. R. 924, L. C.

See 1914 Act, s. 108 (2).

5231. —— Creditor who has not proved his debt.]—A creditor, who has not proved his debt when an order of discharge is granted, cannot appeal against the order.—Re MONK & BROOKS, Ex p. GREENWOOD & BATLEY (1864), 4 New Rep. 309; 33 L. J. Bcy. 50; 10 L. T. 634; 10 Jur. N. S. 981; 12 W. R. 924, L. C.

5232. —— "Person aggrieved"—Unpaid creditor.]—An unpaid creditor is a "person aggrieved" within 1883 Act, s. 104 (2) by the granting of an order of discharge to bkpt., & as such has a right of appeal against such order.—Re PAYNE, Ex p. CASTLE MAIL PACKETS CO. (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 154; 56 L. J. Q. B. 625; 35 W. R. 89; 3 T. L. R. 67; 3 Morr. 270, C. A.

5233. —— —— Board of Trade.]—A. became bkpt., & was granted an unconditional discharge. The Board of Trade appealed under r. 237:—Held: the Board of Trade was a "person aggrieved," & the appeal must be allowed.—Re STAINTON, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 19 Q. B. D. 182; 57 L. T. 202; 35 W. R. 667; 4 Morr. 242, D. C.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Shirley, Ex p. Board of Trade (1892), 9 Morr. 147.

5234. What notice required.]—Notice of appeal, from an order made by the ct. on application by bkpt. for his discharge, should be a fourteen days' notice.

Where such notice was not given & objection was taken at the hearing:—Held: the case should stand over for a week until the required time had elapsed.—Re LANDAU, Ex p. BROWN & WINGROVE (1887), 4 Morr. 253, C. A.

n. —— ——.]—Insolvent prior to his insolvency executed a voluntary settlement of all his property on his wife, with the express design of evading the payment of damages & costs in an action for slander:—Held: the comr. was bound not only to suspend, but to refuse, the certificate.—Re CURLEY (1865), 2 W. W. & A'B. 1.—AUS.

o. —— Assignments between members of family.]—For the purpose of withholding a certificate assignments between members of a family on the eve of the insolvency of the assignor, not publicly visible & the details of which are very improbable, should generally be held fraudulent, although sworn by the assignees & assignors to have been honestly effected in such a way that no decided falsehood can be detected in their testimony.—Re ALLEN (1865), 2 W. W. & A'B. 3.—AUS.

p. —— ——.]—Insolvent, shortly before his insolvency, granted a sub-lease of a theatre of which he was lessee, & which formed his only available means of support, with the theatrical properties & effects, to a relative, as a trustee for him:—Held: he had unjustifiably made away with or disposed of otherwise than bonâ fide & for a valuable consideration a portion of his property, & certificate suspended.—Re AARONS (1880), 6 V. L. R. 56.—AUS.

q. —— Must be proved clearly.]—A charge of making away with property otherwise than bonâ fide should be alleged & proved very clearly.—Re WRIGHT & HIGGINS (1881), 7 V. L. R. 7.—AUS.

r. Retention or concealment of property—Must be wilful & fraudulent.]—Re RUSSELL (1882), 7 A. R. 777.—CAN.

s. Giving false answers under examination.]—An objection to the grant of a certificate to an insolvent charged him with having knowingly & wilfully given false answers & false explanations when under examination on oath:—Held: the offence under 7 Vict. No. 19, related to answers by insolvent to inquiries made for the discovery of assets, etc., & not to answers to protect himself from the refusal of a certificate, & objection overruled.—Re THOMAS (1864), 1 W. W. & A'B. 40.—AUS.

t. ——.]—Semble: the examination of insolvent in opposition to the granting of his certificate is not one in which a false answer would subject him to the refusal of his certificate.—Re MASON (1866), 3 W. W. & A'B. 28.—AUS.

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1.—D.

a. Jurisdiction—Examination of insolvent.]—Upon an appeal from a decision of a judge of the Ct. of Insolvency granting or refusing an insolvent his certificate, the Supreme Ct. has no power to examine insolvent.—Re AARONS (1880), 6 V. L. R. 56.—AUS.

5230 i. Who may appeal—Creditor who did not oppose order.]—A creditor, who did not appear to object to the grant of a certificate, may appeal.—Re WILLIAMSON Ex p. FITZPATRICK (1882), 3 N. S. W. L. R. 149.—AUS.

b. Within what time.]—25 Vict., No. 8, s. 5, which provided that an appeal against the granting or refusal of a certificate must be within twenty-one days:—Held: satisfied where the exceptions were filed on the twenty-first day was in time.—Re WILLIAMSON, Ex p. FITZPATRICK (1882), 3 N. S. W. L. R. 149.—AUS.

5234 i. What notice required—Objections in writing at final examination.]—No appeal lies against the granting of a certificate to bkpt., unless applt.'s objection be made in writing at the final examination.—Re WOODROFFE (1861), 14 Ir. Jur. 49.—IR.

c. What court will consider—Questions raised by notice of appeal.]—Upon an appeal to the full ct. from an order of the primary judge, made upon appeal to him from the decision of a judge of the Ct. of Insolvency granting or refusing insolvent his certificate, the ct. will only entertain questions raised by the notice of appeal. If resp. desires to raise other questions he must lodge a cross appeal.—Re AARONS (1880), 6 V. L. R. 56.—AUS.

5235. On what grounds—Surprise.]—The meeting for the final examination & discharge of bkpt. was fixed for a certain day before one of the comrs. A creditor, who intended to oppose, instructed his solr., who sent to the ct. on that morning & was there informed that the case would not be taken that day, nor was the case inserted on either of the lists of business. The creditor did not attend, but an order of discharge was made on that day by another of the comrs. Upon motion to vary or discharge that order:—Held: this was a case of surprise, & the case must be remitted to the ct. below, with liberty to bkpt. to renew his application there.—Re NEWTON, Ex p. JOHNSTONE (1862), 31 L. J. Bcy. 63; 6 L. T. 234, L. JJ.

5236. Costs—Against bankrupt when unsuccessful.]—On a creditor's appeal against an order of discharge being allowed, costs may be given against bkpt.—Re PAYNE, Ex p. CASTLE MAIL PACKETS CO. (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 154; 56 L. J. Q. B. 625; 35 W. R. 89; 3 T. L. R. 67; 3 Morr. 270, C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—SUSPENDED DISCHARGE.

Discretion of court generally.]—See Sect. 3, ante.

5237. On what grounds—Improper agreement by trustee—Purchase of debts by relative of bankrupt.]—Bkpt., with liabilities of about £3,500 & practically no assets, entered into an agreement with his trustee in bkpcy. to pay instalments of £30 a calendar month out of a salary of £1,200 which he had obtained since his bkpcy., until 20*s.* in the pound should be paid, & the trustee agreed, when bkpt. had paid 5*s.* in the pound, "to raise no objection & to use his best endeavours to prevent any objections by any creditors" to any application by bkpt. for his discharge. A relation of bkpt., with his knowledge & consent, bought up debts of bkpt. at rates varying from 2*s.* 6*d.* to 10*s.* in the pound from individual creditors to the extent of about £1,000 & withdrew their claims. Bkpt. had duly paid the instalments for a year, when he applied for his discharge upon his consenting to judgment for the remaining debts. The registrar suspended the discharge for two years, on the ground of the improper agreement by the trustee & the purchase of the debts:—Held: the registrar had rightly suspended the discharge upon those grounds in the exercise of his discretion under 1914 Act, s. 26.—Re SHAW, [1917] 2 K. B. 734; 86 L. J. K. B. 1395; [1917] H. B. R. 214, C. A.

See, also, No. 5039, ante.

5238. For what period—Not less than minimum period—Offence under 1890 Act, s. 8 (3).]—Where bkpt. is proved to have committed an offence specified in the above sub-sect., the ct. cannot suspend his discharge for less than the minimum period of two years.—Re OSWELL, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1892), 9 Morr. 202, D. C.

See 1914 Act, s. 26.

5239. —— Previous bankruptcy annulled.]—Bkpt., who had been adjudicated bkpt. in 1892, applied for an order of discharge. His assets were not of a value equal to 10*s.* in the pound on the unsecured liabilities, & he had been on a previous occasion, in 1864, adjudged bkpt., but that bkpcy. was annulled in 1865 with the consent of the creditors:—Held: notwithstanding the annulment of the previous bkpcy., bkpt. had on a previous occasion been "adjudged bkpt." within 1890 Act, s. 8 (3) (k), & the discharge would be suspended for two years.—Re DENNY (1905), 21 T. L. R. 297.

5240. —— Extreme period.]—Suspension of discharge for five years is a severe sentence, which should be reserved for very bad cases.—Re SWABEY, Ex p. SWABEY (1897), 76 L. T. 534, D. C.

5241. —— Nominal suspension.]—In the report of the official receiver it was alleged that bkpt. had committed six of the offences specified in 1883 Act, s. 28 (3), & the discharge was absolutely refused. On appeal satisfactory explanations were afforded of all the charges, with the exception of the fact that twenty-three years previously bkpt. had made a statutory arrangement with his creditors:—Held: the discharge should be granted, subject to a nominal suspension of one day to meet the requirements of the Act in respect of the only offence proved against him.—Re SULTZBERGER, Ex p. SULTZBERGER (1887), 4 Morr. 82, D. C.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Freeman (1909), 25 T. L. R. 365.

See 1914 Act, s. 26.

5242. —— Offence under 1849 Act, s. 256.]—Where a bkpt. had committed the offence of fraudulent preference enumerated in the above sect. a certificate was granted with a suspension of six months.—Re KING, Ex p. KING (1858), 27 L. J. Bcy. 11, L. JJ.

See 1914 Act, s. 26.

5243. —— Neglect in investigation of accounts.]—A father, a solr. in practice, took his son, aged twenty-four, into partnership. The son never investigated the affairs of the firm, but though he lived with & was maintained by the father, he drew out of the concern annually £300 for his own purposes. The father became bkpt., & subsequently also the son:—Held: the son's discharge should be suspended for three months.—Re HOLDEN, Ex p. HOLDEN (1862), 31 L. J. Bcy. 86; 6 L. T. 673, L. JJ.

5235 i. On what grounds—Surprise—Mistake.]—The solr. of an opposing creditor informed insolvent's solr. on the morning of the hearing, of his intention to persist in his opposition. The case was called on in the momentary absence of the creditor's solr. There being no one present to oppose, a discharge was pronounced by the judge:—Held: the ct. could not annul or review the order on the ground that it was improperly or fraudulently obtained.

When order for discharge has been pronounced by the lips of the judge, he has no power to set it aside on the ground that the discharge was a mistake.—Re LOGAN, Ex p. DUKE OF WELLINGTON (1859), 9 I. Ch. R. 569; 12 Ir. Jur. 41.—IR.

PART XVIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 2.

d. On what grounds—Omission to keep proper books.]—Where bkpt.'s books have been improperly kept, the certificate will be suspended.—Re LYNCH, Ex p. ARMSTRONG (1858), 7 I. Ch. R. 489.—IR.

f. —— ——.]—The omission to keep accounts, where there is no intent of fraudulent concealment, is only matter for suspension, not for refusal, of a certificate.—Re MONAGHAN (1884), 10 V. L. R. 9.—AUS.

g. —— ——.]—Where insolvent omits to keep books of account suitable for his trade, he is not entitled to an immediate discharge, though such failure may not be owing to any improper motive.—Re BULLIVANT (1880), 5 A. R. 638.—CAN.

k. —— Reckless trading.]—Reckless trading, although unaccompanied by any legal or moral fraud, is a ground for suspending protection.—Re BAGGOTT (1865), Bourke, 5.—IND.

l. —— —— Obtaining credit fraudulently.]—The ct. suspended certificate of bkpt. on the ground of reckless trading & obtaining credit by false representations.—Re BELL (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 281.—IR.

m. —— Extravagance—Frivolous defences.]—Insolvent, who lived extravagantly, went on contracting debts which he was unable to pay, & filed sham defences to just actions by his creditors, was remanded for a year, although there was not any evidence of concealment, or that property had been otherwise made away with.—Re BARRY (1861), 13 Ir. Jur. 357.—IR.

n. —— Neglect in investigation o accounts.]—Where partners took little or no part in the business, & knew

Sect. 5.—The order: Sub-sects. 2 & 3.]

5244. —— Omission to keep proper books.]—Where the ct. came to the conclusion that, whilst an offence had been committed in that bkpt.'s books did not sufficiently show his financial position, yet the offence had no relation to the deficiency, & no trading offence had been committed, his discharge was suspended for three months.—Re SCHARRER (1888), 4 T. L. R. 627.

See 1914 Act, s. 26.

5245. —— From date of adjudication—Breach of trust—Misconduct—Undue preference.]—Bkpt. had within three months preceding the date of the receiving order when unable to pay his debts as they became due given an undue preference to certain of his creditors, he had also been guilty of breach of trust, & he had further been guilty of misconduct in relation to his property & affairs by selling his business within three weeks of the bkpcy. & accepting payment in bills some of which did not become due for twelve months:—Held: although there was proof that bkpt. had committed a breach of trust there was no evidence to show that such breach of trust had been fraudulent, & the case not being one in which a condition as to future payments ought to be imposed, the misconduct of bkpt. in selling his business & in unduly favouring certain creditors would in the circumstances be sufficiently met by a suspension of the discharge for a period of three years from the date of the order of adjudication.—Re FREEMAN, Ex p. FREEMAN (1890) 62 L. T. 367; 7 Morr. 38, D. C.

5246. —— Contracts for differences.]—A stockbroker's discharge was refused on the ground (inter alia) that contracts for differences were in themselves immoral:—Held: having regard to the particular facts, the case would be sufficiently met by a suspension of the discharge for three years.—Re JENKINS, Ex p. JENKINS (1891), 39 W. R. 430; 8 Morr. 36, D. C.

5247. —— Rash & hazardous speculation.]—Bkpt., a stockbroker with liabilities amounting to £6,037, wholly due to stockbrokers for differences, & no assets, had acted as a "bear," speculating for the fall. His losses upon one fortnightly account amounted to £11,000, & he had other contracts out of which the official assignee made a profit. When he began his operations as a "bear" he had £300 in money. He contracted to sell £863,000 worth of stock during the fortnight, & he repurchased £600,000, leaving an open & uncovered account of £200,000 & upwards. The information which he received was of such a character that he thought he could not lose, & so soon as he found himself unable to pay the brokers he declared his position to the official assignee, & made no endeavour, which he might have done, to recover himself by other speculations:—Held: it was in bkpt.'s favour that he stopped at a certain point, as there appeared to be no reason why he should not have lost £20,000 as readily as £6,000, but it was a very flagrant case, & the discharge would be suspended for two years.—Re BARTELS (1887), 3 T. L. R. 653.

5248. —— —— Bankrupt not trader.]—On an application by bkpt., who had been guilty of rash & hazardous speculations by reason of certain gambling transactions in connection with the Stock Exchange:—Held: in the circumstances, & taking into consideration the facts that bkpt. was not a trader & that only one of the offences specified in 1883 Act, s. 28 (3), had been reported against him, the proper order would be to suspend the order of discharge for a period of three years.—Re RANKIN, Ex p. RANKIN (1887), 5 Morr. 23, D. C.

5249. —— —— Opposition by brokers only—Notice.]—Bkpt., formerly a master mariner, had saved money with which he purchased gold-mine shares, which happened to turn out successfully. Bkpt. then invested all his earnings & winnings in other speculations on the Stock Exchange, with the result that he lost all he had, & incurred a debt to his brokers of £1,200. Bkpt.'s application for discharge was opposed by the brokers who were the only creditors:—Held: although bkpt. had brought on his bkpcy. by rash & hazardous speculations, the brokers knew what bkpt. was doing, & that the speculations were rash & hazardous, & looking to the fact that theirs was the only proof & the only objection the ct. would not aid them in any way, & the discharge should not be absolutely refused, but should be suspended for five months from the date when the application was heard.—Re ANGEL, Ex p. ANGEL (1891), 7 T. L. R. 510, D. C.

See 1914 Act, s. 26.

o. —— Fraud.]—Where the conduct of bkpt. before sequestration has been fraudulent, his certificate may be suspended.—Re VAGG (1888), 14 V. L. R. 902.—AUS.

p. —— —— Of co-partners—Omission to notify customers.]—Certificate suspended in the case of a partner at home, who, though innocent of the fraudulent practices, omitted to give notice to the parties intended to be defrauded.—Re JANSSEN v. REUSS (1864), Cor. 13.—IND.

q. —— Error in schedule.]—The fact that insolvent has stated in his schedule that an asset is not mortgaged, when, in fact, it is, does not authorise the refusal or suspension of his certificate.—Re AARONS (1880), 6 V. L. R. 56.—AUS.

r. —— Action for breach of promise of marriage pending.]—When an action is brought against husband & wife for breach of promise of marriage by the wife, the penal section of Irish Bkpt. & Insolvent Act does not apply against the husband, & the ct. will not remand him under the discretionary clause.—Re ROWLAND (1869), 3 I. L. T. Jo. 120.—IR.

5244 i. For what period—Omission to keep proper books.]—Where insolvent had not kept an account book showing his receipts & disbursements of cash, & the judge granted him a discharge of the second class, suspending it for four months, on appeal, the discharge was confirmed, but suspended for an additional period of four months.—Re MOONEY (1877), 2 R. & C. 563.—CAN.

5244 ii. ————.]—Where insolvent had kept certain books, which, although imperfect, were honestly meant as a business record, his discharge was only suspended for three months.—Re BULLIVANT (1880), 5 A. R. 638.—CAN.

5244 iii. —— —— Fraudulent preference.]—Insolvent had within three months before his assignment paid one of his creditors in full in such circumstances as amounted to a fraudulent preference, & had neglected to keep proper cash books or books of account suitable to his trade. The county judge granted a discharge suspensively, to take effect four months after the order:—Held: the judge had acted with extreme leniency.—Re LAMB (1866), 4 P. R. 16.—CAN.

5244 iv. —— —— Misrepresentations.]—Bkpts., by means of false representations, obtained credit & goods for which they were unable to pay. Their books had been mutilated, & some of them were not produced. Their certificate was suspended for one year.—Re JOHNSTONE (1859), 9 I. Ch. R. 556.—IR.

s. —— Reckless trading.]—A young man, who had entered into trade before he was of age, & had spent large sums in trying to extend his business, was refused his certificate for three months.—Re DOOLE (1870), 4 I. L. T. Jo. 291.—IR.

t. —— ——.]—When a trader without having capital or means to carry on the trade into which he enters, embarks in business & incurs debts, his certificate will, if he becomes a bkpt., be suspended for six months, although there is not any charge of dishonesty or concealment of property.—Re M'NEILLAGE (1869), 3 I. L. T. Jo. 588.—IR.

u. —— —— Inability to account.]—The certificate of a bkpt. was suspended for twelve months in the case of reckless trading, alleged making away with property, & inability to account.—Re MORRISSEY (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 338.—IR.

5250. —— Trading with knowledge of insolvency.]—Bkpt. had carried on business after he was aware that he was insolvent:—Held: the statement that he consulted one of the largest of his creditors was not sufficient to have justified bkpt. in going on after he was insolvent & the certificate of discharge ought to have been suspended for a year from the date of his passing his last public examination.—Re HEAP, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 4 Morr. 314, D. C.

See 1914 Act, s. 26.

5251. Embezzlement—Discretion.]—Debtor was convicted on his own confession on Sept. 10, 1891, of having embezzled on July 27 previous, the funds of a building society of which he was secretary, & received six weeks' imprisonment. On Oct. 15 a receiving order was made against him, on which on Nov. 9 he was adjudicated bkpt. He had committed five offences under 1890 Act, one of which was fraud. The county ct. judge suspended his discharge for a period of three years:—Held: the county ct. judge was not obliged to refuse the discharge altogether, unless there were special reasons for determining otherwise; & though the term of suspension was probably too short, the ct. would not interfere with the judge's discretion in the circumstances.—Re HEDLEY, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE, [1895] 1 Q. B. 923; 64 L. J. Q. B. 460; 72 L. T. 470; 43 W. R. 464; 11 T. L. R. 365; 39 Sol. Jo. 428; 2 Mans. 186; 15 R. 366, D. C.

5252. As from what date—Date anterior to hearing.]—Where it is proved, on the hearing of an application for an order of discharge, that the assets of bkpt. are not of a value equal to 10*s.* in the pound on the amount of his unsecured liabilities, & he does not satisfy the ct. that he is not responsible for this state of his affairs, the ct., in suspending the discharge for two years, has no power to order that the period of suspension shall run from a date anterior to the hearing of the application.—Re MUZEEN (1906), 22 T. L. R. 322.

See, also, No. 5245, ante.

5253. Review—Jurisdiction of court.]—Held: under 1861 Act, s. 168, the Ct. of Bkpcy. had no power to review an order suspending a discharge.—Re ATHERTON, Ex p. ATHERTON (1868), 3 Ch. App. 142; 37 L. J. Bcy. 6; 17 L. T. 485; 16 W. R. 294, L. J.

See 1914 Act, s. 108 (1).

5254. —— Appeal ordered to stand over—Pending application for.]—The discharge of bkpt. was suspended for five years. Subsequently the county ct. judge was informed of certain facts, which led him to conclude that his view of bkpt.'s conduct had been mistaken. Bkpt. appealed from the order suspending his discharge:—Held: the appeal should stand over, to enable an application for review to be made to the county ct. judge.—Re DOWSON, Ex p. DOWSON (1887), 4 Morr. 310, D. C.

5255. Notice of appeal—Who must be served.]—Two of the creditors of a bkpt. appeared before the comr. & opposed the granting of his certificate. The comr. suspended the granting the certificate for twelve months. Bkpt. appealed. Notice of the appeal had not been given to the two creditors:—Held: they ought to have been served with the petition of appeal.—Re JOHNSON, Ex p. JOHNSON (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 25; 20 L. J. SUB-SECT. 3.—DISCHARGE SUBJECT TO CONDITIONS.

5256. Power to annex conditions—Creditors or assignee not requesting same—Prospects of future assets.]—Where an offence has been proved under 1861 Act, s. 195, which would justify the ct. in refusing or suspending the order of discharge, if asked so to do by any creditor or the assignee, not having been asked so to do, the ct. having regard to the reasonable probability of bkpt. having future assets, will annex conditions to the order of discharge, to the effect that he should pay a certain sum per annum, until a fixed portion of his debts has been paid, although bkpt. had no certain source of income.—Re CLINTON (1869), 20 L. T. 456.

b. —— —— Assignment to relative.]—Insolvent having determined to stop business, disposed of the stock of goods on hand to his daughter for the sum of $1,000, who continued the business for the benefit of the family, insolvent assisting as clerk. No money was paid by the daughter for the goods at the time of purchase, or subsequently, nor was any security taken, but at the time of the assignment, about a year after, insolvent handed to the assignee a note of A. for the sum of $1,000, which was never paid. After insolvent ceased to do business he collected debts due him, & lived upon them & paid nothing to his creditors. 5259. What conditions may be annexed—Conditions tantamount to refusal—Order for future payments—No reasonable probability of bankrupt's ability to comply.]—The power given to the ct., on an application by bkpt. for discharge, of imposing a condition to make future money payments ought not to be exercised in such a manner as to make such a condition tantamount to one of absolute refusal.

Where there is no fair reason to suppose that bkpt. will come into possession of money which will enable him to make future payments, a proper course for the ct. to take is to estimate at once the punishment which bkpt. ought to undergo, & to suspend the discharge; or if the ct. is of opinion that bkpt. is not entitled to any order of discharge at all, it ought at once to refuse the order, & not grant it upon a condition with which there is no probability that bkpt. will ever be able to comply.

The discharge of bkpt. was refused by the county ct. judge with liberty to bkpt. to apply again for his discharge when he should be able to satisfy the ct. that he had paid to the official receiver a sufficient sum to make up a dividend of 4*s.* 6*d.* in the pound with costs. The amount required for such purpose would be £105, & the only means which bkpt. had was a salary of 25*s.* a week with no prospect of an increase:—Held: the order must be varied by striking out the condition imposed, & the discharge would be refused with liberty to bkpt. to apply again to the county ct. judge at the end of six months, with the understanding that unless cause to the contrary were shown by the official receiver, the discharge ought then to be granted.—Re JAMES, Ex p. JAMES (1891), 8 MORR. 19, D. 5260. —— —— —— ——.]—On an application for discharge it is not usual to refuse the discharge until debtor has paid 10*s.* in the pound, unless there is a reasonable prospect of there being some available funds or property.—Re MARLEY, Ex p. MARLEY (1900), 82 L. T. 692; 16 T. L. R. 383, D. C.

5261. —— —— ——.]—In a bkpcy. under 1883 Act, an order was made in 1886 that bkpt.'s discharge should be suspended until he had paid to the trustee such a sum, as with the dividend declared, or to be declared, would enable the trustee to pay to the creditors who had proved, or should prove, their debts 5*s.* in the pound thereon, & that the order of discharge should take effect & come into operation on the day of payment of that sum to the trustee. A dividend of 1*s.* 3*d.* in the pound having been paid to the creditors, bkpt.'s father died in 1891, having by his will bequeathed to bkpt. a legacy, the amount of which was more than sufficient to pay the remainder of the 5*s.* in the pound:—Held: the order was not a valid one under the Act, but, as it had been acted upon for five years, it must be treated as valid.—Re HAWKINS, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1892] 1 Q. 5262. —— —— —— Prospects of future assets.]—In July, 1885, judgment in an action for breach of promise of marriage was recovered against bkpt. for £500 damages. In Jan., 1886, his father died, having by a will made five days before death, given substantial interests in property which was worth about £3,600 to all his children except bkpt., to whom a legacy only of £10 payable on the death of his mother was left by testator. In Apr., 1889, a receiving order was made against bkpt. on his own petition. There were practically no assets, & the only creditor was the judgment creditor, who proved for £596, being the damages, costs, & interest on her judgment debt. Shortly before the petition was filed bkpt.'s family offered, in satisfaction of her judgment, £250, which she refused. The county ct. judge granted to bkpt. an order of discharge subject to his consenting to a judgment for £250 being entered up against him, such judgment to be deemed to be satisfied if bkpt. paid to the official receiver £200 within a month:—Held: (1) the facts & circumstances above-mentioned were part of the "conduct & affairs" of bkpt. which would be considered by the ct. under 1883 Act. s. 28 (2), & were sufficient to warrant the judge in drawing the inference that bkpt. would probably come into possession of property in the future, & had presented his petition in order to get rid of his creditor, & enjoy subsequently-acquired property without having to pay any portion of the debt; (2) the order was valid.—Re BARKER, Ex p. CONSTABLE, Re JONES, Ex p. JONES (1890), 25 Q. The county ct. judge granted bkpt.'s discharge subject to the condition that he should consent to judgment being entered against him for the amount of the unsecured debts & costs, such judgment to remain in force until the creditors who had proved or might prove should have been paid 5*s.* in the pound on their debts together with the unpaid costs, the amount to be paid by annual instalments of £75 until discharged. The county ct. judge granted bkpt. his discharge, on the terms that he should pay to the trustee in the bkpcy. £700 out of his earnings or income or any after-acquired property:—Held: the order of the county ct. judge must be modified, & there would be an order granting to bkpt. his discharge on consenting to judgment being entered against him in the terms of 1883 Act, s. 28 (6).—Re CLARKSON, Ex p. ALLESTREE, Re CLARKSON, Ex p. CLARKSON (1885), 2 Morr. 219, D. bkpt. his discharge, to make an order requiring such bkpt. to consent to judgment being entered against him for the balance of the provable debts under 1883 Act, s. 28 (6), unless it is shown that he has some expectation of coming into property in the future, which but for the order in question he would be able to enjoy without paying his debts.

On application by bkpt. for his discharge it was submitted as a reason why an unconditional order of discharge should not be granted, that bkpt. was entitled to a contingent interest in certain property under a marriage settlement executed in Scotland, which, by the law of that country, could not be touched by the creditors. It was also stated that bkpt. had failed to induce the trustees of the settlement to give up a certain policy of insurance on bkpt.'s life. The discharge of bkpt. was granted by the county ct. judge only on condition of his consenting to judgment being entered against him for the sum of £2,200:—Held: as by the law of Scotland bkpt. was entitled, notwithstanding his bkpcy., to enjoy what was given to him under the settlement deed, the ct. ought not to compel bkpt. indirectly, by requiring him to consent to judgment, to set aside for the creditors that which it could not compel him to hand over directly, & as beyond the settled property there was no ground to suppose that bkpt. would ever come into any after-acquired property, bkpt. was entitled to an unconditional discharge.—Re GOUD, Ex p. GOULE (1890), 63 L. 5273. —— —— For what amount.]—It was not the meaning of the Legislature in 1890 Act, s. 8 (2) (iv), to exclude any part of the creditors from the benefit of the judgment, but what was meant to be excluded was a part of the liability.

The ct. has power under the sub-sect. to order judgment to be entered for such part of any balance of the debts as in its discretion it may think right in the particular case, & it is not bound to enter judgment for the whole amount of the balance, or even for a sum sufficient to pay 10*s.* in the pound.

Bkpt.'s discharge was granted by the county ct. judge subject to his consenting to judgment being entered against him for the sum of £600. The liabilities of bkpt. were £4,185, & his assets £100, & the county ct. judge's order was appealed from by a creditor to the amount of £1,569, on the grounds (1) there was no jurisdiction to make the order, & (2) in any event the order made was too lenient:—Held: the county ct. judge had power to make the order, & there was no evidence to show that he had exercised his discretion so wrongfully as to justify the ct. in interfering with his decision.—Re RICHARDS, Ex p. EVANS (1893), 9 T. On bkpt.'s applying for his certificate the comr. suspended same for two years, & then it was to be of the third class, & to have annexed a condition that neither bkpt. nor his future property should be protected from liability in respect of the bills:—Held: there being no evidence of fraud or misrepresentation, bkpt. was entitled to a certificate of the second class, & such a condition was improper to be annexed to the certificate.—Re HAMMOND, Ex p. HAMMOND (1855), 6 De G. The discharge took effect as from Mar. 7, 1890, up to which date bkpt. paid the £4 a month, but subsequently refused to do so. Subsequently, application was made for the committal of bkpt. for non-payment under the order of Mar. 15, 1889, but the application was refused by the county ct. judge. The application was afterwards renewed, when an order was made by the judge declaring that bkpt. was still liable to continue the payments:—Held: the discharge of bkpt. having been suspended for nine months, the ct. had no power to direct the payments to be continued.—Re GOLD, Ex p. GOLD (1891), 8 Morr. 45.

5280. Review & appeals—Grounds for varying condition.]—Where an order of discharge has been granted subject to onerous conditions, & it appears that the creditors will benefit but slightly by the continuance of such conditions, while bkpt. will be thereby unduly oppressed, the ct. will venture to disregard the interest of the creditors & grant bkpt. an unconditional discharge.—Re DURNFORD, Ex p. DURNFORD (1895), 73 L. T. 583; 44 W. R. 272; 40 Sol. Jo. 158; 2 Mans. 521, D. C.

5281. —— —— Who should apply—Effect of failure to furnish accounts of earnings.]—Bkpt.'s discharge was granted on the condition of his consenting that judgment for £1,500 should be entered up against him, which was to be paid by annual instalments of £300 each. Bkpt. failed to pay the instalments, with the exception of the first, which was paid in 1902, instead of 1901, when it should have been paid. A relative then offered to pay £500 in satisfaction of the £1,200, which remained due. The creditors, by a majority, passed a resolution in favour of accepting the offer, & the trustee applied to the ct. for a variation of the previous order:—Held: (1) the application ought to have been made by bkpt. himself, & not by the trustee, but in the circumstances it might be treated as made by bkpt.; (2) although bkpt. had failed to furnish an account of his earnings & expenditure, the ct. would consider whether there was under 1890 Act, s. 8, "no reasonable probability" of bkpt. being able to comply with the terms of the conditional order of discharge, the conditions imposed in that order being intended for the benefit of the creditors, & on the evidence it was for their benefit that the offer should be accepted, & the application granted.—Re ROBERTS (JOHN) & CO., Ex p. BONZOLINE MANUFACTURING CO., [1904] 2 K. 5282. —— Under Bankruptcy (Discharge & Closure) Act, 1887 (c. 66).]—On an appeal against an order for conditional discharge, under the above Act, objection was taken that there was no right of appeal. The objection being withdrawn, the Div. Ct. in Bkpcy. heard the appeal.—Re WILLIAMS, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1888), 5 Morr. 162, D. C.

5283. —— Security for costs—Extension of time for entering appeal.]—Notice of appeal against a conditional order of discharge made by the registrar had been served by bkpt. on the trustee, but the appeal was not entered within twenty-one days of the signing of the order. An application by bkpt. that the usual deposit for security for costs of the appeal might be dispensed with, & that in case of necessity the time for entering the appeal might be extended, was refused with costs, the ct. remarking that merely serving notice of appeal was not bringing an appeal, but in the circumstances, it was ordered that the deposit might be made & the appeal entered within three days, the time for those matters being extended meanwhile.—Re DALLMEYER (1906), [1909] 1 K. 5284. —— Form of order—Repetition of original order.]—Where under 1890 Act, s. 8 (2) the ct. grants an order of discharge, conditionally upon bkpt. consenting to judgment being entered against him by the official receiver for a part of the unsatisfied balance of the debts provable in the bkpcy., & bkpt. refuses to consent, & the official receiver applies under 1886 to 1890 Rules, r. 240 (3), to have the order revoked, it is not competent for the ct., by repeating its former order, to suspend the discharge until bkpt. consents, but when the order is revoked, the ct. is not bound as the only alternative to make an order suspending the discharge of bkpt. for two years, but may make such order as it thinks fit.—Re GASKELL, [1904] 2 K. 5285. —— Costs of creditors served with notice of appeal—Official receiver or trustee appearing.]—Creditors served with notice of an appeal by bkpt. from an order granting him a conditional discharge, will not be allowed their costs of appearing on the hearing of the appeal, when the official receiver or trustee appears.—Re SALAMAN, Ex p. SALAMAN (1885), 14 Q. L. R. 588.—AUS.

Sect. 5.—The order: Sub-sects. 4, 5 & 6.]

bkpt. for his discharge, the ct. is satisfied that bkpt. has shown an incapacity to carry on his business in an ordinary & proper manner, as by not keeping proper books or not making out a balance sheet & so informing himself of his position, or that he has been guilty of similar offences which go to show that he is not a fit person in his present state of knowledge to be allowed to trade, a proper order for the ct. to make, instead of a simple suspension, is to refuse the discharge, with liberty to bkpt. to apply again at some future time, in order that on such second application he may have the opportunity of satisfying the ct. that he has acquired that knowledge of which he was before deficient.—Re FREEMAN, Ex p. FREEMAN (1890), 62 L. T. 367; 7 Morr. 38, D. C.

5289. —— Previous compositions—No satisfactory explanation.]—Bkpt. had paid 3*s.* 6*d.* in the pound under a former bkpcy., & had also compounded on two occasions with his creditors before his second bkpcy. He gave no satisfactory explanation of these circumstances:—Held: of themselves they rendered it improper to grant him a certificate which would do more than protect his person from arrest.—Re HOLLINGWORTH, Ex p. HOLLINGWORTH (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 44; 20 L. J. Bcy. 13; 17 L. T. O. S. 303; 15 Jur. 914; 64 E. R. 727.

5290. —— —— Falsification of books—Misconduct.]—Bkpt., who had twice before compounded with his creditors, made false & fraudulent entries in his books, consisting of fictitious accounts in particular names. He stopped payment, being at the time able to pay 12*s.* in the pound, & soon after offered 11*s.* in the pound. The ct. refused him his certificate & all protection, his conduct being unfair, untradesmanlike, & disreputable.—Re CURTIES, Ex p. CURTIES (1852), 2 De G. M. & G. 255; 21 L. J. Bcy. 53; 20 L. T. O. S. 121; 42 E. R. 870, L. JJ.

5291. —— —— Caused by misfortune.]—A trader, who was not engaged in any business, except as the owner of two small sailing vessels, kept no regular accounts. He contracted with a shipbuilder for the repair of one of the vessels, & the amount claimed for the repair was far beyond the contract price, by reason of some alterations alleged to be beyond the contract. Cross actions were brought, & settled by arbn. The trader left England in a feeling of irritation at the result of the proceedings, & was declared bkpt. on the petition of the shipbuilder. He had on a former occasion compounded with his creditors, paying them less than 15*s.* in the pound, but had been forced into that proceeding by misfortune:—Held: (1) bkpt.'s conduct in quitting England was highly censurable, but would be sufficiently punished by suspending his certificate for twelve months; (2) under 1849 Act, the ct. would not universally refuse a certificate protecting a bkpt.'s property, merely because he had on a former occasion compounded with his creditors, & paid less than 15*s.* in the pound.—Re HODGSON, Ex p. HODGSON (1853), 3 De G. M. & G. 547; 43 E. R. 215, L. JJ.

5292. —— Wilful falsehood & dishonesty.]—Where bkpt. had been guilty of wilful falsehood & dishonesty, the ct. refused to allow the certificate.—Re STRONG, Ex p. DOBSON & CONLEY (1855), 6 De G. M. & G. 781; 25 L. J. Bcy. 17; 2 Jur. N. S. 56; 43 E. R. 1436, L. JJ.

5293. —— ——.]—Where bkpt. had been guilty of gross falsehood, & had brought himself within Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), the order of discharge was refused altogether.—Re PEARCE (1887), 3 T. L. R. 365.

5294. —— Gross misconduct within 1883 Act, s. 28 (2).]—Although facts may not be absolutely proved which would under the above sub-sect. compel the ct. to refuse any discharge, yet where gross misconduct within the sub-sect. is shown on the part of bkpt., the ct. is perfectly justified in declining to grant a discharge upon conditions, & in making an order absolutely refusing to such bkpt. any discharge at all.—Re BADCOCK, Ex p. BADCOCK (1886), 3 Morr. 138, D. C.

5295. —— Offences under 1883 Act, s. 28 (3)—& other misconduct.]—Bkpt. had committed certain offences under the above sub-sect. He had also vexatiously taken up a fictitious residence away from where he carried on business, & there filed his own petition at a time when he knew that a creditor's petition had been filed against him, & had traded with spurious bills, & had requested his brother to put in a false proof for £7,000. The county ct. having refused bkpt. his discharge absolutely:—Held: the decision was correct.—Re COOK, Ex p. COOK (1889), 61 L. T. 335; 6 Morr. 224, D. C

5296. —— Felony "connected with bankruptcy."]—1890 Act. s. 8, was intended to extend the operation of 1883 Act, s. 28, to offences ejusdem generis with those defined in 1883 Act & Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62).

An offence "connected with bkpcy.," within 1890 Act, s. 8, is one in which the conviction is based on facts which resulted in or brought about bkpcy., or in which the conviction is based on misconduct by debtor committed as a bkpt., or in view of impending bkpcy.

Where a person embezzles money of his employer & subsequently becomes bkpt., the mere fact that the employer proves in the bkpcy. for the amount so embezzled does not cause the offence to be a felony "connected with the bkpcy." within s. 8.—Re HEDLEY, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE, [1895] 1 Q. J. Bcy. 16; 6 W. R. 385, L. C. & L. JJ.

5301. —— Ex parte application—Primâ facie grounds.]—An application made to the ct. by bkpt. for a review of an order refusing him his discharge ought not to be an ex p. application, & it ought to be made & decided upon by the ct. before the facts of the case are gone into.

On such application it is necessary that bkpt. should make out a primâ facie case, which the other side are not required to answer until the ct. has determined whether or not it will grant an order for review.

When the ct. comes to the conclusion that there are primâ facie grounds, which lead it to think that the former order ought to be reviewed, if the other side are dissatisfied, their proper course is to appeal at once from the determination to review the order, & not to wait until the order has been brought up for review before appealing.—Re LLOYD, Ex p. LLOYD (1889), 62 L. 5314. Grounds for rescission under former Acts—Fraud of debtor—Fabrication of debts—Fictitious creditors.]—Two years after bkpt. had obtained his certificate, it was discovered that the commission had been issued fraudulently by bkpt., that with his connivance debts had been fabricated & proved under the commission, & that by the preponderance of stances necessary to justify a comr. in making order for discharge must be set out. A general statement that debtor "had in all respects conformed himself to the provisions of the chapter" is insufficient.—CONNELL v. YERXA (1880), 19 N. B. R. 537.—CAN.

5308 iii. —— Debtor's signature to truth of disclosure & answers.]—An order under C. S., c. 38, s. 7, discharging debtor, should show on its face that debtor signed to the truth of his disclosure & answers.—Ex p. MARQUIS (1893), 32 N. B. R. 252—CAN.

5308 iv. —— Distribution of effects of bankrupt—Protection of person & goods.]—The final order under 8 Vict. c. 48, must be as well for the distribution of the effects of bkpt., as for protecting his person & goods from process.—FERRIE v. LOCKHART (1847), 4 U. C. R. 477.—CAN.

5308 v. —— Not that insolvent acted fairly towards creditors.]—Debtor was discharged in 1833, under India Insolvent Act, 1828 (c. 73), from liability to arrest, & afterwards applied to the ct. in India, under 4 & 5 Will. 4, c. 79, for a complete discharge:—Held: it was not necessary for the order to recite in the words of the latter Act that insolvent appeared to the ct. to have acted fairly & honestly towards his creditors.—Re GORDON (1860), 1 De G. 5313 i. Jurisdiction of court—Questions affecting validity of order.]—A judge in chambers will not in general entertain or enter into a question as to the validity of an order or discharge for insolvency in the nature of bkpt.'s certificate, under 19 & 20 Vict. c. 93, but will rather let the point be determined by way of audita querela.—SCHOFIELD v. BULL, 3 C. R. 130.—CAN.

w. Grounds for rescission—Indian 1847 Act, s. 56.]—An order under s. 47 of the above Act for the final discharge of insolvent once granted cannot be set aside, except upon the grounds specified in s. 56 of that Act.—Re DAYABHAI SARUPCHAND, Ex p. SORABJI BYRAMJI COLAH (1898), I. x. —— Fraud — On court.]—Semble: fraud in the proceedings before the judge might vitiate the order.—COLLINS v. BOYLE (1860), 4 All. 582.—CAN.

y. —— —— ——.]—The certificate of bkpt. obtained by imposition practised upon the great seal, will be revoked, if it will not prejudice persons subsequently dealing on the faith of it with bkpt.—Ex p. TALLIS (1810), 1 Rose, 371; 1 Ball & B. 321.—IR.

z. —— Fraudulent concealment of assets.]—A final order of discharge obtained by insolvent upon a deed of composition & discharge duly confirmed, will be vacated, on bill filed by a creditor, party to the insolvency proceedings, where such discharge has been obtained by a fraudulent concealment of assets.—MCGEE v. CAMPBELL (1882), 2 O. R. 130.—CAN.

a. —— ——.]—Where insolvent before the meeting of his creditors concealed a portion of his stock:—Held: his discharge was thereby avoided, & it was not the less a fraud because he had valued his assets at a sum sufficient to cover the goods so concealed.—MCLEAN v. MCLELLAN (1870), 29 U. C. R. 548.—CAN.

b. —— —— What assets.]—It appeared that among insolvent's assets was a sum received by him, or to which he had a claim, from a certain railway co. as compensation for services rendered as temporary acting president:—Held: insolvent was bound to return as an asset the portion of the compensation payable for services rendered up to the date of the assignment in insolvency, but not the remainder.—MCGEE v. CAMPBELL (1882), 2 O. See 1914 Act, s. 108 (1).

5315. —— —— Votes obtained by malpractice.]—When a resolution to discharge a liquidating debtor has been passed by the statutory majority & registered, the registration will be vacated, if it is shown that any one of the votes of the majority was obtained by a malpractice on the part of debtor, such as bribing the creditor to give his vote, even though, if the vote thus procured were struck off, the statutory majority in favour of the discharge would remain.—Re BAUM, Ex p. BAUM (1878), 7 Ch. D. 719; 47 L. J. Bcy. 48; 38 L. T. 367; 26 W. R. 568, C. A.

5316. —— Mere suspicion.]—The ct. will not, upon the ground of mere suspicion alone, entertain an application to rescind an order of discharge or annul the final examination, but, on the application of the assignee, it retained the petition of appeal for six weeks, to afford an opportunity for obtaining further evidence in support of it.—Re ANGERSTEIN, Ex p. BAILEY (1863), 8 L. T. 223; 9 Jur. N. S. 763, L. C.

5317. —— —— Fraud not established.]—On a petition to recall bkpt.'s certificate, upon the ground that bkpt., in order to induce the creditors to sign his certificate, had wilfully & fraudulently represented his estate to be of much greater value than it actually was, it appeared from the accounts that bkpt. had represented his estate to be of much greater value than it actually proved to be:—Held: although there were circumstances of suspicion, wilful misrepresentation had not been established, &, as in order to induce the ct. to recall a certificate, a clear case must be made out against bkpt., the petition would be dismissed.—Re FOULERTON, Ex p. HOOD (1822), 1 Gl. & J. 219.

5318. —— —— ——.]—All the creditors of H. except one, agreed to accept a composition, &, having the necessary majority, gave debtor his discharge. The dissentient creditor applied to the county ct. to have the order of discharge rescinded, on the grounds that it had been granted without proper care & from motives of benevolence. From the evidence it appeared that the creditors did not wish to see debtor ruined, but also that the main part of debtor's property consisted of an equity of redemption, which might have taken time to realise. The county ct. judge refused the application:—Held: no case of fraud had been proved, & applt. was not entitled to the order asked for.—Re HARPER, Ex p. LINSLEY (1874), 9 Ch. App. 290; 43 L. J. c. —— —— By one member of firm—Rescission as to that member only.]—A final order of discharge obtained by an insolvent firm, one of the members of which, C., had fraudulently concealed some of his private property, not the property of the partnership, was vacated as to the private estate of C. only.—MCGEE v. CAMPBELL (1882), 2 O. R. 130.—CAN.

d. —— Want of assets.]—In 1866 judgment was recovered against deft. in an action for breach of promise of marriage, & in another for seduction. Deft. then made an assignment under Insolvent Act, 1864, having no assets, & his only creditors being pltfs. in the two actions. No creditors appeared, & after twelve months he petitioned for his discharge. The application was duly advertised, & no opposition being made, was granted. He subsequently acquired some property, & execution was then issued in the breach of promise action:—Held: the want of assets at the time of making the assignment could not be set up on the application as a ground for avoiding the discharge, but as a matter for the consideration of the insolvent ct. upon the application therefor, & unless attacked for fraud it was a complete answer to pltf.'s claim.—FORRESTER v. THRASHER (1882), 9 P. R. 383; 2 O. R. 38.—CAN.

f. —— Omission to inform trustee of bequest.]—A wife bequeathed to her husband an annuity of £100 per annum, on the conditions that (1) he should survive her mother, who liferented her estate, (2) he should not become a bkpt., or assign charge, or encumber the annuity, or attempt to do so; (3) her trustees were to have the power to refuse or discontinue payment of the annuity at their discretion, & without assigning any reason. The husband became bkpt. during his wife's lifetime, & at the date of her death was still undischarged, but he obtained his discharge shortly after, without informing his trustee of the bequest of the annuity, which was still under the liferent:—Held: the omission of bkpt. to inform his trustee of the bequest did not, in consequence of the terms of the will, affect his discharge but such an omission in ordinary circumstances would have the effect of annulling a discharge.—TRAPPES v. GRAHAM (1871), 44 Sc. Jur. 25.—SCOT.

g. —— Surprise—Discharge obtained ex parte.]—Where an opposing creditor, being, without any default on his part, misled as to the time when insolvent's petition was to come on for hearing, failed to appear when the petition was called on, & insolvent obtained his discharge ex p., the appellate ct., on the ground that the opposing creditor had been taken by surprise, set aside the order of discharge & restored the case to the board. Semble: in the circumstances the comr. sitting in insolvency had no jurisdiction to set aside the order of discharge.—DVARKADAS LALUBHAI v. BLACKWELL (1872), 9 Bom. 319.—IND.

5324. Application to tax solicitor's bill of costs paid by trustee.]—Where a solr.'s bill of costs has been paid by a trustee, bkpt., when discharged, even though all the creditors have been paid in full & there is a surplus, is not "a party interested" within Solicitors Act, 1843 (c. 78), ss. 39, 40, at the time when the bill of costs was paid, so as to be entitled to an order for taxation, or to a copy of the bill of costs.—Re LEADBITTER (1878), 10 Ch. A. granted an annuity to B., & covenanted to charge it upon all such property as, in the event of C. dying before him, he might become possessed of at C.'s death, either by will or otherwise. 5323 iii. —— ——.]—In an action to recover a debt, deft. produced a certificate of his discharge as a bkpt.:—Held: it was not competent for pltf. to show irregularity in the proceedings in the Insolvent Ct., or to attack the discharge on the ground that deft. was not a trader, & not a legitimate subject of the jurisdiction exercised.—BEULAIR v. GILLIATT (1875), 9 N. 5323 v. —— —— Order alleged to be obtained by fraud.]—Where pltf. to a plea of discharge, under Insolvent Act, 1869, replied that the discharge had been obtained by fraud:—Held: the replication was good, & the trial judge had misdirected the jury in instructing them that the question of fraud was only for the ct. that confirmed the discharge, & could not be brought up except by appeal.—GODKIN v. BEECH (1876), 1 R. & C. 261.—CAN.

5323 vi. —— —— ——.]—In an action on a promissory note, with a plea of discharge under Insolvency Act, & replication that the discharge was obtained by fraud, inasmuch as deft. had concealed from the assignee certain promissory notes, it appeared from his own evidence that deft., several months before his assignment, which was voluntary, desiring to raise money on his farm, one-fifth of which belonged to his wife, the value of her interest not being stated, gave his wife at least $300 of notes of a third person, she otherwise refusing to consent to a mtge. of the farm. It further appeared that deft. had attempted to collect the notes, as he alleged, for his wife, & that the mtge. had been nearly paid off, but by what means was not shown:—Held: pltf. was entitled to recover.—GOLLOGHY v. GRAHAM (1872), 22 C. P. 226.—CAN.

5323 vii. —— —— ——.]—Held: fraud by bkpt. in obtaining his certificate might be given in evidence under the general form of plea allowed by 7 Vict. c. 10, s. 64.—PHILLIPS v. MASSON (1852), 9 U. C. R. 20.—CAN.

5323 viii. —— —— ——.]—Deft. pleaded in assumpsit, that he was discharged from the debt by the order of a judge under Insolvent Debtors Act, 21 Vict. c. 17. Replications that the order was obtained by fraud & concealment, & by giving undue preference to certain creditors:—Held: pltf. should have opposed deft.'s discharge before the judge under s. 14, & the replication was bad.—COLLINS v. BOYLE (1850), 4 All. 582.—CAN.

5323 ix. —— —— ——.]—To a plea of discharge, confirmed by the judge, pltf. replied a corrupt agreement between insolvent & D. & Co., parties to the deed of composition & discharge, that in consideration of executing it D. & Co. should receive an additional sum above the composition, for which insolvent gave them his note, & that pltf. & other creditors had no knowledge of such agreement until after the confirmation:—Held: a good answer, the confirmation not being made conclusive by the Act in such circumstances.—THOMPSON v. RUTHERFORD (1868), 27 U. C. R. 205.—CAN.

n. As discharge from actions—Whether confirmation required.]—The judge's order under the insolvent law need not be confirmed by the Ct. of Review to operate as a discharge from actions.—FERRIE v. LOCKHART (1848), 4 U. C. R. 477.—CAN.

o. —— —— Interlocutory judgment obtained before confirmation set aside.]—Though a certificate of bkpcy. be no discharge till confirmed, an interlocutory judgment entered before confirmation will be set aside to allow bkpt., to plead his certificate, or the ct. will relieve him by staying the execution of the fi. fa., on a proper application after judgment & execution issued.—COMMERCIAL BANK v. CULROSS (1847), 3 U. 5327. Debt specifically charged on after-acquired property.]—Declaration for entering pltf.'s premises & seizing goods of pltf. Plea, that by indenture pltf. assigned all his household goods, etc., on certain premises to deft., to secure the repayment of £52 lent by deft. to pltf., & it was agreed that, if the £52 were not repaid on the day named, & so long as any money should be secured or recoverable by virtue of the deed, deft. was to be at liberty to enter & take, & on default to sell the goods, & it was further agreed that, if, during the continuance of the security, pltf. should become possessed of any goods other than those already assigned, the same should in all respects be subject to the deed, & be seized & sold in the same manner as if they were, at the date of the deed, possessed by pltf. & duly assigned to deft. The plea then alleged that deft. seized the goods in the declaration mentioned by virtue of the above deed. Replication, that after the bill of sale, & before the seizing of the goods, pltf. filed a petition for liquidation of his affairs, which was duly carried out under 1869 Act, & that the goods were goods acquired by pltf. after the liquidation, & pltf. then held them freed & discharged from the bill of sale:—Held: the debt being released by virtue of the liquidation, the power in the deed to seize after-acquired property so long as the debt remained secured by the deed must fall with it.—THOMPSON v. COHEN (1872), L. R. 7 Q. B. 527; 41 L. J. B. Q. 221; 26 L. T. 693; 36 J. P. 822.

5328. —— Expectancy as next of kin.]—An assignment of mere expectancy as next of kin upon the death of a living person where the subject-matter of the assignment is definite, notwithstanding that the assignment is by way of mtge. to secure a debt, creates, not merely a personal liability on the mtgor. to transfer the property when the time comes, but an actual interest in the mtgee. as if he had been possessed of the property at the date of the assignment, & this interest is not affected by the subsequent bkpcy. & discharge of the mtgor.; & the mtgee. takes the property assigned, upon its becoming realised, in priority to a purchaser & assignee of the expectancy from the mtgor. under an assignment made before its realisation, but after the bkpcy. & discharge of the mtgor.—Re LIND, INDUSTRIALS FINANCE SYNDICATE, LTD. v. LIND, [1915] 2 Ch. 345; 84 L. 5329. General rule—Right of creditor to sue—Notwithstanding proof in liquidation—Extent of debtor's liability.]—After a liquidating debtor has obtained his discharge, a creditor, whose debt has been incurred by means of fraud, is entitled to sue debtor at law for the amount of the debt, notwithstanding that the liquidation is not closed, & that he has proved the debt in the liquidation; the Ct. of Bkpcy. will not, in such a case, restrain the action. If the creditor has received any dividends in the liquidation, debtor will only remain liable for the unpaid balance of the debt.—Re CHATTERTON, Ex p. HEMMING (1879), 13 Ch. D. 163; 49 L. J. 5330. —— —— Judgment given pending liquidation—Enforceable after discharge only.]—A liquidating debtor was sued, while the liquidation was still pending, on a debt incurred by him by fraud prior to the commencement of the liquidation proceedings:—Held: the ct. had jurisdiction to give judgment against him before his discharge, but the judgment should be ordered not to be enforced against him until after discharge obtained, or until further order, liberty being given to pltf. to apply in case of debtor unduly delaying to apply for his discharge.—ROSS v. GUTTERIDGE (1882), 52 L. 5331. Solicitor receiving money for client—Receipt in proper character of solicitor.]—The ct. will not compel an attorney to pay a sum of money he has received in his character of attorney, he having after the receipt of the money become bkpt., & obtained his certificate.—Ex p. CULLIFORD v. WARREN (1828), 8 B. & C. 220; 6 L. 5332. —— —— Fraud must be clear & notified.]—Where an attorney has received money to the use of his client, & not accounted for it, & has afterwards become bkpt. & obtained his certificate, the ct. will not, on motion, order him to repay the money so received, the amount being a debt barred by the certificate; but if the attorney committed fraud in the receiving & not accounting, the ct., in the exercise of its general jurisdiction over its officer, will enforce such payment, as a modification of the punishment which it might otherwise inflict for his misconduct. The case of fraud, however, ought to be clear, & the attorney should have notice by the form of the rule, that the application is of a penal nature. It is not enough to call upon him to show cause why he should not pay over the money.—Re BONNER (1833), 4 B. & Ad. 811; 1 Nev.& M. K. B. 555; 110 E. R. 661.

The stock was sold out, & the proceeds received & held by the attorney, he paying interest on the amount to the legatee, who did not know that the money had not been reinvested. Inquiries being afterwards made, he admitted that he had not reinvested the sum, but promised that he would do so, & proposed a mtge., which was thought sufficient, on property of his own. No further satisfaction being offered, the legatee moved the ct. against him, & a rule was made, by consent, ordering that he should reinvest the money in stock, on or before June 24 then next, & pay costs, &, on default, that an attachment should issue against him. The money was not reinvested, nor costs paid, & on June 25 a fiat in bkpcy. issued against the attorney, who, in Oct., obtained his certificate. The rule & allocatur were served, & the costs demanded, in Aug. On motion made afterwards for an attachment pursuant to the above rule:—Held: in the circumstances, the certificate was no answer to the application, & the attachment might issue.—Re NEWBERY (1835), 4 Ad. & El. 100; 1 Har. & W. 575; 5 Nev. & M. 5334. Solicitor bringing action without authority—Liability to pay costs.]—An attorney, having brought an action without any authority to do so from pltf., was ordered to pay deft.'s costs of the action:—Held: his liability to pay such costs was a liability incurred by means of a fraud within 1869 Act, s. 49, & an order of discharge in bkpcy. did not discharge from such a liability.—JENKINS v. FEREDAY (1872), L. 5335. Breach of trust—Fraud of company promoter.]—Under a secret agreement between the vendors of a mine & G., a financial agent who was promoting & afterwards formed a co. for its purchase, G. received from the vendors part of the purchase-money without the knowledge of the co. In an action by the co. to make G. liable for the amount of the secret profit he had so made, a specific sum was found due from him to the co. upon that footing. G. then presented a petition for liquidation, & his creditors passed a resolution for liquidation of his affairs by arrangement; a trustee was appointed of his estate, & he obtained his certificate of discharge:—Held: the debt due from G. was incurred by "fraud" & also "breach of trust" within 1869 Act, s. 49, & G. was not released from such debt by his discharge, but must personally pay the debt to the co., or so much thereof as should not be received by the co. under the liquidation.—EMMA SILVER MINING CO. v. GRANT (1880), 17 Ch. 5336. —— Misfeasance by company director.]—A co. had, by action brought in 1880, made R., one of its directors, personally liable for certain loans of the co.'s money, which were improper loans, & had been lost to the co. R. sued his co-directors for contribution in respect of the sums he had been compelled to pay in the action. E., a director, who was managing director & present at both of the meetings sanctioning the loans in question, went into liquidation in 1879, & received his discharge:—Held: there was a liability "incurred by means of a breach of trust" within 1869 Act, s. 49, & E. was not discharged from his liability to contribute in respect of the loans.—RAMSKILL v. EDWARDS (1885), 31 Ch. Before that time deft. became insolvent, & presented his petition to be discharged, & in his schedule delivered into the Insolvent Debtors Ct., he stated that he was

Plea, a discharge of the acceptor under Insolvent Debtors Act. In support of the plea, deft. put in his sched., which contained the following description of the original debt:—"A. Debt £30; £20 money lent, £10 clothes. I gave my acceptance to a bill drawn by him, Feb. 16, 1849, at thirty-five days." No mention was made of pltfs. as holders of the bill, nor was there any allegation that the holders were unknown:—Held: the adjudication under the Act was no discharge as to the claim of E. upon the bill, under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 75. Semble: the description of the debt was not a full & true description under s. 69.—LAMBERT v. SMITH (1851), 11 C. S., residing in England, & the bills were indorsed by deft., & transmitted to pltf. Deft. afterwards becoming insolvent, petitioned the Insolvent Ct. in India, & described the debt on the bills of exchange in his schedule as follows:—"Creditor, A. M. S., for the following bills of exchange (describing them), drawn by us upon R. in favour of M. S." A person of the name of A. M. S. resided at Calcutta, but it was not shown that he was in any way connected with the bills. In an action by M. S. upon the bills:—Held: deft.'s description of pltf.'s debt in his schedule was insufficient within Indian 1847 Act, & deft. was liable on the bills.—SYMONS v. MAY (1851), 6 Exch. 707; 155 E. R. 729.—IND.

a. —— Misdescription of payee of note.]—Defts. were sued on a promissory note made to the solrs. of pltf. & by them indorsed to pltf. They pleaded a discharge under 1869 Act. Two defts. produced a supplementary list of creditors alleged to have been filed a few days before the date of the discharge, which list did not give the residence of the parties scheduled or state the nature of the debt, or whether direct or indirect, but was simply a bald statement of names & amounts, & it was not shown that any schedule to which it professed to be supplementary had ever been filed in the manner required by the Act. Third deft. produced no schedule, but stated that he had sent it to his solr. to be filed. There was no proof that the solr. had received it or that it had been filed; & it was shown that the debt had been scheduled as due to the solrs. instead of being scheduled as due to pltf.:—Held: the discharge in insolvency did not release the claim.—KNAUT v. SPONAGLE (1883), 4 R. & G. 193.—CAN.

b. —— Insufficient description of note—How correctly described.]—Pltf. sued on a note made by deft. to John T. Fraser for $70.86 & indorsed to him. Deft. pleaded a discharge in insolvency. The schedule contained the following:—"John T. Fraser's note $72.60.":—Held: the schedule did not sufficiently describe the note, which being negotiable should have been scheduled as "negotiable paper, the holder of which is unknown."—HUTT v. SUTHERLAND (1881), 2 R. & G. 191; 1 C. L. T. 664.—CAN.

d. —— Misdescription of executor.]—Deft., to an action brought by the exor. & extrix. of J., upon a bill of exchange made by deft. to deceased, pleaded a discharge under Insolvent Act. In his schedule the following item in reference to the debt in question appeared: "No. 19, J., solr., Belfast, exor. of J., late of Belfast, cattle dealer, deceased." That person was not the exor., but the judge admitted evidence to show that deft. had used the best means in his power to ascertain who the personal representatives of J., deceased, were, & it appeared that he had only received hearsay evidence that J., son of deceased, was his exor., & that although he had employed an attorney to prepare his schedule, & was aware that wills were proved in the Prerogative Ct., he had not directed his attorney, or any other person, to search there for the purpose of ascertaining who was the personal representative of deceased:—Held: the description in the schedule was insufficient.—DINNEN v. JAMES (1863), 7 Ir. Jur. 28.—IR.

f. —— Omission to enter amount of debt.]—Where deft. pleaded a discharge in insolvency, & the note sued on, of which pltf. was indorsee, had been included in the amount scheduled as the claim of the original payee, but no particulars of it were given as provided by 1875 Act, s. 61, pltf.'s name appearing in the schedule but no amount being set opposite, judgment for pltf. was sustained.—DE WOLF v. NEILLY (1879), 1 R. & G. 243.—CAN.

g. —— —— Claim for balance of costs.]—To an action for attorney's costs deft. pleaded his discharge under 1864 Act, alleging that pltf.'s name & residence, with a statement of deft.'s indebtedness to him being for a balance of costs in two suits specified, were stated in his schedule filed, & that he was not aware before obtaining his discharge of the exact amount of such indebtedness. Pltf. replied that his name was not mentioned in the schedule for any sum or amount whatever:—Held: the debt due to pltf. was, in the circumstances, sufficiently stated in the schedule.

The Act is substantially complied with if the debt is set out in such a manner as cannot mislead, & leaves no doubt as to the debt referred to, & the amount is capable of being ascertained by the creditor.—CAMERON v. HOLLAND (1870), 29 U. C. R. 506.—CAN.

k. —— Approximate amount of debt entered.]—To an action on a promissory note, deft. pleaded a discharge under 1875 Act. l. —— Entry of part of debt—Omission to enter note given for same.]—Pltf. took deft.'s note for advances made, for £366, on Mar. 10 at three months. On the 19th deft. obtained his final order for discharge under 8 Vict. c. 48, pltf. being mentioned in his schedule as a creditor for £150:—Held: the order was not a bar to the note, even as to the £150, if included in it.—GREENWOOD v. FARRELL (1859), 17 U. C. R. 498.—CAN.

5345. —— —— Misdescription unintentional & not likely to deceive.]—In an action against an acceptor of a bill of exchange, who pleaded his discharge under Insolvent Debtors Act:—Held: the description in the sched. of a bill, as drawn by deft. & accepted by A., who was in fact the drawer of the bill sued on, & held by C., an indorser on the bill, for the precise sum & of nearly the same date as the bill sued on, was a sufficient description for the discharge of deft., the misdescription of the bill not being intended, nor likely to deceive the holder.—NIAS v. NICHOLSON (1825), 2 C. & P. 120; Ry. & M. 322.

Deft. afterwards petitioned the Insolvent Ct., under Execution Act, 1844 (c. 96), & named in his sched. as creditors, the representatives of W., who was dead, with the following description:—"Amount of debt, £30.—These creditors hold a bill of exchange drawn by self & partner, & afterwards renewed by self." Deft. obtained a final order for protection, & the indorsees of the bill afterwards sued him for the amount:—Held: the bill was not set forth in the sched., as required by s. 22, & deft. was not discharged from the debt.—KEMP v. HURRY (1855), 11 Exch. 47; 24 L. 5348. —— Entry of debt but not note given for same.]—A. being indebted to B. & C. in two sums amounting to £80, gave them a promissory note for £80. Shortly afterwards he took the benefit of Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), but his schedule did not set forth the note so given, though the original debt to B. & C. was inserted:—Held: A. was not discharged from the note, as it was not specified in the schedule.—CARR v. KIRKWRIGHT (1852), 19 L. 5349. Effect of inserting name of holder of bill.]—An insolvent debtor, who inserts in his schedule the name of the holder of a bill of exchange on which he is liable, or gives such other description of it as satisfies Insolvent Debtors Act, 1826 (c. 57), is discharged as to all the parties to the bill, although they are not named in the schedule, & also as to the original debt for which it was a security.—BOYDELL v. CHAMPNEYS (1837), 2 M. & W. 433; Murp. & H. 84; 6 L. n. —— Entry of amount paid upon calls—Liability for unpaid calls—Change of plaintiffs' name.]—Pltfs. sued deft., as a shareholder in their bank for calls, & deft. pleaded his discharge under 1869 & 1875 Acts, the assignment having been made under the former, & the deed of composition & discharge filed under the latter, Act. The only mention of pltfs.' claim in deft.'s statement of affairs & schedule was this entry in the statement of assets, "25 shares St. Lawrence Bank stock; amount paid up $500" (the pltfs.' name having been changed from St. Lawrence Bank):—Held: pltfs.' claim was discharged.—STANDARD BANK OF CANADA v. JOHNSON (1877), 42 U. o. Effect of omitting to enter debt.]—Plea to a promissory note, an absolute discharge duly obtained under 1864 Act. Replication, that pltf.'s name, as a creditor, & the note & cause of action, were not mentioned in deft.'s schedule annexed to his assignment, nor in any supplementary schedule, as required by law, & the debt was never proved against the estate:—Held: (1) the replication was good; (2) the effect of the discharge obtained under the Act by insolvent, was limited to the debts & causes of action set forth in his schedule, either originally or by supplement.—KING v. SMITH (1869), 19 C. P. 319.—CAN.

q. ——.]—A creditor whose debt has not been included in the scheduled debts, is entitled to proceed with the execution of his decree against insolvent's property, notwithstanding his discharge.—ASHRAFUDDIN AHMED v. BEPIN BEHARI MULLIK (1902), I. L. R. 30 Calc. 407.—IND.

r. —— Debt due on I. O. U.]—Civil bill in assumpsit on an I. O. U., signed by deft., who was subsequently discharged as an insolvent debtor. Deft. had returned in his schedule other debts due by him to pltf., but had not returned the amount due by him on foot of the I. O. U His discharge had been opposed by pltf. upon grounds connected with the debts specified in the schedule, but no opposition was made by pltf. in relation to the debt due on foot of the I. O. U., nor did he make any objection as to its not having been inserted in the schedule:—Held: the discharge of deft. operated as a discharge, as well from the debts specified in the schedule, as from the debt due on foot of the I. O. U.—TRACY v. MALCOLMSON (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 197.—IR.

s. —— Debt due under chattel mortgage.]—Pltf., the holder of a chattel mtge. with a covenant for payment, was not scheduled in proceedings in insolvency under 1875 Act, but he was aware of the proceedings, & insolvent obtained a final discharge:—Held: the debt under the chattel mtge. was not extinguished.—BEATY v. SAMUEL (1881), 29 Gr. 105.—CAN.

t. —— Distinguished from "omission, mistake or misdescription"—Irish 1857 Act, s. 232.]—An insolvent is only discharged under Irish Bkpcy. & Insolvency Act, 1857, c. 60, s. 212, from the debts returned on his schedule. The "omission, mistake, or misdescription," in an insolvent's schedule, which is cured by s. 232, is an omission, mistake, or misdescription, of something in the description of a debt which is returned on an insolvent's schedule.

Where A., who became insolvent in 1861, at the time of his insolvency was indebted to B. in an ascertained sum, on a running account from 1856 to 1859, & returned such debt on his schedule, & was also indebted to B. in an unascertained sum, on a running account from 1859 to 1861, & did not return or refer to such debt on his schedule, & stated that he did not intend to return it:—Held: an omission of a debt from the schedule, & not such a "mistake, omission, or misdescription," as could be cured by the above sect., & A. was not released from the debt.—DARLEY v. M'DONNELL (1868), I. R. 3 C. L. 260.—IR.

u. —— Trader's debt.]—Deft., who had taken the benefit of Insolvent Act, was sued by pltf. for a debt contracted previously to his insolvency, the debt not having been entered in insolvent's sched. at the time of his final discharge:—Held: insolvent being a trader, under s. 60 of the Act, taken in connection with 5 & 6 Vict., c. 122, the discharge was good & valid.—BRETT v. SCHONERSTEDT (1864), 2 Hyde, 1.—IND.

5350. Effect of omitting creditor's name—Creditor without notice of liquidation.]—The certificate of discharge of a liquidating debtor is a good answer to a claim in respect of a debt due before the discharge, though the creditor's name was omitted from debtor's statement, & though he had no notice of the proceedings in liquidation.—HEATHER & SON v. WEBB (1876), 2 C. 5350 i. Effect of omitting creditor's name—Claim entered under special name.]—To an action of covenant in a mtge. to pay money, deft. pleaded that, becoming insolvent after execution of the mtge., he made an assignment; that pltf.'s claim was known as that of the "Wood Estate," & was so described in the schedule submitted to the assignee & creditors, that pltf. resided abroad, & was represented in Canada by M., who had notice of the appointment of the assignee, that on the expiry of a year deft. obtained his discharge absolutely, by which he was discharged from pltf.'s claim. Replication, that the order for discharge was made before Sept. 1, 1869, & that pltf.'s name was not mentioned as creditor in any schedule, & his claim was never proved against deft.'s estate. Rejoinder, that pltf.'s claim was known as that of the "Wood Estate" (pltf. representing & being entitled to such estate) & was so entered in the schedule filed by deft. with the assignee, & that pltf. was represented by M., who had notice, etc.:—Held : rejoinder good.—FARRELL v. O'NEILL (1871), 22 C. 5365 ii. —— Liability for calls.]—A shareholder in a limited co., the shares of which were only partly paid up, was sequestrated, but in 1885 was discharged, on payment of a composition "of all debts & obligations contracted by him, or for which he was liable at the date of the sequestration," & reinvested in his estate. The co. did not claim in the sequestration. In 1887 the shareholder, for the first time, requested the co. to remove his name from their register, on the ground that his estate had been sequestrated, but the co. refused to do so, & subsequently made a call upon him in respect of his shares. In a petition at his instance, to have his name removed from the register, on the ground that the amount unpaid on his shares was a debt for which he was liable at the date of the sequestration, the ct. refused the prayer.—TAYLOR v. UNION HERITABLE SECURITIES CO. 5365 iii. —— ——.]—Defender was a shareholder in a co., which went into liquidation in 1896, but, the liquidation being stayed, resumed business in Feb. 1901. Defender had been sequestrated in Dec., 1894, but was discharged in Dec. 1895 under a deed of arrangement made under Scottish 1856 Act, by which he provided a certain sum to be divided among his creditors & was in return discharged of all debts or obligations contracted by him, or for which he was liable at the date of the sequestration. The co. had in 1894 & 1895 made calls upon defender in respect of his shares & had ranked in his sequestration for those whichwere unpaid & obtained dividend. Subsequent to his discharge, further calls were made, & the co. sued to enforce their payment. The winding up under the deed of arrangement was still incomplete at the date of the action:—Held: the winding up under the deed of arrangement was for the present purpose just a continuance of the sequestration, & as the co.'s claim was such as could have ranked in the sequestration proper, or the winding up under the deed of arrangement, it was excluded by the discharge granted under the deed of arrangement.—CRESWELL RANCHE & CATTLE CO., LTD. v. BALFOUR MELVILLE (1901), 9 S. 5370. —— Of action where original debt barred by discharge—Release from imprisonment.]—The costs of proceedings in an action upon contract, which for want of a previous verdict are not provable under the bkpcy., & where the original debt is barred by the order of discharge, are also barred.

Where the original debt is provable under the bkpcy., & barred by the order of discharge, & bkpt. is in custody for the costs of an action brought after the bkpcy. in respect of the original debt, he is entitled to his release immediately upon obtaining his order of discharge under 1861 Act, s. 162, unless good reason be shown to the contrary. PART XVIII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 5.

l. On right to defeat voluntary settlement.]—A. having made a voluntary settlement of land under Transfer of Land Statute (No. 301) became insolvent, & after a composition with his creditors under Insolvency Statute, 1871, s. 129, his estate was revested in him under s. 131. Being indebted to pltf., & requiring from him a further sum, he executed a deed reciting the voluntary settlement, & falsely reciting an agreement with pltf. to sell to him the land for the amount of the debt & further advance, & executed also a transfer to him, which the Office of Titles refused to register. On bill filed by pltf.:—Held: (1) the effect of ss. 129 & 131, was to revest in A. the same right to defeat the settlement as he would have had if no insolvency had occurred; (2) notwithstanding the false recital, there being a clear debt due to pltf., the settlement should be defeated to the extent of a mtge. to him for that amount.—MOSS v. WILLIAMSON (1877), 3 V. 5385. ——.]—The incumbent of a benefice having been adjudged bkpt., a sequestration of the profits of the benefice was granted by the bishop of the diocese, who appointed a sequestrator of the benefice. Subsequently an order was made in the bkpcy. discharging bkpt., & he applied by petition to the Consist. Ct. of the diocese praying the ct. to relax the sequestration, & to direct the discharge of the sequestrator. The trustee in the bkpcy. opposed the application, & objected that the debts provable in the bkpcy. still remained in part unsatisfied:—Held: the relaxation of the sequestration & the discharge of the sequestrator must be refused, as the Ecclesiastical Ct. had no jurisdiction to determine the question whether the discharge of bkpt. acted as a satisfaction of the sequestration.—Re LAWRENCE, [1896] P. 244.

5386. ——.]—On the application of the trustee in bkpcy. of a beneficed clergyman of the Church of England the bishop of the diocese issued a sequestration of the income of the living, by virtue of which a portion was paid to debtor while performing the duties of the benefice under order of the bishop, & the residue, after paying thereout the costs & expenses of the sequestration, was handed over to his trustee in bkpcy. Subsequently debtor obtained an order of discharge, the whole of his property available for dividend, other than the money obtained by means of sequestration, having been realised & distributed, but the sequestration was not relaxed by the bishop, the trustee in bkpcy. having refused to take any steps to obtain the relaxation, on the ground that the bkpcy. had not been closed, that a dividend of only 8*s.* 9*d.* in the pound had been paid, & that the sequestration ought not to be relaxed until the whole of the debts were satisfied. In an action by debtor against the trustee in bkpcy. for an injunction to restrain him from receiving the residue of the income of the benefice, a declaration that debtor was entitled after his discharge to receive the income, & an order on the trustee in bkpcy. to take steps to obtain the relaxation of the sequestration:—Held: the order of discharge did not entitled debtor to the income of his benefice, & the action must be dismissed.—LAWRENCE v. ADAMS (1896), 75 L. T. 410.

5387. On wife's right to maintenance under separation deed—Right of wife to take proceedings for restitution.]—The annual sum payable to a wife under a separation deed being provable in the husband's bkpcy., but no action being maintainable against the husband, after he has obtained his discharge, under his covenant to pay the allowance specified in the deed, the deed is no bar to proceedings for restitution of conjugal rights subsequently instituted by the wife.

The very foundation of the deed is the obligation to maintain the wife & child, & the essence of the agreement is that the contributions shall be kept up (EVANS, P.).—MCQUIBAN v. MCQUIBAN, [1913] P. 208; 83 L. J. P. 19; 109 L. T. 412; 29 T. L. R. 766.

5392. Will not revive old debt.]—In 1859 W. became insolvent & obtained his discharge. Deft. was at the time a scheduled creditor for £200. In 1865 W. gave to deft. a bill of sale on his furniture & effects to cover the prior debt of £200 & further advances with interest at 5 per cent. Sundry payments were made by W., who was charged 15 per cent. interest, & the amount due, apart from the £200, was reduced to £38. In Feb., 1867, W. gave deft. a note of hand for £100. Deft. then seized under the bill of sale & sold the furniture & effects for £121, paying thereout £40 due to the landlord. W. became bkpt. in Oct., 1867, & pltf. was the creditors' assignee:—Held: the £200, due prior to the insolvency could not be revived, & the £121 realised by the sale must be refunded.—PEAKMAN v. HARRISON (1872), L. Pltf. proved against his estate as one of his creditors, but received no dividend, & deft. subsequently got his discharge in the liquidation proceedings. Deft. afterwards promised pltf. to pay him the old debt, if he would continue to supply him with goods on credit, & pltf. supplied the goods:—Held: such a promise was binding, & pltf. could successfully maintain an action to recover the amount of the old debt, notwithstanding the discharge in the liquidation proceedings.—JAKEMAN v. COOK (1878), 4 Ex. 5396. —— Except where no new consideration necessary under foreign law.]—An Italian subject trading in England became bkpt. in 1897, & obtained his discharge in 1901. At the date of his bkpcy. he was indebted to a creditor, also an Italian subject, but that debt was not disclosed in the bkpcy. proceedings, of which the creditor was unaware. In 1906 debtor signed a document (privata scrittura) in Italian form, whereby he acknowledged to the creditor the amount of the debt and undertook to pay it off within five years with interest. In Mar., 1908, debtor died, & in an action to administer his estate in England the creditor claimed to prove for the amount of the debt. According to Italian law no consideration was necessary to support a promise to pay the old debt, there being a moral obliation to pay which, by the execution of the privata scrittura, was converted into a valid legal obligation:—Held: the privata scrittura constituted a new & enforceable contract entered into after the discharge, & the claim was not barred by 1883 Act, s. 30 (3).—Re BONACINA, LE BRASSEUR v. BONACINA, [1912] 2 Ch. 394; 81 L. 5397. Time at which made—Discharge suspended as to particular debt—Warrant of attorney given to obtain release from custody.]—Insolvent, who was adjudged to be discharged forthwith as to all his debts except his debt to A., & as to that debt, after he should have remained in custody twenty months, in order to obtain A.'s consent to his release from custody during the period gave A. a warrant of attorney to secure to A. the payment of his debt by instalments:—Held: the warrant of attorney although given before the time that insolvent was entitled to his discharge, was invalid & might be set aside before the twenty months had expired as Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 91, avoided any new security, given after adjudication, to secure to a creditor payment of his original debt.—HUMPHRIES v. SMITH (1853), 22 L. J. Q. B. 121.

5398. —— Before composition completed.]—It is only after a composition has been fully worked out & paid, that debtor is in the position of a discharged bkpt., so as to enable him for a new consideration to enter into a binding contract to pay in full the debt of one of the creditors bound by the resolutions to accept a composition. Such an agreement entered into before completion of the composition is in contravention of good faith & the spirit of the bkpcy. laws, & void.—Re ANDREWS, Ex p. BARROW (1881), 18 Ch. 5394 i. Invalid—Except where new consideration.]—In 1869 deft. effected a policy of insurance on his life, as a security for a debt of £700 due to pltf. In 1870 deft. was adjudged a bkpt. in England, a composition on his debts, including the £700, being accepted & approved by the ct. In 1872 deft. agreed to effect a new policy of insurance with another co. as a security to pltf. for the £700 & £70 paid by pltf. to keep the former policy alive, & undertook & guaranteed to pay pltf. the amount of any premiums to be paid by him on the new policy, with interest. The new policy was effected, & pltf. paid certain premiums thereon to keep same alive. In an action to recover the amount thereon as money paid at deft.'s request, deft. pleaded his bkpcy., & that there was no consideration for the undertaking & guarantee of 1872:—Held: pltf. was entitled to recover, there having been a wholly new contract entered into subsequent to the bkpcy., for which reason English 1869 Act, s. 49, did not apply.—JOHNSTONE v. O'DONOGHUE (1881), 15 I. SUB-SECT. 2.—BEFORE BANKRUPTCY LAW CONSOLIDATION ACT, 1849 (c. 106).

A. Effect of Promise.

5401. Revives creditor's right to sue—Bankrupt liable to arrest.]—Bkpt., who has obtained his certificate, if he afterwards promises to pay a creditor a debt due from him before his bkpcy., revives the creditor's right to sue him, & he may be arrested on such promise.—DREW v. JEFFERIES (1786), 8 Price, 531 ; 146 E. R. 1286.

Annotation :—Refd. Blackbourn v. Ogle (1820), 8 Price, 526.

5402. —— Bankrupt liable to be held to bail.]—If debtor, who has become bkpt. & obtained his certificate, makes a promise afterwards to a creditor to pay him at a future day the debt which was due to him before the bkpcy., he not only revives the debt, & thereby renders himself liable to be sued for its recovery, but he may be held to bail in an action against him, founded on the demand so revived by the subsequent promise, because as it becomes a good debt, recoverable at law, it must have all the incidents of a legal debt, & all the ordinary modes of proceeding to recover it are open to the creditor.—BLACKBOURN v. OGLE (1820), 8 Price, 526 ; 146 E. 5403. Notes indorsed for purpose—Liability of bankrupt thereon.]—Bkpt. having promised, after his bkpcy., & before certificate, to pay a debt due before the bkpcy., indorsed to pltf. two promissory notes for that purpose :—Held : his certificate was no bar to an action on the notes.—BRIX v. BRAHAM (1823), 1 Bing. 281 ; 8 Moore, C. 5404. Agreement to deliver goods in satisfaction—Whether debt revived.]—A promise by bkpt. to deliver goods in satisfaction of a debt due by him before his bkpcy. is not such a promise to pay the debt, as will revive it after certificate.—TATTLE v. GRIMWOOD (1826), 3 Bing. 493 ; 11 Moore, C. B. Sufficiency of Promise.

5406. Must be in precise & positive terms.]—To bind bkpt. by a new promise to pay, subsequent to his bkpcy., it must be a precise & positive promise to pltf., & not given in general terms that he would pay everybody 20*s.* in the pound.—LYNBUY v. WEIGHTMAN (1805), 5 Esp. 198, N. P.

Annotation :—Refd. Kirkpatrick v. Tattersall (1845), 14 L. J. Ex. 209.

5409. ——.]—A subsequent promise to pay a debt, from which the party has been discharged by operation of the bkpt. & insolvent laws, must be explicit & distinct, or it will not be sufficient to support an action of assumpsit against a debtor so discharged by act of law. A verdict for pltf., obtained upon a constructive promise, or a promise by implication, was set aside & entered for deft., although the judge, who tried the cause, had left the question of fact of promise or no promise to pay to the jury.—BROOK v. WOOD (1824), 13 Price, 667 ; 147 E. R. 1117.

5410. Sufficiency of evidence—Letters from bankrupt.]—A., having become bkpt. in Aug., 1819, wrote, in Nov., 1826, a letter to B., in which he spoke of a debt of £98 15*s.* due from him to B., & wrote : " By the end of next month I shall have my banker's account here, & I shall remit the sum due to you in a draft on them." In indebitatus assumpsit by B. against A. for the sums mentioned :—Held : the letter contained a sufficient promise to answer a plea of bkpcy., & to render the plea of bkpcy. applicable to the case, it must be shown that the debt existed prior to the bkpcy.—LANG v. MACKENZIE (1830), 4 C. & P. 463, N. P.

5411. —— ——.]—In an action for not replacing stock :—Held : a letter written by bkpt., in which he said, " you may rely on the dividends being paid regularly until liquidated," was not sufficient evidence of a promise to replace the stock, &, as a lease had been deposited with pltf., fully adequate to pay the amount of the dividends, it was not even a sufficiently clear promise to pay the dividends, so as to make bkpt. liable to an action.—HAWES v. MARSH (1831), 1 L. J. K. B. 41.

5412. —— ——.]—On a plea of no consideration to an action by the drawer against the acceptor of a bill of exchange, the bill bearing date immediately after deft.'s bkpcy. & certificate, pltf. produced a letter from deft. to himself, expressing deft.'s gratitude to pltf., who was an attorney, for procuring deft.'s certificate & helping him through

Judgment was afterwards entered on the warrant by them, & assigned to new trustees on the old trusts, by a deed to which A. was a party :—Held : this was in the nature of a new obligation, & the judgment was an available security.—BALL v. BALL & CURTIS (1847), 11 I. his bkpcy.:—Semble: it was sufficient evidence of a consideration to raise a new promise for payment of debts due previous to the bkpcy.—YOUNGE v. FISHER (1843), 7 Jur. 69.

5413. —— ——.]—On an issue whether deft., a certificated bkpt., had given a written promise signed by him after his bkpcy., so as, under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 131, to revive a claim barred by the certificate, the following letter was produced, written by him:—"Mr. S. begs to inform" pltfs. "that he will take an early opportunity of settling their account, but Mr. S. objects to give his bill. Mr. S. regrets that he has been prevented from answering" pltfs.' "letter before." Evidence of the amount due was given:—Held: the letter was a sufficient promise, notice having been given to deft. to produce the letter of pltfs. referred to, which had not been done, though two other letters, written by deft. about the same time, were produced by pltfs., in one of which deft., promised to discharge pltfs.' account as soon as he could, & in the other said he would give a promissory note, & it did not appear in what order of time the three were written.—LOBB & KNIGHT v. STANLEY (1844), 5 Q. B. 574; 1 Dav. & Mer. 635; 13 L. J. Q. B. 117; 2 L. T. O. S. 366; 8 Jur. 462; 114 E. R. 1366.

5414. Time at which made—Immaterial whether before or after certificate.]—There is no difference between a promise to pay a debt due before bkpcy. by instalments at later dates made before & after the certificate; provided it appear that bkpt. promised to pay personally & not out of his estate, & to pay notwithstanding the certificate.—KIRKPATRICK v. TATTERSALL (1845), 13 M. & W. 766; 14 L. 5415. —— Before certificate.]—Bkpt. promised to repay pltf. a debt, which he had contracted with a banking co. as surety for bkpt. before the bkpcy.:—Held: it was no objection to the promise that it was made before the certificate.—EARLE v. OLIVER (1848), 2 Exch. 71; 10 L. T. O. S. 463; 154 E. R. 410.

Annotation:—Mentd. Flight v. Reed (1863), 1 H. & C. 703.

5416. Sufficiency of consideration.]—A declaration in assumpsit set forth a guarantee, whereby, in consideration that a banking co-partnership would make advances to deft., pltf. undertook to guarantee the copartnership the due payment of the sums advanced not exceeding £250. Averment, that the copartnership made advances to deft., who afterwards became bkpt., & that, at the time of his bkpcy., there was due to the co., for such advances a sum exceeding £250, that, after the issuing of the fiat, deft., in consideration of the premises, promised pltf. that if, by virtue of the guarantee, pltf. should be called upon to pay the copartnership the sum of £250, deft. would repay same to pltf. when it should be in his power, notwithstanding he should previously obtain his certificate, & also interest on the sum, & that pltf. being called upon under the guarantee, paid to the copartnership £250, of which deft. had notice. Breach, non-payment:—Held: the mere liability to repay pltf. was an equally good consideration to support the promise as an existing debt, & the promise to pay interest was supported by the same consideration as the original promise.—EARLE v. OLIVER (1848), 2 Exch. 71; 10 L. T. O. S. 463; 154 E. R. 410.

Annotation:—Consd. Flight v. Reed (1863), 1 H. & C. 703.

5417. Conditional promise—What must be proved.]—If bkpt., after obtaining his certificate, promise to pay a prior debt, when he is able, in a general indebitatus assumpsit brought on that promise, pltf. must prove the ability of deft. to pay.—BESFORD v. SAUNDERS (1792), 2 Hy. 5418. —— ——.]—If bkpt. only promises conditionally, pltf. must prove that the condition was performed.—PENN v. BENNET (1815), 4 Camp. 205, N. P.

5419. —— Validity of.]—A conditional promise to pay when bkpt. was able:—Held: good.—EARLE v. OLIVER (1848), 2 Exch. 71; 10 L. T. O. S. 463; 154 E. R. 410.

Annotation:—Mentd. Flight v. Reed (1863), 1 H. & C. 703.

5420. Effect of 1849 Act—On new note for balance of note given before Act.]—Before 1849 Act came into operation, a certificated bkpt. gave to a creditor a promissory note for the amount of a debt incurred before the bkpcy. After the passing of the Act, bkpt., having paid off part of the money due on the promissory note gave a fresh promissory note for the balance, in substitution for the original note:—Held: the validity of the new note was not affected by the Act, the note in substitution for which it was given having been given at a time when it was lawful for bkpt. to renew a debt contracted prior to his bkpcy.—Re PRYTERCH, Ex p. EDWARDS (1865), 35 L. J. Bcy. 11; 13 L. T. 338; 11 Jur. N. S. 896; 14 W. R. 67, L. C.

C. Other Cases.

5421. Waiver of promise—Creditor opposing certificate.]—In an action against bkpt. on a new promise, proof that pltf. petitioned against the allowance of deft.'s certificate:—Held: a waiver of the agreement by bkpt. to pay & answer to the action.—COLLS v. LOVELL (1795), 1 Esp. 282, N. P.

5422. Pleading—Need not be special.]—To an action of assumpsit for goods sold & delivered, defts. pleaded their discharge, under a commission of bkpcy. Defts. had promised to pay the debt, after they were discharged by their certificate. Defts. objected that such promise could not be given in evidence under the count for goods sold & delivered, & that, to avail himself of the promise, pltf. should have declared specially:—Held: the declaration was sufficient as it stood.—WILLIAMS v. DYDE (1791), Peake, 68, N. P.

Annotation:—Refd. Brix v. Braham (1823), 8 Moore, C. P. 261.

5423. —— —— Unless promise conditional.]—If bkpt. promises absolutely to pay a debt barred by his certificate, indebitatus assumpsit lies against him on the original consideration, but if he only promises conditionally pltf. must declare specially.—PENN v. BENNET (1815), 4 Camp. 205, N. P.

5424. Right to be discharged on common bail.]—A certificated bkpt., who had subsequently promised to a creditor who had not proved to pay when able, was discharged on common bail.—BAILEY v. DILLON (1759), 2 Burr. 736; 97 E. R. 540.

g. —— —— Advance by creditor.]—An advance of money by a creditor to debtor, whose debt has been released by a composition agreement, is sufficient consideration for notes given by that debtor & his partner to the creditor for part of the released debt. m. Will not revive old debt—Barred by statute.]—Held: all debts contracted by debtor before his bkpcy., save those excepted by 1883 Act, s. 161, were, under that Act, provable under the bkpcy., & were released by the order of discharge, & no promise to pay or payment on account could afterwards revive a debt barred by stat.—COX v. DUNCAN (1888), 6 N. n. Must be in precise & positive terms.]—The mere fact that insolvent, after having obtained his final order for discharge, makes a voluntary payment on a claim existing against him before his insolvency & which is extinguished by such discharge, is not sufficient to revive the debt; for that purpose an express undertaking to pay the amount must be proved.—MCDONALD v. NOTMAN (1878), 25 Gr. 608.—CAN.

o. ——.]—In an action to recover a debt, from which deft. had been discharged by Bkpt. 5451. —— When effective in England.]—Where the effect of a foreign bkpcy., using the word " foreign " in its restricted sense, is to divest debtor of the whole of his property, wherever situate, & to vest it in the assignee for distribution amongst all his creditors wherever resident, the cts. in England give the same effect to the order or instrument discharging debtor in the bkpcy. as is given to it in the country where the bkpcy. occurs (EVE, J.).—Re NELSON, Ex p. DARE & DOLPHIN, [1918] 1 K. 5454. —— —— Action in England on debt contracted abroad.]—The ct. will not order an exoneretur to be entered on the bail-piece, on the ground that the debt was contracted while deft. was resident in a foreign country, & before he became a bkpt. by the laws of that country, though he may have obtained his certificate there.—PEDDER v. MACMASTER (1800), 8 Term Rep. 609 ; 101 E. 5452 i. Foreign discharge—Effect on—Action on foreign judgment.]—Pltf. sued on a foreign judgment recovered against deft. During the progress of the suit deft. obtained a discharge in bkpcy. in the district ct. of the northern district of Ohio, & at the trial obtained leave to plead the discharge. Deft. proved that such a discharge would release deft. from all his debts provable against his estate in the United States, including the debt to pltf. Pltf.'s only evidence in reply was, that deft. resided in Canada for two years previous to the discharge, & that pltf. had no notice of deft.'s bkpcy. in the United States, & he contended that, as Bkpcy. Acts required bkpt. to reside or carry on business in the state where he filed his petition, & deft. resided in Canada, the ct. in Ohio had no jurisdiction to grant a discharge, & that the one produced was bad :—Held : the discharge was a bar to pltf.'s suit.—OHLEMACHER v. BROWN (1879), 44 U. C. R. 366.—CAN.

5452 ii. —— —— Action on note payable in foreign State.]—A discharge in bkpcy. by a ct. of a foreign state from liability on a promissory note made by bkpt. while domiciled in such foreign state & payable therein, is a good defence to an action in Saskatchewan upon the note.—INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CO. OF CANADA, LTD. v. ZARBOK, [1918] 3 W. W. R. 38 ; 11 Sask. L. R. 354.—CAN.

5452 iii. —— —— —— Omission from schedule.]—To an action on a promissory note made in the United States, deft. pleaded his discharge under the bkpt. laws there, to which pltf. replied, that by such law the discharge was fraudulent & void, because deft., in the schedule attached to his petition, had fraudulently, & with intent to prevent pltf. from sharing in his estate or opposing his discharge, omitted any mention of pltf. or his claim. The omission was proved, & the law of the United States was stated to be that such omission, unless fraudulent & wilful, would not avoid the discharge, but it was not shown whether the assent of a certain number of creditors or the payment of a certain dividend was requisite, or whether there was any provision which would show a motive for the omission :—Held : leave having been reserved to move for a nonsuit upon the whole case, the rule should be absolute, for though upon pltf.'s evidence the mere omission, unexplained, might afford some evidence of fraudulent intent, yet that was repelled by the undisputed facts sworn to by deft.—FOSTER v. TAYLOR (1871), 31 U. C. R. 24.—CAN.

5452 iv. —— —— Discharge from custody.]—The ct. refused to discharge deft. upon filing common bail, on the ground of his person having been discharged from arrest by an insolvent law of New York.—DASCOMB v. HEACOCKS (1827), Tay. 438.—CAN.

5452 v. —— —— ——.]—A foreign law authorising the discharge of an insolvent debtor must be directly proved, & the ct. will not listen to an application for the discharge of such person after he has allowed judgment to go by default, & is in execution.—BROWN v. HUDSON (1826), Tay. 346.—CAN.

5452 vi. —— —— ——.]—Where the person of an insolvent debtor is discharged from arrest by a foreign authority, the ct. will not set aside an arrest made under the process of the ct. for the same cause of action, it not being bound to model or restrain its course of proceeding by that of other countries.—BROWN v. HUDSON (1826), Tay. 390.—CAN.

m. —— Primâ facie evidence of regularity.]—A discharge from a foreign bkpcy. ct. :—Held : primâ facie evidence that all proper steps had been taken to obtain it.—OHLEMACHER v. BROWN (1879), 44 U. C. R. 366.—CAN.

n. —— Pleading.]—A discharge under the insolvency laws of another country, if a bar to an action against insolvent, should be pleaded. It cannot be set up on an application to stay proceedings in the action.—BRAND v. GREEN (1898), 12 Man. L. R. 337.—CAN.

5457. —— —— Action in England on contract to be performed in England.]—A party to a contract made & to be performed in England is not discharged from liability under such contract by a discharge in bkpcy. or liquidation under the law of a foreign country in which he is domiciled.—GIBBS & SONS v. SOCIÉTÉ INDUSTRIELLE ET COMMERCIALE DES MÉTAUX (1890), 25 Q. 5458. —— —— Arrest in England for debt contracted in Bremen.]—The ct. will not discharge deft. out of custody on filing common bail, on the ground of his having become bkpt. & obtained his certificate in Bremen, where the debt was contracted.—EARLIER v. LANGUISHE (1814), 2 Chit. 55.

5459. Foreign cessio bonorum—Effect on promise to pay balance of old debt.]—A , formerly a trader in Holland, failed there, upon which there was a cessio bonorum. He came to England, & having been appointed a governor abroad, applied to B. to be his security, & to advance him a sum of money. B. agreed, provided A. would give him a bond, that should comprise the remainder of an old debt due before the cessio bonorum as well as the further sum advanced, which was done. A. becomes a bkpt.:—Held: in the circumstances B. was entitled to be admitted a creditor for the whole money upon his bond.

I am of opinion on such a case so circumstanced, that petitioner is entitled to be admitted a creditor for the whole money upon his bond, & lay no stress upon the word composition, in the determination in Holland, for it was a disposition made by the judge, & not a voluntary composition by bkpt. (LORD HARDWICKE, C.).—Ex p. BURTON (1744), 1 Atk. 255; 26 E. R. 163.
